LORDS ATTACK RECENT SPEECH

Ask What Assurance Given of Aid To France

London, July 2.—(AP)—Opposition criticism of the Government in the House of Lords yesterday was directed against Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden, Conservative minister.

Viscount Cecil of Chelwood, veteran Liberal peer, asked what assurance Eden had given France that Britain would go to its assistance "in the event of unprovoked attack."

Lord Strabolgi, Labor leader, charged by Lord Duff-Cooper, secretary for war, with failure to refer to the question in Anthony Eden's speech, and the Minister both declined to answer.

Viscount Cecil of Chelwood, Liberal, opening the debate, said: "It is some apparent lack of confidence in utterances of the Ministers responsible for foreign affairs."

He was answered a physician had been "in attendance" on Mr. Baldwin, but the latter's friends denied it, saying there was no cause for alarm over the Premier's health.

Government leaders of the House of Lords are urging John Simon to reply to recent attacks upon him at Conservative clubs and in newspapers for his appearance of the week in the Commons.

Lord Middleton, criticizing Duff-Cooper's speech, said: "I believe there never was a moment, except for the War, when before the outbreak of hostilities, the whole British people by one mind might do more speedily and more effectively than at the present moment."

Lord Rennell, usually withdraw his motions when a vote, after prolonged debate, there are so many officials in the House of Commons, that the next election at our foreign

20 LIVES LOST IN TEXAS FLOODS

Crops Are Reduced to Driftwood, Cattle Killed

San Antonio, Texas, July 2.—Twenty persons were reported drowned and 20 others missing as others were missing as South Texas floods reduced homes to driftwood, killed hundreds of head of cattle, destroyed crops and caused $1,000,000 livestock and crop damages.

Two survivors of a train wreck said they believed 20 persons died. Six more were believed drowned when the Nueces Colorado, bore swollen.

Many more were feared ripped down their homes in Southwest Texas, along the Mexican border and the San Antonio, Fort Worth, Del Rio and Laredo were points reporting downpours.

Fourteen Inches in One Area

Yesterday the storm area and nearby districts were drenched from below the State Capital, Austin, in the central part of the State, to the country about San Marcos, between Austin and San Antonio, to the south. In the latter area 14 inches flood.

The greatest loss of life was caused by Plum Creek, a normally placid stream which was swollen speedily by the midnight deluge totalling fourteen inches in one area. Today the water was returning to its banks.

TWO MEN SPEND NIGHT IN NIAGARA

Rescued From Reef After All Night Vigil in River

Niagara Falls, July 2 (CP)—Ernest Stone, 22, of Decew, N.Y., and Jamie Hodgson, of Lancaster, N.Y., were rescued from a reef in the Niagara River today, after an all night vigil on the rocks.

According to reports given the United States Coast Guard, the pair, which rescued the men, Thomas and Peterson, had left Niagara-on-the-Lake last night to row an open boat down Niagara to Fort Erie. They left about 10 p.m. on what is known as the third island reef and made plans to spend the night on the nearby stone shore.

Why the boat is still stranded on the reef, how it will be removed later, and why two men being rescued from it, is not yet clear, but by a coast

NEWS BRIEFS AND ODDITIES

Algiers, Algeria, July 2 (AP)—French authorities today ordered a curfew in which 400 natives clashed with police next Governor-General Le Beau to Paris for official conferences.

Two persons were injured and nine arrested after stoning watchmen sought to enlist new recruits for employment in the Algiers shipyard.

Leftists and Rightists were disarmed by police after a clash yesterday had night at Maisonnave in which several were wounded. The Leftists attempted to hoist a red flag over the city hall and were reported to have threatened to assassinate Abbot Lambert, Mayor of Oran.

Council Bluffs, Iowa, July 2 — (CP)—Dr. Edith Swanton Cooley of Cumberland, Maryland, sheriff of an Iowa county for six years, failed in all election and entered as parties since 1934—but in a Canadian, technically.

At the age of 75 he learned he was not an United States citizen when he began to look into his family connection and was informed there were no records to show that he, a Canadian ever was naturalized.

Philadelphia, July 2 (CP)—Warren Jackson, seven years old, wears a 42-foot shirt to test the automatic-clothing propensity.

Thirty-feet set up, he stopped. Jackson's got to grow a little yet to get seven.

SEVENTY MILLION DOLLAR PROJECTS FRAMED BY GOVT

$5 Million Dollars Covered By Federal Appropriations

ON 50 - 50 BASIS

Highway Construction to Take Premier Place in Undertakings

Ottawa, July 2 (CP)—Canada today was reshaped as Government-sponsored works projects costing more than $70,000,000 at least $50,000,000 worth, covered by Dominion appropriations, the rest by the provinces. At the same time a 10 per cent. reduction was effected in Federal grants-in-aid of the provinces for direct relief for July, August and September.

Hon. Norman Rogers, Minister of Labor, announced last night the additional federal-directed agreements with the provinces for expenditure of 50-50 basis of $35,000,000 on relief works, with mandatory clauses in the agreements that at least half the men employed on the works must be taken from relief rolls.

This program topped a $40,000,000 work of ordinary Federal projects provided for in estimates last parliamentary session. Chief among the new works will be highway construction designed to improve transportation facilities into proved mining areas and to relieve the traffic by tourists to Canada and its national parks.

Improvement Brings Cut

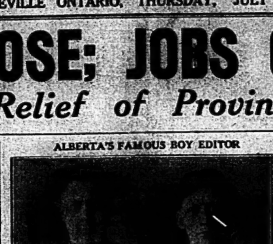
His initiative announced the new program on the day the last of the unemployment relief camps were abolished, Mr. Rogers said that the settlement regarding the camps provided for 36,000 men, paid 20 cents a day, board and lodging for 30 cents per day, leaving 70 cents for clothing and emergency landing field construction camps, with 10 cents for transcontinental airway. He said he might have a statement today.

Reductions in direct relief expenditures have been made possible, he said, because of "improvement in the economic employment and in anticipation of the reduction of relief rolls through the joint works program."

Mr. Rogers pointed especially to the clause in the agreement with the provinces saying grants-in-aid herein dealt with the matter be carefully review and said it was expected by the new arrangement occasion in September the "National Employment Commission will be in a position to out a registration of those on relief and that the new requirements of the form and amount of relief will be based on an analysis of the actual relief situation in each of the provinces."

Second Reduction in Relief Aid

He explained so far the government has not sought material increases of reductions in direct relief grants on account of facilities which became into office last fall. The reduction was effected, he said, on those that failed to meet adequately difficulties in the relief situation, where the employment problem had become worse but more than made up reduction in the grants had improved materially.



The 10 per cent. reduction is the second cut since last March in direct relief grants, the first movement announced a 15 per cent. cut April 1.

However, the Minister recalled, grants were increased 75 per cent. last December so that, despite the two cuts this summer, amounts allotted the provinces for direct relief are still considerably higher than a year ago.

The Mines Department has made over 1,000 inspections of construction of new roads into mining areas and the government will pay two-thirds of the bill on construction.

Mr. Rogers recalled also a reference by the Premier to the relieving from income tax for three years new mines coming into production during the next four years.

ALBERTA'S FAMOUS BOY EDITOR

Here are two of Canada's youngest newspaper editors—youngest in Province of Alberta. Ali Lief, J. B. Boulanger, publisher of Le Petit Jour, Edmonton, French language periodical, and elected aldermen with the province for experience. At 50-50 basis of $35,000,000 on relief works, with mandatory clauses in the agreements that at least half the men employed on the works must be taken from relief rolls.

KING'S HOLIDAY

London, July 2 (CP)—The King will give a party in the gardens of Buckingham Palace on July 30 to the 6,000 Canadian pilgrims who attend the unveiling of the Vimy Ridge Memorial to the Dominion's Great War dead.

In the King's absence from the party, the Duke and Duchess of Gloucester will act as host and hostess.

His Majesty will unveil the memorial at Vimy Ridge July 26. He is expected to proceed from there to the French Riviera for a short holiday.

Putting his hand in his pocket, he found a pickpocket had stolen $100 in it.

Pope Orders Reviewing Office Set-up for Movies in All Lands; Attacks Immorality in Pictures

Bishops Will Be in Charge of Offices And Inform Laymen

EVIL OF 'BURLESQUE'

Vatican City, July 2 (CP)—Pope Pius XI in an encyclical today launched an attack upon "immorality" in motion pictures with an order for establishment of a permanent national reviewing office for movies in every country.

The order was issued in an encyclical letter entitled "Vigilanti Cura" addressed directly to the Archbishops and Bishops of the Roman Catholic Church in the United States.

The encyclical was addressed to the American Bishops Hierarchy because they took the lead in movie censorship. It invited the Bishops of the whole world to follow their example.

The Pope also ordered the Bishops throughout the world to obtain from the faithful annually renewable promises to abstain from witnessing bad films".

NAKED GIRL JOINS IN ESSEX PARADE

Then Dashes Away on Horseback Along Side Street

Essex, Ont., July 3 (CP)—Veiled in mystery, but nothing else, a naked woman rode a roan horse for the second successive year at the head of the Dominion Day parade here yesterday, and the residents are all of a dither. Nobody knows who she is.

As the parade got under way in the town citizens miles southeast of Windsor a girl who wore a blond wig and was otherwise costumed as the historical Lady Godiva, appeared suddenly from a side street and rode her roan horse in behind the band. She proceeded through the town, then vanished before the parade reached the point where it was scheduled to end.

Committees who arranged for the annual pathtumpo (noisy parade) declared no knowledge of the dashing young girl. None of the citizens who gathered to watch the parade eyes and open mouths recognized—if they are any village.

THIEF GETS $45 IN WALLET

Hamilton, Ont., July 2 (CP)—A. H. Flack, Hamilton, took a Dominion Day jaunt to the races here and today was minus his wallet containing $45.

Pope May Name New Ship After King George V

Glasgow, July 2 (AP)—Preparations for constructing a bigger and faster companion to the S. S. Queen Mary were begun tentatively today on the ship's ways here.

As shipping circles it was said the liner, if constructed, would probably be christened the King George V.

An official order for the construction still is awaited. It was suggested at the projected liner would have a tonnage of about 85,000 as compared to the 80,773 of the Queen Mary.

Carpenters already are clearing the slipway which cradled the Queen Mary and direct will be sent down during the next few days to inspect the stretches for slip deposits.

WANT TO GO UP INTO STRATOSPHERE? FARE IS $100,000

Pittsburgh, July 2 (AP)—There is a passenger and vessel in the stratosphere on the next stratosphere flight by Dr. Piccard.

The fare is $100,000.

Dr. Piccard said his wife were in Pittsburgh today to confer with Roy Hunt, president of the Aluminum Company of America.

Dr. Piccard said he is planning a flight "higher and deeper into the earth as soon as he can obtain $100,000.

His wife added:

"I said we'd carry a passenger with us."

AVIATOR GIVES AID TO LONE CANOEIST

Rouyn, Que., July 2 (CP)—Flying in an easterly direction across a great unnamed lake Pilot E. E. Hodgett, of General Airways, a day or so ago, noticed what looked like an overturned canoe. He circled and flying low from it. The pilot circled and landed a few feet from the canoe, then from the pontoons of the plane, hauled the canoeist aboard.

In a few minutes the canoe was emptied of water and the paddle found, as well as the lone canoeist's pack. Five minutes later both canoeist and pilot were on their respective ways.

Tested Cattle Barn Planned at Stock Yards

Toronto, July 2.—An area to house only tested cattle would be soon prepared at the Toronto Stock Yards, it was announced today. The purpose is now under construction. According to F. C. Fletcher, general manager, the barn should be completed about the middle of July.

Cattle known to be tuberculosis-free are to be segregated in one part of this barn. Other cattle up for resale at the yards may be tested for tuberculosis and passed into the segregated group as they pass the test.

CONVOCATION OF WORLD POWERS URGED AT LEAGUE

President de Valera of Irish Free State Presses For Action

PEACE CONCENTRATION

Bruce of Australia Says League Creates False Sense of Security

Geneva, July 3 (CP)—Immediate convocation of a conference of great powers to consider measures for international situation in Europe was proposed to the League of Nations assembly late today by Eamon De Valera, president of the Irish Free State.

Referring to what he called the danger of a Pacific war, De Valera said a peace conference would have to be held in any event "after Europe has been plunged into blood". He said such a conference at present could meet the terrible menace which threatens us today than in two years' time."

Meanwhile it was reported France was desirous of inviting Germany and Italy to a Locarno Conference late in July even if Germany fails to reply to the British conference questionnaire.

Special efforts also will be made, it was understood, to get Italy into the parley.

Small States Determined

De Valera called for a concentration of peace efforts in Europe and said that if the great nations fail in this the smaller nations would not become the tools of the large. They will resist being sacrificed "force them into war against their will".

He asked if there was any small nation who did not feel that Britain's fate might be its own fate.

"Realism demands for the moment that statesmen should concentrate on Europe," he said. "Let us see about the state of peace and security in Europe and put aside until later the task of making the League more effective as an instrument of world peace."

The League of Nations has created a false sense of security which must be corrected. "The League of Nations body" will inevitably be destroyed," said Hugh Bruce of Australia, High Commissioner in London declared. "We must not kindle that hope."

VANCOUVER CITY MARKS JUBILEE

100,000 Stand on Hot Pavements as Celebration is Staged

By CHARLES NICHOLS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Vancouver, July 2.—Canada's youngest thoroughbred went back to work today in Vancouver's flag-bedecked streets, recovering from celebrations about raking up from the wooded area of Stanley Park the weekend firecrackers and other remnants from the city's opening Golden Jubilee ceremonies.

Close to 100,000 persons stood on the hot pavements yesterday to watch colorful parades, to cheer the visiting dignitaries as they rode in open barouches, and danced long into the night in downtown streets. Today's holiday settled down again to the routine of Canada's fifth largest city.

But it will not be long before the city calendar will again ask visitors to yesterday's celebrations—marking the 60th anniversary of the province's entry into the Dominion. For ten hours each day until the end of the summer a long program maps out celebrations, sports, and fraternizing citizens and visiting tourists.

Hindenburg Sets Record Following Canadian Route

Clips 8 Hours 34 Minutes From Her Previous Record

PASSES MONTREAL

Lakehurst, N.J., July 2 (AP)—The German dirigible Hindenburg was ungrounded at 5:30 a.m. (E.D.T.) today, completing its fourth commercial flight from Germany in record-breaking time.

The ship made the run from her home port, Frankfort-on-Main, to Lakehurst in 53 hours and 31 minutes, cutting eight hours, 34 minutes from her previous record. Lieutenant George Watson of the naval airship division commanded.

The aircraft followed the St. Lawrence route past Quebec and Montreal.

14,291 Placements Made Since Early in March; Railways Absorb 8,853

2,000 More May be Added to Placements Says Hon. N. Rogers

607 GO TO FARMS

Work of Demobilization is Carried Out by Humphrey Mitchell

Ottawa, July 3 (CP)—Relief camps across Canada have all been closed, it was announced by Hon. Norman Rogers, Minister of Labor, today.

"Every man, resident in the camps was offered employment if he so desired it, and no complaints were issued," the minister stated. "The closing of the camps has been carried out without causing confusion to the men or to industry."

In a statement covering closing of the camps the minister revealed that 14,291 placements of men have been made since demobilization began with the beginning of March five months ago. From the camps the railways have taken 8,853 men. The railways have also engaged 2,997 men "from local sources" while 607 men from the camps have received employment on farms. These placed in "other employment", numbered 2,484.

While the total number of placements made since March was decided to date the camps numbered 14,291, it was stated at the department that some 2,000 might be added to this number due to incidental employment since the statement was issued.

Per Diem Allowance

Per diem allowance of the men supplied from camps to the railways was: Nova Scotia, $1.00; New Brunswick 481; Quebec, 1,295; Ontario, 2,885; Manitoba, 631; Saskatchewan, 1,005; Alberta, 903; British Columbia, 1,715.

Commenting on the successful closing of the camps, Mr. Rogers said tribute to work done by Humphrey Mitchell, a member of the committee which worked into camp conditions and reported in favor of closing them. The work of carrying out demobilization of the relief camps was carried out by Humphrey Mitchell.

MORGAN TO CUT DOWN ON WEIGHT

Portly Financier is Convalescing From Neuritis

Glen Cove, N.Y., July 2 (AP)—J. P. Morgan's physicians mapped a slight reduction regimen today for the portly financier, who is convalescing from an attack of neuritis on his Long Island estate.

The banker, partially incapacitated, was startled by a telephone caller from a private railway coach in Pennsylvania, who asked for help in handling, graystone country house, medical advisers, family members and business associates during the period the affliction, declaring he was not sick enough to die, but that his illness would make his annual vacation trip to his estate near Hobart, and his grouse-hunting sojourn in Scotland.

The banker is in his 68th year. His authoritative source denied a published report Morgan had transferred an attack of coronary thrombosis two weeks ago. Junius Spencer Morgan asserted "reports that my father is paralyzed are erroneous."

GEORGE BERNARD SHAW

On the eve of his eightieth birthday anniversary, George Bernard Shaw, world-famous dramatist, announces his retirement from public speaking. "I have retired from public speaking. I am far too old. I don't suppose I look more than 79. I'm not a good deal older than that, and the time has come for me to retire from the footlights." Shaw will celebrate his eightieth birthday this month.

ENTOMBED 22 HRS IN 30 FOOT HOLE

Enoch Kuklinskie Brought up By Rescuers To-day

Shamokin, Pa., July 3 (AP)—Success crowned the efforts of Enoch Jr. to the surface today after almost 22 hours entombed in a 30-foot deep coal hole. Physicians said he suffered but no serious injuries.

Gwalled in blankets like a mummy, he was strapped to a plank and hoisted up the make-shift coal hole at the end of a cable slowly wound on a hand-turned windlass.

Kuklinskie's 60-year-old father, who escaped the cave-in which became he was working nearer the shaft, when the mangray roof caved in yesterday, reached to embrace his son, but the rescuers drove another him on a stretched to smother.

Only when each individual accepts his or her responsibility towards the body politic will we find our way back to normal times" declared Mr. Bennett in addressing the 400 delegates. "Everyone should take a keener interest in government of the country, he declared.

5 STATES UNITE TO FIGHT DROUGHT

Water Conservation Projects Are Mapped Out in Midwest

Chicago—Governors of five Middle Atlantic states mapped conservation projects today to help the nation's farmers withstand the drought and heat which has ruined 40 million acres of land in 30 states and caused the greatest economic disaster since the depression.

Meeting in Michigan City, Ind., the governors of Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, Wisconsin and Minnesota discussed the problem of keeping crops from burning up.

Illinois—Hottest weather in 24 years, with the mercury soaring to 109 degrees, brought no relief to drought-stricken farmers today. Temperatures were expected to remain around the 100 degree mark for the next few days.

Indiana—Scattered showers provided slight relief from excessive heat. Governor Paul V. McNutt said he was "encouraged" by the rain.

Michigan—Hot weather, accompanied by scattered showers, continued to wither crops. Agricultural experts said the rain was too late to help much.

Wisconsin—Temperatures ranged from 100 to 110 degrees in various parts of the state. Crops were badly damaged.

ASPHALT SEEPAGE CATCHES ON FIRE

Workmen Rush to Track, Put Out Fire Creeping to Tank Car

Prompt action on the part of city street-sprinkler employees prevented what might been a serious conflagration early this morning when asphalt seepage caught fire in the immediate vicinity of a large tank car loaded with the bituminous material on the C.N.R. siding in the north end of the city.

Mixed with gasoline which gives it a highly inflammatory nature, a pool of the solution accidentally spilled, it is said, when a spark fell in it. Following the path of the seepage slowly crept toward the tank car. An alarm was hurriedly sent in. City employees rushed to the scene and succeeded in extinguishing the blaze before any material damage was done.

SHOTS ARE FIRED TO HALT MOTOR

Two Young Brothers From Kingston Held For Taking Auto

A hectic chase through the streets of the Belleville west end police finally resulted in the detention of two teen aged Kingston lads and the recovery of the latter's automobile late last night. Constable Lloyd Tyner was patrolling in the police car when the report of the disappearance of an automobile from Kingston was broadcast over the radio CJH. The automobile reported to have been stolen by Kenneth J. Boyd, 333 Bleecker Ave., and described to have been taken out of Mr. Boyd's garage.

After getting a description of the car, a green colored Marquette sedan bearing licence plates number XE864, the officers later saw the vehicle on Dundas St. Constable Taylor gave chase and the vehicle swerved up Church St. and eventually into a field where it came to a standstill. Upon the approach of the officers the occupants of the car, two young men, jumped from the car and ran in different directions. One was arrested and upon arrival at the police station it was learned the lad was a 14 year old Kingston youth, while his companion was his 16 year old brother. Shortly before six o'clock this morning, however, the second boy walked into the police station and gave himself up. The boys' relatives in the city were notified of their plight and the matter will be heard in tomorrow's police court.

The lads state that they had hitch-hiked from Kingston to Belleville and had had their dinner with relatives. They altered their plans when they were going to return home.

They stated, said police, that they took the Boyd car and because they used in the street and were lost when the constables saw them. Mr. Boyd's car was later found in the area the worse for the collision with the pole.

REGATTA AT PICTON IS GALA AFFAIR

VanDusen's Cove Scene of Fall Day's Program on Dominion Day

Picton, July 3—(Special)—Holiday crowds poured into Picton on Wednesday July 1, where great preparations had been afoot for weeks in connection with the annual Prince Edward Yacht Club Regatta, and other sport events, which drew a large number of fans saw Bowmanville go down to defeat to a score of 4-3 at the hands of the local baseball team. This is their second win over Bowmanville and they defeated that team in Bowmanville earlier in the season. Picton made six hits and five runs in the first. Raymond Hudgin had a triple in his first time up.

The weather all day was marvelous, with warm sunshine, clear skies, and a gentle breeze, making boat races began at ten o'clock in the morning, and the many white wings of yachts presented a beautiful and interesting sight throughout the whole day.

At 1 p.m. many hundreds of cars arrived at Vanduzen's Cove, on the high shore, one mile east of Picton. The spot is beautiful and offers a wonderful view of the entire course. A loud speaking system, with Bill McLean of the Picton Times, as announcer, kept the crowd informed of the events. Stewart Warner of Belleville had there with motion picture equipment and captured the events for his screen. Numerous pleasure craft, gay launches and skiffs added variety to the scene, and provided the spectators on board, a closer view of the sports. At times the water was quite rough and stirred overhead.

The power boat races had caused much excitement the days before. Many craft had been overhauled and fitted with new motors for the event.

The 2.10 Class for the F. I. Ward Trophy was run in two heats, with a play off to decide the winner of second place. The Arlene owned by Buff Cooper, and driven by him in the first heat, and by his nine-year-old son, Bill, in the second heat, made first place, with the Mae West, owned by E. L. Wood second, and the Arlene owned by Keith Clinton third. Mr. Cooper, experienced some engine trouble in the play-off, and the Mae West earlier in the heats had lost a rear wheel and propellor, which resulted in a cutting down of her speed. In the second heat the time for the event was: Donna Marie, 8 min. 30 sec.; Arlene 8 min. 56 sec.; Mae West 9 min. 1 sec.

In the play off the Mae West covered the course three times in 8 min. 40 sec., and the Arlene in 8 min. 1-2 sec.

The round bottom class was run in one heat, and around the course, for the E. M. Young Trophy. The "Rogene" owned by Lloyd Hicks and driven by Earl L. Hicks, the only woman driver came first, with the Mary Ann owned by Mr. Freeman Seeley second.

The 2.10 class was driven by Buff Cooper came first in each of the two heats of the Hacker Sea Pup Trophy. KING VEGETABLE RULES MARKET

Red And Black Currants Make Season's First Appearance

The lilting warble of golden canaries mingled with the voices of perennial perfumers and the "Fresh as dew" cries of the vendors here this morning, with many listeners but no takers at $4.00 per bushel up to an early hour.

King Vegetable held court with fine samples of new cabbage, and cauliflower selling briskly at varying prices. While carrots, beets, onions, spinach, chard and rhubarb remained firm at $1 cents.

Red and black currants made their initial appearance moving slowly at 8 cents for five. An enterprising Shickleberry vendor trekked north for this fruit, and disposed of his wares at 20c a quart.

Fish lovers found plenty to entertain them over with trout, and white-fish going at 35c, and 2 and 20c per pound respectively. Spirited competition between two vendors resulted in the production of a fine lad, debuting a trout for an extra 2c per lb. Prince Edward muskrat found buyers at 2 for 25c.

Availability and quantity of are reported as increasing with prices remaining firm at $1.00 the peck. A negligible supply of 1935 Green Mountain tubers were displayed at at $1.40 per bushel.

Strawberries jumped back to 2 boxes for 25c with some vendors reporting lack of fruit. Gardenville growers anticipate a heavy crop during the next few weeks.

"I got 25c a dozen for my eggs", gurgled a fair producer, "I wish I was sure that opposition had lowered the price to 20 to 22, but I couldn't very well refuse the money."

HOLLOWAY STREET S. S. HOLDS PICNIC

Three hundred children and adults of Holloway Street United Church Sunday School enjoyed their annual picnic at Oak Lake yesterday. Cars assembled at the church at ten o'clock and the picnickers had a very happy day at the lake. A program of races was merrily contested and included girls' and boys' running races, peanut races, three-legged races, wheelbarrow races, coat races and events for the young men and women and the married couples. An interesting feature of the day's sports, was the baseball game between the married men and the single men, the former winning with a score of 13-11.

A delicious public dinner was served and the gathering dispersed in the late afternoon. The program was in charge of Mr. Everett Chapman, superintendent of the Sunday School. Mr. J. Hudgin and Mr. Denyes were in charge of the booth, and Mr. Arthur Sills looked after the transportation. The ladies in for the races were Allan Lennox, Ted Poste and Bill VanTassel.

BOSTON BULL DOG GETS IN POUND

Unless its owner claims it within the next few days, a handsome Boston bull female dog with half of its face white, will go the way of all stray dogs. Thomas Thorne, local poundkeeper, has the three months old pup in his barge. A number of local dog owners who have been delinquent in purchasing licences will appear in police court tomorrow with others to follow, it was stated today.

Since its organization less than two months ago, the C.C.F. Club has had the privilege of entertaining prominent speakers: Mr. John Mitchell, Provincial President, Mr. J. S. Woodsworth, formerly the Labor Member, for Bow River, Alberta, now Dominion President, and Dr. J. S. Allen, Professor of Chemistry at the George Williams College, Montreal, C.C.F. Librarian for the Province of Ontario. Both rooms are to be obtained shortly. The club meets regularly for study of the principles of the day and the various political philosophies which suggest solutions.

BOY GIVES COURT ANOTHER NAME

Slips Away From Church Army Officer Who Befriends Him

Toronto, June 30 (CP)—The 16-year-old youth who appeared in Magistrate R. J. Boyes' court was Gerald Kynch," an orphan from Peterborough, but when he left the court room he was "Joe" Cleary, of Peterborough. He slipped away from Constable R. Mason of the Church Army officer shortly after midnight.

The boy appeared in court charged with vagrancy and police said he had attempted to get food from garbage cans in High Park and was found in a restaurant trying to get a meal. He told the court his father died two years ago and his mother died recently.

He was befriended by Captain Mason and allowed to go with him.

Police said the boy is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Leo J. Cleary, of Hughes Street, Peterborough, and that they offered he had escaped from St. John's Industrial School there.

DEFICIT IN U. S. IS $4,400,000,000

Secretary Morganthan Makes Statement in Broadcast

Washington, July 2.— Speaking in round figure, Secretary Morganthan placed the United States Treasury's deficit for the fiscal year ended last midnight at $4,400,000,000. He broke this red-ink figure in the nation's peace-time history.

His statement, made in a broadcast address, also fixed the public debt at the financial year-end at $33,750,000,000. Against this, he listed figures brought in "offset" or "recoverable assets," which added to $3,750,000,000.

Apparently, important items are to be revealed on the Treasury's daily statement tomorrow — as of the close of business June 30, Secretary's statement, dated June 28, showed a deficit of $4,127,000,000, and a gross indebtedness of $33,641,000,000.

Agricultural Prospects Present a Bright Picture

Higher Prices And Favorable Conditions Indicate Better Times

PASTURAGE GOOD

Ottawa, June 30 (CP)—Despite a few black spots on the horizon the Canadian agricultural picture at the end of the first half of 1936 is a brighter one than confronted Canadian farmers a year ago. Improved prices for some farm products and fair crop prospects indicate better times for some if not all the farmers in the months ahead.

The dairy industry is the bright spot in Canadian agriculture at the moment. Both butter and cheese prices are running higher than a year ago. Production is at a high level and pasturage is good, promising continuity of supply.

Wheat prices are lower compared with last year but improving, because grain prices are very poor, hog prices are good and should be equally as last year, cattle prices are down and lamb prices are holding well above last year's levels.

Dairy farmers are enjoying the best prices for butter and cheese they have received since 1930. Cheese is bringing 2½ cents a pound more than a year ago and butter two to 2½ cents more. Last year cheese producers received a bonus of 1½ cents a pound starting about this time but the higher price this year more than compensates them for the withdrawal of the bonus. With pasturage good and more cows milking than a year ago milk and cream production should be greater this year than last.

JUDGE GETS KISS FROM EXCITED GROOM

Huntingdon Beach, Cal., July 2. (CP)— Judge C. T. Pann was out a $10 marriage fee today, and had fostered a kiss from a flustered bridegroom.

After the ceremony the groom, nameless here, gave the judge a hasty kiss, handed him the $10 fee and, before Judge Pann could point out the mistake, hurriedly left.

Many responsible men and women, of course, are interested in a savings account, or a loan to help them over the hard places. Yet, every day, we turn away from the counter people who could have had the help they needed. Why? Because they didn't realize that the Bank welcomes the business of every responsible person in the community, and is glad to help them in a reasonable way. Perhaps you, yourself, have been one of those who have passed by the opportunity of discussing your financial problems with our Manager. If you have, why not drop in and see him soon?

CANADA'S BIRTHDAY

Canada has passed another birthday. She is sixty-nine years old. One year hence the Dominion will celebrate its seventieth anniversary of Confederation. Nine years ago this country marked the sixtieth anniversary. The fiftieth which fell in the war years was not observed. Next year Dominion Day will be observed with much ceremony. It is expected. Canada at this time may well look forward. Responsibilities are great as a view of the world scene today very clearly shows. But Canadians will meet those responsibilities as their sons met the shock of war overseas and as Canadians have met it all through the long history of Canada.

For Canada is not only 69 years old. Her history dates back many years, long before 1763 when this country was ceded to the British Crown by the French. Its history with France prior to 1763 and its close association with the people of the British colonies in what is now the United States, which led to the exodus of the Loyalists after the War of Independence, indicate the quality of the people who make up the population of this land. It was the people who founded this land which brought about Confederation, that event being but the culmination of a movement or a series of movements.

Canada has been particularly fortunate in her setting and her neighbors, which have made it possible that for about a century and a quarter there has been no war between Canada and the United States — a historic fact which the world, thinking so much of security against attack, must recognize as most striking as pointed out to the Rotary Club here this week by a speaker.

Canada is favored for such pioneering work. She is not so closely bound as other nations are to a past which has left memories some of which are still capable of rankling in the mind and stirring up new strife.

Though this country misses no doubt some of the culture of older lands, her freedom of choice of her destiny has been and will continue to be a blessing.

EMPTY LIVES

Empty activities were attacked by Rev. R. M. Wylie at Park Avenue Presbyterian Church, New York. Life is empty for those who crowd it with unmeaning activity so that they can escape reality. The world has a way of filling vividly and yet in vacuity. Life is full of excitement, its action is unceasing, incessant. But it ends up in ennui and emptiness. For that sort of people life has the unreality of a dream. It seems to present much and in reality offers nothing.

Those people are not facing reality and have to put something in the stead and life is filled up. And those who live in a dream world just refuse to look at reality. They do not want to face life as it is. So they imagine something different which evades the harsh truth—the harsh truth of fact. They avoid all the difficulties of living. Things as they are are disturging and so they would soften them up by giving them an artificial touch.

"The second paradox, the life most empty is the life most completely filled. The life which has to be filled has first to be emptied. Jesus emptied Himself until God found in him the temple wherein the spirit of the Christ dwelt. Jesus never fretted about the course of Himself. He never asked "What shall I do? What shall become of Me? Jesus' double concern was the will of God and the welfare of man. And turning life inside out, He laid it before the needy world and God infused His whole spirit to make of Him His eternal Son."

There are more dumb, stupid people in high positions in the United States than we realize, said Rev. R. L. Forman. They are those who always strike the same note, making its goal everything, not how to get there. Graduates are easy victims of this philosophy of life because eight out of ten of them have heard nothing else in their homes. So they go out and strive for those materialistic goals. Most fail to make the grade and become bitter and disillusioned. They take any job that offers and kill the time by drowning the clock. Life for them is either a bitter tragedy or a broad farce; they scoff or laugh at the ideals they once held. Others are tempted to these false standards of life values although they have been trained to true standards. They find themselves laughed by the majority. There are many authors, writers, business men and artisans

NOT THE BRIDGE OF SAN LUIS REY

AT THE DENTISTS—Just a little tale of what might have happened, what probably did happen to a timid dentist who required an open mouth and a quiet patient in order to do his best work. It didn't happen in Belleville, and the story is told by Lehman Wendell in the Minneapolis Dental Journal. Inasmuch as stories about dentists are few this often novelty and we have no doubt its humor will be appreciated by fiddlight readers. The story is entitled "OPEN PLEASE!" Here 'tis:

"Doctor, I'm glad you could spare me an hour this morning. I have been going to Dr. Blank, but I finally had to quit him because he was such an incessant talker. Why, he'd blabber about everything, from Russian to rheumatism, and from postrums to movies. You know, doctor, I am such a busy woman that I simply cannot waste my time in conversation, and Mrs. Swift, who has been coming to you for years, told me that you were such a quiet doctor. She said you thoroughly knew your work and so I felt that I just had to come to you."

"I shall be glad to serve you, Mrs. Piffle," said the doctor. "Open your mouth, please!"

"Russia and rheumatism! That sort of rhymes, doctor. Funny isn't it how we link up different words. But I was reminded of Russia because a fellow spoke on that subject at the Woman's Club. He told us about their educational system and how wonderful they made it was, but I couldn't agree with him at all, doctor. Why, just imagine, they begin to train their children when they are mere infants and that training goes on through life."

"Yes I was about to say, what's the use of training a whole nation? Why, in no time they would have a nation of supermen, and what would they do with them all? We know that only a few are fit to rule, and those few should be given every advantage and that they should be taught in their places. Of course, I don't exactly mean to cast slurs on the common man. My grandfather was a street laborer, and there's nothing wrong in that if it's sufficiently removed from the present time, but my father stuck it rich in oil and sent me to an eastern finishing school and my husband is an oil magnet—no, I believe you call it magnate—but magnet isn't so bad either, because he lately drawn people to him."

"Open, please!" said the doctor.

"Now, doctor, I came to you to discuss my dental problems. I just haven't any pep of late. I feel so listless all the time that all I care to do is sit in a chair and eat chocolates. My physician tells me that I eat too much and exercise too little, but I know he is wrong. I play bridge every week and go to church and club meetings, and I know that chasing around after that is enough to keep anybody trim. As for eating too much, he is away off on that. I never eat more than three meals a day, and when I go to church and club meetings, which is only three times a week, I carefully limit myself to a salad, a hot bun, a cup of coffee, a dish of ice cream and cake, and some candy. I wouldn't think of taking a second helping. So you see, doctor, my physician is all wrong. Furthermore, he might instruct his own wife; she's as fat as a Turk."

"Open, please!" said the doctor.

"Now, doctor, I want you to pull that tooth and put in a nice bridge, the kind you can't see. Mrs. Doolittle told me that there is a new way of making a bridge now so you can't see any gold at all. After you have ground down the teeth a little bit you smear something soft around them and while that stuff is there you press the new tooth into the place left by the tooth you pulled out. Well that's the kind of bridge I want, doctor, and I am so glad you can make that kind."

"Open, please!" said the doctor

"And, doctor, I almost forgot to tell you that when you pull that tooth I don't want you to use novocain, because I just hate to have that great, big carbine needle jabbed into my gooms a hundred times. I want you to use that new drug they told us about over the radio, because I'm sure you have it, doctor. You just smear it on the tooth and for a while your the tooth is as dead as nobody's business. I think dentistry is a wonderful trade, doctor; so much better than being a barber. Don't you agree with me, doctor? And that reminds me of what my son said. You must get acquainted with him. He has the biggest cutup you ever saw, a born humorist. He's thinking some of taking up dentistry himself, so he says to me one day, 'Ma, do you know what D.D.S. stands for? It stands for Doctor of Dental Surgery, and it's the little a dentist gets when he graduates. The first dentists were barbers. If barbers got titles I suppose they would sign his name 'Jones, Barber Surgery, D.B.S.' And I says, 'What might D.B.S. stand for?' And he says, 'Doctor of Beard Removing'. Now wasn't that rich, doctor?"

"Open, please!" said the doctor.

"Well, I hope I'll never have to wear false teeth or plates. My grandfather always called them store teeth. But if I ever do have to wear plates, doctor, I want the very latest kind. I want the kind some of my friends are wearing. I'm sure you know the kind I mean, doctor, because Mrs. Robin told me that you knew just everything about dentistry, and so I want the very latest kind. I believe you call them dentures, doctor, and that's the kind I want, not just plates."

"Open, please!" said the doctor.

"Well, I declare, doctor! Here you and I have been wasting half an hour of our time, and me such a busy woman. Hadn't I better open my mouth now?"

"No, madam," said the dentist. "I think you had better close your mouth now. My next patient is waiting for me."

LOOKING BACKWARD

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BY-GONE YEARS.

20 YEARS AGO

July 2nd 1916

Mr. Alex Lapalm of Syracuse, New York, an old Belleville boy, is visiting friends and relatives in the city.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Alford, Montreal, are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Walter Alford, Cannifton.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Burton of Burlington, Vermont, are visiting Mr. Burton's parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. E. Burton, Albert Street.

On the afternoon of June 30th, the West Huntingdon Cheese Factory was destroyed by fire. The blaze originated above the engine room and spread rapidly. Seventy boxes of cheese were removed, but they may be slightly damaged. The vats and machinery were destroyed. The loss will be about $5,000.00, partially covered with insurance.

30 YEARS AGO

July 2nd., 1906

Mr. Roy Walters of Toronto, spent the holiday here.

Mr. Howard Frost is home from Philadelphia to spend his vacation.

Mr. Fred Burrows of Toronto spent the holiday here.

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Chisholm of Trenton, spent the holiday here with relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. George Meyers of Toronto, spent Dominion Day here.

Mr. Harry McQuire was a very welcome visitor in the city over the holiday.

Mr. George Wilder of the Intelligencer composing staff, is spending his vacation at Rochester.

July 2nd., 1896.

"A great celebration," was an oft repeated exclamation on the streets of Belleville yesterday and never was an exclamation more justified. Not since the city's inauguration has Canada's natal day been so fittingly celebrated in the City of the Bay. The Peterboro Bangeon Band were engaged by, royally entertained and sent away with a store of happy recollections of their visit. To Col. W. N. Panton and the other officers of the 15th. Battalion belong the glory of the day, for they planned and carried out the demonstration. They had the genius and heart co-operation of the citizens generally, and it is with real pleasure we note that aside from the social and spectacular exodus of the event, it was also a financial success. The officers "At Home" given by the officers of the 15th Battalion to the visiting officers at the drill shed, which was handsomely decorated, was a brilliant success. This social event took place the night prior to July 1st. The bands of both regiments furnished the music. The guests were received in the officers' quarters by Col. Panton and Adjutant McRae and when they reached the drill hall they were received by Capt. Cahoon, Lieut. Vermilyea, Captain Muir, Lieut. Hume, Lieutenant Allison, Lieut. Conger and Lieut. Carter. The military parade, a fine, showy battle, cook's parade of the 57th Battalion, and the fire works on July 1st were all most entertaining. Hundreds of visitors were in the city for the day.

50 YEARS AGO

July 2nd, 1886.

The members of St. Andrew's society of Belleville are happy. They staked their hopes all on the hold they had on the good will of the public and weather agents, on Dominion Day, and won. It is estimated that upwards of 3000 people witnessed the games in the afternoon and a like number paid admission to the park in the evening to see the fireworks and fully 4000 lined the streets outside. Mr. Bugh McKinnon, Chief of Police, at one time champion heavyweight athlete of America, ably conducted the event. Mr. George H. Pope assisted in measuring and Mr. William Sinnelon kept the records. Mr. William Webster was the courteous secretary and Mr. Webster and Mr. D. M. Waters awarded the prizes at the close of the games. It was in every way a grand celebration of Canada's natal day in this city.

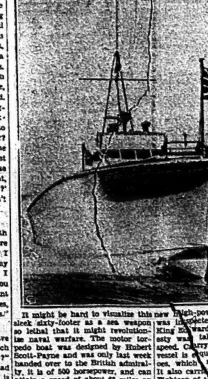
Chief Justice Wallbridge of Winnipeg will arrive in the city this evening to spend a six weeks' vacation.

Mrs. William Lingham, son of Mr. Job Lingham, sailed from Montreal yesterday for a visit to Shipbarian for England.

Mr. W. H. Campbell of the law office of Messrs. Ponton & Ponton of this city, has successfully passed the second examination for the degree of B.C.L. at Trinity University, Toronto.

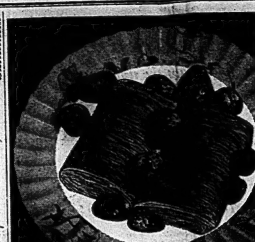
Little Benny's Note Book

This afternoon I was out in the back street and I wanted to go to the front street so I made a short cut through our house, and what was on the bulfay in the dining room but a swell looking layer cake with swell looking chockjit icing all over it.



Making me feel like having a hunk ate there, and I went up and ated ma and she said it wasn't to be opened till dinner. so I went down and looked at it some more, looking better the longer I looked and after dinner Nora brawt in the cake for dizzert and ma said to pop O yes, this cake. Now Willyum, Benny has had all of that cake he's going to have and I want you to bare me out if he starts an endless argument, she said.

If you'll have it with a little cleen inspection you'll see countless finger marks all over the icing, ma said, and pop said, Yee gods I can see them from here, that's the limit.



Well good nite, pop, O, ma, wait till I tell you how it happened, I said, and ma said, I can imagine that part only too well, thanks. to your rib and made you do it pop said, and I said, No sir, I was waxking through the dining room and I happened to notice it, and there was 2 little marks on it looking like finger prints, and I couldn't remember making any finger prints on it, but I wanted to be absolutly sure, so I made a fee finger prints to see if they matched the ones that were already there, and I made a pritty good many to be absolutly sure, and none of the matched the first 2, so it wasn't me.

Not going into details about licking my finger between marks, and the general result was I finely got a cater small slice of the inside without any of the icing.

KING RIDES IN SPEED DESTROYER

It might be hard to visualize this new sleek sixty-footer at a sea weapon so lethal that it might revolutionize naval warfare. The motor torpedo boat was designed by Sumert Hoyt-Payne and was only last week handed over to the British admiralty. It is of 500 horsepower, and can attain a speed of about 63 miles an hour. The craft is the first of six high-powered torpedo boats. It was inspected at Portsmouth by King George himself, and His Majesty was taken for a spin at top speed, covering a crew of ten. The vessel is equipped with two torpedoes, which may be fired by electricity, and it also carries an armament. Eighteen of the boats, it is said, can be built at the cost of one destroyer.

Obituary

JOHN FITZGERALD (Eldorado)

Eldorado, July 2 (Special)—Death came with startling suddenness from a heart attack on Monday evening, June 29th, to Mr. John Fitzgerald, a very highly esteemed resident of the village of Eldorado.

Deceased had been in his usual health and strength, and just one hour before his passing had gone for his wife to the home of his father-in-law, Mr. Wm. Holmes, where Mrs. Fitzgerald had spent the day. One moment bright and cheerful conversing with his family, the next he was lost, for God had taken him.

Mr. Fitzgerald who was in his sixty-sixth year was born at Centreville, Ont., the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Fitzgerald. By profession a blacksmith he came to Huntington, Madoc township as a young man, later moving to Madoc where for some time he conducted a general store. About 30 years ago he moved to Eldorado where he has since resided and where his blacksmith shop was a happy meeting place for his many friends.

He was twice married, his first wife being Mary Fox. To them were born two children, Russel Fitzgerald and Florence (Mrs. Clifford Gay), both of Niagara Falls, N.Y., and these with his second wife, formerly Martha Holmes of Eldorado and their son Jack at home, (also one brother, Fred of Oshawa, Mich.) survive to mourn the passing of a kind, indulgent husband and father. To these sorrowing friends the loving sympathy of a host of friends and neighbors is extended.

The little village of Eldorado has been plunged in gloom as Mr. Fitzgerald was one who walked the friendly road, loved by all to whom knew him for his genial disposition. He was a faithful and devoted member of the Standard Church at Eldorado, was thoroughly versed in God and consistently lived a Christian life.

The funeral was held in the United Church, and the host of sorrowing friends gathered testifying to the esteem in which the deceased was held.

The service was in charge of his pastor, Rev. Mr. Slack, who spoke from John 3-7. He was assisted by Revs. Alford, Smith, Kelly, McIntosh, Fletcher (pastor of the United Church), Ridgeway and Dowland.

The hymns sung were favorites of the deceased. He was also the special singing contributed by Rev. Mr. Smith and Ridgeway, Misses Smith and Mrs. Smith.

The floral tributes were as follows: Pillow, the family; Sheaf, Mr. and Mrs. John Holmes and Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Holmes and Clifford,Mr. Wm. Holmes and Annie, Mr. Mr. Geo. McCoy Mary and Bill, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Pigden and family, The neighbors, Mr. and Mrs. C. Davey and family, Mr. and Mrs. Alex McCoy and family, Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Ross and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Holmes. The bearers were John Chambers, John Fox, Charles E. McCann, Charles M. McCann, Chas. Pigden and E. A. Strobe.

Basket of flowers: Fellow workers in the department of Carborundum, Niagara, of which Mr. Russel Fitzgerald is general foreman. Spray: Carborundum Personnel Association, Niagara, N.Y.

He is not dead, the friend we loved so dearly,
But gone unto that home
Where he no longer needs our poor affection,
And Christ Himself doth rule.

EDWARD D. BATES

Edward Dawson Bates passed away suddenly at the family residence in the 1st concession of Hungerford township, near Roslin, on Tuesday, June 30th. He had been in failing health for some time.

The late Mr. Bates was in his 73rd year and was born in the 8th concession of Thurlow Township, his parents being the late Mr. and Mrs. Henry Bates. For many years he was engaged in farming and upon retiring he came to Belleville to reside and took up residence on North Front Street, College Hill, but outside the city. He remained here until last March when he returned to reside upon his farm near Roslin. He was a member of the Church of England and attended the Anglican Church at Roslin. By all who knew him he was highly esteemed.

Surviving him are his widow, whom before marriage was Miss Alys Fargey; two daughters, Mrs .Sherman Fox, Plainfield; Miss Lena Bates, Toronto; three sons, Mr. Arthur Bates, Thurlow Township; Mr. William Bates and Mr. Harry Bates, both at home; one sister, Mrs. T.J. Mackenzie, Toronto, and one brother, Mr. William Bates of Woodstock, Ont.

The funeral took place this Thursday afternoon.

FRANK O. DIAMOND

Announcement of the death of Frank O. Diamond, which occurred at his late residence, 368 William Street, on Wednesday, July 1st., will be received with sincere regret by many friends in Belleville and throughout this district. He had been in failing health for some time.

The late Frank Orlon Diamond was born in the city of Wentworth 70 years ago, and came when a child to Canada, being the late Mr. and Mrs. Marcus Diamond, to the township of Hungerford. In that village he grew to young manhood and for a period of years owned a general store there. Twenty-six years ago he came to Belleville and upon retiring from mercantile life, which he carried on successfully for many years, he entered the field of real estate, which he followed during which he acted as Radio License Inspector for Belleville and District. Mr. Diamond possessed a friendly disposition and by all who knew him he was held in the highest esteem.

In religion he was a member of the Church of England and a parishioner of Christ Church. He was interested in the work of the parish and for several terms filled most acceptably the position of church warden. Politically Mr. Diamond was a staunch Conservative and his social and health interests he was a valued worker in the interests of his party.

Surviving him are two daughters, Mrs Minnie Diamond at home; Mrs. T. R. Dolan, Belleville; three sons, Mr. W. F. Diamond, Detroit, Mich.; Dr. F. W. Diamond, Port Hope and Mr. J. A. Diamond, Toronto. His wife died in the year 1909.

CONGREGATIONS HONOR PASTOR

Centre—Rev. Mr. Mullen delivered his farewell sermon Sunday morning at Centre. All are sorry to see Rev. Mr. Mullin leave after five years.

On Thursday night a large crowd from the four appointments met at the parsonage and presented Mr. and Mrs. Mullin and family with a set of silver stainless dinner and tea knives, forks, spoons and a butter knife from Victoria and Albury appointments. From Centre an electric table lamp, fern stand and radio stand cover. Mr. Bernard Redner then read an address on behalf of Redneersville congregation and presented Rev. Mr. Mullin with a leather club bag. Mr. and Mrs. Mullin thanked their friend very feelingly and hoped they might be permitted to visit them in the future. Rev. and Mrs. Mullin and family leave on Thursday next for his new charge at Westmeath in Renfrew Presbytery.

The pea viner located on the farm of W. Cradley started operations and the men in this vicinity expect a very busy, two weeks or more. The pea crop has been much affected by the dry weather.

Norman Pearsall of Toronto spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Redner.

Mrs. Jella Fox and Mrs. Annie Allison attended service at Centre, Sunday morning and spent the day with friends.

On Tuesday the W.M.S. held a quilting and 10 ct. tea at the home of Mrs. Cyrrus Giles, which was well attended and much enjoyed by all.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Conkell of Shannonville spent Sunday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Giles.

Mrs. Stan Barber of Mountain View and small son Bobby were Thursday visitors at Mr. Ralph Redner's.

Weddings

PEOPLES—MURRAY

A very pretty wedding of local interest was solemnized at St. Mich's Church on Wednesday, July 1st at 8.30 a.m. when Mary Margaret Theresa, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Murray of Thurlow was united in marriage to Maxwell Orville, son of Mr. and Mrs. David Peoples of this city, the ceremony was performed by Rev. Father Baker in the presence of a large number of relatives and friends.

The bride entered the church on the arm of her father, to the strains of the wedding march played by Mrs Grant. The bride looked charming in a gown of white pansy silk lace, with a veil of tulle caught with a band of lilies of the valley and carried a bouquet of carnations, talisman roses and baby breath. The bridesmaid, Miss Evelyn Bertram of Deloro looked lovely in a dress of yellow brocaded organza with a white picture hat and carried carnations, talisman roses and baby's breath. The groom was assisted by Mr. Kenneth Fox of this city. After the ceremony about fifty guests were entertained at a wedding feast at the home of the bride's parents. The bride's mother received in a gown of navy crepe with white accessories. She was assisted by the groom's mother, gowned in a rose colored crepe with black accessories.

After breakfast the happy couple left on an extended honeymoon to Hamilton and St. Williams, Ont. The bride's going away costume was a pink ensemble with white accessories. The groom's gift to the bride was a pink locket, to the bridesmaid a white purse and to Miss Murray a gold engraved locket. Mr. James Dongvan and Mr. Frank Murray acted as ushers. The young couple received many useful and beautiful presents.

GRAY-SCOTT

Frankford, July 2 (Special)—On Tuesday afternoon June 30th in the Frankford United Church, Edna Marguerite Scott of Trenton became the bride of Robert M. Gray also of Trenton, Rev. F. J. Lane was the officiating clergyman. The church was prettily decorated for the occasion, and the bride and groom approached the altar to the strains of the wedding march played by Mrs. J. Lane.

Miss Jessie Spencer acted as bridesmaid, while Mr. Carleton H. Bell attended the groom with the Misses Phyllis and Jean Scott sisters of the bride acting as flower girls.

McFEE-TAYLOR

A quiet wedding took place at Christ Church on Monday morning June 30th, at 8a.m.thirty when Winnifred Louise, youngest daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Taylor became the bride of Mr. Earl Gordon, son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel McFee. Rev. G. G. Wright officiated. Mr. and Mrs. Bell Mefee attended the bride and groom who after a short trip to western cities will reside in Belleville.

BUGMAN—GREEN

The wedding took place in Buffalo on June 3rd of Miss Gladys Green daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Green, Point Anne, and Mr. Joseph Bugman, eldest son of Mr. Robert Bugman and the late Mr. Bugman. The bride wore a white flat crepe frock with matching coat, hat and accessories. Miss Clara Rossi and Mr. Theodore Casnjok of Buffalo were attendants. Wedding supper was served at the bride's home. Mr. and Mrs. Bugman are residing in Buffalo.

SULLIVAN—ELLIS

Trenton, (Special)—At 7.45 yesterday morning at St. Peter In-Chains Cathedral Miss Mary Lillian Ellis, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ellis was given in marriage by her father to Mr. Robert Samuel Sullivan, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Sullivan of Montreal. The Rev. Dean O'Reilly with Father O'Neil assisting performed the ceremony. The bride wore a Lelong model of satin with an overdress of Chantilly lace and a coronet veil with orange blossoms and maidenhair accessories. She carried a bouquet of calla lilies. Miss Mildred Sleuther acted as her maid of honor and wore pink tulle and lace with white accessories and carried a bouquet of talisman roses. Mr. Joseph Goodwin attended the groom. Mr. Harry Ellis, cousin of the bride acted as usher.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ellis, Brown Street. Mrs. Ellis received the many guests in her navy crepe dress with matching accessories and a corsage of lily of the valley. Following the reception the happy couple left for Toronto and points west by motor. On returning they will reside on John Street, Trenton.

SHATLAND—HOLGATE

A quiet wedding was solemnized yesterday morning at the home of Mrs. Mabel Holgate, George Street when her youngest son George Holgate was united in marriage to Verna Bert Shatland, the only daughter of Mr. A. Shatland and the late Mrs. Shatland of this city.

The bride who was given away by her father looked charming in a navy and white ensemble with matching accessories and shoulder bouquet of sweetheart roses.

On their return Mr. and Mrs. Holgate will reside on George Street this city.

St. Thomas W. A. Honors Mrs. Bell

In honor of Mrs. R. J. Bell, the members of St. Thomas's Auxiliary in connection with St. Thomas' Church parish, entertained at a delightful tea, Tuesday afternoon, at the rectory, Bridge Street east. The tea table at which Mrs. F. C. Anderson and Mrs. E. R. Logie poured was centred with a lovely summer bouquet with matching candlesticks. Members of the auxiliary assisted.

Mrs. Bell, who has been an active and highly valued member of the auxiliary for many years in which she holds the office of Literature and Leaflet Secretary, will be leaving Belleville for this coming autumn to reside at Evanston, Ill., with her sister, Mrs. C. P. Anderson, whose husband, the late St. Rev. C. P. Anderson was Bishop of the Diocese of Chicago for many years and Primate of the Protestant Episcopal Church in the United States. The departure of Mrs. Bell is deeply regretted by the members of the auxiliary and as a slight token of the high esteem in which she is held by them, a handsome gold wrist watch and a beautiful book entitled "In the Steps of 'The Master'", by H. V. Morton, were presented to her by Mrs. F. W. Green, the President of the Auxiliary. The address was given by Mrs. F. C. Anderson in which regret at losing Mrs. Bell was nicely expressed. The Rev. A. Beauchamp Payne, vicar of the parish, was present to add his personal presentation he spoke of the great loss Mrs. Bell's departure will mean not only to the auxiliary, but to the Sunday School and the parish as a whole. For many years to come Mrs. Bell will be remembered with high regard by her associates of St. Thomas'.

Mrs. Bell will be missed not only in the parish of St. Thomas', but also in the town of Trenton, the Christian Association in this city of which she has been a member for many years and in which she has held other offices most efficiently were a great deal to the success of the association.

By her noble and self sacrificing labors in connection with the Belleville General Hospital and charity work generally Mrs. Bell has been of great service to her fellow citizens and she will be long remembered in the city of Belleville for her good works and pleasing personality.

The good wishes of many friends in this city will go with Mrs. Bell when she leaves here in the autumn to make her home at Evanston, Ill.

Obituary

MRS. JOHN GIVENS

News of the sudden death in Kingston, yesterday, of Mrs. John Givens, formerly Miss Nellie Tisdale, came as a distinct shock to relatives and friends in this city. Daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Alex. Tisdale, Mrs. Givens was born in this city on June 27th, 1868. She was a resident of Belleville until her marriage and had many friends in this district. Since her marriage, Mrs. Givens has made her home in Kingston. A member of St. Mary's Cathedral parish, Mrs. Givens took an active interest in the women's organizations of the church.

She leaves to mourn her passing, her husband, three sons, Dr. John G. Givens, Hartford, Conn., Mr. Alex. Givens, Toronto, and Mr. Walter Givens, Stratford, one daughter, Mrs. G. Gordon, Kingston, one sister, Mrs. E. R. Smith, Erie, Penn., and two brothers, Mr. Leonard Tisdale, of this city, and Mr. Raymond Tisdale of Cleveland, Ohio.

IN MEMORIAM

ELLIOTT—In loving memory of our dear baby, Helen Violet, who died July 2nd, 1935.
If only the skies would open
And her dear little face I could see,
Oh, what a wonderful feeling
I know would come over me.
But she is with the angels,
Far from sin and pain,
And Jesus says "Believe in Me."
And I shall see her again.
—Sadly missed by Mother, Brothers and Sister. 1t-26

Visitors Include Youthful Cyclists on Trip From Toronto

Marmora—The fishing season opened locally with a number of record catches on the weekend. Local anglers reported several large muskies had been caught as well as fine catches of bass. Included in the list of successful anglers is Wm. Gordenier, sixteen year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jame Gordenier who on Saturday afternoon got a fifteen-pounder at the foot of Crowe Lake. A sportsman from Akron, Ohio, named Chase, also got a nice eighteen pounder to take the spoon at Crowe Lake.

Tourists are arriving in the district in ever increasing numbers and several reservations have been made for the Dominion Day holiday.

W. R. Bonter of the Crowe Lake Boat Works reports that the demand for boats is on the increase, not only new boats but repair work on old ones and all his orders cannot be filled.

With the approach of the holiday months and with warmer weather hoped for, an extensive tourist trade is expected in this district.

Two brothers, Elmer Eldridge, 16, and "Buddy" Eldridge, 14, of Hanley Avenue, Toronto, accomplished a remarkable cycling feat on Sunday. Deciding to visit their grandfather, Sylvester Phillips of Marmora Township, and accompanied by a friend Tommy Hayes, 17, they mounted their bicycles at 4.00 a.m. and set out on their long trip. At Port Hope they were handicapped by a strong head wind and spent four hours between Port Hope and Cobourg. Passing through the Ash Lock City, the eldest of the three cyclist decided he had sufficient cycling for one day and spent the night there. The next day they reached their goal about 5.00 p.m. and greeted their grandfather after travelling 142 miles in thirteen hours. A good rub-down with liniment preceded a long night's rest. After thirteen hours by bike" their command was "Just a little tired, that's all."

BALL SUPREME ACROSS CANADA ON NATAL DAY

9 SENIOR GAMES

Leo Doan, Veteran, Starts Rally to Win From St. Thomas

(By The Canadian Press)

If there was one sport that attracted more fans than any other in Canada centres during the Dominion Day holiday, it was baseball from hamlets to cities, baseball led the parade of sports events. Scores of junior, intermediate and other contests were topped off by nine senior games in the three senior leagues.

Generally, favorites and league-leaders continued their pace. There were five games in the International League, with London and Buffalo undefeated way in leading the west group. It was a case of another long climb up the ladder for the occupiers of other years, Stratford National.

The score was 14-10 when the game ended. Stratford used three pitchers in an effort to halt the London victory. Four of the London runs were home runs. London collected 18 hits off "Lefty" Coleman.

Brantford had a busy day, playing both morning and afternoon, and emerging victorious in each case. Hamilton Leonards were defeated in the morning and Dundas Crafters, pace setters in the Hamilton section of the league, 9-4 in the afternoon.

Hamilton Moodies went to work early in their game with Galt, defeating eight runs in the first five innings. Jack Murphy took over then and held them scoreless, Final score was 8-3 for Hamilton.

One of the oldest players in the league, Leo Doan, entered the St. Thomas-Aylmer vs Guelph contest. Doan went in as a pinch hitter in the ninth and created a rally that gave St. Thomas a 8-4 victory over Guelph. It was the fifth time in 11 games that Guelph has lost a game by one run.

St. Catharines leaders of the Niagara district league, suffered its second loss of the season being defeated 3-2 by Merritton. Hardy, 6ft. St. Catharines third baseman, broke a finger in attempting to lay down a bunt in the second inning.

Edna Bush is Star of Meet, Captures Three of Swims, Jack Peoples Takes 3 Races

Dominion Day Meet Of Y. M. C. A. is Gala Affair

ROSS CLARE SECOND

Helen McQuaid is Champion of Local Diving

Edna Bush, sensational 16-year-old swimming star of the local Y.M.C.A. Club, stole the natatorial limelight at the "Y" meet held on Government Pier here yesterday morning when she topped off three wins in the senior girls event with a sparkling exhibition in the 1000 yard free style men's swim in the third, leaving two male competitors behind her.

Miss Bush, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Bush of 13 Earl Street, won the senior ladies' free style, breaststroke and backstroke events. Jack Peoples captured the junior events with wins in the free style, backstroke and men's diving events with Ross Clare, Oshawa, second in all three divisions. Grant Brass won the men's breaststroke splash, with W. Parsons stroking steadily to win the 1000 yard distance swim.

Queen at Lady Diver

Helen McQuaid proved the queen of the lady divers with a point totalage of 91.6 and just nosed out Doris Gardner, who finished second, a point behind. Marion McLean, Oshawa, was third position with 24.

Brilliant sunshine and smooth water greeted natators and spectators who lined the pier at ten o'clock when Starter Inspector Gardner, of the Provincial Police, fired the gun which sent the meet away.

Peoples' Sensational Win

Sensational finishes in the men's and women's free style events brought the crowd to its collective feet. Finishing steadily through the water with a powerful overhand stroke, Jack Peoples held a commanding lead on the three-quarter mark but a spirited spurt by Clare brought him even with the boy from Peoples from the finish mark. With arms and legs threshing wildly, both swimmers spurted for the line with Peoples getting his finger-tips on the ladder a scant second ahead of Clare. Not until the official result was announced did spectators know who had won the race.

Graceful diving exhibitions by Jack Peoples and Helen McQuaid, and the game effort staged by Ross Bush in the 400-yard senior men's swim highlighted the meet.

Officials in charge of the meet were: Starter, Inspector Gardner, O.P.P.; Judge of Course, Wilbur Naylor of the Y.M.C.A.; Judge of Dives, Chicago Y.M.C.A. College who is vacationing here; Judge of Finish, Stephen Lecznar; J. E. Shortt and Y.M.C.A. Secretary Ralph Moreton; Timer, Ralph Mordey; Clerk of Course, Arnett Millar; Judge of Diving, Harold Angelo, former aquatic instructor at Cochrane, Ont.; Life Guard, George Semark, was in charge of boat patrolling the course.

Prizes From Fest

Prizes from a pool which was contributed to by the Rivania, Rexall, Dr. Mark's Tonic and the Canadian Department Stores, J. A. McPee and the Y.M.C.A., were distributed to winners by Secretary Ralph Mordey yesterday afternoon.

The Results

The meet, which inaugurated a series of swimathons which will be conducted annually by the Y.M. C.A., replaced the famous lake bay swim, a handsome yearly aquatic attraction. Popular response to this new swimming departure as evidenced by the large crowd in attendance at yesterday's affair, augurs well for future meets. The results:

Senior Men—100 yd. free style—1st, J. Peoples; 2nd, Ross Clare; 3rd, Richard Logie. Time, 1.18.

Breast stroke—1st, Grant Grass; 2nd, B. Logie; 3rd, G. Parsons. Time, 1.43 3-5.

Boys, 15 and under—Free style—1st, Cyril Gardner; 2nd, Murray Jones; 3rd, Harold Burkholder. Time, 1.54.

BARRED AS ALIEN

Robert Rodenkirchen, Jersey City, N.J., school boy sprinter, stole the show in the U.S. Olympic try-outs at Cambridge, Mass., by setting the sectional mark of 21 seconds for the 200-metres. He is now barred from the final try-outs because he is not an American citizen but may be accepted if his father becomes naturalized in time.

OSHAWA WINS FROM NAPANEE

Hands Visitors 6-3 Defeat Before Large Crowd in C.O.B.L. Series

Oshawa, July 2. — Oshawa strengthened its hold on first place in the Senior Central Ontario Baseball League race when they handed Napanee Gibbards a 6 to 3 defeat before a large holiday crowd at Alexandra Park yesterday.

For the second time this year, "Long John" Ogden, Oshawa's tall righthander, bested Vern Bishop before a local crowd.

Germany To Broadcast Olympic Games

Berlin, July 2—Extensive preparations have been made in Berlin by Broadcast the Olympic Games to all parts of the globe, so that millions of listeners may enjoy the descriptions of the stirring events which will be of outstanding world interest from August 1 to 16.

As a matter of fact, the hearer will be able to learn more about the Olympic activities at one time than the actual spectator, who cannot possibly be in more places than one, whereas the radio auditor will be able to listen to descriptions as they come from all arenas where the various contests are under way.

LOOSELY PLAYED MATCH IS LOST BY 10 - 8 SCORE

Belleville's Winning Streak is Cut Short at Peterboro

5 MISPLAYS EACH

Bawden And McIver Pitch For Luckless Quinte Team

Peterboro, Ont., July 2—The Petes were victors in a loosely played game here yesterday (Dominion Day) when they cut short the Belleville gang's victory streak at one game, the luckless visitors going down to 10-8 defeat. Both teams were guilty of five misplays and were very generous in donating runs to each other. Scrivvy for the locals and Bawden for the Quinte outfit were the starting pitchers but both failed to last through the third frame. Whitehill finishing the game for the Petes and getting credit for his 5th victory of the season while McIver who was the star in Belleville's upset victory over the General Motors gang from Oshawa was credited with the loss.

"Heads Down" is Axiom of Cycling Champions

The thrilling finish to the race for the Dominion half-mile cycling championship shows Lionel Coleman, brilliant young Hamilton, Ont., pedal-pusher just beating Doug Peace of the Toronto Maple Leaf Club over the wire with rest of the field far behind. Coleman also captured the quarter-mile and five-mile events to qualify himself as leader of Canada's cycling delegation heading for Berlin Olympics. Races were pulled over Canadian National Exhibition track, Toronto.

ROCHESTER WINS PAIR OF GAMES

Montreal Royals Defeated by 4 to 2 and 2 to 1 on Tuesday

(By The Associated Press)

Rochester Redwings, who have been keeping in the International League pennant race despite none too consistent pitching, loosened that with a pair of fine mound performances yesterday and trailed the second-place Newark Bears today by one game.

While the Bears were dropping an 8-4 decision to the Jersey Cities Chiefs, the Wings trimmed the Montreal Royals 4 to 2 and 2 to 1. The double victory left Rochester three games behind Newark on the winning side and one in front in the losing column.

Tony Kaufmann, turning in his fifth successive victory and going the route for the third straight time, limited the Royals to six scattered hits in the first game and Ben Wellend followed up by hurling four-hit ball in the nightcap for his 14th game of the season.

The Bears, who have not had a pitcher go the route since Glen Sundra hurled a four-hitter June 18, fell before Syracuse as the Chiefs got 16 Vito Tamulis and Piechota for all their runs in three innings.

Buffalo Bisons, three games back of Rochester in third, third place and Toronto Maple Leafs divided a double bill, the Bisons capturing the opener 2-1 and the Leafs the nightcap 5 to 2.

The night game between Albany and Baltimore was rained out.

C. N. Sulman, Veteran Bowler And John Shaw Take Primary

Watkins And Edwards Win Consolation Event

44 TEAMS COMPETE

Forty-four teams were entered for competition in the thirteenth annual Scotch doubles tournament sponsored by the Belleville Lawn Bowling Club at their spacious greens in the Fair Grounds yesterday. It was the largest entry in the history of the association, many teams from outside points being in competition.

The team of Chas. Sulman and John Shaw, of Belleville, won the Primary series and the Robertson cup, while in the Consolation series the teams of Watkin and Edwards of Belleville were victorious after a strenuous struggle. In the "Hard Luck" round the team of Risebro and Renaud, of Norwood, were successful. The Consolation winners won the H. A. Fish cup.

Besides a large entry from the Belleville Club, lawn bowlers from Kingston, Warkworth, Peterboro, Trenton, Deseronto, Norwood, Havelock, Campbellford, Tweed, Madoc and other points were included in the tournament. The tournament was keenly contested with all promotion was in the hands of President Geo. E. Watkin and R. S. Dewar, chairman of the games committee for the current year.

In the Primary series the teams of Belair and Wesley defeated Block and Walsh in the semi-final round as Sulman and Shaw downed Symons and Harden. In the finals, however Chas. Sulman and John Shaw proved too accurate on the greens and won over Belair and Wesley to win the Robertson Trophy.

Splendid bowling was in evidence all day and in the Consolation series, for the H. A. Fish cup, the team of Gimlett and Sadaville of Peterboro, Green and Topping of Kingston, Watkin and Edwards of Belleville, and the local team of Symons and Harden all advanced to the semi-final round. Green and Topping downed their Peterboro rivals while Watkin and Edwards defeated Gimlett and Symons and Harden but continued their good playing to win the round by trimming the Kingston team of Green and Topping.

In the "Hard Luck" round fourteen teams entered with McBride and McBride, Belleville, Carleton and Tompkins, Stirling, Bryant and McCue, Belleville and Risebro and Renaud, Norwood advancing to the semi-finals, Carleton and Tompkins defeated McBride and McBride while Risebro and Renaud downed Bryant and McCue. In the finals the Norwood team of Risebro and Renaud were victorious over Carleton and Tompkins.

The weather conditions were ideal for lawn bowling and a large gallery of interested spectators took in the tournament.

SCORE IS 8 TO 3

Diminutive Pitcher Phillips Holds Rivals to Four Hits

Blasting bludgeons of the Picton Blue Sox rapped out a merry tattoo of basehits behind the superlative pitching of George "Shrimp" Phillips yesterday, to annex their second win of the season over Bowmanville Royals in a scheduled Lakeshore Loop Intermediate B fixture played in Picton. The score was 8-3.

Picton sluggers got to Piper, starting Royal hurler for two triplets, a double and two singles in the first innings to count six runs, and send the righthander to the showers. Osborne who returned him, checked the local bats and held them to four teps and two runs over the remaining innings.

Phillips, diminutive Blue Sox southpaw, was master of the Royals throughout the game, holding them to four hits and three runs. Helgens, fox outfielder, scintillated in the field, his running catches, hard-hit balls, providing the highlights.

Bowmanville clustered two clouts with an error to score two in the 7th the other run coming in the 8th.

Shannonville Club Stages Successful Holiday Meet

LATTA 6, MELROSE 5

Camilton Ties With Shannonville at Two All

Shannonville, July 2.—The Shannonville Baseball Clubs held day field here on Dominion Day, turning out to be a big success and with nearly all local baseball games and the end of war tilt fair to outdone the annual world's fair which is held in this town.

In two classes of running races, the free for all and the green class horse-racing enthusiasts were treated to their favorite sport in grand style, there being numerous entrants in both classes. In the tug of war between the stalwarts of Thurlow Township and the strong men from Tyendinaga, the boys from Thurlow, after three good hearty pulls proved themselves to be the better sinewy and literally pulled themselves to victory.

The half-mile foot race of once around the track,was entered by about six runners, they doing their stuff a la Jesse Owen, but at the finish were spread out considerably due apparently for the most part to lack of condition.

In the bicycle race, Roy Watts and Tom Vivian gave the spectators an idea of what the final lap in the six-day bicycle race is like, when they paralled their way to first and second money in true Torchy Peden style, with Ronald Magill coming in for third money.

It is was baseball that the crowd seems to see they certainly got their money's worth, as every team in the South Hastings League got into action with the Camilton team playing a double-header, the first game with Foxboro and tying into the Shannonville nine in a twilight contest, the Melrose vs. Latta game coming in between.

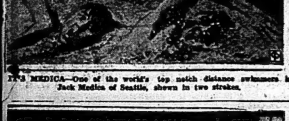
Behind the four-hit pitching of "Red" Johnston, the Foxboro boys took the offering of Shannonville pitchers to all corners of the lot collecting eleven safe hits, including pounding out a ten to two drubbing over Camilton "imports."



"Red" blankly conversed himself with glory in setting the hard-hitting Camilton lads down with four safe hits being afforded straight support in the field he simply breezed along, while his teammates jumped on Noah for a mad run lead up to the third. Noah was relieved in the favor of Simpson in the third inning and from then on the Foxboro batsmen were held more in check, they only getting four safe hits off Simpson's delivery for five innings.

Foxboro broke Bush's heart in the second when Doc Blakely hit for the circuit starting the game. Foxboro was hit by pitched ball and promptly scored on Gay's hit that went for three bases when Hammond misjudged it in the sun. In the third, Foxboro tallied seven runs on six hits aided, on five safeties, coupled with four errors on the part of Camilton, causing Bush's being derricked in favor of Simpson, but the game was already lost, although Foxboro scored another in the sixth without a semblance of a hit, when Blakely strolled, taking third on Wilkins' error when Jones hit to third and scored at first. Brees made the Camilton infield look bad on runout between first and second, they in the meantime forgetting Blakely who streaked for home.

Camilton scored in the third when Mason walked, stealing second and third in succession and scored on Murray's single, adding another to the fifth on Bush's double cou- ville orchestra.

WATCH YOUR CAPS!—Charley G shringer of the Tigers, sliding home with some excitement, se ems to be losing his cap played with Gay's error on Murray's hit down the line that Hammond supplied the fielding features, as playing in centre for the losers, he lobbed Gay and Bosley of what looked like two hits, Johnston was the heavy stickor for the winners getting three singles, with Blakely getting a home run and Gay a triple.

The line-up: Camilton—Murray, Simpson, Gray, Hammett, Wilkins, Wade, Jarrell, Mason and Brees. Foxboro—Bosley, Ashley, Johnston, Robinson, Blakely, Brewer, Gay, Wall and Cway.

Score by innings: R.H.E.
Camilton ..... 001 010 0— 2 4 7
Foxboro ..... 021 001 8—10 11 3
Batteries—Bush, Simpson and Gray, Johnston and Bresee.
Umpires—Arthur Hall and Russ Collins.

Latta 6; Melrose 5.

The Latta nine moved away from their rivals in the standing when in chalking up their sixth straight win they shed out a lucky 6-5 victory over the lowly Melrose outfit, in losing the eighth consecutive loss the Melrose boys have absorbed this season.

For a time it looked as though the score run lead that Melrose enjoyed during the middle frames would be enough for them to snap out of their losing streak, but poor base ball, coupled with the odd error lost them what advantage they had as Latta scored in the last two innings to win the game.

Letty Weeks, on the mound for the losers, had for the most part the hard-hitting Latta boys knitting very ordinary as he was throwing his opponents past them with regularity and although he was eventually returned as losing pitcher, he certainly deserved a better fate. Callahan for the winners was quite wild and wavy as he did get it over was his hard, but snappy fielding by his supporters saved the day.

Melrose—Howard, Smeath, Blagg, Booth, D. Kimmett, Coutts, Pascoe, R. Kimmett and Weeks. Latta—Gowe, Hall, Marsh, Orr, Parks, Ruttan, Simpson, Callahan and Callahan.

Score by innings:
Melrose ..... 140 000 0—5
Latta ..... 103 001 1—6
Batteries—Weeks and Coutts, Callahan and Gowe.
Umpires—Thomas and Hudgins.

Camilton 2; Shannonville 2.

The final ball game of the day developed into a pitching duel between Wilkins for Camilton and Loft on the mound for Shannonville, with the honors about evenly divided, Wilkins allowing five hits while striking out seven, with Loft giving up six hits and turning nine batters back to the bench by the same route, Richardson's error sent Ashed in the first when Jarrell dropped Liddle's fly to left and scored on a passed ball, getting another in the fourth on an error, a stolen base and two infield outs Camilton went one ahead in the third when Webb, Simpson and Gray all got safeties chasing in two runs, but their advantage was short lived, the nine settled to a deadlock when Umpire Thomas called the game at the end of the seventh.

For the winners Simpson led the parade with two singles while Webb smacked one for three bases with Gray and Wilkins getting singles. for the Shannonville outfit Bloomfield led with a double with Whitehead, Loft, Green and Shea getting singles.

Camilton — Murray, Simpson, Gray, Wilkins, Simpson, Jarrell, Mason, Bush and Webb. Shannonville—Whitehead, Loft, Liddle, Green, Shea, Brant, Houston, Bell and Rigid.

HAMILTON GIRL BEATS OLD MARK

Jessie Stott Jumps 15 Feet 10 Inches in Olympic Trials

Toronto, July 3—(CP)—Ontario women athletes were looking forward to the Canadian Olympic trials in Montreal today following the Provincial championships at the Olympic elimination trials here yesterday. The trials will be held July 10 and 11.

Only one record was broken in yesterday's meet at Varsity Stadium. Jessie Stott of Hamilton jumped 15 feet 10 inches in the running broad jump junior competition to top the old mark of 15 feet 8 3-4 set by her club-mate, Isabella Millet, a member of the Canadian team to the British Empire games.

Miss Millet fared badly in the day's events. Not only did she see her old record fall, but she was bested in her particular specialty, the running high jump by Poppy Morin, 17-year-old star from Lorne Park. Miss Nevin jumped 4 feet 10 3-4 inches, about four inches less than the provincial record.

Betty Taylor of Hamilton won a close duel with Rozy Atkins, Toronto Supremes, to capture the open 80-metres hurdles event in 12.2s, Toronto Supremes' anchor runner Rozy Atkins had to close fast to lead her team to victory in the 4-metre relay.

Adelaide Adams, Toronto Supremes, did well in her first appearance in intermediate company. She won the 60-metres event in 8.2s, a fifth of a second better than the time set in the open event for the same distance, and also placed first in the discus throw with a heave of 86 feet 7 1-4 inches.

Harriet Grieve, Lakeside, sprinted to a win in the 200-metre open with Irene Storey, her club-mate second. Lakeside also won the 400-metre junior relay, while Supremes were victorious in the 400-metre intermediate event.

HIGH SCHOOL MEET REVEALS RACK AND FIELD TALENT

Some of Canada's future Olympians were uncovered for public approval when 270 rah-rah athletes participated in 12th annual Ontario High School track and field meet at varsity stadium, Toronto. Track officials were enthusiastic at the record smashing work of several outstanding sprint and field events. Above, Laurie Lewis and J. S. McKeown.

At LEFT, is Stuart Frid, Hamilton, below are Walter and Harold Brown of Meaford, Ont., twin brothers who finished one-two in the high jump. Harold was the victor with a new Ontario record of 5 feet 9 3-4 inches. Hobbs, of Windsor, (220 yards and 100 yards intermediate) and A. Drinkwater, Toronto, (220 and 100 yards junior), shake hands on their victories at right, and the two lads his events.

KIWANIANS VIEW THE NEW BUREAU

Guided Through Building By A. B. Baird And Assistants

Members of the Kiwanis Club had the privilege of viewing at last night's meeting the new building on Dundas Street after the regular luncheon on Monday at the Grand View. Mr. A. B. Baird, meteorologist in charge, Gen. Wishart, Mr. Finlayson and Chesley Smith, members of the staff were guests of the Kiwanis Club and Mr. Baird in extending the invitation to the members expressed his appreciation of the cordial reception given by the city to the visiting meteorologists in the city for the official opening and the interest shown for the publicity, that was given the affair. The members on arrival at the Bureau were divided into groups and the work fully explained by competent meteorologists. To those, who have not visited the building this has been unfortunate, because one will receive a liberal education on the eradication of insect pests, according to Kiwanian President Frank Donnelson. George Griffiths, secretary and Leo B. Rings were present at the luncheon after spending the past two days at the International Convention at Washington, D.C. and all reports are that this was the best convention since 1929", said one of the party and the Kiwanian members could not do too much to make everybody happy. A full report of the Kiwanis part of the convention will be given at the luncheon next week, when the members are requested a full attendance next week, when the Lieutenant Governor will be the special guest. Eddie Shapiro told of the interest he had when he visited the Kiwanis Club in the Playground scheme and when the members saw it being put into effect, such as beautifying the grounds. Hats, Baldness and the work that he has accomplished up to this time. Announcement was made that special events take place on Wednesday, July 8th. George Furman in charge, the proceeds going for that day's business, that all parents are asked to be present to view the work that has been done by the club and further their enjoyment.

George Laughlin, who will be supervisor at the playground for the summer months of the club for the past few holidays is ready to pay excellent dividends. It stated the playground will be under the service clubs and explained that the children will be responsible for the cleaning and operation of the playgrounds after the service club is gone and these rules will be followed in a report in the fall, that will convince the most skeptical mind. In one of value in helping the boys to play in a proper manner, said Mr. Laughlin. He outlined the work that will be attempted and every line of activities included in the agenda both for boys and girls.

DESERT IS FEARED IN UNITED STATES

'Weather Change' Pointed to by Secretary Wallace

Evanston, Ill., July 2.—Secretary of Agriculture Henry Wallace passed in his tour of the drought stricken Northwestern United States last night, in review of a story of a possible "weather change" which might make the United States an arid land.

Threats of the "change" were carried in the long, dry spells of 1930 and 1936, and in otherwise "freakish" weather of the past seven years, the Secretary asserted.

After describing the present lack of rainfall as "almost as bad" as the disaster of two years ago, the director of the New Deal's farm program said:

"It is conceivable that this problem may be enormously complicated by changes in climate. The great migrations of history to some extent were caused by soil depletion, to some extent by changes in climate, and to some extent by social and political disturbances. If the weather of the United States really is changing, it is essential that we study it as a great national problem.

"Of course, it is premature to say that our weather has definitely changed, but if the next year or the next seven years, weather as freakish as that which we have been having the past seven, it may well be that the people of the United States will call on the Federal Government to no unmistakable terms to aid them in making such profound adjustments."

Weather Is Violent

Even were the climate to remain as it is, Wallace said "people in Eastern United States and in Europe do not appreciate the violence or the variations of weather in Central United States."

"Our rains are much more dashing than those of Western Europe," he went on, "and a much higher percentage of our rains are thunderstorms."

Chicago, July 2.—Fear of Henry Wallace, United States Secretary of Agriculture, that a weather change was occurring, making the United States arid, recalled remarks of the House of Commons made by Rev. W. R. Motherwell, that "deserts grow" when men are taken to stop them.

He spoke of the work of archaeologists in Palestine which showed cities once surrounded by fertile land had been buried by sand.

"I thought I lived on the edge of the drought area," Saskatchewan he said, "but the last six years have revealed to us that the desert really grows. It extends over the adjoining area until the whole countryside is affected, unless some action of an effective nature is taken. What we must do is to restore the grass covering. That is an immense job, but it must be done."

HALLOWAY

Halloway—The recent rains have greatly aided the strawberry crop which was about to collapse from the dry spell of last week.

PRESENTATION

On Friday evening last, about twenty friends and neighbors gathered at the public school, Shannonville in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Philip Knight and family who are leaving the village to reside at Park Hill, Ontario. For the past thirteen years Mr. Knight has been teacher in our school and their departure will be a great loss to the whole community.

During the early part of the evening a social hour was enjoyed by all. Shortly after 9.30 Dr. H. E. Eckhardt, chairman of the School Board called the gathering to order and asked Mr. and Mrs. Knight to come forward. After short addresses by Dr. Eckhardt and Rev. W. H. Clarke Mrs. E. Mills read the following address:

Shannonville, June 26, 1936

Dear Mr. and Mrs. Knight, Phyllis and Arthur:

We your friends and neighbors of Shannonville are gathered here to night to spend a pleasant hour with you before you leave our midst.

You, Mr. Knight, having spent the past thirteen years of your life as our esteemed teacher have left a lasting impression upon the minds of the younger ones, many of whom have spent their entire school life under your guidance. They will always remember with pleasure the days spent at our village school.

You and Mrs. Knight have both shared in the social and spiritual life of the community and we shall deeply feel your departure. You have taken your full share in all our enterprises and have many times proved a friend in need to some of us. Your faithful presence and willingness to help in all community activities have won for you a host of friends who will indeed miss you in the future.

You, Phyllis and Arthur have spent your entire childhood days among us. You have always been ready and willing to do your share in whatever you have been asked upon to help with and will be deeply missed in the school and by your playmates.

It is impossible to find words suitable to voice our regret at your departure but we wish you all happiness and success in your new home. We are sorry that it is some distance away but we sincerely hope that it is not too far but that you might visit us often.

We want you to take with you as an expression of our friendship these gifts which we hope will always remind you of your friends in Shannonville.

Signed on behalf of your Shannonville friends, Dr. H. E. Eckhardt, Mrs. Earl Vinkle, Mrs. L. What Local Theatre Managers Have to Say About Current Offerings

AT THE REELTE

"And So They Were Married"

One of the season's gayest, most delightful romantic comedies charmed its way into the Reelte theatre yesterday and captivated the vastly entertained audience with its scintillating humor and hilariously staged story. The newcomer is Columbia's "And So They Were Married," which features Melvyn Douglas, Mary Astor, Edith Fellowes and Jackie Moran.

The screen play is as spirited as an unbroken colt, and moves breathlessly to a novel, enchanting conclusion. Briefly, the delightful narrative relates the misadventures of a wealthy widower and a beautiful divorcee and their raucously children, marooned at a winter resort high in the mountains. Though mother and daughter and father and son are outspoken in their detestations of the opposite sex. Douglas and Astor soon find themselves hopelessly in love. The attempts of Edith Fellowes and Jackie Moran to separate their respective parents, and later to bring them together again, provides most of the delightful comedy.

Filmed against the scenic wonders of the High Sierras, "And So They Were Married, is breathtakingly beautiful. With excellent photography, a grand script and inspired acting by the cast, the picture has all the requisites of top-flight filmfare. Elliot Nugent's direction is the finest of his career. His handling of the comedy situations leaves nothing to be desired.

Up to par in supporting roles are such favorites as Donald Meek, Dorothy Stickney and George McKay.

Louis-Schmeling Fight

Tom O'Rourke, old time fight promoter, told Maxie Schmeling how to beat Joe Louis, Max did as he was told and won. How he did it, you'll see in this, the greatest ring upset since the days of Sullivan and Corbett; truly twelve rounds of hurricane action, thrills and excitement.

The gay romantic film, "And So They Were Married," and the official pictures of the greatest heavyweight upset in years, Joe Louis-Max Schmeling fight pictures will be repeated again tonight and Friday, matinee and evening. The fight pictures will be shown daily at 2.30, 4.35, 8.30 and 10.35. "And So They Were Married," starts at 2.00, 7.20 and 9.30 p.m. Performances start daily at 2.30, 7.10 and 9.15.

BUS CRASH KILLS 5

Natural Bridge, Va., July 3—Death came swiftly to five of thirty-four persons aboard a huge bus, which crashed into a bank and overturned early Wednesday only a few yards from the 217-foot gorge spanned by the famous natural bridge. Seven others were injured seriously enough to require hospital treatment.

J. J. Osborne, the driver, said he made what some believed was a deliberate effort to wreck the sight-seeing bus and prevent its plunge into the chasm. It stopped with the wheels in the air against the fence advertising the bridge, the top crushing Osborne and four persons in the forward end.

The dead in addition to Osborne: J. P. Hanlon, Washington, also John Keener, Washington; Lana Holden, Goodview, Va., and an unidentified woman.

The Missing Man

by

Mary R. P. Hatch

"Then," she continued, chafing to her emotions with a strong hand, he was composed enough to speak composedly, while Mrs. Fry sat an awestruck listener, for she had caught silently back, "it was feared he had been drowned in the river or had met with some foul play, for a body was found in it that it was thought might be his. This idea followed the bank trouble."

"What bank troubles?"

"It was said that my husband embezzled the funds, that he altered two notes to ten times their value, and got the money on them."

"I'll be bless, Fabs! I never did it,—never! It is a conspiracy to rob me of my good name."

"Almost the exact words of another." thought Constance, who, however, continued by a slavish effort of will to speak of the main facts of her husband's disappearance.

"An investigation was made and no considerable trouble was found at the bank, except as regarded the altered notes, which, it was true, were genuine, and returned to the bank to get a week after leaving Cloverdale, left on the road in his shirt-sleeves, one of a set that I gave him; another was found floating on river by an Italian employed on the new railroad, as it was believed. My husband's trousers, too, were also found among the bushes, on the banks."

She paused for a moment to look at the pale-faced man on the pillow, who fluttered with white-opened eyes and flushed cheeks.

"Go on," he said faintly.

"Perhaps I would better wait awhile."

"No, don't you see I am in torment" he said, irritably, "I want to know what I was accused of so as to whether I turned out to be a bank robber. By Heavens! What looks there are in the world!"

"We advertised and employed detective to find him, but no trace was discovered. Strange accounts of a celebrated bank defaulter, named Ashley, however, were met with, and he was said to resemble Mr. Hamilton. He was supposed to have a wife named Lenora, whose hair was called red. One detail seemed to look place in May. My husband always went away in the month and was absent two weeks. It was thought by some that Ashley and Hamilton were the same. There were two other men connected with Ashley, and they started private banks in new places in the West, and victimized the people who trusted them shamefully. Ashley did not appear to be always with them, but when he was, the greatest friends were committed."

"Did you believe that your husband and Ashley were identical?" asked the sick man, raising his head and looking full at Constance.

"No, I never believed it; but after a time I thought he must be dead, and I ordered a monument to be made, intending to erect it to his memory. The remains found in the river were buried in the cemetery, but not in our lot, and I was deliberating whether to have them disinterred and placed in the monument, when a strange thing happened."

"But when did I appear on the scene? Was it before the monument affair?"

"Yes."

"Then you really did not know me and yet you say you saw me and spoke to me. Was there nothing about me to recall your husband, Constance?"

"Oh, there was, there was!" she cried, "but no one else could see it. You looked sickly, old and bent. Your hair was a different color. You did not know me. You worked in our mill like any ordinary workman. You boarded there, and though you did seem to be attracted toward me and my children, there was nothing in your manner to savor of any right to us. Then, too, you played the violin, and my husband knew nothing about music, and that he loved to hear it; and besides, you were a good machinist and very ingenious in many ways, while my husband had no such faculty at all. I have heard him say he could not even make a top."

"And you say I can play the violin?"

"Yes."

"Well, now I know I cannot. Is there one in the house?"

"There's your own. I got away when you was took sick," said Mrs. Fry, who was divided in her allegiance to her elderly friends, Miss Edes, and her consternation to find him to be so accomplished a liar. "I'll fetch it. I guess you will find you can play a little."

But he could not, or would not. He drew the bow across the strings without either tightening or tuning them, and when the discordant strains followed he threw the violin from him.

"I told you so. I can't play, and never could. You have been deceived. It was some other person."

"You will have to tell that to somebody else than me, when I've seen you a-settin' an' a-playin' for hours, Sundays an' ev'nin's, in your room here. Mis' Hamilton knows it as well as I do."

"Yes, I have heard you play often," said Constance.

"Well, I have been living a dual life then. I have heard of such things. All I know about it is I left home in May, and I went a little ways on the train, and I came to myself in this room. I worked at the mill as a machinist and played the violin. I knew nothing about it."

"You did not work as a machinist, but as a common millhand. You, however, showed a good understanding of machinery and often remedied defects in it."

"Well, it's the strangest. Two men, an' both on 'em lost their senses at the same time. It would be queer enough if there had a-been but one!" and Mrs. Fry looked as if her mind had turned a somersault.

"What does she mean?" asked the sick man of Constance.

"Another person has had a similar experience to your own, or professes to have done so. But we will not talk of it now. Another time will do as well. I dare say Dr. Peck will say that we have talked too much already," and Constance, anxious herself to say no more at the present time, not until she had recovered her full powers of reasoning, arose to go.

"You know best. I am tired, but you will come again, Constance. What, are you going without saying goodby?"

"Goodby," said Constance, faintly.

Regardless of his own safety, Tarzan could not stand idly by and see his friend Tantor slain. Yet by physical strength he could not determine the issue of any more than some ancient cave-man would have affected the outcome of a conflict between two monstrous dinosaurs.

As the two elephants battled, Tarzan saw that Tantor could not withstand the furious assaults of mad Gudah. Meanwhile, Gudah, during the moil of combat, cast malicious glances at Tarzan, as if resolved to kill him when he had finished Tantor.

Poor Tantor's courage could not compensate for mad Gudah's superior strength and skill in battle. Barely was he able to fend off those vicious thrusts of Gudah's tusks. It was inevitable that one of those thrusts would find its mark in Tantor's body.

Then Tarzan decided upon a desperate move. With his spear he would swoop down upon the demon elephant, distract his attention, and thus allow Tantor to drive home his own tusks. If that manoeuvre failed, nothing could halt their own destruction and Gudah's triumph.

POLICE KEPT BUSY IN INVESTIGATING

Boys Found in Possession of Large Plant, Take From Lawn

Two teen aged lads were found by police in possession of plants and flowers found to have been stolen from the garden of Dr. Noble, Pinnacle St., yesterday. Dr. Noble informed them that these parents had been stealing her flowers and plants, later two juveniles were apprehended on Church St. in possession of a fine large plant. After being questioned by the police regarding the plant, the boys readily admitted uprooting the plant and removing it from the premises.

Police Chief Ellis Gibbons, complained to the police that night previous had destroyed some twenty hills of potatoes in his garden on Tuesday night. Chief Kidd today issued stern warnings regarding these all-too-frequent practices of stealing plants and vegetables in Belleville and added that severe penalties would be meted out if these amazing acts destruction were apprehended.

Local police raided a dice game in Belleville early Wednesday morning. Five local young men were "found in" and after taking their names summonses were issued. The disciples of the "galloping dominoes" game will appear in police court at a subsequent date.

A. L. Post, Mountain View, highway patrolman, reported the theft of five large cement culvert tiles from Government property yesterday. Mr. Post assured the Provincial Police the cement culvert tiles had been left for safe keeping on Government property some three miles south or Mountain View.

Provincial Constable McBrien investigated a robbery at the home of S. J. Geddes, Thurlow, last evening, during the absence of the Geddes family yesterday afternoon, burglars forced their way into the home and stole ten gold rings, a gold watch, silver coins and cuff links. The robbers ransacked $30 in cash that had been left in the house, however. No suspicious looking persons were reported to have been seen in the district, police were told.

Shortly after midnight last night Motorcycle Patrolman W. H. Delaney investigated an accident four miles north of Corbyville on Highway No. 37. Investigations showed that an automobile being driven south by C. R. LaFountaine, of Tweed, collided with a northbound motor car driven by R. E. Benn of Kaladar.

13 BUS STRIKERS KILLED BY POLICE

Lack of Discipline Leads to Tragedy in Yucatan

Fifty-one other strikers were wounded in the rain of machine gun bullets poured into the crowd outside the palace.

Lopez Cardenas, blamed by labor leaders for the demonstration, resigned the governorship and the legislature named Valencia Palomo Palomo Valencia acting chief executive.

First Player in More Than Score of Years to Equal English Record

Wimbledon, England, July 3 (AP) Fred Perry won the all-England tennis championship today for the third straight year. He overwhelmed Germany's Baron Gottfried von Cramm, 6-1, 6-1, 6-0 in the final.

Perry and von Cramm met in the final last year when the sparkling Britton downed the German in straight sets, 6-2, 6-4, 6-4.

Thus Perry became the first player in more than a score of years to win the championship three years in a row.

Immediately after the match von Cramm announced he had torn a muscle in his right leg and was unable to continue in the match. The German selected the referee to apologize to the capacity crowd for his poor showing.

Perry checkered the honor of von Cramm's misfortune and made it easy for the German to leave the court to have the thigh massaged.

But the German said: "It wouldn't be any use to default, because I'm not the first one to have an advantage of his rival."

New York, July 3 (AP)—Sports promoters of Wimbledon, England, will find Fred Perry an offer of $80,000 to turn professional after learning of the British tennis star's victory today, it was stated here today.

Perry rejected similar offers from C.C.Nirie he last two years.

"I tried to get him before on a percentage basis, assuring his share of the gate would approximate $50,000," said O'Brien. "Now I expected to give him that amount in advance."

BOYS DROWNED PICKING BERRIES

Gravel Bullet is Older Lad Life Trying to Save Younger

Mitchell, Ont., July 3 (CP)—In an attempt to connect events leading to the drowning yesterday of two boys in a water-filled quarry, the theory was expressed here today the younger of the two lost his life in attempt to rescue his companion.

The double drowning occurred yesterday on the outskirts of this Perth county town, and the victims were Harold Arthur French, nine, and Ronald Colin McMahon, ten.

The boys had set out to pick wild strawberries and when they failed to return search parties were formed. Arthur French, father of the older lad, set out from his farm.

First indication of the tragedy was the silent vigil of the French boy's big Airedale dog, who sat on the edge of the 15-foot pool, guarding the clothes of his youthful master.

There was no sign of either lad, so Mr. French plunged into the water and retrieved McMahon's body. An alarm was sounded and the Mitchell fire department responded. Within an hour, both bodies had been recovered.

It is thought the French boy, who had left all his clothes on the bank, had ventured in the deeper water and got into difficulties. His younger companion, partly undressed, it believed to have gone to his rescue.

Word after the bodies had been removed to the undertaking parlors, the faithful collie dog remained on the scene and it is said only by coaxing his young master's clothing he was coaxed away from his post.

HAY CARRIED BY WIND ACROSS PICTON BAY

The wind, like the music, apparently "goes round and round" over Picton way, according to a report emanating from that town. A prominent Picton lady was astounded recently when she noticed a whirlwind whirl dimly in a hayfield across the bay which at once took its high in the air and carry it for far across the bay out of sight.

Potential finders this side of the water, will no doubt, receive a reward for the safe return of the goddess.

'Angry Gods' Remain Unseen Sacred Mountain Undisturbed

Dr. Morey, U. S. Anthropologist, Escapes Death in Jungle

GUIDES LEAVE HIM

Monrovia, Liberia, July 3 (AP)—Without even the briefest glimpse of "the angry gods" who were reported to have swallowed him, Dr. Robert Morey, anthropologist of the Rockefeller Institute, rested here.

He had escaped death in the jungle, where he wandered in circling for two weeks after, his native guides had deserted him. He will leave soon to the United States.

The guides left Dr. Morey because they feared "the angry gods" of the sacred mountain Panodemai, which the natives worship as a deity, and believe while men may not look upon.

Dr. Morey has been in Liberia since 1931, studying primitive customs and people.

When he approached the sacred mountain, the guides deserted and reported to authorities it was useless to continue. They left the scientist because he had been swallowed by the jungle.

However, the district commissioner sent out searchers who located Dr. Morey. He said he had not seen the mountain in his wanderings.

IMPORTS IN MAY SHOW INCREASE OF FIVE MILLIONS

Larger Purchase of Textiles, Farm Implements

TRADE WITH U. S.

U. S. Gets $33,560,000 And Britain $12,032,000 in Trade

Ottawa, July 3 (CP)—Canada's imports in May showed an increase of almost $5,000,000 compared with those of May, 1935, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics reported today, attributing the increase chiefly to larger purchases of textiles, farm implements, machinery, automobiles, tea, sugar and fruits.

The total, $50,131,000 compared with a corresponding 1935 figure of $54,560,000. The increase was reflected almost entirely in business in the United States while imports from the United Kingdom showed a slight decline. The United States sent $33,560,000 worth of the business, Britain $12,032,000 worth. The rest was distributed among 47 countries.

Spectacular rise occurred in imports of farm implements from the United States which reached a value of $1,323,000 for the month compared with 663,000 a year before. Binder twine, including fibre, declined from $61,000 to $371,000.

Imports of automobiles were up from $391,000 to $676,000 and parts up slightly to $2,851,000. Increases came from the United States, although there was an increase, also, from Britain, France and Chinese.

Fruits were worth $2,196,000 compared with $1,970,000 and sugar at $2,632,000 was up $502,000.

SIAMESE TWINS ARE BOTH DEAD

Backs of Heads Joined by Heavy Bony Growth

Medford, Mass., July 3 (AP)—A baby girl Siamese twin who lived nearly 30 hours attached to the body of her dead sister, died today.

Dr. John D. Venadia, 31-year-old physician who had been preparing for a delicate operation to separate the joined skulls of the twins, had announced earlier that the five-pound girl was gaining strength.

The twins were born Wednesday night to Mrs. Diego Moreno, already the mother of two normal children. The larger of the twins, a boy, weighed seven pounds, died a few hours after birth.

Physicians said the heads were joined by a three and a half inch growth and that the brains of each was uncertain whether or not their brain tissue was connected.

OLYMPIC FLAG'S DEPARTURE DELAYED

Los Angeles, July 3 (AP)—A consultation's objection to sending the Olympic flag to what he described as "the land of Hitler where democracy and freedom are being destroyed" temporarily blocked appropriation today of $2,000 for that purpose.

In accordance with tradition, the Olympic flag has hung in the Los Angeles city hall since the last closing of the 1932 Olympic Games here. The 1936 games will be held in Berlin.

Photographer Shoots Self Shocks Assembly of League

Incident Mars Translation of Speech of Spain's Delegate

'THIS IS THE LAST'

Geneva, July 3 (CP)—Stefan Lux, reporter-photographer, shot himself to death in the press gallery during the League of Nations assembly meeting today. He was critically injured but doctors, who at first said he was dying, later decided he had a chance to survive.

Lux, a Czechoslovakian Jew, was born in Vienna but naturalized as a Czechoslovakian. He is a correspondent for Praha newspapers.

Letters Found In Brief Case.

When the confusion caused by the shooting had died down and Lux had been taken to hospital, several letters were found in his brief case, which was addressed to Joseph Avenol, secretary-general of the League of Nations. Others were addressed to King Edward, the London Times and the Manchester Guardian.

Harold Butler, deputy director, read in a letter to Avenol Lux said he was shooting himself because "he wished by his death to draw the attention of the world to the plight of the German Jews". The letter also apologized for the inconvenience he was about to cause.

Second Untoward Incident.

The shooting marks the second incident during the current session to shatter the dignity of a League meeting.

(Delegates were thrown into an uproar Wednesday when Sigri Itai'an newspapermen cursed and booed Emperor Haile Selassie as he arose to make a plea for his country. The newspapermen were later expelled from Switzerland after the charges of "creating a scandal" were preferred by Swiss police.)

Police thought Lux was deranged. Before his dramatic attempt he sent an envelope to the secretariat of the League of Nations, containing a number of letters. One of them was reported to be addressed to King Edward.

The delegates returned to their seats and the translation of Senor Barcia's discourse, in which he reaffirmed Spain's faith in the League, was resumed.

Lux was a representative of the Praha Press in Geneva. He was given first aid by Dr. Weber Bauler, of the League medical staff, in a room next to the council hall, and then taken to a clinic. He was expected to live.

FULL GROWN DEER SEEN NEAR BRANTFORD

Brantford, Ont., July 3—(CP)—A full grown deer was seen today on the farm of John Phillips on Rest Road, four miles from the city. The farmer watched the deer grazing in a field of oats 100 yards from his barn. There is no bush or woods within distance of the farm, where the deer had apparently wandered quite far from its usual haunts.

About an hour later George Theobalds, superintendent of St. Joseph's Roman Catholic cemetery, about three miles closer to the city, reported seeing a fawn on the cemetery premises, near St. Paul Avenue. The fawn left in the general direction of Paris when Mr. Theobalds appeared on the scene.

BICYCLIST CUT ABOUT HIS HEAD

In Collision His Head Passes Through Windshield

Trenton, July ——(Special)—William James Scott, 30 years old and deaf was severely injured at Trenton about twelve o'clock Thursday night, when his bicycle which he was riding collided with the fender of a motor car which was approaching him and driven by Mr. Robert Seabrooks of Sydney Street, Trenton. Scott was thrown against the windshield of the car with such force that his head went through the glass, resulting in severe injuries to his face and head. The injured man was taken to the office of Dr. J. W. Farley and after receiving first aid he was conveyed to the Belleville General Hospital and Dr. R. L. Gibson was called in attendance. The cuts the man sustained are very deep and he lost considerable blood. His condition today is reported as being favorable.

Scott has been living with Mr. D. F. Cameron, R. R. 3, Belleville, and came to Trenton Thursday afternoon. The accident occurred at the corner of Sidney and Praa'ts Streets.

The accident was investigated by the Trenton police.

CONVERSE ACROSS BROAD ATLANTIC

Rev. C. T. Lewis of Belleville Speaks to Sister-in-law at Canterbury, Eng.

Yesterday afternoon at 5.30 o'clock the Rev. C. T. Lewis talked to Mrs. Bevan, his sister-in-law, living near Canterbury, England, from the telephone at 153 Dundas Street. The conversation was distinctly heard both here and in England.

An interesting feature in connection with this trans-Atlantic talk from here is that Mrs. Wood was an occasional visitor to Belleville when she spent a year in Tweed with Mrs. Lewis, her sister, at the Rectory. Having known the Arbuckle family in Tweed, Mrs. Wood said a few words to Mrs. Arbuckle and Miss Bernice. They heard each other distinctly.

PRICE OF WHEAT SURGES UPWARD TO HIGHER LEVELS

Relaxation of Trading Rules Permits Closing Rally

JULY FUTURES 87 1-2

Increase in Price Also Seen on Chicago Board

Winnipeg, July 3 (CP) — Under pressure of renewed demand, quotations for Canada's wheat surged to higher levels in a last-minute rush for acceptance on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange today.

Relaxation of trading rules extending daily price fluctuations under which the market operates from three to five cents permitted wheat to soar in a closing rally to finish 4¼ to 3¾ cents a bushel higher.

The July option, which closed up 8⅞ cents when the gong signalled the closing, October and December quoted at 86⅝ and December at 87⅝.

Chicago, July 3 (AP)—Responding to late jumps of nearly five cents a bushel in Winnipeg wheat quotations, Chicago wheat prices rallied more than 3¼ cents today from preceding set-backs. The upturn in Chicago, however, failed to hold.

Reports of seriously increasing need of rains to relieve drought dangers in the spring wheat area, largely responsible for reversal of bulging prices Friday, were confirmed concerning Canadian forecasts pointing to hot weather perio.

Roosevelt Visits Quebec July 31

Quebec, July 3—(CP)— President Roosevelt will visit the Governor General here on July 31 it was officially announced today.

Formal announcement of Mr. Roosevelt's forthcoming visit, in brief, it said:

"The President of the United States of America will spend the day of July 31 at Quebec as the guest of the Governor General of Canada.

"Further details will be announced later."

METEOR IS SEEN IN SOUTHERN SKY

Marmora People Describe it as Both White And Red

Marmora, July 3.—(Special)—Several people in this district witnessed the falling of a meteor in the southern sky at 10.30 p.m. E.S.T. last Thursday. At first it looked like a ball of fire, which appeared to be as hot. As one extremity of the white ball, could be seen what looked like a section of a red ball attached. After giving forth sparks for a few moments its irradiance ceased but continued to fall to the earth it again had sky-rocket actions.

STRIKERS REFUSE TO MILK CATTLE

When Horses Are Used Gendarmes Visit Vineyard District

Paris, July 3 (AP)—Striking, fighting farmers who refused to milk their cows and tend vineyards gendarmes to the rural vineyard district near Lake Geneva.

A new strike in the dressmaking industry in Paris broke out in the Latin Quarter today as the walkout stress occupied the establishment.

A similar strike of wrapping clerks, elevator operators and other employees at the Molyneux Dress House was settled.

Rain and Gov't Program Cheer People of Drought Area

Precipitation is Forecast For Parched Upper Mississippi

DAKOTAS ARE DRY

Duluth, Minn., July 3 (AP)—Relief in the form of rain and a three-fold program of government-financed relief for stricken areas of the Upper Mississippi valley.

Showers fell in southern states and in the Dakota lakes region, but many cases they meant the difference between a fair crop and none at all.

Precipitation was forecast for the parched upper Mississippi valley. But there was no moisture to soften the hard-baking prairies of Minnesota and the Dakotas—focal points in a widespread $250,000,000 drought.

Secretary of Agriculture Wallace authorized federal purchase and processing of up to 1,000,000 head of distressed cattle in north central states.

Even as he took the action here yesterday, livestock was being shipped from sun scored pastures in the northwest by the trainload. The movement is expected to exceed that of disastrous 1934.

At Washington, officials indicated $5,000,000 would be used in removing cattle burned out of pastures by the joint undertaking by the A.A.A. and the Federal Surplus Commodities Corporation. Most of the meat will be donated to state relief agencies for distribution. But the more extensive buying would not be necessary if periodical rains occur in the next fortnight.

Works progress administrators in Minnesota, Dakotas, Montana and Wyoming completed plans for construction of farm-to-market roads and water conserving dams. They hoped to put the first unemployment of an army of 50,000 crossfarmers to work in several days.

In Washington, President Roosevelt's special drought committee shaped a general assistance program. Reports to the president were expected soon. Included 150,000 farm families would need aid.

REFORM LEAGUE PLEA IS URGED BY YVON DELBOS

France Plans to Establish New Treaties and Support Pacts

COVENANT TO STAND

Baldwin Mentions Three Points in Britain's Relations

Geneva, July 3 (AP) — France called today for a reinforced system of regional pacts, supervised by the League of Nations to guarantee world peace by military force.

Yvon Delbos, French Foreign Minister, urged before the assembly of the League a sweeping reformation of the international peace body by which aggressors would suffer swift armed resistance.

Delbos announced France planned to establish new treaties and to strengthen existing pacts.

He advocated immediate action by the League covenant of the requirement that Article 16 of that a unanimous vote of the council is necessary before measures to safeguard peace. However, he said, the fundamentals of the covenant should not be changed.

Peace Only By Collaboration.

London, July 3 (CP)—Three points in Great Britain's relations with the continent at Europe were mentioned as new today by Prime Minister Baldwin.

Mr. Baldwin said in a speech to the London Conservative Association last night that the British government will work for close collaboration between the League and Germany, without which "no peace in Europe is possible."

He said at the September meeting of the League of Nations Assembly Britain will try "to get some form of securing peace by collective security."

He said the government still believes that sooner or later it may be possible once again to discuss reduction of armaments.

The Prime Minister in the speech denied rumors he was ill. Answering questions in the House concerning rearming, he said: "I will retire when I think fit."

MOTORCYCLIST HURT IN CRASH

Harold Brown of Cannifton Road Taken to Hospital

Harold Brown, 107 Cannifton Rd, sustained painful injuries when thrown to the pavement after the motorcycle on which he was riding collided with an automobile driven by Lorne Hagerman, of Cannifton, at the intersection of College Street and Cannifton Road shortly before 8.00 p.m. last evening. Young Brown was removed to the Belleville General Hospital in Mr. Cameron's ambulance after being examined by Dr. W. Donnelly. He is suffering from injuries to his right leg, ankle, chest and lacerations about the face, police stated today.

CAR ROLLS OVER, NO ONE INJURED

Foxboro Road Scene of Accident on Tuesday Night

An automobile driven by Abraham Cumsolus, Belleville, collided with a motor car driven by Mrs. Thos. Cousins, Deloro, on highway No. 2 about three miles north of Belleville, last night. The Cumsolus-driven vehicle turned over in the ditch. After driving the car out of Mr. Cousins' car, Motorcycle Patrolman W. H. Foster investigated. A charge of reckless driving was laid against Cumsolus, the investigating officer added.

SAILOR IS SENT TO REFORMATORY

Harry Hansel Hyson, Digby N.S., sailor, was sentenced to serve three months determinate, with a further indeterminate sentence of one year to follow, when he appeared before Magistrate R. J. Butler, K.C., in local police court today.

Hyson was charged with the theft of the clothing from a fellow sailor in Belleville recently. The overcoat was recovered, but no resolution of the suit of clothes was made. The clothes were the property of Reginald Humphries, Coleman Street. Hyson contended he was intoxicated when he committed the offence, and did not remember where he had disposed of the suit of clothes, that is still missing. Chief Kidd produced Hyson's previous criminal record, which proved to be a lengthy one. Hyson "thanked" the court for the sentence allowed. Humphries informed the court he would like to get his suit returned if possible.

A man given his name as Frederick King, brandished who war arrested one week ago on a charge of the theft of a bicycle, pleaded guilty before Magistrate Butler today. King, who under several aliases has previously been convicted of petty charges in other courts throughout the Dominion, was given three months definite in the Ontario reformatory with a further indeterminate sentence of one year in the same institution. Chief Kidd also produced King's record, as supplied by the Bureau of Investigation, Ottawa.

Fourteen citizens, who admitted they had been either delinquent in the matter of procuring their dog licenses for the current year, were fined one dollar and costs when they purchase a license for their canines within the week.

A number of minor charges, laid under the Liquor Control Act, were disposed of, including a charge of driving a motor car while intoxicated laid against Fred Maynes of Londale. The accused man readily admitted the charge and the automatic term of seven days in jail was handed down by Sir Wenshu. Due to the absence from the city of J. C. Donnan, K.C., local Crown Attorney, a number of other cases were adjourned.

BUSH FAMILY REUNION

Mr. and Mrs. Alex. Bush were host and hostess to the family at the late Mr. and Mrs. William Bush at Oak Lake in the form of a picnic on July 1st. Forty-six attended including a few friends. Tables were set outside in the grove and all shared in the variety of the eats. The tables were heavily loaded with many good things. The children of the parents were all present, except George W. and family of Wyandotte and Robert, who had passed on in 1924. Those who took part in the enjoyable day were:

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Bush, Olive and Muriel and Alex. Norwood, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Bush and Bobbie; Mr. and Mrs. Will Bush, Kingston and friends; Mr. and Mrs. Jared Hanna, Ila and Jean; Mrs. M. E. Vandervoort; Mr. and Mrs. Alex. Bush, Adelina and Marjorie; Mr. and Mrs. Hessman, Evelyn and Eleanor Bush; Mr. and Mrs. Rose Bush, Keithe, Harold and Gerald; Mr. and Mrs. Roy Bush and Jack and Glenn; Mr. and Mrs. Percy Usman, Dorothy and Ralph; Mr. and Mrs. Jack Cain; Misses J. and R. Nicolson.

Those who were absent were remembered as cards were received from them, while those who had passed on were not forgotten.

Games were indulged in during the afternoon and those present enjoyed another happy reunion of the Bush family.

LAUNCH BURNED AFTER MIDNIGHT

View Held Intruder Was Preparing to Take Gasoline

Fired by accident when it is believed someone was attempting to steal gasoline from the tank of a motorboat belonging to Ernest Rosebush of St. Paul Street, the craft burned almost to the water's edge after one o'clock this morning. It is thought that an intruder who had taken a punt from the dock area and tied it to the motor launch moored at the dock, jumped into the water and swam ashore, either to the park and then to the slip off St. Paul Street, and Queen made his escape.

Police Constable Arnold who has been investigating an alarm on the west side of the city, reported a garden prowler who was however not to be found, saw a punt down from Street near the city hall when he saw signs of fire in the harbor, steam of which he was under the approach to the railway bridge. Proceeding south he informed the fire department. Constable Arnold went to the park and the firemen, including Chief Lynch went down Front Street where they secured a boat at the slip and rowed over to the burning craft to investigate whether any one someone might have been burned and might be lying in the motorboat, observed in the punt which was attached to the rope of the launch. Approach to the fire revealed that no one was in the boats.

After the fire subsided some of Mr. Rosebush found a partly decayed cigarette in the punt and in the prow of the boat near the gasoline tank. The fact that a tap cap was found loosened and the screen removed in two sections, confirms police in belief that the fire was started as some intruder needed to take gasoline used a cigarette lighter to see, what he was doing in the dark.

The punt had worked loose from the launch and was taken back to the east side of the harbor.

Today boys were grappling in the vicinity of the fire in hope they could locate a small gasoline can which it is thought was to be used to carry away the liquid.

The launch was out yesterday but was returned to the boat house right o'clock and there was no reason why fire should have been at all started.

There was no insurance on the craft.

Boat Used in Fishing

Evidently the boat had been burning perhaps twenty minutes by the time Constable Arnott gave the alarm at one o'clock. Constable Mrs. Blackburn of St. Paul street told the officer she had seen signs of the fire for some time.

The constable made a thorough search of the boat and craft but no anyone were in hiding, but no trace was found though the buildings were searched. "If anyone had been taking gasoline he would have had plenty of time if he swam to the park to make his escape," the constable commented. If the man went to the other side his escape would have been easy.

The constable raised the question of possible burns if anyone was on the boat when the fire started.

H. Rosebush, 18-year-old son of Eugene Rosebush, owner of the boat burned, stated that gasoline had been stolen on previous occasions.

He acted as guide for fishing parties, he said, while in the autumn they used the boat for fish with nets. The craft had been recently overhauled, scraped and painted and was valued at $100.

D. E. CLARK TAKEN CRITICALLY ILL

Final intimation of the stroke occurred when a lighted cigarette fell from Clark's mouth while seated at a table. Mrs. Clark rushed to the stricken man and caught him as he was toppling to the floor.

Clark, who is an ex-member of Station No. 2, Belleville Fire Department, with which he served for 19 years, suffered a severe accident in 1927, when he fell from a fire ladder while in the performance of his duty. Injuries sustained at this accident, and ensuing complications forced him to retire from active duty eighteen months ago, according to Mrs. Clark.

CONSTRUCTION SWINGS AHEAD

MacLeans Reports Ltd. Show $18,521,400 Contracts In June

A decided increase is shown in the value of contracts awarded for the month of June as well as in the contemplated work reported for the month by MacLeans Building Reports Ltd., for all contracts awarded show a total of $20,902,600 as compared with $14,962,800 for May and $18,521,400 for June 1935. Ontario contributed to $8,951,000; New Brunswick, $4,321,700; Quebec, $3,540,400; Manitoba, $893,300; British Columbia, $893,300; Nova Scotia, $633,7000; Alberta $540,000, Saskatchewan $40,000; Prince Edward Island $42,900.

The first six months of 1936 give a total of $77,708,900 as compared with $75,594,500 for the same period of 1935, an increase of 2.8 per cent but it must be kept in mind that last year was the first full volume of governmental work which is absent this year.

Contemplated new construction for June announced to $24,239,700 as compared with $20,337,400 for May and $17,311,000 for June 1935 while the total for the year to date is $148,425,800 as against $131,626,100 for the same period of 1935. This is an increase of 11.3 per cent.

The City of Toronto so far this year, is ahead of Montreal with a total of $10,767,100, as against $6,396,600 for the latter for the first six months of the year.

Farewell Service By Rev. Rowland

Three Congregations Unite at St. Paul's Church

Three Congregations Unite For Farewell Service

The members of St. John's Anglican Church and Methodist and Presbyterian congregations of the organization of St. Paul's United Church on Sunday evening when Rev. R.W. Rowland preached his farewell sermon in the community before departing to take up his pastorate at Peterboro. Rev. A. S. McConnell of St. John's and Rev. J. A. Kolland of St. Andrew's were in the pulpit and assisted with the impressive service which filled the church. Special music rendered by the choir under the direction of Mr. O. L. Ghole, Musical Director of St. Paul's Church assisted by Miss Grace Pitman at the organ and Mrs. Moore at the piano added interest to the special service. Rev. A. S. McConnell and Rev. J. A. Kolland each addressed the gathering briefly in word of praise to the splendid record of Mr. Rowland during his stay in Stirling. Mr. Rowland in his farewell and interesting message spoke of the splendid display of good fellowship with the three congregations united in one service, bearing out the words of the 133rd Psalm "How good and pleasant all One Body we".

At the recent High School Entrance examinations tried at the Stirling High School there were forty candidates. Those passed on the Principal's report and nineteen passed on the written examinations with the following results:—Marjorie Hagerman, Wilma Wallbridge, Gladys Burkitt, Edith Cranston, Jack Dunham (h), Isobel Dunkley, Leslie Hepburn, William Jennings, Edna Hinds, Alma Johnston, Elwood Kellar, Jessie Wilson, Gertrude Lough, Aileen McIlroy, William Marks (h), Margaret Mitchell (h), Dorothy Montgomery (h), Mildred Morrison, Donald Nix, Mary Prince, Roy Sharp, Olive Shaw, Ruth Shaw (h), Mary Shore, Donald Thompson, Phyllis Weekley, Donald Weaver, Marlorie West, Percy White, Emma Wickens.

To Those Who WALK . . .

May I say a word to you?

WE ALL KNOW that it takes at least two to make an accident—you need never be one such person if you "Try Courtesy" and walk with full regard for the motorist and his problem of driving a ton of machinery.

In previous messages, I have been appealing to motorists to "Try Courtesy", when they drive, for their own sakes as well as for yours. Now I am appealing to you pedestrians to "Try Courtesy" for your own sakes as well as for that of the motorist.

Let us remember that a motor car is a big heavy piece of moving machinery weighing a ton or more and that to stop it or speed it up instantly is seldom possible. You, on the other hand, as a pedestrian, can stop or move more quickly on the instant.

So when you are walking on the same thoroughfare as the car on which the motorist is driving, "Try Courtesy".

Cross the streets with the green signal or if there is none, cross at a reasonably smart walk.

Refrain from jay-walking for this reason: motorists drive their cars according to what they expect the traffic immediately around them to do. And they don't expect pedestrians to go jay-walking. Cross at the crossings,where the motorists expect you to cross and for which the motorist makes allowances by slowing down.

When walking at night where there is no sidewalk, carry a flashlight or wear a light garment which, the headlights of the motorist car will "pick up".

Courtesy on foot as well as courtesy at the wheel is the mark of a true gentleman. I appeal to you to "Try Courtesy" and set a good example which will make our city streets and country highways safer for everyone.

Sincerely yours,

S. B. W. Musser

Harold, Ontario,
June 25th, 1936.

Dear Miss Cook,

We, your pupils and friends of the section have learned with regret that you have severed your connection with our school.

For two years you have successfully assisted in school activities and have been very willing to help us along in any way you could.

Your gentleness and patience will always be remembered and you have the good will of all.

Dear teacher, we shall never forget the lessons you have taught.

We trust for you to be more perfect with the work your hands have wrought.

And may they bring good gifts to you Dear, you are worthy, they fly.

And may you kindly think of those.

We ask you to accept our little gift and may it be a constant reminder of the boys and girls of S.S. No. 17.

Even his wild land could not ward off the impossible pressure of modern instruments of human destruction. He has come to state his case to the court of the world which he and his great enemy both promised solemnly to obey. Through the disobedience of Italy, Selassie is just a visitor in little Switzerland, which has even given him only time to state his appeal and then depart."

The League of Nations is the only justice he can find—though he looks upon it differently since its sanctions did him little help. But he has more faith in humanity than his powerful enemy, who trusts in armament and the force of bayonet and shell and plane. Hailie Selassie trusts in men to redeem his native land and his ancestral land, which was ancestral long before there was an Italy.

The action of the half dozen Italian newspapermen at Geneva in creating a disturbance was cowardly. Not even to show a dethroned robbed monarch a little respect even of silence when he rose to plead his case in the very court by which Italy claims to abide! Switzerland is honored in her firmness in the expulsion from the Canton of these men, who did no honor to the pen.

Selassie of course knows that in the final court he is justified. Conquerors may come and go. Ethiopia may have been torn asunder and her people turned from their course of life and civilization which they had a right to follow unless they were proven a menace to other lands, but that does not prove Selassie was wrong in his defence. He knows that he is justified by time, that "God and history will remember."

He cannot forget that one nation flouted over half a hundred of others, that it did what it did, the world seems to have little doubt, for aggression's sake.

It may be that with sanctions out of the way Italy will find she has a harder thing to do than to win by slaughter of the Ethiopians—to win the confidence of the nations. When other nations' representatives say, there will always be doubt of Italy's word, because not only of Italy's word in the past but also because of her actions which have spoken louder than any words.

IN NEW JOBS

There has been much said against the works project camps and there have been men among the residents of some of these camps who have praised them. But the fact is clear that the camps are gone. This probably means one of the phases of the depression has passed. If it is so, people of cities and towns supporting large relief lists hope that the phase in which they now find themselves will also shortly pass, for relief burdens seem beyond bearing.

That was a justification for the camps, is claimed by the Minister of Labor. They served a purpose even if they were subject of bitter attack under other governments and the trekkers who passed through here to wait upon the Federal Government.

They are gone and it is to be hoped that camp residents will find no further need of relief camps. Much of the work being done by them now will terminate. So it is necessary that there be other jobs when these jobs are finished. What the future has in store, one cannot know. There seems an optimistic feeling abroad that still better days are ahead. Such should be for those in still a large portion of the population without work.

The workless who were taken to these camps sincerely must hope for better things. Life has pressed heavily on them and yet Canada has had no disorders to face, no doubt because so much was done for the workless. The whole course of their lives has been changed, hopes of marriage and establishment in life have been deferred at least if no altogether abandoned. Out of the troubles of these years some may profit but to most of these men the years will no doubt leave a sense of hopelessness, which may be difficult to overcome. That they have gone to new jobs in the spirit of hope is the best sign. That these men will find their way more favorable is the wish of all, and it may surprise some how soon these men will find their place in the economic order again.

The month of July and the first week of August will be a banner time in the annals of Canada. Thousands of Canadian ex-servicemen and their families travelling the mighty deep to France to meet again in familiar French scenes with war's defacements in part wiped away, to stand before the memorial of the dead, dedicated by His Majesty King Edward Eighth to the ways of peace, to travel to England and be guests of the King at a garden party in the grounds of Buckingham Palace, to find their hearts strangely stirred by a sentiment which will embrace the whole empire.

IN NEW ENGLAND

A friendly town, with tall old elms that meet
Above your head, their living tapestries,
Now green, now gold, guarding the village street
With that grave dignity you find in trees
Greatly beloved and planted long ago:
Now weary people linger in their shade
And old men walk serenely, unafraid
Of April rain or Autumn wind or snow.
Since weather is the friend of these old towns
As natural as wood smoke; all the year
Some sort of beauty lingers. Women's gowns
Spark with warm colour landscapes gray and sere,
While, in the Summer, gardens wildly gay
Tell what New England folk could never say.

WRECKED ON BRIDGE STREET

Holiday experiences are not all pickles and prunes, for the element of accident creeps in occasionally and scrambles plans in a most disconcerting fashion. This element of uncertainty was brought home forcibly to a Toronto family who, started off Dominion Day for an extended holiday in the great Open Spaces, completely equipped with tents, blankets, beds, chairs, folding tables and everything necessary for a week of pleasure in the open air, camping where they thought fit. A home-made trailer packed to the roof, held the duffle, and hitched behind the family automobile, while husband, wife, little son and mother-in-law, eager for the outing turned their faces eastward and stepped on the gas. Entering Belleville all was well until the lower bridge was crossed when the wooden tongue of the home-made trailer, connected with the automobile broke and the trailer took a somersault, spilling bedding, beds, blankets, chairs, etc. all over Bridge Street. A crowd soon collected and traffic was held up for a time until police arrived when the wreckage of the Hesperus was removed to the Ambulance Service Station, close by, where the proprietors, "Bouncer" and "Toots" Holway extended every hospitality to the visitors. The trailer was sent back to Toronto in a motor truck after the conference of blankets, etc., to the automobile and the plans altered to include sleeping at tourist cabins.

"US GALS MUST STICK TOGETHER"

DOWN IN WEST VIRGINIA IS A NEWSPAPER, THE WHEELING INTELLIGENCER, a daily newspaper published in the city of Wheeling in that Mountain State. The Wheeling Intelligencer has a fellow feeling for the Belleville Ontario Intelligencer because there are very few intelligencers in the world and "us gals must stick together." When Belleville was hit by the raging waters of the Moira, when the floods came and the winds blew and the house that was not built upon a rock was apt to be found in the next concession the Wheeling Intelligencer folks wondered how the Belleville Ontario Intelligencer was weathering the storm. Radio and newspaperdom soon told the folks down south that the staff of this great family journal was carrying on, though under difficulties, no heat, no power, and plenty wet feet—but the show must go on and the paper was edited and composed and made up and mats made and the mats carried fifty miles away to a friendly neighbor, the Kingston Whig Standard, where the edition was printed and returned to Belleville by motor car for delivery. All this the Wheeling Intelligencer learned with great sympathy for its Canadian namesake. Then the Ohio rose in its might and smote the Wheeling Intelligencer and they experienced some of the tribulations which we had passed through. In fact the ramping, raging Ohio put the Wheeling plant entirely out of business for a while and it had to be put together and printed elsewhere. All of which is a prelude to the announcement that the Ontario Intelligencer had a visitor this week, a very welcome visitor, viz: Stuart H. Cant, advertising manager of the Wheeling Intelligencer who brought greetings and good fellowship from the newspapermen of the Sunny South. Stuart was on his way to Kingston with his family, to visit an old home friend, Harry Muir, Managing Director of the Kingston Standard, and then proceed to Ottawa so that his U. S. wife and two daughters could see the Canadian capital and the magnificent House of Parliament. Stuart first visited in Canada but has been newspapering in the United States for some years and making good in a Big Way.

50 YEARS AGO

July 3rd, 1886.

The 15th. Battalion entertained the 45th. Battalion Princess of Wales Own Rifles here on Dominion Day. The visitors came to the city on the Grand Trunk Railways and were met at the dock by the 15th. Battalion. The two battalions were brigaded and marched up Front Street to Hotel Quinte and along Hotel street to Pinnacle street where a halt was made to allow the men of the 14th. time to leave their knapsacks at the drill shed. The march was then resumed and proceeded to the cricket field where the ceremony of presenting medals to the men who served in the North-west Rebellion took place. Upon reaching the field the brigade formed a hollow square in the centre of which was a platform. A carriage containing Mrs. G. B. Lazier, Mrs. J. Lyons Biggar, Adjutant T. C. Lazier and Paymaster J. Lyons Biggar soon arrived. The ladies were escorted to the platform where they were joined by Mrs. J. W. Dunnell, Mrs. McAnsany, Mrs. Corbett, Mrs. E. Smart, Mrs. W. R. Pooley, Mrs. John Hallwell, Miss Hallwell and the Misses John Hallwell. No. 5 Company under command of Capt. John Bart Hallwell, who led the Regimental Medical Battalion, in the charge at Batoche which won the day, was marched to the front. This company contained the men who were to receive medals for their North West service. Col. Lazier addressed the men. Sergt. Alex Scott read the roll of those to receive medals. As the men were called they stepped forward and Mrs. Lazier pinned the silver medal upon the left breast of each man. Many of the men were received with warm applause; especially the Hallwell brothers and Corp. S. M. Daly who was wounded during the third day's fight at Batoche. The following received medals: Capt. Thomas C. Lazier, Capt. J. Bart Hallwell, Capt. R. A. E. Hallwell, Sergt. Major Alex Roberts, Sergt. Joseph Malden, Sergt. Charles Fitzsimmons, Lance Corporal M. Daly, Corp. George J. Wilson, Corp. William Aris, Privates, Thomas Barlow, James Brodie, Charles F. Burnham, Jeremiah Corcoran, George P. Cox, Benjamin G. Crowe, Thomas Raymond C. Ketri, William Livingstone, William McGuire, William A. Morton, Harry Smart, Soles, Andrew Thompson, Wilson and John Young. Those who served but were not present to receive their medals are: Lieut. Charles Kenny, Barrie; Privates Joseph Belcher, Toronto; Robert W. Baker, Charles W. Brundage, George I. Clark, John R. Fry, William H. Gordon, Riley Harris, Campbell Hastings, William Herrington, William O. Kerr, Hugh McCullough, William Mitchell, Jr., Fred. Pitcher, Howard, Burton Palmer, Louis Peterson, Louis Poole and Lewis Wallbridge. Those who have been awarded long service Medals are Corp. J. D. Hamilton and Corp. John Corbett. Sergt. Wrighton, who was wounded in the left shoulder at Batoche died some time ago. At the close of the presentations the battalion marched to the rink where dinner was served to the men. The officers of the 15th. entertained the officers of the 14th. at luncheon at the Quinte Hotel during the day and also at a sumptuous dinner at the same place in the evening.

Little Benny's Note Book

After supper ma said to pop, O, Henery Wilbyun, you are a letter for you, it seems to be an official looking document without even any stamp on the envelope I shouldn't be surprised if it was from the income tax people, she said

Yes gosh, I was afraid of that, let's have a look at it, pop said.

And ma gave it to him and he said, That's who it's from, all rite. Horse blanket to blazes, what are we coming to, anyway? Is this a free country or are we a nation of slaves who cant call our sole our own, not to speak of our poor little bank rolls?

But Willyum, I thawt you'd attended to your income tax, ma said, and pop said, Well, the return was filled out and sent in.

Then it's all fixed up and settled, ma said, and pop said, O yes, in an optimist's eye it is. It was all quite clear and straightforward and simple to satisfy the average citizen, but our beloved government has to go and doubt everything from your figures to your intentions, and the result is rather than built my head against a stone wall I'll properly fork over an additional 10 dollers or so. If we're not living under a dictatorship we're putting up a pritty good imitation, he said.

But Willyum you haven't even opened it yet, so here do you open it, ma said, and pop said, How do you know when you've got a tooth aku

And he opened it and read it on the side, saying, Yes gods they claim I overpaid them and they're sending me a check for 13 dollers and 47 cents. Well, that's what I call square shooting, and my fellow citizens aren't so bad, in spite of all the squawking and complaining you hear from illwishers who seem to think they are a race apart. By jing here instead of coming across with their just share of the national expenses, he said, and he said, What a grate big broad minded man, bee bee.

Haw haw, pop said.

Meening what was the joke.

WORKERS' ACCIDENTS INCREASED IN MAY

Toronto, July 3.— There were 3,334 accidents reported to the Workmen's Compensation Board during May, the highest total for over the month of May, and 1,009 more than the number reported during June a year ago.

The benefits awarded during June amounted to $443,401.62 of which $363,626.48 was for compensation and $79,775.14 for medical aid.

This brings the total benefits awarded during the half year ending June 30 to $2,758,211.99, as compared with $2,784,876.91 during the corresponding period of 1935.

The fatal accidents for the six months' period were: 1936, 152; 1935, 130.

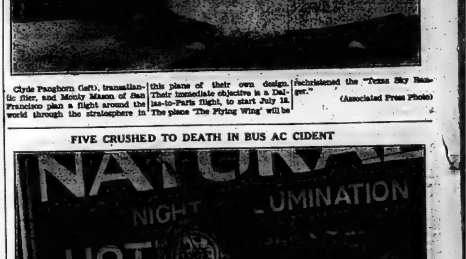
Richthofen Shot Down By Artillery Says Mother

Montreal, July 3.—Baroness Kniegunde von Richthofen, who claims her German war ace son was shot down from the ground and not by a Canadian flier, said yesterday that "persons who shot him" told her about it.

Baroness Von Richthofen is English and Australian artillery that finally brought him to earth after he had brought down more than eighty Allied planes.

"Persons who shot him wrote to me," the elderly Baroness said, as she reached here on her first Canadian visit. "They told me," she continued, "that he came over a Canadian battery, flying very low. On the other side of the ridge were Australian and English batteries and they shot him as he came over the ridge."

Capt. A. Roy Brown, according to records shot the Red Knight out of the skies as Richthofen pursued another victim. He crashed in flames on the tail of May's airplane for a killing when Captain Brown wriggled down on him from behind, catching the German ace off guard.



MAY CIRCLE GLOBE THROUGH STRATOSPHERE

DEAD FLIES SENT FOR TOAD

Hazel Irene Pollock of Briceville, Tenn., had read a news story about the Mayor getting a horned toad from Texas and wondered where he would find flies to feed it. That was early in the spring before the flies were awake here. Mayor Lewis said he appreciated Miss Pollock's kindness, but politely cut the toad story short.

31 DIE IN FLOODS

San Antonio, Tex., July 3.—Disastrous floods, devastating in their swiftness, poured new destruction into deep South Texas, leaving twenty-three known dead, many missing and steadily increasing property damages over a widening area.

Rivers and streams overflowed their banks, inundating sections appealed for aid over crippled communication lines. Downstream, towns braced for flood crests swelled by fresh rains. Hundreds of thousands of fertile farm acres lay stripped of corn and cotton crops.

His Worship Mayor Harry Ellis extended the city's welcome to the visitors and hoped that the U.E.L. monument standing at the entrance to the park near the scene of the pioneer settlement in Belleville would be an inspiration for future gatherings here. The following officers were elected to head the visitors and tourists.

W. G. Herrington, guest speaker and the family was the unit of the nation and family unions were approved and the following officers sworn by the Bible.

A chapter in the Treaty of Paris which provided for the separation of the 13 colonies of the United States from Great Britain, established the rights of the early Loyalists to the lands "they had never been given to the Loyalists and have a value now of over 20 billions of dollars. One of the most pioneer families of Canada had been established and developed that might have recovered these lands. When the Loyalists had been certain to pay the debt of the late war they should remember that they have turned over to the heirs of the Loyalists recognized by the Treaty of peace in 1783. It should also be remembered that the Treaty provided only for the separation of the 13th colonies. The territory included in the States of Michigan, Illinois, Iowa, Ohio and Indiana was claimed to belonged to the British colony of Quebec, and did not include any part of the 13th colony. Never ever ceded to the United States and Britain should have compensated the Loyalist territories, the value of which would run into several billions of dollars.

Motions were passed thanking the Parks Board and the City Council for the generous attention given the reunion.

Trial Over Accident

George S. Bonter, Ameliasburg farmer, who has been out on $1,000.00 bail since the 28th day of May appeared here for trial yesterday morning on a charge charged with criminal negligence when he, with his car, Gordon Austin Nokes, of Ameliasburg was killed in collision who was working in ten acres of potatoes on Dunning's farm at 4.00 p.m. on the 26th instant, drag-ging a cultivator a distance of over fifty feet with the front tire of his Nokes suffered from shock and severe injuries from which he died. Bonter was a patient in Belleville General hospital for one week after school attance. The accused submitted no evidence to the case and let the Magistrate's sentence on the evidence of the Crown.

Evidence for the Crown was that Nokes was still suffering from the shock and had been unable for the 300 feet to see the men on the road while approaching them in the north-erly direction. The visibility was clear and no obstruction marred the view of the working men. P. C. Clapp Nokes, fellow workman, testified he was in the hide with Nokes with him and when he heard the car approaching he jumped and pulled but it was too late.

Traffic Officer Bert Delaney, the officer who investigated told the court that Bonter had a very defective braking system. "His foot brake stopped his car in 70 feet and his emergency at 135 feet", stated the officer. "These tests were made at 20 miles an hour and according to the Traffic Act the foot brake ought to stop a car within fifty feet and the emergency within 75 feet while doing 20 miles an hour," added the officer. The accused's attorney F. Ward, of Picton, certner claimed against the fact that although the workmen had their harrier and flags on the job they did not let them. So indicative the dangerous zone. "Supposing a little child had been in the road it would have been the same result, Your Worship," was the Crown's answer against the barrier plea. A little child has nothing to do with this case retorted the accused's lawyer. As the case took time to reason out Magistrate H. J. Butler K.C., adjourned that he could have until Thursday, July 2nd 2.30 p.m. give judgment. Crown Attorney B. G. Denison, K.C., acted on behalf of the Crown.

Mathew Porrin appeared on a charge of vagrancy and was ordered out of town. Porrin appeared in Belleville court a few days ago on a similar charge and was given one half hour to get beyond the city limits.

A local man was assessed $11.50 for reckless driving while in Belleville on Monday last. He was also told that during next year's school he must keep his children in school or suffer the full extent of the penalty. He was given until July 15th to pay his fine. On default he will spend 15 days in Hastings County Jail.

An eighteen year old domestic appeared on a charge of theft and as she made restitution was dealt with lightly. The Magistrate imposed a suspended sentence for one year on her.

A farm boy paid $11.25 for operating a motorcycle without a permit and had a strong charge of operating his machine without 1936 markers remanded until called upon.

FOURTH THURLOW

4th Thurlow — Summer vacation has again rolled around for school age children. Friday afternoon at No. 11 was the scene of a happy little party, given the pupils, by their teacher, Miss Helen Jones. Following several enjoyable games, Miss Jones treated the children to ice cream, strawberries, orange pops and fancy cakes, also during the afternoon, the pupils were presented with booklet souvenirs and an enhanced certificate was presented to Donald Leslie, Miss Jones' only entrance pupil.

Immediately after the teacher made her pupils farewell, each pupil was formed and completely surprised her by presenting gifts as tokenmonies of happy associations in the past.

Miss Dianne Martin read the following address:

"Dear Miss Jones,—

We will have to close to the close of another term we ask you to accept these remembrances, from each of us, your pupils. During the three years you have spent with us, you have been most kind and loving, and always interested in our welfare.

"We trust your life will be full of memories of the three years spent here with your pupils of S. S. No. 11 Thurlow.

"Signed—Marjorie Latta, Clem Treverton, Donald Leslie, Arthur Treverton, Donald Martin, Dianne Mayne, Roy Treverton, Maxine Embury, Carman Way, Doris Way and Arthur Berry.

YOUNGSTERS TAUGHT TO "TRY CO URTESY"

"Ladies first" and "give clear signals to the driver behind" are some of the lessons which these little motorists-of-the-future are learning from Constable S. A. Hillard of the Ontario Motorcycle Patrol force. The Ontario Department of Highways is making a strong plea this Summer to all motorists to "Try Courtesy" in preference to unnecessary cursing in the letter of their legal rights, so young John Kyle has brought his scooter-type roadster to a full stop to allow little Carol Kelly to cross the sidewalk gracefully and safely. In a few years John and Carol will be grown up, the auto will be a real force on the highway instead of a toy on the sidewalk, and Constable Hillard is making sure they will be well versed in the courtesies of motoring which insure safety.

INNER MONGOLIA CEDES AUTONOMY TO JAPAN

PRINCE THE WANG AND HIS BODYGUARD

A new chapter has been inscribed in China's history's pages when 2,500,000 descendants of Genghis Khan became virtual subjects of the empire of Japan. Inner Mongolia, the northern plain of bare hordes of fierce nomads who long ago swept over the known world, under the great Khan, formally proclaimed independence of China, and became a Japanese sponsored state. An autonomous state since 1930, observers believe Mongolia entered the Japanese fold for protection against Sovietized Outer Mongolia. Prince Teh, hereditary ruler of the Mongolian herdsman.

HOW TO MAKE ICED TEA

Infuse "SALADA" Tea in the usual way. Use 1 teaspoonful per cup. Allow 3 minutes. Strain liquid into large container. While hot, add 1½ cups of granulated sugar for each cup of tea used. Stir until sugar is dissolved. Fill container with cold water. Do not allow tea to cool before adding sugar, otherwise liquid will become cloudy. Serve with chipped ice.

Grasier Gan "Common Clay," is the year's romantic thrill "Private Number" with screen's perfect love others. Robert Montgomery, Elizabeth Young, and featuring Ruby Kelly, coming to the Belle tomorrow (Saturday).

If You Can't Have an Electric Refrigerator You Can Still Make Delectable Desserts

Country readers have asked us for some of the ice cream recipes made in the old-fashioned freezer instead of in the electric refrigerator. Here are some directions which may be helpful:

General Rules

Scald and then chill can, cover and dasher of freezer before using. Adjust can in tub, put in the mixture, then the dasher and cover; adjust the crank and pack with finely chopped ice and rock salt; this must be higher around than the mixture is inside. Use three parts of ice to one part of rock salt for freezing, and use four parts ice to one part rock salt for packing afterward. Ice cream must be frozen slowly and steadily; water must not stand in the coffee. Melt the chocolate in a double boiler, add the coffee mixture, cook slowly until smooth, stirring constantly. Cool. Add to the beaten whites of egg and the whipped cream. Freeze.

Caramel Ice Cream

No. 1.—One cup sugar, 2 tablespoons cornstarch or flour, 2 cups scalded milk, 1 egg. Heat 1 cup sugar, melted to a brown liquid, add to custard, 1 teaspoon vanilla.

Make a custard of first four ingredients, as in Vanilla Ice Cream. Then melt one cup sugar slowly and in an iron spider, until it is a brown liquid, and pour it very carefully into the hot custard. Cool, add cream and flavoring, stir and freeze.

No. 2.—¼ lb. maple and chocolate caramels, melted, 1 cup cream, ¼ cup sugar, 1¼ pints cream.

Melt the caramels with ¼ cup of the cream. Add sugar to egg, beat well and stir into the melted candy. Fold in the cream, beaten slightly. Freeze.

Banana Ice Cream

One quart thin cream, scalded, 1¼ cups sugar, 1 cup banana pulp, ¼ cup lemon juice, 1 pint thin cream.

Scald the quart of thin cream, dissolve in this one cup and a half of sugar; when cold add pulp and thin cream unscalded and begin to freeze. When cream is partly frozen more than half frozen, add a cup of ripe banana pulp (measured after being pressed through a sieve) mix with the lemon juice and finish freezing. Let stand an hour to ripen. Serve with banana slices and garnish with pistachio nuts blanched and chopped fine.

Chocolate Bonbon

Two ounces chocolate, ¼ cup boiling water, 1 cup powdered sugar. Stir and cook in double boiler to fine consistency to spread. Spread and serve hot with vanilla ice cream.

Maple Sauce

One pint maple syrup, ¼ cup butter. Boil the syrup and butter until it forms a thread, then when dropping from tip of spoon. Pour while hot over vanilla or lemon ice cream.

Strawberry Sauce

One pint strawberries, ¾ cup sugar, ½ cup water.

Boil sugar and water 10 minutes; when cool and when ready to serve add to the chilled and crushed juice and pulp of berries. For vanilla or lemon ice cream.

DEAF CONVENTION AT O.S.D. IN 1938

Sept. Morrison and Mr. G. F. Stewart Attend Hamilton Meeting

The Ontario Association of the Deaf has just concluded its 33rd Biennial Convention, which met in the Royal Connaught Hotel, Hamilton, and was a most interesting and helpful gathering. Most of the members are graduates of the Ontario School for the Deaf, and many of them are well known to people in Belleville. The sessions throughout were attended by Superintendent W. J. Morrison and Mr. George F. Stewart. Mr. Morrison won the whole-hearted regard and good-will of everyone present by his cordial good-fellowship, and his sympathetic attitude towards the many problems confronting the deaf, and, in his inspiring address he reciprocated the desire expressed by the members for the utmost possible cooperation between the Association and the O.S.D., especially in assisting the deaf to secure suitable employment. The next Convention subject to the approval of the Minister of Education, will be held in 1938 at the Belleville School. The officers elected were Hon. Pelrce, W. J. Morrison, M.A.; Hon. President, Geo. F. Stewart; President, J. T. Shilton, B.A.; Vice President, N. L. Crandow; Secretary, David Pelkoff; Treasurer, H. J. Lloyd; Directors, R. J. McBrien, H. Grooms, and F. E. Harris.

Picton and District

Picton—Almost as many people attended the Prince Edward Yacht Club dance on the evening of July 1st, as had attended the water events in the afternoon. The sailing boat trophies were presented by Commodore E. M. Young, K.C., while F. L. Ware made the awards in the power boat classes. The evening's entertainment was held in Lakeview Pavilion, landbanks. The drawing for the late prize of the evening, a fine mohair, did not take place as scheduled but will be awarded on Saturday evening. The club had the whole holiday programme as a success, that they would like to repeat another year.

Mrs. LeHeup was much feted following her marriage. Her mother Mrs. H. Nicholas entertained for her on Monday evening, at a luncheon party, when the many lovely wedding gifts were much admired.

Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Calnan were host and hostess at a jolly dance, at their home Main Street East, on Friday evening. Dancing was enjoyed by the sixty guests to music furnished by Lorne Bonter's band. Supper was served at midnight, in the lovely garden, decorated gaily with coloured lanterns, after which dancing continued until 1 a.m.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Moore of Toronto, are guests for a few days of Mr. and Mrs. G. M. Hicks.

Mr. Eric McLean of the chemistry department of the Rodak Works, Rochester, N.Y., is a guest for two weeks of his mother, Mrs. F. S. McLean.

Mrs. Walter Thompson continues very seriously ill in the local hospital.

Mr. John Blakely will attend Summer School this Summer.

Mrs. Earl Shanhope and little daughter, Hamilton, are guests of her father Mr. Jack Dayton for two weeks.

Mr. Clayton Gordon and Miss Marion Gordon have accepted positions in Quebec City where they will be joined by their mother, Mrs. Effie Gordon.

On Sunday morning, June 28th., Bishop Ingles administered the rite of Confirmation to a large number of candidates in St. John's Church, Wampole.

Prince Edward County Hospital is the busiest at present that it has been since its establishment with forty-two patients and nine babies this week. The doctors' room is several small rooms devoted to other uses have all had to be used to accommodate this record number of patients.

The inmates of the Old People's Home enjoyed Wednesday's regatta as guests of the club.

The boys' camp, sponsored by the local Kiwanis Club opened at Consecon Lake on Thursday. Many Scouts and Cubs as well as younger boys are enjoying the holiday.

HELEN HAYES DEFENDS SUIT

After a four-year delay, the $100,000 alienation of affection suit brought by Cayol Frink, newspaper woman, against Helen Hayes, of stage and screen, began in Chicago. Miss Hayes, shown with her attorney, was charged with stealing the affections of Charles MacArthur, Miss Frink's former husband and now the husband of Miss Hayes.

What Local Theatre Managers Have to Say About Current Offerings

AT THE CAPITOL

"The Singing Cowboy"

Nearly 300,000 miles in this country alone is the astounding mileage piled up in ten years entertaining by Gene Autry, noted radio and screen singer and musician. His outstanding engagements over 23 radio stations, vaudeville and personal appearances in movie theatres, and country-wide tours with his famous horse "Champion," piled up this mileage for Autry, whose greatest musical western picture to date, Republic's "The Singing Cowboy," comes to the Capitol Theatre Saturday Only.

Seven new Gene Autry songs, and two comedy songs by this popular pal Smiley Burnette, feature the picture, in which Gene organizes a cowboy troupe of radio entertainers, who meet with many mishaps and adventures touring the west with a portable broadcasting equipment in a covered wagon caravan.

Newest musical instrument to be created is the "Jam-ack-o-phone," originated by Smiley Burnette, popular screen cowboy comedian and musician, who offers it as a portable "pipe organ".

More than forty miles of "chases" were run by cowboy riders, covered wagons, and their pursuers in the thrilling gunfights and running battles.

Added Attraction

Operations behind locked doors of a fashionable gambling house are laid bare in William Powell's picture, "Private Detective 62," at the Capitol theatre on Saturday Only. Men and women in evening costumes are disclosed sitting side by side at the gaming tables in beautifully appointed and tastefully decorated rooms. The action in the gambling house leads to the smashing climax of the picture in which an attempt is made to frame a woman who has won too much. Marjorie Rambeau, who has the leading feminine role opposite Powell, is the woman who wins fifty thousand dollars at roulette despite every crooked effort on the part of the gambling house owner.

"Private Number"

What chance has love between a millionaire's son and a personal maid?

That's the romantic question propounded in the Fox hit, "Private Number," opening tomorrow at the Belle Theatre, with Robert Taylor and Loretta Young starred together for the first time as a screen love-team.

Filled with youthful love-making, fast romancing, and vivid drama highlighted with hilarious comedy by the irrepressible Patsy Kelly, "Private Number" is said to rank among the year's outstanding romantic hits.

Robert Taylor, only son of the wealthy Winfield family, returns home from college and meets pretty Loretta Young, his mother's maid for a house guest. He refuses to permit her to explain her situation and this first chance meeting is the keynote of events which culminate days when the family go to Maine for the summer.

Miss Young has accompanied them and spends the small one-fifties of the summer resort result in Taylor and the girl being thrown together steadily. One moonlit night, while riding in Taylor's motorboat, they decide to get married.

The Winfields return to their home as the end of the summer, and Taylor wants to tell his parents of the marriage. Loretta, however, persuades him that he should first finish his college education and Taylor goes off to school.

The household is presided over by the butler, Basil Rathbone, who rules as a virtual dictator. Rathbone is infatuated with Miss Young and is determined to break the bride to his wishes. He is furious when he discovers that she is going to have a baby and revengefully informs Mrs. Whitfield of the situation.

Loretta refuses to admit her husband's name but the marriage is revealed by Patsy Kelly. The Winfield's are astounded at this revelation and Rathbone easily persuades them that Miss Young is just a gold digger.

Taylor returns from college to find his wife gone. In desperation he left the Winfield household and had her baby secretly. She feels certain that Taylor will eventually find her, but Rathbone is not yet finished in his attempt to wreck the two lives. He forges all messages to and from the house and each of the lovers mistakenly feels that the other has ceased to care.

The romantic climax of the film comes in a crowded courtroom where Taylor and Miss Young meet again. And the riddle of whether or not their love can continue to exist is answered.

Grand Junky Treats

A grand array of Junior feature films is exhibited on the same program including "Railbird" a funny all-star comedy, latest News flashes, and a Novelette.

Louis-Schmeling Flicks

The official pictures of the MAX Schmeling-Joe Louis heavyweight fight, probably the biggest ring event since the days of Corbett and Sullivan will be exhibited at the Belle tonight for the last time at 8.40 and 10.30 p.m.

Jammed with laughs, roaring with fun, a riot of romantics in the smart uproarious comedy "And So They Were Married," co-starring Melvyn Douglas and Stanley Ridges is going to be exhibited on the same program and to be presented at 7.30 and 9.30 p.m. Two complete shows will be presented commencing at 7.10 and 9.15.

STROUD BLOCK TO BE MODERNIZED FOR LIPSON STORE

One of Oldest and Stoutest Business Buildings in Belleville—Building Old Papers Found

Improvements to the business section of Belleville continue, including Stroud's block, which general and future of Belleville as a business centre, confidence in the future recently upon the modernizing of the block purchased by John Lipson, owner of Lipson stores which stretch from Pictou to Belleville. The building was purchased from the Stroud Estate by Mr. Lipson some months ago. Contractor Strong of Trenton has the work and is rushed to the workmen are all citizens of Belleville. The plans call for an additional storey to the present three storey building, revealing as are its building soldiers are nowadays.

J. Arnold Thomson, of Belleville, is the architect in charge. The building was erected in 1859 and the walls now uncovered by the contractor are solidly, even massively built, the huge stone and brick walls now uncovered by the contractor revealing as are its building soldiers are nowadays.

Improvements to the most modern of fronts with large display windows substituted and the entire contract is expected to be finished and the store occupied by September 1.

An interesting feature occurred when the great brick vault inbuilt from the first floor to third floor was opened. Vast quantities of old papers were found, mortgages, leases and various documents dating back over half a century and the contents are of considerable note of Belleville who long since have looked for great returning. One receipt dated December 19, 1873, in perfect condition, read:

Another indenture was dated 1846, consideration $7 pounds, three shillings and four pence, conveying a certain tract of land in the township of Thurlow, with Archibald A. Chisholm as party of the first part and Henry Corby as party of the second part.

Another document found in the ancient vault was a commission signed by Lord Aberdeen, dated 29 March, 1897 by His Excellency Sir Edmund Walker Head, Baronet, Governor General of British North America, and Captain General and Governor-in-Chief in and over the Provinces of Canada, Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, and the Island of Prince Edward and Vice Admiral of the same, etc., etc., etc., issued to Ensign John Chisholm, appointing him Lieutenant in the Second Battalion of Hastings Militia. The commission is in good condition, a tribute to the excellent rag paper made and used in the days before wood pulp became paper and rag paper became an oddity.

GLENN MORRIS RANKS WITH BEST OLYMPIC HOPES

Thorpe, Osborn, Bausch Classed Under Morris as Decathlon Man

SPEED OF MORRIS.

Stamina of Automobile Salesman is Called Phenomenal

(By Alan Gould)
(Associated Press Sports Editor)

New York, July 3.—(AP)—Just when it looked as though the United States was running out of "Iron Men," for the Classic Olympic Decathlon, several all individual athletic tests, the Rocky Mountain area has turned up with a record-smasher, all primed to meet the world's best at Berlin this August.

Glenn Morris, 26-year-old former automobile salesman who shattered the world record with a mark of 7,900 points in the final Olympic tryouts at Milwaukee last Saturday, takes rank with the most phenomenal athletes ever developed by this country for all-around competition.

The list starts with Jim Thorpe, the great Indian, and includes Harold Osborn and Jack Bausch, the 1932 Olympic Champion, but comparison with Thorpe, Osborn, on the basis of his latest performance, is the greatest Decathlon man yet produced.

Bausch has retired and Hans Stewart, the German star whose record was beaten by Morris, probably will be out of the Olympics, due to injuries.

"Morris combines extraordinary speed with the endurance and stamina so essential to sustaining a high average of performance in the 10-event test," said Daniel J. Ferris, veteran track authority and National Secretary of the Amateur Athletic Union.

"He has great speed and agility but was weak in some field events. Bausch capitalized ability in the weight events and the pole vault to achieve a world record victory at Los Angeles four years ago. Stewart Rhewine was at his best in the field events."

Comparison of Morris' Milwaukee performance with those of Bausch and Stewart shows, the Colorado star with an edge over both in five of the ten events, including all the track tests. No Decathlon performer of ever has been timed at top speed at foot-racing or hurdling and all the same they managed to keep up with the leaders in the field events, Morris stepped out of the pole vault after achieving 11 feet, 6 inches but he can do better than that when he warms up properly, officials say.

Morris has displaced Bob Clark of the Olympic Club, San Francisco, as America's No. 1 Decathlon candidate. Clark was unable to keep up with his Denver rival at Milwaukee despite one of his best performances, including a broad jump of 25 feet, 11½ inches. Minor shortcomings in the hurdles and weight events diminish his Olympic prospects.

Sox Loss	Second Place	Dropping	Sixth
Game

TREND OF LEAGUE

Pirates Belt 3 St. Louis Pitchers For 15 Hits in National

Tom Yawkey, Boston ball magnate, is finding out almost daily that the $1,500,000, more or less, he threw into building up the glittering array of Red Sox won't buy the American League pennant.

In fact, from the way things are going now, its highly doubtful if the at present slightly-tarnished bunch of Sox, with Eddie Collins two in the current pennant chase, what with such opposition on hand as the Tigers, Indians and Senators, to say nothing of the Yankees' murderer's row.

The first sank out of second-place yesterday. Dropping their sixth straight game at the Yanks made it 3½ games in a row over the Bostons with a 1-0 victory, to stretch their league lead to 10½ games. The Tigers, who seem to have recovered somewhat from the loss of Manager Mickey Cochrane, took over the runner-up position with their fifth straight win, a tremendous 21-6 scoring spree against the White Sox.

Slugging Bats

The Detroits expressed the trend of the day for the League, as pitchers came at a dime-a-dozen against slugging bats on all sides. The lowly St. Louis Browns blasted the Indians 16-13 in the first game of a doubleheader and deadlocked the contest as mid-sibling nightcaps, 7-5, called in the ninth because of darkness. Meantime, the Senators, who went into the with the Red Sox for third place, lead off against Connie Mack's plodding youngsters with a total of 23 hits, for a twin-ball win, 13-6 and 16-4.

The hurling brigade had a slightly better time in the National League, though the Pirates belted three St. Louis pitchers for 15 hits and a 9-4 win, to cut the Cards' lead to half a game over the Cubs, who were rained out at Cincinnati. The Giants were shoved deeper into the second division when the Bees came through 8-6, and the Phillies stayed out of the cellar by splitting a doubleheader with the Dodgers, winning 10-3, after losing the opener 8-1 to Van Mungo's three-hit pitching.

CARD OF NAPANEE LEADING HITTER

Oshawa Leads in Fielding With .942 Score

Kingston, July 3 (CP)—Kingston Frontenac champion of Ontario and the Central Ontario League, will be minus two of their regulars today when they meet Peterboro here in a scheduled game. Hewitt Smith, third base man is out of the game with an injured shoulder, and Mickey Cosgrove, short stop and formerly of the "Old Mick" Ontario League, has a broken finger.

Stan Scrutton and Joey Caitlin will fill in for the regulars. Both youngsters played with Kingston Juniors during the past hockey season, when they went into the O.H.A. semi-finals with St. Michael's.

Oshawa has fallen off in their batting as a team, and are now down among the "rabbit" hitting for .270, while Peterboro is leading with .311, and Napanee third with .301.

Kingston,with a lowmark of .222 in nine games played so far are two points below Belleville, but Kingston have made its hits count, as in only forty-seven players left on stranded, Oshawa, 58, Peterboro 66 stranded, Oshawa, 58, Peterboro' 66 and Belleville 54. The Ponies have had 67 safe hits in 322 times at bat, while Peterboro' has had 92 hits in ten games.

Of the regulars in the league, Ras Card of Napanee is the leading batter, hitting for an average of .433 in eight games. Bowden of Oshawa is second with .426, with Foley third with .333. McGrath is the leader among the Kingston regulars, with a percentage of .364.

As far as the fielding is concerned, there has been little to choose between the team, except in the case of Peterboro', who is in collar with .913, making 77 errors in their ten games. Oshawa's leads in fielding with .942, Kingston second with .939, Napanee third with .934 and Belleville fourth with .926.

"Lonely" Wills, Turner and Ogden of Oshawa are the only unbeaten pitchers, winning two games apiece. Jamieson of the Ponies, and Whitehill of Peterboro' have won four and lost one, but Jamieson has the better record, allowing only 13 runs and 31 hits in 45 innings, while Whitehill has been found for 28 runs and 48 hits in 37 innings.

Biddle of Oshawa leads in strikeouts with 58 in 41 innings, while Bertier of Peterboro has been the wildest hurler, issuing 18 passes in 25 innings.

CAR CRASH CRACKS TEETH

Niagara Falls, Ont., July 3.—John James Sloth, 1 Lippincott St., Weston, spent many hours during last night looking in the moonlight for his false teeth, knocked out during a collision with another car. He lost them when his car collided on Stanley Bridge Parkway, with car driven by Mrs. Olive Pfohl, this city. He was able to find only half of his teeth.

CURRENT SPORT

DAY BY DAY

Belleville's winning (?) streak in the C.O.B.L. was short-lived and consisted of one game as they dropped their eighth game, in nine starts, to the Petes on Wednesday. The score of 10 to 8 about hatched the play, plenty of hitting, interspersed with errors of omission and commission were the order of the day. Apparently the Petes scorers are very liberal when it comes to meeting out misplays on the score book. With the possible exception of the 14 to 1 drubbing at the hands of the Oilbirds earlier in the season, Wednesday's game was the poorest exhibition of defensive ball we have seen this season. The records show a total of ten errors, five for each club, but errors of omission are never entered in the box score, so the fans will never know how much some of the plays actually looked. Incidentally the Petes were equally as guilty as the Bells when it came to clubbing up uninterested and listless ball. The game became so one-sided one that the fans commenced their back homeward anytime after the sixth inning was over.

Manager Web started Jakeside Bawden against Speck Scriver, but was forced to relieve Bawden after any mysteries in their steads, so coupled with poor defensive play and some wild pitching by Bawden and Scriver found themselves trailing the bench in the first few the game was half over. Ed McIver then succeeded the hilltop for the Bells and Eddie Whitehill took over the pitching duties for the Petes. In the meantime, this the locals assumed the lead and seemed headed for victory. However, the Petes executive began victory. When our boys moved into open water and opened head-hunting season they got lost when they came to the fourth. Burman weighed 183, and Brown, 186.

Belleville may be in the cellar of the O.O.B.L., but we are pleased to note the local kids, as a team, are hitting the ball with a far better degree of consistency than others did last year. Although up among the league leaders, the Ponies are not in the hitting league equal in the league. Peterboro' is leading the team batting with an average of .371, next comes Oshawa, .370, Napanee is third with .365, Belleville next with an average of .334 while Kingston is two points behind with .332. Stan Card of Napanee is the leading hitter with an average of .433 in eight games played so far.

Here's the completion of the holiday game as written by the Peterboro scribe. It speaks for itself:

"The Petes strengthened their position in the standings race in the Central Ontario senior ball circuit race when Peterboro' is leading here on the holiday a.m. while at the same time Belleville lost its fifth straight and second victory of the season. The Petes defeated the Bees at 6-5 Petes and everything that goes to make baseball the popular pastime it is, except a general fist fight was an edge in the frame. Both teams were guilty of it, both teams made many costly errors with an occasional good play to relieve the monotony and went to make up a good ball game and a pain in the neck for the perfect fan."

x x x

He also adds: "Umpire Woodley, of Belleville, who was the storm centre of the Kingston Ponies-Petes playoff game here last week came to the baseball wars here on Dominion Day, exerting behind the plate and it was a tough experience for the Belleville man. With Whitehill on the hill for the Petes and Woodley was hit on the left shoulder by a pitched ball in the first frame. He continued in pain but gamely finished the game."

x x x

The injury list seems to be dogging the trail of the champion Kingston Ponies. First Hewitt Smith, third baseman of the club and now we learn Mickey Cosgrave unfortunate in the finger, Stan Scrutton the present plight of the Ponies, the Kingston scribe says:

"The injury list seems to be turning its attention to the Ponies. Both Hewitt Smith and Mickey Cosgrave will be on the sidelines as the Ponies meet Peterborough tonight in a scheduled game, but two smart substitutes will be ready to step into the breach. Only "Abbie" Abbott will remain at his position in the infield, as Sox Elliott moves over to third, Stan Scrutton takes short and Joey Caitlin fills in at second.

x x x

The Oshawa sports columnist, [illegible] Hamilton, [illegible] manager of the Napanee O.H.A. team, a notable "rabbit" when he was giving his infield a workout. A ball thrown in, bound and struck him hard, right on the eye. He looked more than Schmeling, and some have felt were than Joe Louis, for he stayed right around and kept his team batting. Now it that could only happen to Joe Daley or "Shiner" Johnson.

x x x

The Bobcats moved up a notch in the local Industrial Softball League taking the Class nine 5 to 4 last evening. The game was purely a pitchers' battle with the hurlers having the edge on the batters all evening. Harold Dracup, pitching for the Bobcats, baffled two Corby" moundsmen, Moon and Oliver. The Belleville-Sarnia and Optical squads battle it out for third position tonight.

BOOES GREET MAX'S COMEBACK

Baer is Fourteen Pounds Overweight at 234

Dallas, July 3.—(AP) — Maxie Baer's "Comeback Campaign" met boos of 6,000 fans as he pounded out a three round decision over fat-waisted Buck Rogers, 217-pounder of Philadelphia, in the first of a fight ended the incident.

Maxie, trailing both punches that would have felled Rogers in the first bout, showed little, if any, weight advantage over his opponent.

Red Burman of Baltimore, Jack Dempsey's former sparring partner, weighed 183, and Fred Brown of Houston on the floor barely twenty pounds in the main go before the referee stopped it in the fourth. Burman weighed 183, and Brown, 186.

PERTH'S CHANCE TO AVENGE LOSS

Blue Cats Play Loose Ball in Match With Ottawa

(By The Canadian Press)

Perth gets another chance at avenging Wednesday's 10-9 defeat by Ottawa-American Baseball League tonight when the Blue Cats play host to Ottawa in the first game of the Canadian leaders yesterday.

Perth's error as responsible as the Senators for their defeat. They gave Ottawa 10 runs on seven hits and any chance they had to draw away from Brockville and Kingston Ottawa who outplayed Massena Bucks 7-1.

Mahaffey pitched a steady game for the Senators but Thomas, Perth's hurler, was wild, issuing seven free Senators to walk. Four Blue Cats were caught on the bases and runs and from the second inning on they had things pretty much their own way.

The Bucks cobbit the Pirates 11-4 on Wednesday, Massena getting the blows came without men on bases and scored runs in every outcome.

Towed Wagon Loose Hits Car, Man Hurt

Smith's Falls, July 3—Tony Sesse, Brockville, suffered severe lacerations cuts about the head and face in an accident which occurred as he was crossing up after Dominion Day celebrations at Rideau Ferry. A wagon, one of the floats in the parade, was being towed from the rear of a car driven by Leo Hall, C.P.R. Yardman, when the rope broke. The wagon swerved into a car and Sesse was thrown heavily to the ground. He was rushed to the office of Dr. Arthur Meighen for medical attention, and seven stitches were required to close a wound in his head.

WEST WINS SKELLA TITLE

Vancouver, July 3.— (CP)— Winning the scheduled five-game series 3-2, Kitsilano Tennis Club, British Columbia's all-star aggregation yesterday defeated Forest Hill Club, Toronto, to win the Skella Cup for Canada Tennis Championship after turning back the bid of an all-star United States invasion team.

Successfully defending the Lally Cup for Canada the British Columbia team scored its third straight victory, 3-2, in the best of five matches and the series by the shortest route. The Canadians won the first game 3-2, the second 4-1 and the third 5-0.

He was rushed to New York and thence to his Long Island estate on advice of physicians.

GARRISON TO BE WITHDRAWN

London, July 3—(CP Havas)—The London Daily Herald today said that it had learned from Cairo that the British Government plans to withdraw the garrison which has been stationed in the Egyptian capital nearly half a century.

The official guard, however, will be maintained at the residence of the British High Commissioner and a powerful military air base kept near the capital, it added while a strong military force also will be kept in service in the Suez Canal zone.

GRAIN

Winnipeg, July 3 (CP)—Wheat continued yesterday's upward climb on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange in early trading today, reaching a top of more than two cents above the previous close, but these prices were not maintained.

Values near mid-session were 1¼ to 1 cent higher, July at 84⅜, October 85 and December 85¼.

Liverpool prices were disappointing, dropping from early gains of 1¼d to record a loss of 1¼-1d at the close.

POLICE BLOTTER

Judd McGowan, stirling market gardener, informed the police he was in possession of a quantity of potatoes that had been purchased from a fake buyer. The party bought the potatoes at Thursday's market and gave me an address on Coleman Street. When I arrived at the address given, there was no such number," Mr. McGowan asserted Chief Kidd last evening. The potatoes are still in the possession of Mr. McGowan and ready for delivery.

Further complaints from Tweed relative to the alleged theft of drugs, a woman giving police the name of Mrs. E. M. Laitres, Belleville, was arrested as she drove her automobile into Belleville last night. The information was received from Chief Hayes of Tweed by Sergeant Thompson of the O.P.P. who effected the arrest. Inspector F. Gardner, of the Provincial Force, today stated Mrs. Laitres had been transported to Napanee where another charge of the theft of drugs had been laid. The accused woman was arrested on a charge of the theft of drugs from the surgery of a doctor at Tweed.

No arrests were necessary in Belleville during the night and early morning electric storm did not increase the number of transients seeking sleeping quarters at the police station. Only two signed the register and were given a night's lodging last night.

Goodyear Surplus and Working Capital Increase

Decrease In Capital Liability Compared With Year Ago

Toronto, July 3—In a letter to shareholders of Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company of Canada Limited, accompanying dividend cheques for the second quarter of 1936, the president, A. G. Partridge states:

"We are pleased to report that the first half of our 1936 operations has been very satisfactory.

"One year has elapsed since the re-arrangement of the capital structure of your Company and the changes you approved at that time show results beneficial to the financial standing of the Company, since we now show about $1,000,000 more in working capital and a decrease in capital liability compared with June, 1935.

"The objectives for which these capital changes were made have been fully accomplished and, incidentally, the Company now has greater distribution of its shares than formerly. This should create a wider interest in the affairs and products of the Company."

NEW YORK EXCHANGE

(By Victor Rebadt, Associated Press Financial Writer)

New York, July 3 (AP)—Traders appeared hungry for aviation, motor and a variety of other industrial issues in today's stock market but buying was rather selective, with a number of losses in some sectors.

Electric Power Preferred issue met good investment buying. Many new highs for a year or more were evident at the start of the final hour. Farm implements and rails had a fair following.

Ahead fractions to more than three points in late trading were Douglas, Boeing, General Motors, Chrysler, and Johns Manville. Transfers were about 1,000,000 shares.

TORONTO INDUSTRIALS

Toronto, July 3 (CP)—The western wheat situation apparently put a little heart into the market for C.P.R. and some of the agricultural implement shares in today's Toronto industrial share market and these were traded in good volume although the rest of the market was slow. Prices over the board ruled firm. C.P.R. closed unchanged 13 3-4, unchanged, Massey Harris at 5 1-2 had a gain of 2-8 and Cockshutt Plow added the minimum fraction. Fractional gains were posted for International Nickel, the leading oils, Imperial and International Petroleum and the big liquor stocks. Walkers Common and Distillers-Seagrams finished the day on the upside. Foods, construction stocks and the miscellaneous issues contributed their quota to the day's gains and the board was moderately higher at the close.

TORONTO MINES

Toronto, July 3—(CP)—Turning definitely strong and more active in the last hour, the Sprotic mining share market gave a display of buying power to wind up the week. The market will be closed on Saturday and trading will be resumed next Monday. Secondary golds were again in favor and higher prices were ruling at the close for McLeod-Cockshutt, Sisco, McKenzie, Pickle Crow, and Chibougamau. Central hopped up to 50 its record price for the year and no nine cents for the day.

Central Patricia came to the front in the closing stage to record a price of 290 and a gain for the day of 9 cents. McKenzie added better than 10 cents. Red Lake Gold Shore, Consuruna, Sullivan, Paymaster and O'Brien were unchanged to slightly strong. Bear slipped back six cents. In the oils Homestead sold down 3 to 40 and Chemical Research at 126 was off 10 cents.

DROUGHT AND 'HOPPERS RAVAGE U. S. FARMS

Swaldi weather during the past seven years has caused the United States secretary of agriculture, Henry A. Wallace to wonder if the continent is not becoming an arid land. Completing a tour of the northwestern states Wallace found such scenes of drought as shown above. This picture shows what was once a productive farm in North Dakota. In addition to drought, farmers on both sides of the international border are fighting new plagues of grasshoppers (CENTRE). As a result of these factors, grain prices have risen substantially on Chicago and Winnipeg exchanges.

Board Room Gossip

As supplied to Biggar and Crawford by Financial Service.

McIntyre's Mud Lake Property Mud Lake Rapids Property.

The shaft of McIntyre's Mud Lake property has reached a depth of 800 feet, and at that horizon the vein has been cut. Wonderful shows. This development was over last month—and no definite information as to widths and values has been received. The width is believed to be about 7 feet which is about 3 feet on the 125-ft. level, 4 feet on the 500-level and 10 ft. on the 375-level.

Rapid progress is being made with the construction of the mill and it is understood that the schedule which would bring the property into production in September, will be improved upon and the mill started late in August.

Only a week or so ago McIntyre announced formation of a new subsidiary to develop their property in Mud Lake. The new company is called Belleterre Mines Ltd. Belleterre is controlled through McIntyre by McIntyre through its ownership of between 50 and 60 per cent. of its capital stock. The company already owns 26 claims and negotiations are now being closed for 19 more in the Mud Lake area.

An intensive seekey after new properties, McIntyre Porcupine has also up to the present time had a startling success in this regard. In the last year nine more ST properties were acquired and reported on by the McIntyre management. Favorable recommendations were made on six. One of these was optioned and the others are under consideration at the present time. Diamond drilling on properties optioned in Chibougamau did not confirm surface sampling, and the option was allowed to lapse.

Gunnar Gold Productions at Record

According to a statement by President Gilbert A. LaBine, Gunnar Gold Mines limited produced for mine mill and smelter a total bornboat of $40,000. This figure will compare with a monthly rate of only slightly in excess of $30,000 reported in May, which was the first month of production.

A raise started recently east of the shaft from the 700-foot level is now 30 feet into ore averaging 2 ounces across 7 feet. While not regarded by the management as a "bonanza" "jewelery store" ore body, it will make a nice tonnage. Within two weeks the management expects that the ore body will be cut on the 875 and 1,000 foot levels, where stations were cut only recently. There is only about 60 feet to go to get into the No. 1 ore body on the east on these levels. This ore body is considered the major one, and has been developed all the way down to the 750-foot level to date.

Looking to the future of Gunnar Gold, it is not hard to visualize a profitable producer. Ore is being treated $5.50 per ton, Mr. LaBine says. This means that on $16 ore the profit will be $9 per ton. On a 140-ton daily basis this would net profit, before taxes and write-offs, of nearly half a million dollars per annum.

With Dominion Day behind us, the summer, has definitely arrived and holidays will not disrupt market trading until the first Monday in September. Several securities actually are anticipating a good industrial market developing from now on, with interest in the mines also maintained.

Massey-Harris

Massey-Harris, controlled, for the year ended November 30, 1935, reported a net profit after depreciation of $618,864, the best results since 1928. Present indications are that further progress will be recorded in the current year.

Profits for six months of its fiscal period, which are usually the best of the year, are not large, Massey-Harris reports an increase in the deficit in sales over last year. Assuming that the present rate of recovery is maintained for the balance of the year, Massey-Harris should be able to materially reduce its net deficit, or change to profit even after depreciation write-offs. Dividend action is reported definite available for first charges in each of the last six years.

A factor that will materially aid Massey-Harris is the ability of the farmer in Western Canada to liquidate a good portion of his liabilities. As at November 30, 1935, the company reported Bills and Accounts Receivable of $10,026,914 and should it be able to obtain only a portion of these outstanding debts, its financial position would be very materially improved.

Some reports have recently emanated from Toronto to the effect that the company was contemplating the advisability of preferred dividend arrears, which is a certain indication that the affairs of Massey-Harris have taken a decided turn for the better.

Brazilian Traction

On July 15th next, the 36,000 shareholders of Brazilian Traction will receive from the company will receive a 50c per share dividend. This payment will mean a distribution of $2,100,000. With earnings of this corporation increasing and the exchange situation improving, it is not just possible that another similar payment will be made to stockholders this year. A glance over the balance sheet shows that Brazilian Traction has $4,900,000 in Dominion of Canada bonds, which is being held as a temporary investment pending dividend disbursements.

EUROPE'S DEMAND STARTS UP COBALT

Cobalt, July 3.—The Cobalt camp is beginning to stir again influenced by the increased prices for both cobalt and silver, and by a steady demand for both metals from overseas.

So heavy is the demand, it is claimed by some operators, that the supplies available are not sufficient to meet the orders. Prices have advanced sharply and a fifty-ton carload of cobalt and nickel ore recently brought $180 and a still greater advance is expected.

The Missing Man

by

Mary R. P. Hatch

"I'll will all come out right without you an' me meddlin'. Just let it right Nedd, I say. If this one is your husband, it will be proved, and if t'other one is; why, that will be proved, too. It is a matter that will have to be settled by folks that knows, an' nobody one of 'em will have to be clapped into a 'sylum. Anyway, dearie, don't you fret. You hain't to blame, anyway. You keep on doin' right as you have done; keep 'em both at a distance till it's all settled. Of course, one of 'em is a scamp, bein' he's crazy as you'd oughter be careful."

"Would I better go to the hotel to stay?"

"Talk with your uncle, first."

"Oh, he is all for——"

"The other one; yes, I know. Well, wait awhile." And so comforted by the good creature's counsel, Constance went home.

CHAPTER XI.

A DEEP, DARK MYSTERY

On the return of Mr. Carter and Mr. Hamilton, as I shall continue to call him, having phonetic objections to Mrs. Fyt's expressive appellation of t'other one, Constance met them with a face so full of fear, dread, consternation, of whatever the feeling was that had blanched her face to the color of the white robe she wore, that they both started back with affright.

"Bless my soul, child, what is it?"

"Constance, are you ill?"

These were their questions, but they realized the inadequacy of them the moment they were delivered.

"No, not but I must tell you both. I have sent the children away. Now listen." And with a certain majestic calmness which robbed her words of all save the terrible significance of the manifestly truthful account she related what had taken place at the house of Mrs. Fyt.

"There my soul, the man's stark raving crazy! He'll have to be carried to Concord. It isn't safe for Mrs. Fyt to be in the house with him. You ought to have run home as soon as you could, Constance. Did you know he was crazy to begin with?"

"I don't know it now, Uncle Carter."

"Bless my soul! She don't know it now, Vane, she says."

"I think she is right. It is something worse than insanity; it is accumulation of the deepest, darkest cry," said Mr. Hamilton, between his set teeth. His eyes gleamed in his pallid face, and great drops of sweat stood on his forehead. It was plain to be seen how great a shock had come to him in this declaration of Constance that another man claimed her as his wife.

They all sat silent after that, as if words were futile at such a crisis, at such an astounding event. Mr. Carter looked from one to the other, but they gazed in opposite directions. Mr. Hamilton was the first to recover himself. And to their surprise, he spoke much in his usual tones.

"There is no sense in allowing such a man to move us from our usual ways. It is worse for him than for us. An attempt at blackmail so barefaced is not to be considered a moment. He knows all the circumstances of my leaving home and of my return; also what transpired during my absence. The fact of my having lost my sense of personality while away no doubt struck him as a reason why he could put in the same plea of forgetfulness. But in this he has overreached himself. No one will give the least credit to such a statement."

"That's so, Vane. A fraud so apparent will not influence any sensible person in the least. Can't we have some dinner, Constance? Vane is in the right of it. There is no use in wasting word or thought over the matter."

"Matilda has prepared dinner, but you must excuse me. I have no appetite," and she left the room.

"Will wonders never cease, Vane? Here's this new one of Eden's to cap the reel. It will make a scandal anyhow;" Constance's manifest disturbance recalling something of his own.

THE TARZAN TWINS

(Metropolitan Newspaper Feature Service)

"His history will have to be investigated, and the man threatened, At all events, he shall be discharged," said Mr. Hamilton, as the two sat down to dinner together. "I have thought him for a long time more knave than fool."

"Such men make trouble. I wish we could send him away before the story of his claims get abroad, hey, Vane."

"It would not do to offer him money, I have no doubt that is what the fellow wants; and he is not able to go now, I suppose."

There was no more said between them about the matter and the dinner progressed in silence, though it must be owned that neither ate heartily. But they strove to go to the office afterwards as if nothing unusual had occurred.

"I'll just run up and see Constance," said Mr. Carter.

"Very well, I will wait for you." And Mr. Hamilton did so.

"How is she? Does she look much disturbed?" asked the latter, when Mr. Carter came down.

"She looks as if she had had a great shock, Vane. I told her not to go near the Fyts."

"What did she say?"

"Nothing, only that I need not fear that she would do anything imprudent."

"No, she will not, you may be sure of that," said Mr. Hamilton, and he walked along silently and thoughtfully in the office.

Constance did not intend to be imprudent, but she did mean to see Prince Eden and ask him a few questions. Accordingly she went over about three o'clock and made her errand known to Mrs. Fyt, who ushered her into the sick-room, remaining there herself as Constance requested.

"Constance," he cried, "no you did come again. I did not hope to see you till tomorrow."

"I want to ask you a few questions. I came for that," said she, quietly.

"Ask me anything."

"You say you are Vane Hamilton. Tell me, then, why you went away every year in May."

"I will. I feel now that I ought to have done so before. But I shrank from it, fancying that you would think my quest a foolish one."

"Quest?"

"Yes, a sacred quest. You remember my mother, Constance—a sad, delicate woman who seldom smiled; but you never knew the reason of her sadness, nor did I, till a short time before she died. Then she told me. She had three children, a girl and two sons, who were twins. My sister died in childhood, and brother Leo, as I supposed; but she, it seems, always doubted it. As you know, Constance, I was one of the twins, and the other was stolen. My parents, who were very wealthy at that time, lived in Exeter, New York. The nurse, who had charge of us, took our carriage, which was a double one, to the park, as usual. There she left us, as servants will, to gossip with other girls, and when she returned my brother was nowhere to be seen. Of course, the woman was filled with grief and fear, and she searched a long time herself, before summoning aid, fearing the displeasure of her employers. But the child could not be found. My mother was nearly frantic, for she had set her heart on her two remaining children after her little daughter died, and it seemed for a long time as if it would be insane.

"The search was wide and thorough. Everything was done to find him that ample means and anxious hearts could devise, and at last it was believed that he was dead, or had been carried from the country. My father lost the larger part of his property about this time. Indeed, the long search had been a heavy drain upon it, and since it had long been decided that no more could be done, he took considerable pains to impress upon my mother's mind the belief that the child was dead. There were many facts that tended toward it, and my father himself actually believed that Walter died after being stolen, and before the kidnapper felt that it would be safe to make any move towards securing a reward for his return.

"This was what he believed, and, as I have said, he had great reason for thinking so, many facts pointing to it; facts which I will not explain now. Indeed, the case much resembled that of Charlie Ross, which occurred a good many years later. But my mother did not agree with this explanation, though she would have been glad to have had her heart's questioning at rest, if possible, even in this way. For better to be death, she thought, than in the hands of wicked men!

BODY IS FOUND WEIGHTED DOWN

Only Evidence is of Drowning Despite Fact Legs Bound to Iron Bars

Cobourg, Ont. July 2.—(CP)—Police today checked files of missing persons in an attempt to establish the identity of a man found in the harbor here last night. It is thought the body had been in the water for about six week when found.

Bob Franklin and Bud Martin, Cobourg, found the body. The legs were bound together with copper wire. A three-foot iron bar was fastened on each leg, holding them straight. There was nothing on the body to indicate identity of the man, police state.

Coroner Dr. G. Ferris and Dr. A. H. Richards said they found no evidence of death other than that by drowning. The body was badly decomposed. Police said although it was bound to iron bars, there was no evidence of foul play. Doctors said a preliminary examination had shown no marks which would indicate the man had been harmed before entering the water.

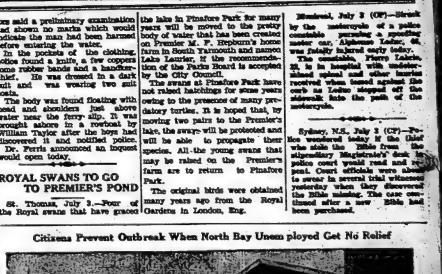
He was dressed in a dark suit and was wearing two suit coats.

The body was found floating with head and shoulders just above water near the ferry slip. It was brought ashore in a rowboat by William Taylor after the boys had discovered it and notified police.

Ferris announced an inquest would open today.



ROYAL SWANS TO GO TO PREMIER'S POND

St. Thomas, July 3.—Four of the Royal swans that have graced the lake in Pinafore Park for many years will be moved to the pretty body of water that has been created on Premier M. F. Hepburn's home farm in South Yarmouth and named Lake Lauzier, if the recommendation of the Parks Board is accepted by the City Council.

The swans at Pinafore Park have not raised hatchings for some years owing to the presence of many predatory turtles. It is hoped that, by moving two pairs to the Premier's lake, the swans will be protected and will be able to propagate their species. All the young swans that may be raised on the Premier's farm are to return to Pinafore Park.

ONTARIO MAYORS AND GOVERNMENT ATTACK PROBLEM

Dominion Feels Relief but More Than Offset by Employment

PRICE FIXING CHARGE

Trade Board to Hear Complaints About Four Packers

Ottawa, July 4 (CP)—The government, striving to maintain work at full employment, was looked to today by Ontario mayors who asked it and the Ontario administration to impose no further relief burdens on their municipalities.

Mayor Stanley Lewis of Ottawa, preliminary made public letters he and Mayor W. Smith of Chicoutimi, secretary and president of the Ontario Mayors' Association, sent Labor Minister Rogers and Welfare Minister Cardin of Ontario, declaring fear the Ontario government may pass on to municipalities the 10-per-cent direct relief charge now assumed by the federal administration July 1.

The letter to Mr. Rogers asked an opportunity of "speaking for the welfare of the municipalities before you".

There was no definite indication, however, of when the Ontario and federal governments would take.

The Dominion government was understood to feel the cut in the grant was more than offset by a rising tide of employment and by its own attempts to employment in providing for the building of public works projects and half the cost of $30,000,000 worth of projects to be undertaken jointly by the Provincial and Dominion governments.

Price-Fixing Complaints

Meanwhile the Dominion Trade and Industry Commission established under one of the Bennett Administration's "reform" measures, launched preparations to hear complaints of price-fixing made against four unnamed packers by the Western Canada Creamery, Limited.

The Western Packing Company charged the four companies also with undue discrimination in cream cutting. Commission officials said deaths of bodies of the four companies were under way.

What action the commission might take against the companies if it found the complainant's charges correct was obscure. Prior to establishing the commission, whose personnel is the same as the trade board's, did not escape unscathed when the supreme court delivered its opinion last month on the constitutionality of the eight reform laws.

Reserve Over Business

Establishment of the commission was recommended by the royal commission upreads commission. It was to act as a sort of "reserve over business". The court found section 14 of the act establishing the section that empowered it to appoint price and production agreements among businesses, unconstitutional.

However, the opinion of the court did not invalidate any of the other statutes and it is expected all the decisions will be appealed to the privy council. Nevertheless, it was suggested the fact that constitutionality of the law had been questioned might lead any firm suffering an adverse decision in the commission probe to appeal to the courts for judgment on a stated case.

PURSUER KILLED AFTER HOLDUP OF SERVICE STATION

Joseph Feaubert Sought on Both Sides International Border

WIFE IS HELD

Robber Obtains $36 And Leaves Car When Believed Cornered

Detroit, July 4 (CP)—On both sides of the International border, police and immigration officials today took part in an intensive manhunt after an alarm had been broadcast that a man from Riverside, Ont., suburb of Windsor, had held up a gasoline service station in downtown Detroit and shot two men, one fatally, in making his escape.

The man sought by police is Joseph Feaubert, 31, also known as Feaubert, left in an automobile the husband is held by police, abandoned when he was chased following the robbery, is being held for questioning at police headquarters here.

Aided by the escaping robber was Steve Ugliszak, 34, of Detroit. Two bullets struck him in the chest.

Wounded was Albert O. Kalamaz, 51, whose home is adjacent to the service station at 4670 McGraw avenue and Gilbert street, where the hold-up took place.

The robber went into the station, operated by John C. Curtis, held him up at the point of a gun and returned to his automobile with $36 in cash.

He was about to drive away when another automobile with four young men in it pulled up at one of the gasoline pumps. Two of the occupants of the car he had been held up and they started in pursuit.

Pursuer Is Killed.

The fugitive, evidently believing he was about to be captured, stopped the car, jumped out and ran. Ugliszak ran after him. He was about to overtake him and was only a few feet away when the fugitive turned and fired three shots. Two hit their mark.

The pursuer continued running and entered the backyard of the home of Frank Kalamaz, grabbed a shovel and came out to investigate.

"I thought a man was in bed-ter stay away," the hold-up man warned.

Kalamaz paid no attention. He tried to tussle. The gunman fired and Kalamaz incurred a fleshwound in his chest.

Ugliszak was taken to Detroit Receiving Hospital.

Police arrived ill time to conflict-ate the fugitive, apparently spurred by the robber in making his escape. Mrs. Frederick Kalamaz, mother of Steve, said she and her husband had been in a beer parlor earlier in the night, returning to their home and learning her early today on their front porch after they had left the dancing place.

The body of Ugliszak was moved to the city morgue.

Swiss Sculler Retains Trophy In Slow Time

Henley-on-Thames, England, July 4 (CP Cable)—R. Rufli, Swiss sculling star, today retained the Diamond Sculls trophy, defeating T. H. Tyler of the Thames Rowing Club by three length, in the winning time 22 seconds in the final, leading singles event of the Royal Henley Regatta.

Rufli, of the Zurich Rowing Club, stroked his way smoothly and powerfully over the course from the finish of the Henley course in successfully defending his diamond sculls in the royal Henley Regatta.

Rufli, rowed the 1,760 yards course of one mile 352 yards in the comparatively slow time of seven minutes 38 seconds. Despite the fact the Zurich sported to seven minutes, 38 seconds in defeating the renowned Japanese sight by six lengths while Leander covered the course in 7:19 to win the Grand Union Boat Club of Boston by a length.

Tabor Academy of Marion, Mass., won from Kingston Rowing Club in the semi-final for the Thames Challenge Cup and assured an all-American final as Kingston was the only British Club to reach the semifinal round. Tabor's opponent will be the Kent (Conn.) School which defeated Browne and Nichols of Cambridge, Mass., today.

Tabor won by 1½ lengths in seven minutes, 48 seconds, and Kent by a length in 7:50.

First Trinity of Cambridge won from Leander Club, Cambridge by a length in 7:19.

SIGN LANGUAGE USED IN SERVICE

Minister Inducted Into Church of Deaf in Toronto

Toronto, July 4—Fifty-six Welshery street—the location of the Evangelical Church of the Deaf—was a scene of great interest last night as Rev. Alec. MacGowan was inducted as the congregation's minister.

In the past lay members of the congregation or United Church ministers with aid of interpreters conducted the services. In the future Rev. MacGowan who can converse fluently with the deaf, although himself not physically affected, in sign language, will preach three Sundays each month with a lay member taking the fourth.

The $80,000 church, which was erected in 1926, can be best described by the casual passer-by walking along Wellesley street, marked by spreading trees, the inscription in the stone-arched entrance that tells the pioneer undertaking assumed by a few Christian individuals without fear of disability, and completed and directed mainly by the deaf.

Lack of Rest Blamed For Failure on First Attempt

Sydney, N.S., July 4 (CP)—Captain Torsten O'Delmark laid plans today for a second attempt to sail to Sweden with his wife and baby in the 40-foot fishing vessel Albatross.

Illness of his wife forced O'Delmark to give up his first attempt to reach his homeland yesterday. But he said he would start again as soon as his wife is rested.

The former Montrealer blamed lack of rest for Mrs. Delmark's illness. For weeks he and his wife had prepared for the Atlantic crossing and were tired when they left Louisburg five days ago.

The Albatross, 175 miles off the coast of Cape Breton and the captain had decided to put back for shore after his wife became ill when a Royal Canadian Mounted Police cutter took the Albatross in tow.

25 YEARS PRISON TERM IMPOSED

Lucien Morin Turns Pale as Sentence is Given

Sherbrooke, Que., July 4 (CP)—Red-haired Lucien Morin faced 25 years in penitentiary last night, the sentence handed down for his part in the robbery plot that brought death to Willis E. Baldwin, 34, storekeeper of Baldwin's Mills, Que.

The information, Que., cobbler was found guilty of murder at a trial on with Kenneth Brown, youthful convict from Milan, Que., but the charge against Morin was reduced to man-slaughter.

Morin paled when he heard the sentence from Mr. Justice Hector Hall, but Brown, who was tried with the court room. "I have nothing to say," he whispered.

Brown was sentenced to hang July 10 but, following the former Liberal member of parliament for Stanstead County to death in April, 1933, his sentence will be commuted to Dec. 19 so he might appeal his sentence.

5 HUGE BALLOONS ENTER INTO RACE

Accident Rips Hole in Detroit Balloon, Preventing Start

Denver, Colo., July 4—(AP)—Five huge balloons, riding on a southeast wind, drifted into the Platte Valley country today in the 36th annual National Balloon race.

The pilots, seeking to break two records for lighter-than-air craft, took off under perfect weather conditions here late last night, their 36,000 cubic foot bags soaring into a moonlit sky, and drifting off on a course which would take them toward Kansas.

The United States Army's entry, piloted by Capt. Anton Haynie McCormick was the first bag in the air. It was followed by the first of two entries by the U. S. Navy, piloted by Lieut. Comm. Francis N. Boland, in the navy's helium balloon, piloted by Frank A. Trotter, Jr., and the 1936 entry of the Navy's second balloon, piloted by Lieut. R. F. Tyler, and Cleveland-ed Chapman, veteran balloonist, by Milford S. Vanik.

The Akron entry entered in the race, but disaster overtook the Detroit balloon when a high wind-swept across the field and tore a huge hole in the craft as it was being inflated. The crew was compelled the craft so that it had to be withdrawn from the race.

3 CARS INVOLVED IN ROAD CRASH

W. C. Beatty of Preston Admitted to The Hospital

Trenton, July 4 (Special)—W. C. Beatty of Preston was admitted to the Belleville General Hospital here today after a motor car accident near the overhead bridge three miles east of Trenton in which three cars were involved all of which were badly damaged. Reginald Elliott of Bellevile sustained superficial cuts and bruises and was later allowed at the surgery of Dr. W. J. Johnston in Trenton after the accident was able to proceed on his way.

It is understood from Trenton police and Traffic Officer Frank Hollingsworth, that Beatty, 22 Elliott was proceeding eastward behind a car driven by M. Leavey of Trenton and attempted to pass this car. Beatty's car proceeded westward, here in sight. It is believed that Mr. Elliott was unable to pass in the narrow space between the car in the path of the Beatty car and his car striking the latter car. After the accident the ambulance was called and Elliott and Beatty were taken to the surgery of Dr. W. J. Johnston. It was found on examination that Beatty was suffering from severe lacerations to the head and face and shock and after having his injuries attended was taken to the hospital.

$50,000,000 Refused To Emperor by League; Faith in League Voiced

Proposal to Lift Sanctions Placed Before League Assembly

STEFAN LUX DIES

Suicide Made in Protest of "White-Gloved Policies"

Geneva, July 4—(CP Havas)—The League of Nations today refused Emperor Haile Selassie's request for a $50,000,000 loan to prosecute the war against Italy in Ethiopia.

A resolution reaffirming the faith of member states in the covenant of the League of Nations, and simultaneously urging the co-ordinating committee "to take all useful steps" for lifting sanctions against Italy, was placed before the League assembly today.

No mention was made of the annexation of Ethiopia by Italy in the resolution, which was drafted and reported by the steering committee.

Immediately after receiving it the assembly adjourned for a few minutes time to study the measure. It will re-convene at 5:30 o'clock when prompt passage is expected to permit the assembly to conclude its business.

Stefan Lux Dies

It recommended September 30 as the date for the next session of the session of the League assembly.

The states meeting then moved slowly toward their goal—lifting of sanctions against Italy—when Foreign Minister Paul Van Zeeland of Belgium, president of the assembly, who had charge of the drafting of the resolution.

Stefan Lux, Czechoslovakian newspaperman who startled the assembly by shooting himself to the chest yesterday, died in a hospital as the committee tackled its complicated work.

Death came from an internal hemorrhage after Lux, a Jew, reported a protest against treatment of Jews in Germany. Previous services were planned here after the arrival of his wife from Prague.

Lux, an Austrian Jew who worked for many years in Germany on the staff of Count Von Coudenhove-Kalergi "Die Weltbuehne," fled to Czechoslovakia after the arrest of Hitler and became a naturalized citizen.

Silent And Reserved

His friend and colleague described him as a silent man who seldom took part in the discussions among Geneva newspapermen.

"Lux was silent," he said his friend a few days ago, "to open his eyes at the sight of what is going on over there (in Germany)."

During Tuesday's session, the day before his death, a statement of Lux was issued by Italian journalists, which briefly related what he had said while he was before the assembly.

"I am a Jew and a Czech," Lux declared, "and I am proud of both. I am a democrat and a pacifist. I am a man who has always fought against the dictatorships of the right and of the left. I am a man who has always fought against the dictatorships of the right and of the left. I am a man who has always fought against the dictatorships of the right and of the left

MRS. W. EDWARDS IS WINNER OF CONTEST

Mrs. W. Edwards, Belleville, was the winner of the bean guessing contest held by the Army and Navy Veterans in Canada at their annual picnic held at the park on Dominion Day. The results of the contest could not be announced at the time of the picnic owing to the fact that officials of the Army and Navy Veterans' Auxiliary had to tabulate the number of beans until last night. The total number of beans in the jar was 6,385, while Mrs. Edwards guessed 6,386. The nearest guess was by Mrs. J. Ford, third, Mrs. S. Dalton and fourth Mrs. Joseph Hart. The prize winners were announced by Comrade Boyce, President of the A and N. Veterans in Canada.

9 Year Boy Wins Speedboat Race

A unique birthday present, one which caused his schoolmates to roll envious eyes at him, came to nine-year-old Billy Cooper, son of Clifford Cooper, Picton, on Dominion Day, when he was permitted to drive his father's speedboat in one of the scheduled regatta events.

Roaring down the course with the throttle wide open, young Cooper caught the leading boat a few feet from the last turn, showing fine knowledge of the handling of the craft, the youngster manoeuvred his boat to the inside position, and to the cheers of the crowd, flashed across the line, a automobile clubs received thousands of calls regarding highways routes.

July 8th is Date Set For Grand Re-opening on East and West Sides

GIFT OF CLUBMEN

The musical clamor of hammer and saw and the rhythmic rasp of the saw as busy workmen rush to completion the new buildings and playing devices, lately erected at the east and west-end Belleville playgrounds, in readiness for the Grand Re-opening on Wednesday afternoon, July 8th, by the Kiwanis Club of Belleville.

July 8th will live long in the memories of the younger citizens of the city on the afternoon of that day all the improved facilities—$4,000.00 worth—of the playgrounds will be given over to their use and pleasure. The days of dodging the busy thoroughfare of the traffic-infested streets where they can spend safe and wholesome hours in the clean sunshine and invigorating air of the summer months. Truly, it is a splendid and notable achievement that the Kiwanis Club has fostered and a heritage which will bear rich fruit in the years to come in moulding the future citizens of this country of Canada.

The huge undertaking of the Kiwanis Club gives food for thought to the many conscientious possibilities for good a small body of people united for one purpose can accomplish. "We Build" is the motto adopted and universally observed by Kiwanians the world over, but in other words could be simpler or express a more practical objective as clearly, forcefully, emphatically, and so directly. Yet they can be words of inspiration to all stand-and as empty as Old Mother Hubbard's cupboard before and the Goodman's visit. They form a motto which fewerve from the principle which manifestos spurs on to progress and improvement. They are the words which mean no repugnance of the word 'inertia.'

Has the Belleville Kiwanis Club lived up to this high ideal in the past? Judge it as it did when in its course along worthy lines for the future? Yes, they undoubtedly can. Yes." The list of its accomplishments is legion and well known but it is worth while recalling, for instance there was the time when the W.W. sisters of this district by car was unaided and inefficient to meet the demands of the district calling. A new car was imperative. This need the Kiwanis supplied. Then there are the annual High School Kiwania scholarships; the church has each time and at its expense in giving medical assistance to underprivileged children convalescing many cases which never come to the ken of the general public; the club sponsored the Boy's Week of Hockey and Baseball Leagues, an annual event, which has grown over two hundred boys into active participation; the club's part in the local Y.M.C.A. is annually enriched with the present of several hundreds (!) dollars; many families in the community were helped to a merrier and much more joyful Christmas than they would otherwise have had in 1934 if it had not been for the generosity of the Kiwanis Club in sending out over one hundred well filled baskets; a great deal of the decorations of the city's business section during the Tulip season is done by the Kiwanians who thus do their share in facilitating hundreds of people have been personally assisted in a monetary and material way by members of the Club during the past few years when their less fortunate brethren felt the pinch. This summer they are sending one hundred underprivileged children to the camp at Metal Lake. In addition they are prepared to spend a lot of money on a water-front park project when such is officially approved by the City Council.

All of which is in addition to the enterprises which now holds their attention. This fact above proves that they are not living a slothful life of sumptuous dinners where speakers smoke with high sounding phrases and do little else. It proves that they are not moribund or content to bask in the pallor of past achievements but rather keep a weather eye pealed to the future— through commendable and earnest endeavour—by striving in the present. To make it clear we point you to their latest undertaking, namely, the improvement of both the east and west-end playgrounds.

taken by the club unless the citizens co-operated with them. In recent years they, John and Mrs. Public, have backed the Kiwanis in all their enterprises through the medium of their attendance. There is little likelihood that citizens will fail to show their appreciation of the Kiwanis' latest good work in a similar manner next Wednesday afternoon. Silver playgrounds would be an ideal spot to spend the half holiday.

The opening is scheduled for two o'clock at the east end playground, situated at the corner of Sheidan Ave and Bridge Street. Many notables of various Service Clubs will be present including Riwanian Meininger, who is the Lieutenant Governor of this Kiwanis district, and, who is slated to address the gathering. And it is but possible although it has not yet been authenticated, that Hon. Dr. J. A. Faulkner, Provincial Minister of Health, will also be here to give an address.

Citizens are again urged to make the afternoon spoken of a gala occasion. An excellent programme of sports has been drawn up and both play-grounds concerning which more information will appear later.

NATURAL CAUSES IS JURY VERDICT

Hugh Farrell, Marmora Twp. Died of Heart Attack

Death from natural causes was the verdict rendered by the coroner's jury impanelled to inquire into the death of Hugh Farrell, 62 year old Marmora township farmer, who died, suddenly after a heart attack at his home last week shortly after he had been placed under arrest on a charge of blackmail. The jury was held yesterday afternoon in Marmora before Coroner Dr. E. Hamilton with D. C. Donnan K.C., local Crown Attorney, conducting the investigation.

Dr. F. G. Kennedy, Belleville physician, was the principal witness called and testified the deceased man had died from natural causes. Dr. Kennedy was called professionally following the death of Mr. Farrell, and performed a post mortem, that showed the deceased had had suffered a ruptured blood vessel, that led to the heart. Dr. Kennedy also stated the man had been under the deceased farmer and apparently as he stooped over to help up his shoe, which he was under arrest at his home by Provincial Constable Ashfield, he suffered the heart attack and succumbed before medical aid could be rendered. Dr. Kennedy was a man who weighed in the neighborhood of 260 pounds. It was later learned Dr. Crawford, of Marmora, who examined the deceased after he was stricken, and County Constable Percy Gray also gave evidence at the inquest yesterday. Other friends of the late Mr. Farrell, who had been present at the time of his arrest stated he showed no signs of excitement over his plight.

The verdict of death from natural causes was swiftly arrived at by the coroner's jury and the unanimous, Crown Attorney Donnan announced after the proceedings.

Obituary

JAMES SCOTT

Rawdon, July 4.—(Special)—James Scott, an aged and highly respected resident of Rawdon Township, died at his home on the 10th concession of Rawdon on Sunday as an illness of a week. 51ST SEA SCOUTS MAKE RECORDS

79 Year Old Skipper, Capt. Williams, in Charge of Cruise

On Lake Ontario are two boatloads or sea cadets from Toronto on their annual cruise under Captain Williams, veteran skipper, a man of seventy-nine years.

Captain Williams is an ideal skipper for the sea scouts. His boyish love for the sea dates are few alive who can teach him tricks about navigating sailing vessels, great or small, around or across Lake Ontario.

The 51st Toronto Sea Scouts in two converted inshore left Toronto on Thursday, Friday night and have set a series of sailing records along the south shore of Lake Ontario. They landed at Oswego the night of July first. Their two schooner-rigged converted lifeboats, "Commodore" and "Commander" made the sixty-odd mile run from Olcott to Charlotte in seven hours.

Leaving Oswego yesterday that the Sea Scouts had arrived at Sodus Bay after sailing smartly all down the south side of the lake. Captain Williams reported that the run from Oswego was 50 miles ago. He started sailing in 1866 when he was nine years old. When he had been Master for fifty years he thought he had mastered it, yet he says he saw a scouts mannoring about with two double-ended, centre-board lifeboats in Oswego's Bay. That was the end of the rest.

Speculation regarding whether a man can still get the best out of a sailing boat is set at rest by the records made along the south shore. From Olcott to Charlotte is just over sixty miles.

The two vessels arrived in Oswego with all hands in good shape, after visiting Olcott, Charlotte, Sodus Bay, Rochester. Head winds continuing they will try to reach Manitou Bay, Sackett's Harbor before returning.

"Captain" and "Commodore" are 22 feet long, 7 feet 6 inches in forestall and 5ft. almost the old Bermuda rig. They are powered on the lake once before, sailing on June 30th, 1934, under Capt. Williams' command.

The boys have a third craft, "Sheerleg" and "Shears" of "Sheerlegs" because it is propelled by gasoline and has a mast for hoisting sail.

With the 51st Toronto Sea Scouts on this cruise is Terry Farrell Anderson, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Anderson, now of Toronto, but until five years ago a resident of Belleville. Farrell spends his summers here with relatives.

Inmate Found Ill In Shire Hall Room

An inmate of Hastings County jail was found resting in a room at the Shire Hall by Gaoler Ketcheson. Police had been notified of his disappearance by Gaol Governor O. H. Ketcheson and when they called at the Shire Hall they found the missing man in the custody of Gaoler Ketcheson in the cell block. The inmate was a trusty and had been working in the Court House rooms. The description of the man missing yesterday was five feet five inches and weighing 170 pounds. He is a French-Canadian from Corbyville and was serving a sentence on a minor charge. After the police had secured the custody of the city, the inmate was found sitting in the room in the Shire Hall. He informed the jail officials he had suddenly taken ill and had sat down to rest. Sheriff J. D. O'Flynn stated today.

Breaks Shoulder In Fall Over Cliff

Chatham, Ont., July 4.—(CP) — George Brosch, Detroit, suffered a broken shoulder and had bruises when he rolled down a 40 foot cliff at Erieau while he was sitting alone on the shore of Lake Erie east of Rondeau Provincial Park.

He was taken to St. Joseph's hospital here last night and had the fracture set and his wounds dressed. He was able to leave the institution today.

Mr. Brosch, advertising manager of the Graham Motor Car Company, Detroit, was spending the United States holiday at a cottage at Erieau. He is reported to have lost his footing when with friends, he started to climb down the cliff.

Francis Gibbons Takes Peterboro Post

Mr. Francis Gibbons, manager of the Belleville branch of Beatty Bros., Limited, for several years, has been appointed manager of the Peterboro branch of the firm effective July 1. Mr. Gibbons joined the staff of Beatty Bros. limited in Fergus several years ago, and after being stationed at Kingston for time was appointed Belleville manager, during his residence here Mr. Gibbons has made many friends both in business and social circles and won the respect of all by his business ability and exemplary character. He is succeeded by Mr. Charles D. Tripp, as Belleville manager, Mr. Tripp is well known, having been a bicycle ridden by Fred St. Denis, 187 Pinnacle street, Belleville. Fortunately the young man's riding of the bicycle was in full control of his bike and absorbed the impact easily as he fell to the pavement. The maiden damage was amicably settled between the two parties and St. Denis presented Fr. Ellis who bumped into, he had sustained no personal injuries. No charges were laid in the matter.

An automobile driven by John Hamilton, Stanley, collided with another motor car at the intersection of John street and Victoria avenue, last evening, causing the fender damage to the latter vehicle. P. C. Taylor permitted the parties to settle their differences before reporting the accident at the police station.

Life was quiet in and around local police circles during the past 24 hours, two drunks and four truancients sharing the police cell last night. Both pleaded guilty before magisterial liberty today, but the alleged truants were instructed to return in time for police court on Monday when charges will be read against them.

HAIL STORM DAMAGES CROPS

Toronto, July 4.—(CP)—Hail storms which swept over Southern Ontario yesterday afternoon and evening caused considerable damage to crops in the Niagara district, Hamilton and Brantford areas, and in the Lake Simcoe district, it was reported today.

Hail fell in Hamilton for about 15 minutes, and in Brantford for about 20 minutes. Damage to crops in the Niagara district was estimated at from 10 to 15 per cent.

POLICE BLOTTER

While completing the turn at the intersection of Bridge and Front streets yesterday afternoon an automobile driven by F. W. Hudson of Boulter, Ont., collided with a bicycle ridden by Fred St. Denis, 187 Pinnacle street, Belleville. Fortunately the young man's riding of the bicycle was in full control of his bike and absorbed the impact easily as he fell to the pavement. The maiden damage was amicably settled between the two parties and St. Denis presented Fr. Ellis who bumped into, he had sustained no personal injuries. No charges were laid in the matter.

An automobile driven by John Hamilton, Stanley, collided with another motor car at the intersection of John street and Victoria avenue, last evening, causing the fender damage to the latter vehicle. HINTS TO CYCLISTS

His Worship Magistrate R. J. Butler, K.C., has issued from his office a few instructions and suggestions of the rules of the road throughout this district. One of the paramount mistakes made by local cyclists is riding an extra passenger on a bicycle, built for one. It is a serious offence and causes considerable annoyance to motorists. Magistrate Butler pointed out. Other suggestions made by His Worship were—

Watch for "Stop" signs and traffic signals.

Give traffic coming from right the right-of-way at intersections.

Keep your feet on the pedals, your hands on the handlebars.

$3,000,000 Property Loss in Texas Floods Estimated

Cuero, Tex., July 4—(AP)—Sim-dreds of lowland people, warned by disaster upstream, fled from their sandy valleys as the notorious Guadalupe River and gave way to the raging waters of the coastal county of South Texas.

Damage to property and crops nearly ready for harvest mounted from the $2,000,000 mark. Twenty-three persons are known dead, mostly in the area between Austin and San Antonio.

The emergency today was most acute between here and Victoria, a city of 11,000 where the lowlands appeared certain to be flooded as the crest passed; there had risen 28,000 farming acres were inundated and 40 negro homes were evacuated.

WOOLER

Wooler—Mr. A. Durland took home trade load of members of the Sunday School to Cobourg to the picnic on Thursday. Thanks also was served at the noon hour.

Mrs. Dunn of Toronto is spending the week with her grandmother Mrs. Wm. Hall.

UPTON SINCLAIR QUITS POLITICAL ARENA

Pasadena, Calif., July 4—(AP)—"A complete and final" retirement from politics was announced today by Upton Sinclair, who as democratic nominee for Governor California in 1934 sponsored a production-for-use program.

His formal retirement announcement, he said, was in "answer to a request for a statement as to my attitude to various party platforms and candidates"

It's your nervous system that pays the bill. The materials that I use can be obtained from your sources, but not the experienced judgment. More and more people are realizing the fact that the value of a lens lies not in the glass, but in the skill and integrity of the man who prescribes it. Surely the business of fixing is complicated enough for the average person without adding visual handicaps to make the job more difficult! Seeing sharply is only about ½ of the story in OUR service. Dominion Day Observance A Fine Success at Tweed

Tweed—Dominion Day was observed in Tweed with due ceremony on Wednesday. The day's activities under the direction of the Community Club, with Dr. W. A. Thompson, President, and a full public committee, was a complete success. While the crowd was not as large, probably as that in attendance last year, the sports were perfect and featured the complete enjoyment of the spectators. Five small towns can boast as attractive a setting for affairs of this nature as Tweed. Memorial Park on the shore of Stoco Lake in the heart of the village was the scene of the day's sports of keen interest.

The events of the day consisted of a Calithumpian parade, two baseball games, swimming races and other water sports. A band concert by Tweed-Subphide Band and a dance in the evening.

The decorated cars and business floats lined up in the park and led the parade which was headed by Army and Navy Veterans and Bl. Scouts. Crown Royal proceeded the Moscalls Street along Bridge Street returning to the Park again by way of Victoria Street. Several of the business floats were cleverly and attractively gotten up. The Phoenix Hotel's Stash and Door Factory Bus, which was awarded second place by judges S. R. Bolling, W.A. Thompson and Mrs. Hamilton, the various products produced at the factory. Second prize was awarded to the entry of Eldon Wilson, whose Goodyear Tires display was very attractive. Orville Oakley was third prize with his entry which portrayed the advantages of expert workmanship in painting car bodies.

Several very attractively decorated cars also participated rendering difficulty in deciding their placing. They chose an entry made by Miss Nelle Allen and Arthur Kerr. This was a very original and clever reproduction of Noonark in Bird's Eye Centre, as well as a miniature of the Star Weekly. Mr. H. K. Shrut was placed second in the decorated car section and the third section was made by Calvin Macpherson and Bill Hall who cleverly served with Telegram posters.

The complete list of entries was as follows:

Decorated cars—H. K. Shrut, A. Dafoe, A. Paul, Calvin Macpherson, Bill Hall, Arthur Kerr, Miss Nelle Allen.

LEARN TO SWIM

Boys of ten to fifteen years who cannot swim should take advantage of the Y.M.C.A. free instruction offer which has for the second year been made to the young of this city. Physical Director Ralph Mordell will be able to give training which will stand boys in good stead and provide them with exercise, entertainment and an attainment. Under the conditions of a free class for instruction in swimming it should be that in a very short time there will not be a boy in this city who is not able to protect himself in the water and if possible render assistance to some unfortunate who happens to get in distress in the water.

The Y.M.C.A. deserves much credit for sponsoring this community effort and no one will thank the association more than the boys themselves.

BEWARE OF GASOLINE, OILS

At the risk of repeating the time worn advice of prevention of fire and of the risks in the use of inflammable liquids as gasoline or coal oil and other petroleum products, the following warning issued by Ontario Provincial Police Supt. Scott is repeated:

1 Gasoline should not be used in the home for cleaning purposes. A gallon of gasoline when mixed with the air has an explosive force of eighty-two pounds of dynamite, and in addition to the danger of life and person, the statutory conditions in fire insurance policies provide that the presence in the house of more than a quart of gasoline renders the policy void if a fire results.

2 Gasoline for use other than in automobiles should be sold only in an approved safety can, and should never be kept or handled in a glass jar.

3 Gasoline should not be handled in open rooms or halls where vapours may be liberated to the atmosphere, or used in such a way for cleaning purposes in any building or even out of doors so that the resulting vapours will reach any open flame.

4 Recognized solvents should be used for cleaning purposes instead of gasoline, and it should be remembered that while these solvents are not explosive and do not easily vapourize, many of them are still highly flammable.

5 Gasoline or coal oil should never be used for starting fires.

WORK IN FIRE PREVENTION

Fires in the Province of Ontario in the three months just closed totalled 3,459 for a loss of $1,396,784, insurance loss being $1,225,919, and loss not covered by insurance $170,865. These figures compare very favorably with those of the same quarter in 1935, when there were 3,907 fires, with a loss of $2,046,520, made up of insurance loss of $1,724,304 and $322,216 uncovered.

But for the first six months of the year while there were fewer fires by 467 than in the first half of 1935, the loss was slightly higher $159,310, with an insurance loss increase of $230,130 and the uninsured loss lowered by $150,220.

The six months record by classification of risks shows, 154 barns destroyed in 1936 with a loss of $178,052 against 108 for $233,223 in 1935. Dwellings burned or damaged $,947 loss $1,234,395, against 6,346 loss $1,440,805 in 1935. Store fires numbered 603 against 569 and losses $397,562 against $351,623. Factories visited by fire 225 against 188 and loss $732,529 against $372,059.

Report from the fire marshal's office indicates increased number of prosecutions, according to the statement of the Acting Attorney General Hon. Paul LeDuc. Fourteen arson cases have come to trial within the half year and seven cases are pending trial or preliminary hearing. There have been eight convictions for this crime. Negligent causing of fires was charged against five with two convictions and three acquittals.

During the present threshing season, as many thresher fires will be investigated as possible, is the announcement of Fire Marshal W. J. Scott. This is part of a campaign to lessen the number of thresher fires, for last year 62 of these fires destroyed property valued at $198,000. Suggestions have been sent to 6,000 licensed threshermen by the fire marshal.

EVERYBODY LIKES TO TRAVEL EVEN IF THEY LIVE TO STAY AT HOME. If they are denied the privilege of travelling in person travel-minded folks can travel in proxy through other travellers, in books or newspaper articles. Hence it is not surprising that the recent articles of Mr. G. M. James, of Belleville, in the Ontario Intelligencer, won many interested readers. Since his return Mr. James states that he has had many letters expressing appreciation for the letters and assuring him that they would watch for future travel letters from his pen. Belleville, Ont.
Dear Mr. James:

As an old Belleville boy, and one who has been engaged in journalism for many years, I take this opportunity of conveying to you my appreciation of the instructive and entertaining letters which you have been contributing to the Ontario-Intelligencer during the past few weeks. I have perused every one of your articles, and enjoyed the information brought them to a close. Your letters contain an admirable summing up of conditions, customs, ideals and associations of the various countries which you visited.

I will await with much interest the appearance of your new book on "Divorce, Its Cause and Cure". This is a subject which has not received enough attention from those who might be in a position—like yourself—to shed new light and offer sane, practical, solutions for those difficulties which too frequently seek their remedy in the divorce courts.

It is also a pleasure to notice the staunch and able manner in which you have upheld Canadian institutions, and the attractions and assets of our fair country.

If you are having the various letters published in book form, I will be glad to take a copy and receive advice regarding the price and probable date of its appearance.

Hoping that you may long live to take other extended trips and gladden the readers of the Ontario-Intelligencer with reports of your impressions and observations gathered en route, I remain, with best wishes,

Sincerely yours,
G. B. VanBlaricom

MAX SCHMELING, leaving Germany to come to America for his contest with Joe Louis, was not permitted to take any money out of that country except his bare expenses. Selling back to the wrights the dirigible Hindenberg Max took all the money he won on the fight over one hundred thousand dollars, sans $40,000 that the U. S. Government seized for income tax. What's sauce for the goose should be applesauce for the gander and Uncle Sam should have impounded the entire purse rather than permit Der Maxie to hustle back to Germany with it. Once there it will never return, for Germany now believes, or acts upon, the good British maxim, WHAT WE HAVE WE HOLD—permits money to enter Germany and prohibits its return journey.

Trenton and District

Trenton, July 4 (Special)—On a visit, to the New Empire Food Product plant yesterday, The Belleville Ontario Intelligencer learned that when completed it will be the most efficient establishment of its kind in Canada. Quality is the pride of the company. Although the fresh, salt, Hec and lack of rain have been an impediment to the pea crop this year, officials state that the growth and quality of the harvest will be better than expected. In what was once the Quality Canners factory, the Empire Food Products have engaged a whole new system which not only makes production more efficient but quicker, thus turning out a far superior quality. At present fifty men are employed and the number will be increased during the rush. Next year it is expected that another complete canning line will be installed raising the employment up to 200 persons. Peas and corn are the only edible items but will be produced this year. The peas are vined in the farmers' fields and when he brings his load to the modern platform of the factory, ten pounds of the shelled peas are taken from the load and graded. The result at the grading is called field grade. Field grade are numbered from one to five and the farmer is paid according to the quality. Peas are rather than permit Der Maxie to hustle back to Germany with it. Once there it will never return, for Germany now believes, or acts upon, the good British maxim, WHAT WE HAVE WE HOLD—permits money to enter Germany and prohibits its return journey.

NEWSPAPER ADS. ARE CALLED BEST

Electrical Convention Speakers Put Newspapers First

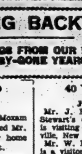
Ottawa, July 4 (CP)—Importance of advertising, especially in newspapers, was stressed in an address by F. C. Adam of Toronto before the joint convention of the Associations of Municipal Utilities and the Ontario Municipal Electric Association.

Mr. Adam, assistant engineer in the Municipal Engineering Department of the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission, said: "Local newspapers invariably provide the most profitable medium for telling consumers and prospective consumers about the advantages of electrical service."

The convention which ended Friday also heard forecasts by Samuel G. Ribbon of Bloomfield, N.J., of new forms of lighting giving greater efficiency and more beautiful effects. Mr. Ribbon, director of applied lighting for the Westinghouse Lamp Company, said the present tungsten-filament lamp probably would remain in use for a long time, but that recent research opened other fields of illumination.

He spoke of using ultra-violet light, invisible to the eye but possessing the power of making fluorescent substances glow, which it is reflected, so that an indirect lighting scheme could achieve in a room entirely new color scheme at night, using the walls, hangings and furnishings to glow as if they emanated light.

Ultra-violet light is produced artifically by mercury-vapor lamps. He also spoke of sodium-vapor lamps opening the way to brighter lighting and increased night-driving safety.



Discussing the property of rare atmospheric gases, and from studies of the aurora borealis," he said, "we find in our air a most magical assortment of lamps that are caused to glow by merely introducing them into the presence of an electric field."

He spoke of quartz capsules "the size of a peanut" used in laboratories to produce 10 million (light units) per watt of electricity, compared with 15 or 20 lumens per watt provided by present-day filament lamps.

PLAYWRIGHT TEST IFIES IN SUIT

Charles MacArthur, playwright, testified in the disputed sale in the $100,000 alienation-of-affections suit against his wife, Helen Hayes stage and screen star, with whom he is shown, brought by Carol Frink, his first wife, a Chicago dramatic critic. He identified numerous letters, many signed with "X's" and pet names. The suit has been withdrawn following Sherry victorious in the defence.

Helen Hayes to Tour Europe For Relief after Court Drama

MacARTHUR LETTERS

Chicago, July 4 (AP)—Helen Hayes and Charles MacArthur looked to a European vacation today for relief from their trying roles in a sensational divorce trial which ended in the old eternal triangle.

They were free to return to New York and later cross the Atlantic after the $100,000 alienation of affections suit brought by Carol Frink, first wife of the playwright, against Miss Hayes' present actor-husband had been dismissed in circuit court yesterday.

There were three days of hearings. Hilarity rivalling that of the "Front Page" play MacArthur helped write ruled the second session. The finale was a display of tears.

Miss Frink, drama critic for a Chicago newspaper whose 1929 marriage to MacArthur ended in a 1936 divorce, was on the witness stand for cross-examination. Defence counsel J. F. Reese swept his arm toward the defendant and her husband—married in 1928—and asked:

Widow Happiness.

"Do you wish them happiness?"

"Yes."

The blond witness' eyes moistened. MacArthur and his actress wife watched. A moment later Miss Frink's head was bowed and she sobbed.

Attorney Samuel Golan announced his client had pressed the action filed four months ago "without thought of getting a cent", but to seize the opportunity of telling her story of those who thought she was a gold digger."

"It is Miss Frink's belief," he said, "that there was no malice whatever on the part of Helen Hayes when she became engaged to MacArthur."

MacArthur stopped shaking hands long enough to declare himself the "goat" of the hearings and announced it was a lot of fun until those old miseries he had penned in his former wife were produced. He didn't relish the one signed "Charliekrust".

"There ought to be a law," he declared, "against introducing love letters more than fifteen years old in open court."

'TRENCH MOUTH' AT R. R. RELIEF WORK

Saskatoon, July 4—(CP)—"Trench Mouth" has been discovered among men working on the Federal Government railways relief works program, gang number 3 at Hawker, seven miles south of Saskatoon, Thomas M. Molloy, Provincial Deputy Minister of Labor and Public Welfare, stated in a letter read to the Saskatoon Workers' Unites last night.

A medical officer has been sent to visit the camp for the purpose of "checking the necessary steps to combat the disease" the Deputy Minister's letter said.

HUGGARD STARTS HOME IN CUSTODY

Police Taking Prisoner by Boat to Vancouver And Then by Rail

Los Angeles, July 4 (AP)—Handcuffed to two Canadian policemen, John J. Huggard, Deseronto, Ont., attorney, was placed on the liner H. F. Alexander yesterday enroute to Vancouver and Toronto on charges of embezzlement.

The escorts, Inspector R. C. Curnett and Constable W. H. Clark, plan to complete the trip from Vancouver by rail. They arrived today.

Goderich, July 4 (CP)—Preparation of the brief for the prosecution of John J. Huggard, Seaforth lawyer, being brought back from Los Angeles to face embezzlement charges, got under way today with the arrival at A. W. Vertig, accountant of the Ontario Securities Commission, who is assisting the Crown.

All books and documents from the Huggard office and those of the Toronto bond dealers, Gordon G. MacLaren and Robert Fleischer have been brought here, MacLaren and Fletcher were bonded as witnesses in Huggard's disappearance.

Inspector Charles Gurnett and Constable Clark are expected to arrive here in the afternoon with Huggard. The route home to be taken is not known. Officers are expected to reach here by Thursday, and if so Huggard will immediately appear before Magistrate J. A. Makins of Stratford, who holds court here on Thursday.

MacLaren and Fletcher are charged with forgery and uttering securities allegedly stolen by Huggard from his clients. Fletcher is manager of the local bank of Commerce here in 1910-11.

CANADIAN NATIONAL RAILWAYS

WINTER RELIEF SOLUTION TEASES

Employment Expected to Rise During Next Few Months

Ottawa, July 4—(CP)—With relief camps closed and employment at the highest early-summer figure since 1931, discussion of political observers in the capital was focused on the National Employment Commission which next helps the government find a solution to next winter's relief problem.

The commission, headed by Arthur R. Purvis of Montreal, must survey the whole relief situation, make a re-registration of persons on relief in all provinces and establish a basis of relief payments that will meet the situation accurately in each province.

Employment was expected to improve further during the summer. Dominion Bureau of Statistics figures for June 1 showed 9631,613 on the nation's payrolls then. Subsequently many men were shifted out of relief camps to maintenance jobs on the railways.

There was no estimate available of the number of men to be employed in connection with the Dominion Provincial projects to be launched on a 50-50 expenditure basis with funds totalling more than $20,000,000. Much of this work will be highway construction.

The commission and the government, however, are faced with next winter. Most of the work created by governments, as well as farm labor, is seasonal and will end when the snow flies. The winter's big seasonal job in the densely populated east is lumbering and it seldom absorbs as many men as are employed on farms and peaches now.

Advice to the Lovelorn
By Beatrice Fairfax

(Copyright, 1936, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

HERE'S THE WAY OUT FOR BORED HUSBANDS

"There isn't anything really wrong with my wife, except that she no longer interests me emotionally. I take her to a movie, or to a good restaurant for dinner and I know in advance everything she is going to say or do.

"Can we afford to have such an expensive divorce? Can we afford that cocktail? Do you think that woman's hair is becoming? And so on till I could howl.

"Another thing is, I cut the last year of college to get married; did that in spite of my dad, and took a job in which there is no future. It pays a decent salary, but that is all it will ever pay me. There is no other woman in my life positively. I'm only bored by a humdrum existence. We have two children, or the solution would be easier.

"Bored."

As I read your letter, I was prepared for the introduction to the "dearest girl in the world," who had come between you and your present domesticity of its sort. But apparently there isn't any "dearest girl." In that respect your letter differs from that of the average married man who has developed a case of good deal of dust and cinders in his daily bore.

You don't state your age, but if you're not your wife's mother you must know there's mighty little movie glamour in real life. The fairy godmother doesn't change pumpkin into the golden coach, and rats into horses with clinder-ella.

Yet she hope for a fairy godmo-if she were brilliant.

MOURNING

Dear Mrs. Beechman:

A friend of mine lost her father. She has gone into mourning, not full mourning, but all in black, including black stockings and black-bordered handkerchiefs. She has not yet left the house without all black, that she feels very deeply the loss of her father. He was elderly, years old.

Another friend of mine lost her husband. She wears black dresses with white lace collarettes. She too feels her loss, but considers that it's proper for her to wear all-black, says it isn't correct, no matter what the relationship.

Please tell us which is correct.

Mrs. Ida.

The first friend, the one who is wearing all-black after the death of her husband, is correct. I don't mean that it is necessary for every one to wear all-black. But I mean that it is correct for her to wear all-black because as she says she feels very deeply the loss.

For nowadays we wear the type of mourning we feel. We wear very deep mourning. If we wish, semi-mourning. If we wish, no mourning. We do not have to wear black at all if we do not wish! It is entirely a personal matter, and nothing else. However, if a person feels that the wearing of mourning is the fitting way to mourn in our hearts not by means of the clothes we wear. However, if a person feels that the wearing of mourning is the fitting way, any even slight way, makes it easier, then she is wise to wear the clothes that will make it easier, make it easier. It is for the person to decide. . . and it is for us to be very grateful that anything can make things easier during those terrible and difficult days of readjustment without the loved one.

The proper time for the wearing of mourning is a great protection, a protection of their spirits from the outside world. To other people the wearing of mourning means an increase of heartfelt blackness. We should respect the point of view of both groups.

Your other friend, the one who lost her husband, is, therefore, right if she wishes to wear black and white as her type of mourning.

Grief, (I) is a small detail, but since she is choosing to wear black and white, it is better taste for her to wear white organdy or plain linen collars instead of white lace collarettes.

She isn't right, however, when she says that it is correct for her to wear all-black, that all-black is correct no matter what the relationship". It is, of course, proper for a widow to wear all-black for a considerable after the death of her husband. Indeed, most widows do wear all-black for at least several months, often for a year. But it is the world say that she does that's why she is wearing it, then it is correct for her to do as she wishes in the matter of mourning wear.

SALAD

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I read your letter the other day that it is correct, when I serve a salad with the meat course, to place a salad fork at the left of the plate, and a fork with which to eat the salad.

Alice.

SALUTATION

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

When a girl and a man meet on the street, who speaks first?

T.M.T.

The girl is the one who is given the privilege of first acknowledging an acquaintanceship with a man.

Help Child to Form Own Opinions

Writer Tells Parents That Thinking For Children is Useless

By LISA GRENELLE

WHEN MOTHER took Johnnie out strolling along the golf course opposite the purple hills, she always would stand and tell him what to say. "Aren't they pretty, Johnnie?"

Johnnie would obediently bend over on his short, seven-year-old legs and say nothing. And one could not be surprised her by disagreeing with her: "No, not—pretty," he said with slow earnestness.

"Why, Johnnie! How can you say they're not pretty?" mother said, displaying surprise and annoyance in her voice. Then she laughed. "Come now, let's go home, or I'll see if she were talking to a naughty baby.

But Johnnie dropped her hand and went on sargrily glaring at the hills. They weren't pretty. He managed to some other world he didn't yet know. Why did grown-ups always treat you as if you were naughty or silly when you didn't agree with them? That was what his sister was becoming such a copy-cat always saying what she had heard mother say, pretending to think what mother thought, even when she felt the opposite. Johnnie knew she was afraid mother would be mad or treat her like a baby who didn't know anything, or maybe laugh at her.

Sensitive, Too

Children, no matter how small, are as sensitive about their opinions and prejudices as we are. To be scorned or laughed at has the same effect on them that it would have on an Elder: it crushes them, makes them feel foolish, in the wrong, discourages them from any further independent thinking, and it makes them on the defensive as it did Johnnie. In many children, too, a stubborn, antagonistic determination to protect and preserve their right to think for themselves, and they come to overcherish it, become close-minded, unbelieving, hardened and badly adjusted.

Parents, even the best of them, incline to think for their children, especially when they are small. It seems so much simpler, more economical after all, the parent thinks better judgment, greater knowledge because he has had more practice. His opinion is apt to be considered based on a wider range of experience. But some day the child must think for himself and Years Ahead.

It is natural and healthy for children to disagree with their parents, and it's good for the parents, too. Every parent has as much to learn from his child as the child has to learn from him, if not more. An opinion, if it is honest, deserves the respect and attention, no matter how young the person who utters it may be, even the opinion of four-year-old Alice.

Fashion Flashes

(Copyright, 1936, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

DAYLIGHT DINING calls for lovely hats, either large or small, but definitely feminine. Any number is a logue of white grosgrain with huge daisies nodding gally all over it.

GOOD SUPPORT for ankles isn't always available in beach shoes. So we've added a new ankle strap of white cotton with red lockings and red bindings.

MUST is the rule when it comes to culotte skirts. Culotte frocks have to have supercharged slacks or shorts, judging from those we have seen. The latest are of white linen and on board ship. A two-piece model of flowered chaille has its culotte skirt cut from a straight piece, ingenious pleats so that it is nice for town. Its bandeau top pocess frill about short, cuffed sleeves.

OLD WORLD CHARM is the motif of a frock with black silk net of yards and yards of beige silk and linen fabric gathered under the bodice of the satin lined in black. Matching gloves are worn.

ALLURE IN EVERY FOLD seems to be the motto of the new evening frocks made to enhance the glamour of a feminine figure. Full charm is a frock of yellow organza, which is stiff silk organdie. It has crisp ruffles on the shoulder and high in front and very low in back. In fact, the back decolletage reaches to the waist where there is a bunch of tiny crimson roses.

POETRY

THE VILLAGE
On the occasion of the Re-union at Ameliasburg

By Dorothy Anne Clarke

I know of a long, lone village street where the painted houses gleam.
Where the peaceful farms lie all about, and the river runs in a dream,
And fair is the place to the eyes of youth, but fairer the highroads yonder.

The roads lead over the broad, green earth. "Come, follow me, Come!" they say.
And many there be that heed their call, and do not say them nay,
But follow the roads and view their names in places far away.

And some of the names are large and fair, and cherished to endure,
And some of the names are cramped and small, and yet their permanence is sure,
For each must write with the tools he has, in the space he can procure.

Between the strokes of the tools they write when their thoughts have leave to run.
To the glad, green farms they turn their eyes, for many and many a one,
And they seem to walk on the long, long street, where the houses gleam in the sun.

Alexis Carrel a world-famous scientist, winner of the Nobel prize in 1912 and member of the Rockefeller Institute, New York, turns his scientific powers to the study of the most mysterious of all creatures in the book "Man, the Unknown". This presentation of his philosophy discloses conclusions reached through long years of study and contemplation of the wonder of human existence. His book leads in the New world and in the Old; the New world of scientific experiment and the Old world of experiences and philosophy. In his book, the author limits his statements concerning man to the record of the facts which he has observed. He leaves the reader to his own conclusions. The atmosphere of the book is one of dignity and reserve, yet having a variety of subject and a brave disregard of currently accepted beliefs. Dr. Carrel aims to show how a stronger, healthier race may be developed capable of surviving the evils of the day. "Man, the Unknown", has been hailed as possessing the qualities which make great books. This book is that rare phenomenon a scientific volume which became a best-seller.

Count Corti, author of the popular volumes, "The House of Rothschild", "The Wizard of Monte Carlo", has turned to one of the most beautiful women of Europe in his latest book, "Elizabeth Empress of Austria". Wife of the Emperor Francis Joseph, Elizabeth played a large part in reconciling Austria and Hungary. Her life, filled with tragedy, came to an end when she was assassinated in Switzerland by an Italian anarchist. Count Corti has had access to the Hapsburg archives and has been able to draw on a vast store of documents, but has not been subservient to them. He has also obtained that balance of perspective which comes with years.

"Through Wildest Papua" by J.O. Hides tells of adventure in the island of New Guinea, a spot still imperfectly explored and with head hunting tribes. Mr. Hides was once an officer in the small police force. He knows the land well and he tells of many strange experiences when, for months at a time, he crossed mountains and cut through forests in search of cannibals. His life was one of tragedy and hardship, of attacks from hostile tribes, among them a band of pygmies. Sir Hubert Murray, Lieutenant-Governor of Papua speaks of the work of Patrol Officer Hides and his men in his preface to the book. He is typical of the police work done in the Papuan Mountains which has, on the whole, fortunately, not a rare virus and has been free from the scourge of war. Mr. Hides and his fellow workers are brave men; but what I think remarkable about them is that they really feel that these natives, savage and head-hunting though they may be, are men like themselves. "I say this because it is not very great." Many photographs of Papuan life add to the interest of the book.

Turning from police methods in the Papuan Mountains to those in the metropolitan centres, we find the methods employed in dealing with criminals in the book "Crime I Knew Them In Prison" by Mary Belle Harris. Dr. Harris is a psychiatrist of the reader with a special interest in people. Dr. Harris has been for years the superintendent of the Federal Industrial Institution for Women at Clinton, West Virginia. There she put in practice the lessons she had learned from experience in a number of other institutions. For years Dr. Harris has made human misery her problem and her methods are therefore based on knowledge and even in resentment of its liberty, is decent."—K.G.

Weddings

TAYLOR—LATTIMER

Bridge Street United Church will be the scene of an interesting wedding today when Helen Grant, daughter of Mrs. Lattimer and the late Mr. Lattimer, and only granddaughter of the late Rev. Joseph H. Lewis, Toronto, will be united in marriage to Mr. Gordon Grant Taylor, only son of Mr. and Mrs. John T. Taylor, of Hull, Quebec.

Rev. Dr. F. R. Malott of Brockville will officiate, assisted by Rev. W. James Semple, minister of the Church. Professor Hunt, organist of the Church, will preside at the organ. Miss Norma Biggs will sing "Beloved It Is Morn" during the signing of the register.

The bride will be given in marriage by her uncle, Dr. G. H. Locke, Toronto, and will wear a charming wedding gown of white suede lace made on long simple lines of bell shape with high neckline. Her tulle veil will be arranged in cap effect with orange blossomed to fall softly over her train. She will carry a shower bouquet of Sweetheart roses, forget-me-nots, lily of the valley and boronia.

Miss Bridesmaids, Miss Claire Taylor of Hull, sister of the groom, and Miss Isabel Christie of Guelph and Miss Isabel Christie of Guelph will be gowned alike in turquoise taffeta made on long full skirts with shoulder capes of net. They will carry bouquets of pale pink taffeta and carry arm bouquets of pink sweet peas. Miss Marie and Miss Marilyn Shields, twin daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Charles B. Shields of Toronto, and nieces of the groom, will wear pale net over pink taffeta made in Kate Greenaway style with puffs bonnets of net to match and turquoise blue sashes. They will carry old-fashioned nosegays.

The groom has been appointed by Dr. L. Grant Reid, of Montreal. The ushers will be, Mr. W. Bruce Hutchison, brother of the bride, Mr. Clifton R. Lane and Mr. Nelson M. Davis of Toronto.

After the ceremony a reception will be held at the Bay of Quinte Country Club. The bride's mother will receive, wearing a gown of printed chiffon in deep yellow and blue shades, with a large lingham hat of gray blue. She will wear a shower bouquet of roses and blue cornflowers. The groom's mother will also receive wearing a rose beige chiffon gown with insets of chantilly lace and a matching hat in rust shades. Her corsage will be Talon roses and blue cornflowers.

For travelling the bride will leave on a motor trip through the Canyon of the Rockies. The bride will travel in a navy blue and white check silk suit with navy blue hat and white accessories. On their return they will reside at 101 Lawton Blvd., Toronto.

HOWES—ABBOTT

A quiet but pretty wedding took place at the United Church parsonage at Thomasburg, on Saturday, July 4th, when Aletha Grace only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Abbott, became the bride of Mr. Franklin Abbott, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Howes, Rev. H. B. Herrington.

The bride was prettily attired in a dress of navy blue crepe with accessories to match carrying a bouquet of pink roses and baby's breath. After the ceremony, the bride received at the home of her parents where a wedding supper was served. Amid showers of confetti the happy couple left for a honeymoon trip to Montreal.

How Often Should One Wash Hair?

(By Helen Follett)

How often should the glorious hair have a soothing and a ducking? That depends. Oily hair can be washed only if it is shampooed every ten days. By that time it looks like something that has come has licked; the wave lines break and what was a fluffy thing becomes a matted fringe. A shamp of soap is often advisable. What appears to be shampoo may be rubbing on almost all should be melted.

Hair which doesn't cling to dust need not be washed oftener than every two weeks. Dust will adhere if it gets its tubbing it should be well lubricated with olive or mineral oil. After is is dried and the tangled wave has been laid in, brilliantine should be sprayed with brilliantine.

If one lives where the atmosphere is filled with flying dust or soot, the shampoo should be frequent.

Properly done, a shampoo is a scalp treatment. Begin with a thorough rubbing and give the scalp a five-minute friction. Rinse with warm water, using a spray with a strong current. This first rinsing will remove surface dirt. Soapy soldings can not too many when the hair is conditioned to be oily.

To develop the bust make it a daily practice to spray the breast with cold water. Do that in the morning.

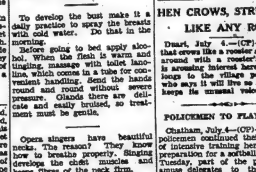
Before going to bed apply skin tonic to the throat in warm and tingling, massage with toilet lanolin, which when in a tube for convenient handling. Send the hands round and round, upward and outward. Hands there are delicate and easily bruised, so treatment must be gentle.

Opera singers have beautiful necks. The reason? They know how to breathe correctly. Simply develops the chest muscles and throws back the head.

The habit of holding the chin low has ruined many a neckline. Keep the muscles go limp, tiresome say and the jig is up. Carry the head sprightly and whenever you have a spare moment, do neck exercises. They only take a minute. Throw the head back, drop the lower jaw and lift it with a hard muscle tug. Turn the head from side to side. Clasp the hands in back at the hairline, lift the chin high and press hard on the flesh with the fingers.

Anita Louise
Her glorious tresses and scalp receive constant care.

HEN CROWS, STRUTS
LIKE ANY ROOSTER



Dmart, July 4.—(CP)—A hen that crows like a rooster and struts around with a rooster's bearing is arousing interest here. It belongs to the village postmaster, Tuesday, part of the program to amuse delegates to the Ontario Police Association Convention. There will play Silverwoods, a girls' team.

Hectic Experiences "Just Water Under The Bridge"

Seattle, Wash., July 4 (AP) — A Safe and Sane" Fourth was Marion A. Zioncheck's prescription after the rollicking Washington congressman had predicted there would be "a lot of heads hammering" today before the week was through.

The 32-year-old capering Congressman resolved to spend a quiet holiday with his wife and children after his hectic experiences which reached a climax last Thursday when he jumped over a fence and escaped from a Maryland institution for mental patients.

Such episodes, he declared, were "water-under-the-bridge, or rather slimey-over-the-fence."

Whereupon he doffed his shirt, donned a false black beard, arranged his hair over on his head, put his right hand in a . apoleon-like gesture across his shirt front, posed for photographers, explaining it was a disguise he would assume while on the land of his political enemies."

When his wife was asked if she thought her husband "was crazy" she replied indignantly:

"That phrase should never be used in connection with him—never."

"Now, honey," Zioncheck remonstrated. "That's not the right answer. You should say: 'If he's crazy that's the way I like him.'"

"Well," she amended, "if he's crazy on any subject, it's about me."

SUIT IS WITHDRAWN

Carol Frink, Chicago dramatic critic who sued Helen Hayes for $100,000 for alienation of affections, said Charles MacMurray, her former husband, "suddenly grabbed me, stepped on my feet, leaned me on the hose and said he loved me" on their first "date." When the case was withdrawn from the court she said she was sorry for those remarks and added that she was convinced that Miss Hayes showed no malice in her betrothal to MacArthur.

Acclaimed Robert Taylor and Loretta Young as Film's Perfect Team

What is being acclaimed the screen's "perfect team" comes today to the Belle Theatre, for a three days' engagement in the 20th Century Fox production of "Private Number." Handsome Robert Taylor and lovely Loretta Young are costarred and the combination is said to be the outstanding film romantic team since Janet Gaynor and Charles Farrell were first cast together.

Romance, in fact is the keynote of "Private Number," although comedy, drama and suspense are in the interwoven in the plot.

Robert Taylor falls in love with his employer's personal maid while on a summer vacation in Maine. The girl is convinced that nothing permanent can possibly come of such a social mixture but she loves him so much that she accedes to his wishes and marries him.

Taylor wants to inform his family immediately but Loretta persuades him that it will be better to wait until he finishes his college course. Loretta stays on in her position and Taylor returns to school.

Loretta's forebodings are realized and she is treated so cruelly by Taylor's family that she runs away and has her baby secretly.

Taylor returns home and finds that his wife has disappeared. The family conceals the fact that they discovered where the girl away and attempted to persuade Taylor that she was only a gold digger.

Taylor and Miss Young are said to reach a new high in romantic portrayals in the picture concludes with a thrilling climax, in a crowded courtroom scene, and the Young men meet again . . . and the riddle of the whereabouts of their love can continue to exist is answered.

Safe Crackers Crack Door and Take $60

New Hamburg, Ont., July 4—(CP)—Expert safe crackers, using nitroglycerine and nine glycerine, today cracked the door from the safe at the Canadian National Railways station and escaped with approximately $60.

The explosion was so loud that it awakened members of the Scheefer family, residing only a short distance away. The robbers left the ticket office, where the safe had been located, in rather a mess. The door had been blown off the strong box and when police arrived it was found that pieces of steel from the safe had been lodged in the ceiling and a number of windows in the building had been shattered.

"The Voice of Bugle Ann."

Can a man be so loyal to a dog as to commit murder for it?

This strange trick in human psychology is the crux of one of the most unusual motion documents ever to come to the screen, "The Voice of Bugle Ann," with Lionel Barrymore and Maureen O'Sullivan coming Monday to the Capitol Theatre.

Based on MacKinlay Kantor's novel, which in turn was based on an actual court case in Missouri, it tells the story of a veteran Missouri fox hunter and his favourite dog, to whom which he lies a man and goes to prison. It is held that the grateful hound is a dog chaser. Senator's Vest's famous speech which figures in the trial scene.

The man and dog episode is set in a romance of Missouri love, feuds and rivalry. Interesting angles, complete pack of Missouri hounds and a mock chase are shown on Mayer studios, and actual fox hunts staged, but as is done in the film industry of the Mid-Western state.

Several members of the cast of "Ah Wilderness!" again appear with Barrymore. Ann Rutherford in his son, Andy, a Missouri farm boy and Spring Byington in again in the mother role. Maureen O'Sullivan has the femine lead opposite Lionel, and Henry Hull, Charles Grapewin, James Macklin, Billy Newell, Henry Wadsworth and Spencer Charters.

Dramatic highlights in the picture are the hunting scenes, the fury of the puppy amid the thunderstorm and the rescue, the coming of the stranger from the North who built barbed wire fences, the loss of "Bugle Ann," the desperate efforts of the heroine to prevent the trial, the jury room scenes, farmer gather, the, trial with Barrymore's dramatic tribute to the dog, and the conversation with Ann and the cast of Bugle Ann is settled in the hills to which the old foot-hunter returns.

Tigers Ride Winning Streak Pulling Up to Second Place In American League Race

Gehringer Helps Defeat Browns by Hitting Homer

ROOKIE HURLER WINS

White Sox Pitcher Makes Second Winning Start

That Tigers's been making raw meat again.

It seems all that was needed to make those Detroits see red was to tell them they were a one-or-two-man ball club. So now that they've shook 'em up with that "you're-no-good - school - boy - outfield" and "Greenberg's-your-only-hitter" stuff —they're proceeding to take the American League from the Yankees for the first time in weeks.

With a marked fancy reversal for the better in the pitching department, Tigers are riding a seven-game winning streak, four of which are of their longest of the season, and have pulled up from fifth place to second in ten days.

Giving the over-worked Schoolboy Rowe, Elden Auker and Tommy Bridges a rest, Mgr. Steve Owen sent Lawson against the Brownies in his first start since April 30, and he turned in a steady performance.

Boston Now Fourth.

In the only other major league game played yesterday, Cleveland's Chicago White Sox came from behind to beat Boston Red Sox 6-5, which pulled Boston Red Sox out of the second division, and into a tie for fourth place with the Indians. Earl Whitehill, White Sox' rookie pitcher of the big-league Dallas trend all represented in the lineups of the Yankees and other outfits this year, made his second start and chalked up his second win, holding the heavy-hitting Indians to seven singles.

The Senators' game at Philadelphia, only other game scheduled in the calm before the July 4 double-header-storm was called off because of the weather.

JUNIOR HURLER ALLOWS ONE HIT

Behind the one-hit pitching of Jack Kelleher the Belleville Kiwanis Juniors defeated the Canniffon nine of the South Hastings League by the score of 6 to 2 in the northern village last evening. The game was halted in the fifth frame owing to darkness after Kelleher had struck out nine homesteys, issued two walks and allowed one stingy hit, throughout which he received errorless support.

Bonsky, the Kiwanis kids' third sacker, cuffed the second pitched ball of the game for a home run, that put the Kiwanis in a lead they never headed. "Wild Bill" Hammond started on the second for the homesters and although he helped the visitors to two safe blows, Hammond whiffed a brace, one of whom subsequently scored. With the count standing 3 to 0 against them Hammond was replaced by Art Mason in the fifth. Mason allowed two hits and walked an equal number during his three innings on the hilltop.

Kelleher whiffed nine Canniffon batters and breezed along nicely until the fourth, when he passed two in succession only to have Bob Simpson, Canniffon's initial sacker, collect the home club's lone hit, that resulted in two runs being scored. Bonsky, Weeks and McCabe each had a hit for the winners while Cannon collected two safeties for the Barrett-coached kids.

The line-ups: Belleville Kiwanis Juniors—Bonsky, 3b; Weeks, 2b; Whalen, c; McCabe, ss; Cannon, lb; Mansfield, lf; Doherty, rf; Bawden, cf and Kelleher p. Canniffon—Hammond, p and ss; Moore, ss and p; Murray, 2b; Orser, c; Simpson, 1b; Jarrell cf; Webb, 3b; Brown, rf and Jones, lf.

WITH THE LAWN BOWLERS

by GEO. E. WATKIN

Our tournament was a decided success on Wednesday. The weather was ideal and we had a record turnout.

We wish to thank the ladies for providing meals at the club. This is a great convenience to the players and is appreciated.

Andy Williamson and C. Davis sprang a surprise when they beat Ross Hamlett and Wiggins in the first round. This is a hard team for any man's team to beat.

Charlie Sparrow and John Shaw did themselves proud. John played a real game all day and of course Charlie is always there. They deserved to win. Congratulations.

Messrs. Belair and Art Wesley played a real game. Art, a new player, led a good game all through. We have never played before.

Geo. Walkin and Norm Edwards did well. Norm, a new player this year, played a good game all day. He had good support from Green and Topping he coil-bowled Topping and to do that he had to be good.

Charlie Symons and Will Harden played well. They were in the semi-finals of both events and deserved a better fate.

Heard on the green:

John: "Charlie, I am a little tender. How far is that from the kitty?"

Charlie: "About two inches be up next time."

The tournament was in the hands of Bob Drear. There is a lot of work for one man with such a large entry. Bob did a real job and everything went smoothly. Thanks Bob.

Will members kindly mark their cars next to the bowling green and not on the east side. It makes it very inconvenient for residents on the east side of the street.

There were about 22 rinks from outside points. This is a record. Was it to see Port Dover defeated once again.

We missed Bill Whitby of Stirling. Bill was up at Huntsville in a convention.

Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Walker will be leaving us shortly to take up residence in Saskatoon. Mrs. Walker's departure will be a great loss to the ladies' club. As convener of the games committee this year she has done wonderful work. Dave will also be missed by all members of the men's club. We wish them luck.

Some one paid their entry fee twice on Monday. If it is you, see the president.

LEAFS BEATEN IN FIFTEENTH

Dickshot Scores Deciding Run With Booming Homer

As long as the home run hitters are present and the fences inviting-ly near, no International League club can count a game as won until it is over.

Only two games were played yesterday but home runs played the deciding parts in both. Good pitching also had a lot to do with the results, which increased Newark's league lead and sent the Baltimore Bob-little closer to the second-place Rochester Red Wings.

Newark's Bears, who haven't seen much good hurling lately except from the opposition, got their second straight expert performance with Howard LaRamie doing the trick against Syracuse. LaRamie, making his first start of the season, was touched for 11 hits, but he managed to bear down when the going got tough and came out 5-3 when Ralph Boyle contributed a timely home run.

Boyle's blow came with two mates on bases in the seventh inning, sending LaRamie and Roy Schalk home with the deciding runs just after Don Chile had scored when in the same inning to take the lead.

Buffalo's seventh inning rally for its deciding boundary belt after a ninth inning tie against Max Macoly had tied the count at 3-3. Macoly and Truett Sewell had battled through the early innings on even terms. Then in the ninth Si Johnson and Art Garibaldi came up the burden and neither allowed a run with Johnson getting credit for the last half of the fifteenth. Then Johnny Dickshot, the Bisons' minute man, belted one over the fence to break up the ball game.

Two afternoon contests, Rochester at Montreal and Albany at Baltimore, were rained out.

SWIM PROGRAM ON AT THE "Y"

Free Swimming Instruction Will be Given by Ralph Mordon

With the July 1 Aquatic programme over and the boys off to the Minto Lake Camp, a special swim programme is being arranged by physical director Mordon and his volunteer helpers, effective now to July 18th, for members of the association and beginning July 6th for the boys taking advantage of the free swimming instruction. Members of the Junior Division (Preps and Juniors) will swim on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday mornings at 10 o'clock, commencing July 6th the Free Swimming Instruction Campaign for boys 10 to 15 years will begin and this group will come in at 8:30 a. m. on Monday, Wednesday and Friday. All boys wishing to take advantage of this offer are requested to fill out one of the coupons appearing in this paper and the last week in July will be accepted and admitted into the class. These coupons should be handed in at the office of the Y. M. C. A. before July 6th.

The information obtained in the free Swimming Campaign were highly satisfactory and for this reason Mr. Mordon and his staff of the directors of the Association to repeat the campaign this year. During this period of instruction physical director Mordon will be assisted by assistants, Messrs. Hewitt Kerr and Arthur Martin, two members of the Association Swimming Club who have qualified for their positions as life-savers in the National W.M.C.A. Swimming and Life-Saving programme.

Belleville Sargents Now In Second Place

Belleville-Sargents took undisputed possession of second place in the local Industrial softball loop last night, when they took Opticals into camp at Coleman's Flats by a 13-7 score.

Scoring seven runs in the first two innings, the "cockroaches" were never headed and clustered timely hits in the remaining innings to put the game on ice. Opticals nearly threw on level terms in the fifth but good hurling by Hughes choked off the threatened rally.

Keegan went the route for the losers but failed to stop the pounding bludgeons of the opposition.

Barrigan stole the batting limelight with three hits while Hurst of the opposition kicked in with two safeties.

PIRIE SCORES IN SIX EVENTS

Toronto Swimmers Dominate Trials Held For Olympics

Toronto, July 4—(CP)—With Bob Pirie of Toronto Central Y.M.C.A. in the lead, Toronto swimmers dominated the swimming trials held here last night to pick members of the team to represent Ontario at the Canadian Olympic trials at Montreal, July 7th to 12th., when 14 aquatic stars will be selected to perform for their country in Germany.

Pirie, Varsity Grad of six years in as many events, Ben Gaskie, Central Y, Toronto, captured the men's 150 yard back stroke and Cy Lawson, also of Central, won the 220 yard breast stroke. Among women swimmers Irene Pirie Allen, married sister of Bob, stroked to victory in the 150 yards free style, while Queen of the Toronto Mermaid Club chalked up a first in the 440 free style.

Besides those who qualified for the trip east by winning six events they had entered, G. Larson of Hamilton and Gordon Kerr of Windsor, are among other stars in line for the journey. Women swimmers in the same category include Doris Kerr, Windsor, British Monarch, Toronto, and Ida Britton, also of Toronto, the last-named replacing J. Cowan who is unable to make the trip.

E. Hebdich of Port William, will perform in Montreal, in the three metres springboard diving. Others, who will represent the province in the Canadian diving trials, are Charles Corcoran, and Harry Glass, Hamilton, Ross Cameron, Toronto and B. Thompson of Toronto High Park Club. The only women diver is C. Boughner of Delphinets Club, Toronto.

Donald Ray Lash Wins Two Events At Olympic Tryout

(By Alan Gould)
(Associated Press Sports)

Princeton, N.J., July 4.—(CP)—Galloping along the road to Berlin where he hopes to achieve the United States first Olympic triumph at distance racing—exclusive of the Marathon—Donald Lash, one of the iron-lashed Indiana Collegian, today claimed two hundred-mile-racing records.

As his first contribution to the two-day National A. A. U. track and field championship program at Palmer Stadium, Lash ran an all-star galaxy shoots for senior titles this afternoon, and won the 10,000 metre title run and final Olympic tryout last evening in record-making style.

He was slated to run the 5,000 metre this afternoon and seek a few more marks while such other Olympic aspirants as Glenn Cunningham, California's Archie Williams and Georgia's Forrest Towns were in national championships.

Clashing with the 10,000 metres, approximately 6 1-4 miles, in 31 minutes, 6.9 seconds. This was the fastest time ever registered in United States citizen indoors or out, and stamped the Indiana Collegian definitely as an Olympic "double" threat.

Running on the same track where he broke Paavo Nurmi's world two mile record a month ago, Lash ran more than a minute behind the great Finn's 9:01.8 world record mark of 30:06.2, made in 1924, but he left the impression that he had done considerably better if pressed. Lash finished 100 yards ahead of Elmo Pennila, Canadian champion of the Millrose A.A., New York, and 1,300 yards in front of Joe Ray Hoffman, Stanley Wodyka of Philadelphia. All three qualified for competition in the Olympics, although Lash alone demonstrated enough ability to warrant being taken abroad to meet the world's best.

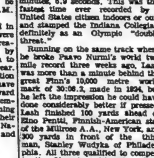
Campbell Finances Own Way to Berlin

Toronto, July 4—(CP)—Impatient at the delay in getting him overseas for training Charles Campbell, Canada's hope in the singles sculls at the Olympic games in Berlin next month, took matters into his own hands and left Toronto for Montreal by night after announcing to friends at the Don Rowing Club he would sail for Europe today.

The big singles sculler fully intended to compete in the same trip and in the day coach, sitting up all night to make his few dollars stretch a little further, but Don Club officials caught up with him at the station there and purchased a berth for him.

Campbell won the right to represent Canada at the Olympics in the trials at Pen Dalhousie last Saturday but plans for his journey to Berlin had not been completed. Invited by the procrastinating, he borrowed $90 from his aunt and gave a promissory note for the remainder of his fare.

CURRENT SPORT
DAY BY DAY



Elmer Lebert's crack pacer Royal McKillop Hanbleton showed the results of good wintering and the results of expert training Royal McKillop in the first two heats in the 2.24 pace at Orangeville on Dominion Day in 2.12 and 2.13. A matter of fact after Mr. Lebert's horse won the second heat Royal McKillop was awarded first money and removed from further competition in order to rest up for the race out of the event. Royal McKillop has been trained this season by Don Kane at Orangeville, who also has another stable mate in the 2.30 class, Catherine Grattion. Mr. Kane and Mr. Lebert will be at Belleville over the week end and will work both horses out on the local track. They are entered in Malone, N.Y. for a race next week but, incidentally the Orr Bros., of Belleville own Catherine Grattion. Royal McKillop's best time on record is 2.13 3-4 while recently in the 2.24 class Mr. Lebert expects to have his horse in a number of the larger American circuits. He is also a prize winning to Canada for the Canadian National Exhibition and others of Toronto's known autumn harness race classics.

On display in the window of the National Sporting Goods Store is the large silver trophy, that goes to the winner of the Dominion O.C.B.U. team with the highest batting average. Last year Johnnie Hanley came up with an average far below the .300 mark, but Belleville over the second half of the season, aided by the locals, last year's trophy was brought here previous to in 1936. Jim Annis and George Fenton, the proprietors of the store, have already demanded the trophy had last season and again have offered it for yearly competition.

Official figures actually show, that the batting in the entire O.C.B.U. is better today than last season. We cannot say the pitching in the loop is not on a par with previous years, because the old Central League heads of four full-June . . . former with 21 wins and 5 loses; Reds with 17 wins and 9 loses; and Forrest Hazards posied by Brooklyn and Phillies . . . with 4 wins against five defeats and 4 victories and 19 setbacks, respectively.

Best in the American League: Yankees, with 13 won in 22 starts.

. . . Ben Chapman, traded from the Yanks, is getting a large share of the credit for the Senators' drive for second place. Manager Bucky Harris calls the deal for Ben the best made by any major league club this year. . . . While Jimmy Foxx is still the big gun of Boston Red Sox, baseball writers are beginning to raise eyebrows about his fielding slump.

HEPBURN TO OFFICIATE

Kenora, Ont., July 4 (CP) —An explanation of the Ontario government's efforts to recover successful duties was left with the people of the northern districts today as Premier Hepburn sped toward Sioux Lookout to officiate at the opening of a new road.

Five million dollars had been recovered by the succession duty office as result of investigations into lost revenue, Premier Hepburn told a banquet gathering of the Kenora Board of Trade last night. He believed much more would be retrieved in the future.

NEW POTATOES, PEAS DOMINATE LOCAL MARKET

1936 Crop of Potatoes Sold Readily From 75 to $1.00 a Peck

BROILERS PLENTIFUL

Fruits of All Kind Offered And Find Ready Purchasers

Cattle pass whimpered (at $2.80 a head) and canary birds chirped (for $4.50 you could buy one) as a large crowd thronged Belleville's market hall this morning. Colorful as the crowd was the fine array of beets, carrots, small flowers and cut flowers which were in profusion.

New potatoes appeared in large quantities which found ready takers at prices varying from 75c to $1 per peck. The 1936 variety sold readily at 25 per bag in bag lots.

New peas also found a steady trend at 30c per quart. Quantity was less than that of mid-week but found steady buyers.

Red cherries were plentiful with 2-quart baskets at 35c and the black variety at 25c moving steadily.

Broilers, fresh eggs, new potatoes, apples and peas, not including the truffle jam which appeared for the first time this morning, found ready buyers from the fair sex.

Yellow straw beans at 15 cents per box, asparagus at 5 cents, spinach, cheese, farm produce and fresh fish prices, appealed to vegetable lovers and moved easily.

Pineapples were offered at 30 cents each.

Tomatoes at 2 lbs. for 25c with 30c per pound being asked for a hothouse variety. Cherry Bounty at 25c per 5-lb. tin; Marty Blossom at 30c per box; Fresh cantaloupe at 15 cents each; fresh cabbage cheese at 5c per lb.; fresh cucumbers at 5c per pair, were other prices noted.

Dandelions of good quality were fairly plentiful at 5 cents per bunch or at 15c per box. Strawberries, in the last throes of a fairly good productive season, marshalled steadily their boxes to the waiting public who vendor sold his last picking at 3 for 10c.

First Floods Market

Lovers of chicken had a gala day. Broilers, fowl and other forms of the lowly bird were plentiful on the market at prices varying from 35c each to 50 per pair. In accord with theory that love destroys the appetite, happily married folk and the new bride and groom purchased a 35c black Jersey rooster for table purposes.

Whitefish at 10c and trout at 12c per pound were also on sale and found ready buyers.

Eggs were plentiful with lady vendors asserting 30 and 32 cents, while one offered an 8-dozen lot at 25c.

MAN'S IDENTITY STILL MYSTERY

Chief Scouts Possibility of Murder Unknown Hands Not Tried

Cobourg, Oct., July 4 (CP)—Inquest into the death of the unidentified man found in the harbor here Thursday night will probably be held at the first of next week; Dr. G. Fercovers.

Police have found no clue to the man's identity. Many theories are advanced together with wive and an open verdict is the most likely. It is thought the body had been in the water about six weeks.

Chief of Police Wilson scouts the possibility of murder because the hands were not tied.

History Making Train Arrives at Port Moody

Port Moody, B.C., July 4 (CP)—The small lumbering and fishing town regained its place of 36 years ago today in celebrating the arrival of the first Transcontinental train at the first Pacific terminus. The citizens admitted that neighboring Vancouver may have grown more rapidly but it has never had a big fill on a branch line.

The same engine that brought in the train of 1886 with the same coaches and the same employee as conductor puffed into Port Moody tenderly to be greeted by the entire population of 1,000 persons. Hon. R. R. Bennett, Mayor G. G. McGeer of Vancouver and scores of British journalists, some of the newspapers had themselves on the same costumes they wore for the celebration of 36 years ago and had managed to persuade the police to do the same.

THREE INJURED MEN IN AIR CONDITION

Kingston, Ont., July 4.—(CP)—As Condition of Albert Saunders, Albert Ralston and Lee Dupont, injured in an air crash Wednesday at Osnasogue last night was reported today as fair.

It was expected they would recover.

Saunders and Ralston are Kingston men and the car they were driving was a stolen car, owned by Roger Drover of Verona, while Dupont is a Highlands Creek man, owner of the aeroplane. The Kingston police are holding all three men in connection with the theft of the car.

FRANKFORD

Franck Lodge Enjoys Outing

Many Members and Friends Picnic At Searles Beach

Frankford—The King's Birthday, June 23rd, was fittingly observed by Franck Lodge L.O.L. No. 1217 at Searles' Beach, Oak Lake, where a holiday home was enjoyed by, with Masons, their families, their friends and visitors packed with good things to eat.

Tables were arranged in a long row on the attractive beach. The committee was on hand to set the tables while guests were being registered and tagged.

Promptly at one o'clock dinner was announced by a large number of the younger members of the lodge, escorted themselves to be seated at ticket tables. A program of field and aquatic sports was announced to commence at 2.30 p.m. The Worshipful Master, W. Lodge, F. R. Bentley, had opened the lodge in due form by a thrilling descent down the slide.

Winners of the races were:

Girls' Race—10 years, Dorothy Mae Reed—Marjorie Rasbury and Ruth Bogs' Sack Race—Wm. Pollard, Jr.

Girls' Peanut Race — Marjorie Rasbury.

Ladies' Race—Mrs. I. Hanna.

The prizes for the different events were presented by Mrs. G. W. Dickson.

Following the races many were attracted to the shore of the waters of the lake and bathing suits were donned and enjoyed until supper time. One petition was heard among the weightiest members of the lodge to the effect that they would decorate and practice the biggest splash.

The ladies of the lodge served to about seventy. This number registered, but there is every reason for proof that "a good time was had by all."

Officers of the lodge made every effort to make the event possible. Worshipful Master Jessie Bowen, who recently celebrated her birthday, presided at the head table and took a lively interest in the proceedings. She was regarded by many as old Father Time. Carleton of Stirling, D.D.G.M., was also present.

The committee in charge included: P. M. Moulstead, chairman; Mrs. Bowen, Jr. Steacie, Wm. Pollard, G. Bowen and Harry Brown. Owing to illness in the family Mr. Brown was unable to attend and the committee was greatly missed.

The local Canadian Canpers plant began operations on Thursday, July 2nd, when they started bringing in loads of peas on Wednesday and the canning process did not start until Thursday morning. The pea crop is reported to be lighter than expected due to the dry weather in June. Corn will be canned this year while the tomato crop will be moved over to the canning plant at Picton.

Mr. A. Harrington is spending a few weeks at Hawkestone with his son, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Harrington.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Wm. Wade and Max are enjoying a week's motor trip to the north country. From there they will visit Oallander, the home of the Dionne quintuplets.

Miss Irene Wade, who is with Harold Harns of Belleville will motor to the home of Mrs. Wade at Madill on Tuesday.

Mr. Roy Harrington, who has been a patient in Belleville hospital recently, has come home in the village on Tuesday.

The Quarterly Official Board of the Methodist church met in the church on Monday evening. June 29th. There was a good attendance at the meeting which was presided over by the pastor, Rev. J. F. Lane. The minutes of the previous meeting were read by the secretary, A. Bowen. Routine matters of business were discussed. Mr. Lane reported that the Quarterly Board met to deal with the pleading up of the old debt.

Mr. Walter Benedict of Hamilton is spending a few days in town the guest of Mrs. W. J. Windover.

20 YEAR TERM FOR ESPIONAGE

Navy Yeoman Guilty of Selling Secrets to Japanese Agent

Los Angeles, July 4 (CP) — 20 years in prison was the possible penalty for Takeo Yoshikawa, self-confessed tokyo boy selling his country's naval secrets to a Japanese agent for a few hundred dollars.

Yoshikawa, a former Japanese U. S. navy yeoman yesterday in one of the navy's most sensational espionage trials in the nation's history, changed his than two weeks after the government made public details of a Japanese naval spy ring. He will be sentenced next Monday.

It took a Federal court jury five minutes to decide the 34 year old ex-yeoman was guilty of conspiring with Tomiko Miyazaki, asserted Lieutenant Commander in the Japanese imperial navy, to violate the Espionage act.

A 20-year prison term is possible for Yoshikawa. He will be sentenced next Monday.

INQUEST ON UNKNOWN MAN

Cobourg, Ont., July 4 (CP)—Coroner Dr. G. Ferris announced today that an inquest would be held on Tuesday next at 10 a.m. into the unknown man whose wire bound body was found in the harbor here on Thursday. Nothing has been unearthed which would throw any light on his identity.

CONTROL OF WHEAT BILL IS DEBATED

French Right Wing Uses Every Device to Hold up Bill

Paris, July 4.—The debate on the Wheat Bill stretched into long sessions today as the right wing employed every parliamentary device to hold it up. The Bill, said Minister of Agriculture Georges Monnet, "is not a trade agreement but the result of deep reflection."

Successive amendments introduced by right deputies were defeated and the Bill finally moved through to final passage.

Paul Ode, in Rocque's article, which attracted wide attention, said that the "Spirit of the Croix de Feu" was not dead, but was assimilated in the New Party, which he denied was a "party of hate." Rocque's organization, "His authority," he wrote, "comes from the confidence reposed in it."

Some 132,000 workers were still on strike today which was 100,000 less compared with more than 1,000,000 at the height of the strike wave.

Winnipeg, July 4.—(CP)—Pasteurized Thick Cream Contest Bill by the French Government today was purely an internal affair and would not affect Canada, in the opinion of prominent grain traders here.

Chairman Ernest Ware, who pointed out, were not of sufficient magnitude to affect the international situation, said that the Bill provided for setting up of a Board of Control. Wheat problems peculiar to France.

FRENCH WORKERS TAKE OVER PLANT

Factory is Operated on Their Own Account

Paris, July 4 (CP Havas)—Workers of the Delespaul Havez chocolate factory at Lille, introduced a new form of labor dispute today when they took by taking over the plant and operating it on their own account.

Other leading developments were: The defeat in the Senate by the Chamber of Deputies passed the controversial Bill establishing a "national wheat office" for control of the wheat market and assuring price stability.

2.—Col. Francois de la Rocque, leader of the fascist "French Social Party" again denied the Government in an article in his paper, Le Petit Journal, that his party's "is our work stopping." Pamphlet on the subject. At Bordeaux the printers went on strike and the Matin and Soir newspapers were paralyzed because the printers in the other building workers got under way at Marseilles this morning after eight days of futile negotiations. The telephone and factories were occupied.

Premier Leon Blum, in the people's front, attributed to the retreat of the fascists and differences between the fascists and conservatives were countered by a communique issued by his cabinet group of the two parties, reaffirming their complete agreement. The communique, the communique said, still fully appreciate the advantages of the pact.

Schoolboy Suicides Failed at Entrance

Port Hope, Ont., July 4.—(CP)—After an all night search, the body of William Gordon Hall, 15-year-old schoolboy, was found hanging in a greenhouse owned, by Col. George Watson here early today.

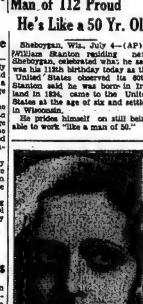
Missing since yesterday, the boy's body was the object of a widespread search last night. His father, George Gordon Hall, made the discovery. The parents said the lad had worried over results of his entrance examinations.

Chief of Police Thomas Murphy has been investigating the case and it has not been decided yet if an inquest will be held.

Through the mail this morning a letter addressed to the high school inspector showing that the boy had failed in his examinations.

Unidentified Woman Found on Tracks

Chatham, Ont., July 4 (CP)—In semi-consciousness after being struck by an unidentified elderly woman, found on the Canadian National Railway tracks last night, is the Public General Hospital here with a possible fracture of the skull and other injuries.



Efforts of the police have failed to bring to light any information concerning her. On being admitted to the hospital last night, it was reported she mumbled something which sounded like "Brantford," which gave rise to the belief she may be a resident of that city.

How the woman came to be lying injured on the tracks is a mystery. The police, according to Dr. W. H. Johnston who attended her, are not such to indicate that she was struck by a train. They say the injuries during the first two Sundays of July.

Man of 112 Proud He's Like a 50 Yr. Old

Sheboygan, Wis. July 4—(AP)—William Ranton residing near Cheboygan celebrated what he said was his 112th birthday today as the United States observed its 60th. Ranton said he was born in Ireland in 1824, came to the United States in the age of six and settled in Wisconsin.

He prides himself on still being able to "ride a man of 50."

Chicago police sought a jealous woman after Anabella Blake, 30, blond divorcee and former show girl, was shot to death in a hotel room.

MERCURY TOUCHES 111 IN NEBRASKA

High Temperatures Cause Fear of Widespread Drought

Chicago, July 4 (AP) — Crop-killing heat spread new havoc across the western United States today.

Fears—temporarily allayed by actual or predicted rain for several days—accompanied with the mercury in the drought belt.

A blazing sun beat down on parched prairies as the corn crop entered a critical three week period.

Extremely high temperatures were registered yesterday in the Missouri Valley and the central plains. Norfolk, Neb., recorded 111. Omaha had 110—the highest ever noted at the weather station there in July. Lander, Wyo., Aberdeen in South Dakota reported 104.

Unseasonably warm weather, moderate temperatures, waved blanket the midwest.

There were scattered showers in Southern States and portions of New York and New England yesterday. More precipitation was indicated for parts of Wisconsin and North Dakota—one of the most adversely affected states.

But there was no immediate hope of a bumper saturating downpour to halt crop loses that have already been estimated at more than $360,000,000 for the major agricultural sections.

City dwellers shared some of farmers' concern after Agriculture Department economists in Washington said the weather's effect on corn would determine the future price of the meat they must buy for their tables. Corn, they added, out, was used to feed meat animals and was a major factor in the prices of meat today at the market.

Reports to the grain trade told of the worst conditions in Nebraska where almost all of 200 reporting points in 17 central States.

Roman Catholics in Nebraska prepared to pray for rain at the behest of the Bishop of the Lincoln Diocese. He urged the faithful to offer their supplications to the Virgin Mary during the first two Sundays of July.

HELEN JACOBS WOMAN CHAMP

Elusive Teenia Title Finally Taken by American Girl

Wimbledon, England, July 4 (CP)—Helen Jacobs finally captured the elusive all-England tennis championship today, defeating Frau Hilde Krahwinkel Sperling of Germany and Denmark in the final match.

The United States champion had to strive off a courageous rally by Frau Sperling before she could win the title for the first time. Four times previously Miss Jacobs had reached the Wimbledon final or semi-final, only to be beaten by Helen Wills Moody of California or by Dorothy Round of Great Britain.

Miss Jacobs' triumph followed the victory scored in the men's singles yesterday by Fred Perry of Great Britain, who defeated Gottfried von Cramm of Germany 6-1, 6-1, 5-7, 6-3. Cramm had twice suffered a severe muscle injury in the semi-finals because of the first.

When Fred Perry defeated the German in the final point of the 12th game of the third set, giving him the game, the set and match, the United States champion leaped high in the air and gave a little cry as though she had won the title herself. She also won the title they had eluded her for so long.

Then began a whole-hearted ovation. The crowd of 18,000 cheered and clapped for five minutes.

Stock Markets

Toronto and New York stock markets are closed today.

MAJOR MARKETS ARE ALL CLOSED

Independence Day is Marked Throughout United States

Practically all the world's major markets remained closed today.

Every market in the United States was closed in honor of the observance of Independence Day.

In Canada the Toronto and Montreal Stock Exchanges took their second holiday of this week, having closed on Dominion Day, July 1.

The Winnipeg Grain Exchange and Montreal Silver Markets remained open, however.

Winnipeg Grain Exchange was also open.

WHEAT PRICES CLOSE HIGHER

Winnipeg And Liverpool Markets Show Advance

Winnipeg July 4 (CP)—After being off early in the session, the wheat market today, wheat, rises near mid-session showing gains of 1¼ cents to 1⅜ cents, with ¾ higher at 87¼ and December ⅛ higher at 87⅛.

Offerings were noticeably light after the opening decline, with buying credited to local interests, aided by resting orders for United States accounts.

With the U.S. markets closed for Independence Day, inter-market operations were at a standstill. Liverpool was 1¾d higher at one time but weakened slightly to close ¾-¼d higher.

Weather reports showed little change in the United States except for light scattered showers.

ITALIAN POLICY 'NO GOLD RUSH'

Count Volpi Defines Plans of Concentration For Ethiopia

(By Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Rome, July 4—(AP)—Gold mining in Ethiopia will be "no gold rush but slow, wisely well-planned concentration," Count Alberto Volpi said today.

Chairman of a slow called "The Italian race will be kept pure and every effort will be made to prevent commingling of the whites and blacks."

Vegetables—Variable, but much preparation needed."

Minerals—"We shall see what we shall see. Reports of prospectors are being awaited."

AIRPLANE STRUT FOUND IN NET

Authorities Endeavor to Solve Mystery at Bronte

Hamilton, Ont., July 4.—(CP)—Authorities today sought to solve the mystery of an aluminum airplane strut found in fishing nets by Bronte fishermen. Leroy Sargent reported the find.

There were no reports of a missing plane from Hamilton district, planes disappeared three years ago from a flight over Lake Ontario from Toronto to Port Erie. Aboard were Roy Dack, pilot, and Jack Nicholls, both of Toronto.

Flyers searched the lake for several days but found no trace of the missing craft. Floating ice fields hampered the searchers. Several months later a damaged aircraft was found on Lake Deauville but it could not be determined whether it belonged to the missing plane.

An attempt may be made to drag the area where the strut was found.

GOLD PRODUCTION NOW $116,000,000

Minister of Mines Says Industry May be First in 10 Years

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., July 4.—Hon. T. A. Crerar, Dominion Minister of Mines, and Hon. Col. H. A. Mitchell, Minister of Railways and Canals, left here today for the Lake of the Mining areas at Michipicoten and Goudreau. Last night the ministers addressed the Sault Ste. Marie Board of Trade.

Gold production in Canada last year amounted to $116,000,000, said Mr. Crerar. He expressed the hope that in another five years the annual gold production of the country would reach $200,000,000.

Mining development in Ontario is helping to bridge the gap between eastern and western Canada, he considered. He stated agriculture, fish and lumber ranges of the country at present, but said in another ten or fifteen years mineral production might take the leadership.

Traffic on Canadian railways was being stimulated more by the United States-Canada trade pact than by any other factor said Mr. Crerar. He predicted a good year for transportation agencies. Prospects for a stronger traffic had increased, he said, while promise of a record wheat crop in the west were encouraging. He ranked the mining business second to the trade-pact in the stimulation of railway traffic.

LIVESTOCK MARKET REPORT

Toronto, July 4.—(CP)—Prices on small quotation of cattle had slowly this week, the Dominion Livestock Branch reported in its weekly review of the Toronto Livestock market, but quotations on cows, bulls and stockers declined slightly. Calves, sheep and lambs ended the week unchanged with sheep and 25 cents lower.

Domestic trade was responsible for cleaning up the heavy run of cattle as the only exports were 450 head shipped to Great Britain. Despite the mid-week holiday, hogs and cattle closely exceeded the previous seven day's total. A small supply of lambs was cleaned up in Tuesday's market.

Steers and heifers held unchanged in price but cows and bulls sold off about 25 cents. Medium to good weight heifers were quoted around $4.50 to $5.60 with choice heavies as high as $6.00.

Butcher cattle sold chiefly between $4.75 and 5.25 with choice 1,000 pounders reaching $5.50 mark. Good cows brought from 3.50 to 3.75 with plain downward to 2.75. Canners and cutters varied from 1.75-to 2.50. A top of 3.75 was touched on the bull sale but most sold from 3.00 was the usual price.

Supply of milk calves generally 3.00 to 3.25.

Receipts of calf calves were firm at 8.00 to 6.75 with one sale at 7.00. Medians sold downward to 5.00.

Offerings of slow calves were heavy and the price broke about $1.00 with good to choice vealers common light stockers ranged from 3.25 to 4.00 while selected lots sold up as 4.50. Untested milkers and springers were priced from 35.00 to 85.00 each.

Calf market receipts were 3600 of which exporters took 450 and 2150 good and choice calves for United States shipment. Prices on development. Count Volpi said. They are:

"Adequate preparation in advance so effort and money will not be wasted.

"Private enterprise will be protected.

"There will be no monopolies, and

"There will be no, harum-scarum rush of mushroom fluid-stamen. The Italian race will be kept pure and every effort will be made to prevent commingling of the whites and blacks."

Minerals—"We shall see what we shall see. Reports of prospectors are being awaited."

Produce Prices on Montreal Market

Montreal, July 4 —Prices exhibited no change today in the price of eggs and cheese on the local markets yesterday. On butter, offerings were light and demand fair to good, resulting in a stronger tone to the market. Prices were firm for fancy grades, so that export business was difficult to do. Fresh receipts in the city commanded fractionally higher prices again, while storage stocks showed a contracted an advance of one cent per dozen, based on the local loss to the retail trade. Cheese improved slightly. Potatoes and poultry were unchanged. While the local stock market did a closing today, the Canadian Commodity Exchange will be open as usual. Receipts for the day were limited to the board of trade as 1,363 cases of eggs, 668 boxes of cheese, and 7,441 boxes of cheese, excluding truck receipts, which are given altogether for the week of Saturday.

On the egg market graded shipping-stock arriving in quantity of 1,000 cases or more, extra No. 1 lots were mainly 23c for A-large, 21½c for A-medium, 20c for B and 20c for C, with some asking ¼c more. Prices in country exchanges reported the egg market at 23-24½c for A-large, 21½c to 22c for A-medium, and 20-20½c for C.

U. K. BUTTER

Ottawa, July 4.—(CP)— Butter was active and cheese strong on London Empire markets, according to cable advice received today by the Department of Agriculture.

Quotations: Butter—New Zealand 110 shillings per cwt. (24.45 cents per lb), Australian 109 shillings per cwt. (24.23 cents per lb). Cheese—New Zealand 58 shillings per cwt. (12.25 cents per lb).

CHAPTER XXXVII

The detective drew up a chair.

"Let's go back and begin at the beginning. I've told you already about this poor fish Fowler, Crosier's private secretary—how he acted on orders from his boss by long distance, when Mrs. Crosier's witness came into the office yesterday, took the cash to the pier to pay the duty on the emeralds, and left it with them and Miss Fenno and your son and a safe-deposit husky in a taxicab.

"A guard, I think you said, from the Goldman Safe Deposit Company——

"That's the first catch. There ain't no such animal."

"There was no such guard?"

"No such safe-deposit concern—not in the wide world, much less in New York City. Fowler, of course, knew that."

"Meaning that he was in on the plot!"

"Proving worse than that: anyhow, pointing to wickeder conclusions. It turns out that Fowler had everything all set to take it on the lam last night in his own automobile—know of town's best, I'm told. Nobody would've found out that he went back to his flat, told the wife he'd had a hurry call from old Crosier to join him in Boston, packed a bag, and lit out like he all possessed. A little while later he gets his car out—told the garage attendant he's going to spend the night with a friend in the country. All we know about his movements between that time and next midnight is that he went some place—to some speak-easy, for a bet—and bolsted in a skinful. About twelve o'clock he parks his car in Fifty-fifth, just off Broadway, and blows into the Haymow all lit up and wild-eyed."

"The Haymow?"

"Night-club in the Bellamy Hotel—the toughest joint in town, but none. Seems Fowler's had a crush on a cutie in the Haymow show for months—he's been hanging round the dump so steady everybody knows him—and life to him, with his nose so wet, ain't worth the living unless this particular cool will chuck it all and go to share his lot in the stables—wherever he thought he was heading. He was right, at that; the detective dourly concluded: "His life wasn't worth living; so, about one A.M. Fowler ceased to live it."

"Suicide?"

"S. seconded to that when he bulged into the Haymow again after being kicked out once by the bouncer. It seems his girl-friend told him he could so roll his hoop: the back-country was all right in its place, but she wasn't taking any; and Fowler got mixed with a few three him out. In ten minutes or so he scrabbles back, asking for more—and gets it—talks large and loose till the Haymow's house team of gorillas edged him into the wash room pumps him full of lead, and disperses."

"They murdered him!"

"How old-fashioned that sounds!" Crane mused. "But I know what you mean, and you're right. Fowler knew too much and let out too much of his figure. So they gave him some pills to stop him from splattering information all over. Probabilities are, he was due to get the dose in a day or so, anyway; he simply made them give it to him the foolish way he acted, before they were ready."

"Are you telling me, my friend, you believe Fowler knew all the knowledge of the kidnapping?"

"That's exactly what I'm telling you. Unless the Haymow's had a side-show of the Bellamy, hangout of the hardest mob in town. If they figured they had to bump Fowler off on the premises, it's a moral he had 'em pretty desperate. They'd have stood a lot to stave off what's likely meant to them above—that the police would be obliged to act, even if Crosier don't want to, pds right in and take possession. Anyway, that's what happened. There was any number of plain-clothes bulls and federal dicks nosing in the grill-room crowd, as usual, and the gunplay in the washroom was their signal to get active. Inside fifteen minutes there's a cordon round the hotel that a mouse couldn't have nosed through; by that time, of course, it was too late: the murder committee had scattered like rats. Except for Fowler's dead boy." Crane only went on with his reminiscence; "it looks like they worked it some way to take your kid and Fowler's corpse with them."

Lanyard's features stiffened: the gleam of his eyes grew bleaker; he made no other sign but at the end of a brief rail quietly requested: "Explain that, please, if you think that."

"Because we know for a fact both the young ones were in the Bellamy and together during the evening, but gone when the Homicide Squad took charge and combed it from top to rub-basement for the two men that had croaked Fowler. We know that Jimmy Junior knew for the pler, because their bags, the two they fetched in the place, were found on the top floor—Maurice's in a sitting room, still locked and unopened, the girl's in an empty bedroom adjoining, where it had been opened and ransacked for the emeralds, then kicked under the bed. There was a third room in the suite, another bedroom; and when the bulls looked in there, they heard a woman kicking and squawking to the clothes-closet. They let her out and found she was the floor-clerk, half smothered and hysterical, but right there, all the same, with a yarn.

"Say if you think that Bellamy bunch would put anybody they couldn't count on at a floor-clerk's desk, you're no moron. Outside of that, however, the cops had nothing on the dame. The way she tells it, about the middle of the evening your son and the Crosier girl sent Fowler were shown up to the suite—registered, according to the slip the bell-boy handed her, as 'Mr. James Hooper' and 'Mr. and Mrs. James Hooper Junior,' of Philadelphia.

"So, she didn't see anything of anybody wearing a Gotham Safe Deposit rig with them, and didn't take any particular notice of the bellhop, either—says it might've been any one of the dozen, for all she remembers. Incidentally, none of the punks will admit having taken the party up, and neither of the elevator boys remembers carrying them; but that's only to be expected.

"But how did the floor-clerk account for being locked in the closet?"

"Coming to that. In about half an hour, she says, Hooper Senior—that is, Fowler—eased out of the middle bedroom, the one they forgot Miss Fenno's bag in, and took the elevator, but didn't as much as nod to her in passing. Sometime later Mrs. Hooper Junior called to her from the door to the other bedroom—said she didn't know how to work the dial telephone, and would the floor-clerk kindly step in and show her. As soon as she was inside, some one took her from behind—presumably Mr. Hooper Junior—crammed a handkerchief in her mouth to keep her from screaming, wrestled her into the closet and locked it. That's all she knows. Anyway, that's her story."

"And very interesting" — Lanyard intently nodded—"if true, as obviously it is in part at least. Thank you."

"You don't know you're welcome," Crane grunted, "to all the comfort you can take of what I've had to tell you."

"You call it a comfort to know your son and the girl were spirited out of the hotel by the gang that did for Fowler!"

"You forget that part of the woman's tale which is borne out by her imprisonment in the closet and which proves, at least, that Maurice and Fenno—neither somehow into stopping at the hotel to be robbed and held captive—either were given or made an opportunity to attempt the escape. Circumstantial evidence, furthermore, would seem to show that the attempt was successful."

"How come?" the detective demanded in a stare. "How d'you make that out?"

"I'm afraid you have not stopped, my friend, to consider all the connotations of the murder. In very unlikely, when you have had stress on, the fact that the mob couldn't wait to get Fowler away from the hotel, proves that they were in a panic. And why such a panic if not because their other victims had contrived to escape and were even then at large, in a position to utter information that might well result in the hotel's being raided at any moment and Fowler's simultaneous arrest? And Fowler the only party to the plot in all likelihood, whom those children could identify—the make-believe safe-deposit guard having vanished —and whose testimony would undoubtedly incriminate the ringleaders!"

"Maybe so." Crane thoughtfully allowed.

CHAPTER XXXVIII

"That I grant you; and in vanity. But I have personal vanity that bolsters up my faith in the courage and resource of my boy. I will confess," Lanyard with a rueful smile admitted, "I like to believe Maurice a true child of my own spirit—that he met the situation and dealt with it as I at his age would have."

"Oh, well," his friend admitted, "if it had been you in his place, I guess I wouldn't be so slow to take a look in your shoes. The kid's your Wolf, I remember, got away too regularly with the impossible."

"Permit me to commend the Lone Wolf's wits, then, to your attention. Not that I need in if you know as much as I imagine you know about my own—to say nothing of the scenes on the way over."

"I know a lot more than you ever let out to me, hombre. I'm willing to admit but it's likely youngsters —but a handful."

"I have found him that," the father assented. "Still, I do believe the boy's too intelligent not to see what an ass he's been before it's too late—if he hasn't already; if it needs more than that affair of last night to open his eyes. And it is there, if you remember, that my comforted by what you have told me—in what's left of the story Maurice, found himself, his life, when he perceived to what ends his folly had led him."

"But it takes a head of believing; and while I don't like to seem a crab, I can't help but rattling the fatal flaw in your theory. If Maurice and the girl made a clean get-away, as you assume, what's become of them? Why hasn't Miss Fenno shown up at home? Why isn't the boy waiting for you at the Walpole? Why has neither of them so much as tried to communicate with their parents?"

"Common prudence may have counselled their keeping under cover till the mob that murdered Fowler was put where it couldn't take similar measures to silence them, too. As long as Maurice remains loose, you see, he enjoys much the same advantage over the men that I enjoy, who am at large in New York while it believes me still in prison aboard the Navarre—able to make my own reconnaissances, and perhaps execute reprisals, unembarrassed by espionage."

"Reprisals?" Crane crawled, with derision in his eyebrows as well. "You surely don't think the lad's dizzy enough to dream of trying to get level with that bunch single-handed?"

"You are doubtless justified in terming it a simpleton's course," Lanyard admitted. "But if I know my son, the Lone Wolf's son—and I am one who knew his father—Maurice, whatever his first intentions may have been in respect of those wretched emeralds, will never rest, now that his folly has resulted in their being stolen from Penno, till he refinds and restores them."

"It's a man-size contract, all right," Crane admitted, "and if you know how his mind works—why not put you on the job? Why don't you and try to figure what his first move would naturally be?"

"I have," Lanyard owned that one has already done so. Maurice would be likely to first locate his time on the understrappers, but strike straight at the heads of the plot, the head that conceived and ordered it and supervised its execution."

"Oh, yeah?" The native son, who knew his own pooches and their ways better than any benighted foreigner could pretend to, enjoyed a sarcastic moment. "And who might that be, to your way of thinkin'?"

"You do not know?"

"A mob's a mob," Crane stodgily argued: "it ain't any one particular person."

"Think again. A mob, we know, is a group of individuals more or less held together by common interest in crime; it can work as one man—by one mind only when dominated by a single superior intelligence. Now, take those whom we know were working as one on shipboard for the Bellamy mob; ask yourself which of them had character enough to captain the lot. Not Jack-knife Robinson or Ringtail Archie Barker, certainly; never Tim Boyne by any possibility, nor yet the Rajah of Ladore. Who, then?"

"You're forgetting Freddy Iquith."

"On the contrary, I am reminding you of him."

The gray eyes widened.

"You don't mean to tell me you think that lily-handed loafer——"

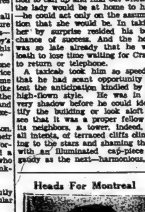
"The one man, remember, whose identity was as much a mystery to you as his identification with that crew."

Crane gave one thigh a slap. "Blessed if I don't believe you've got it!"

"Say I am right, at least, till I am proved wrong. And assume, for the sake of the experiment, that Maurice's wits worked like his father's, to the same conclusion. If so, he will be looking to find the emeralds with Iquith; we must begin to seek him and Fenno, by finding Iquith and keeping him under surveillance."

"That ought to be easy." But Crane, already thumbing the pages of the telephone directory, after an instant's search announced: "No such name here."

"The fellow lives in New York, however. I remember hearing him say so. At some hotel, possibly? —More than likely. I'll know inside an hour."



Crane was reaching for his hat. "You are leaving me?"

"Only till I get the info' we're wanting. There's one bird in town who will know if Iquith's queer, and if so, where the crumb hides—a stool but not an ordinary one, a high-stake gambler who trades with the big time racketeers exclusively and passes as one of them. I think I know where I can find him about this time. As soon as I do, I'll be back. Don't you budge from home. If you feel like going for a walk, I'll serve it out with a leash—wouldn't do that if I were you: I might telephone for you to join me at Jack's."

"Many thanks. I'll remain here I hear from you," Lanyard promised. "Unless, of course, something unforeseen turns up."

That all unforeseen and, indeed, hardly hoped-for occurrence by chance would have it, turned up before, if in a guise so casual, of such small promise that its import, immediate acceptance as what it actually was—stark inspiration.

In the drift of anxious musing to which Lanyard resigned himself as soon as Crane, a sedimentary impression, a souvenir of yesterday's visit to the Museum of Natural History, ever since lain sluggish enough in the less of obvious interest of the own accord and swam to the top of consciousness: he was all at once revisited by a glowing recollection of Tsu Boyne as she had figured throughout the evening, in an attitude so entirely passive that it might almost have been thought neutral—saw her again in all her lively coloration, with her flaming mane, vividly pigmented face and vermillioned fingernails in her barbaric embroideries of silk, cascades and jewels, and attending to the ground-and-lofty tumbling entwinkle yet with an odd warmth in the eyes that ever and again inter-

Times and distances rung up at the Olympic track and field trials in fast time for Ontario women athletes at Varsity Stadium, Toronto, were not impressive, though the Dominion tryouts are only a few days away. Most notable was the ability of Jun-

The Missing Man

by

Mary R. P. Hatch

"When she was about to die she called me to her bed and asked me if I would try faithfully to find my brother. I understood then for the first time her lifelong secret. "Take two weeks of every year in May, the month of his loss to me, and seek for him. You will then have fifty weeks left for yourself," she said; "will you promise?" Though I felt the futility of such a search, though I felt that in her healthy lifetime she would never have exacted it, I could not refuse such a request at such a time. I promised. Then she took a ring from her finger and gave it to me, in trust, for him should I ever find him. I found the name engraved inside the ring, and I always carried it with me when I went on my search.

"As you may suppose, I did not experience any hope myself that I should find my brother, even if he were living. The probability of his having a different name astonished me, very little resemblance to the family from which he sprang although when we were infants it was almost impossible to tell us apart. No one could do so but my mother.

"You will see, Constance, why I hesitated to take you into my confidence. You would have considered it foolish for me to leave my business each year and go seeking about the country for a brother who it was believed had died in his infancy. I could not bear to have it even to you, though I felt that I must not break my solemn promise to the dead. For four years I could learn nothing about the matter; the fifth I fancied that I had found a trace, but, if so, Constance, my brother was not a good man; for it was among desperate men that he was classed—men who had violated the law many times. The next year I saw a description of this man in a newspaper. He went usually by the name of Ashley, it was stated, and he had a wife, a beautiful, green-haired woman; her name was Lenora. I learned what I could about them, and decided that at last I was on the track of my long-lost twin brother, that May 21 was much excited. I could scarcely wait for the time to arrive. I meant faithfully to find my brother, give him my mother's ring and message, and appeal to him in the name of her love and our relationship to become different. You opposed my going, but you recollect, but I persevered, for I reasoned that very soon the quest would be ended.

"As I walked down the street a lady came out of the Essex House and spoke to me as if she knew me. In a moment I became convinced that she was Lenora, from the strange color of her hair, and that she mistook me for my brother. I would not talk with her there, and I asked her if I could not speak with her in some place that she would name. I was going on the train that morning, I told her. She asked me which way, and I replied to Portland. She said she could see me on the train, then. It has occurred to me today that she must have mistaken me throughout the interview for her husband; for she seemed bewildered. Be that as it may I saw her on the train, and that is as far as my recollection goes.

"My mind became eclipsed soon after I left Grovedale. I think, for I remember nothing that she said to me or that I said to her. I had been working hard at my business and was much excited about my brother. No doubt, the work and trouble were too much for me. That, Constance, explains the matter up to the time when my mind became a blank. But how, or why, I came here, I know no more than you do. Doubtless it was through some dumb instinct that took the place of active intelligence. The name of Grovedale may have lingered in my mind, and when I got here my feet would naturally tend toward the mill where I had spent so much of my time. This may account also for my securing board with Mrs. Fry in preference to going elsewhere. You say I seemed attracted toward you and the children, and I think that is no wonder."

"Have you no idea how your hair came to change from light to dark, as you say it did?"

"No, none whatever. I did not know it had changed until you showed me my reflection yesterday."

"But, of course, you know it as Prince Ritzy. I myself saw you standing before the little mirror in the kitchen, combing it."

"I know nothing about my existence as Prince Ritz. But, Constance, I recollect that Fry saying yesterday that she knew of a similar case, and you, too, I think, spoke of it."

"Yes," and Constance bowed her claims to be Vane Hamilton, my husband."

"Your husband? What do you mean?"

"I mean that he came to Grovedale last February, stated that he had been suffering from loss of identity, and that was the reason he was absent so long. He professed to know nothing about the bank defalcation, but, after an examination, he felt, or so he said, that he ought to pay the nine thousand dollars as there seemed to be indications which pointed to his having presented the altered notes at the bank, although he was far from being satisfied that he was the one. He has taken his place at the mill where you worked, and all Grovedale seems to be sure that he is the real Vane Hamilton—all except me."

"He is not a minister. He but me."

"He almost got me," Dick replied; "I put out my left fair head in agitation for a moment. Sail she raised it proudly a moment later. "I have heard of a case which seems to be much like yours."

"Tell me about it. Who is it, and how does the case compare with mine?"

"You saw the person the other day—yesterday?"

"Mr. Hammerly! Constance, that man looks exactly as I used to look."

"Yes; but his name is not Hammerly, Mrs. Fry told you so to quiet you. He says his name is Hamilton."

"Then, as sure as you live, he is my twin brother. A minister, and I thought him a thief!"

If simulated, the tone of intense relief was well done.

"But he is not a minister. He's not me."

"He almost got me." Dick replied; "I put out my left appear. The lion leaped. He hit me and knocked me down, but I don't understand why he kept going. Li's get away quick before he comes back." "We can get up into the tree now," said Doc; "I've found a way to do it!"

The sick man who had listened to her statement with a real or affected indifference that seemed to rack his very soul with torture, started up as if relieved somewhat by her last words.

"You did not receive him, then; you knew he was not the true Vane Hamilton," he cried.

"I did not feel sure that he was," but he lives in the same house with us, and the children are greatly attached to him, particularly Clarice."

"What does it all mean? The villain!" and he raised himself in bed and glared wildly about him; then sank down exhausted, but his hands worked convulsively, and he continued to gaze at Constance with a look of mingled horror and reproach. "What does it all mean?" he repeated in a whispered tone.

"I don't know. I don't know," said Constance, stretching out her clasped hands in deep misery. "Why must this come upon me—me, a feeble woman, who, for I dare not trust either of you, and my uncle is not a reed to lean upon. What can I do?"

"But don't you know I am your husband? Have you any doubt?"

"You do not look as much like my husband as he does."

"I grant it; but there are other means of judging."

"There is none, none, except this vague impression that he is not, and—"

"And that I am. Bless you, my dearest, for those words. With them I can be brave. I will wrest you from him. I will get back my home, all he has stolen from me, and you shall help me."

"At least you shall not stay under the roof with him another day. You shall not, Constance."

"I will do as you say in that respect. I will leave the house with my children, until the matter is settled."

"And it shall be settled soon, but as soon as I can leave this bed, and I am getting strong very fast now. I could almost rise now, walk to the mill and confront that man."

"Heyday! You are getting well fast, Mr. Ross," and Dr. Peck, walking in and bowing courteously to Mrs. Hamilton, "Whom would you confront at the mill?"

"That scoundrel who has taken

DARING COUPLE TO CROSS ATLANTIC IN TINY VESSEL

Learning in a few weeks how to sail, Captain O'Delmark, his wife and their three-months-old daughter, of Montreal, are setting out from Louisburg, Cape Breton, for their native Sweden. They will cross the Atlantic in their 40-foot former sword fishing boat, by way of the Azores. Capt. O'Delmark said he is seeking material for a book. Capt. and Mrs. O'Delmark and their tiny craft are shown ABOVE.

DANGER — HANDLE WITH CARE

Fishermen of the Lunenburg schooner Andrava are shown carefully shifting what they thought was a deadly wartime mine on the vessel's deck. Naval investigators at Halifax later decided the shell pick-ed up on the Grand Banks, had been electrically fitted for underwater scientific work. It was once a British mine.

BRITAIN DEMANDS PASSAGE TO BLACK SEA

Sensational Advance in Prices of Wheat and Corn Headlights Market

Conference at Montreux Stirred by British Stand On Dardanelles Forts

"Unrestrained Passage" and Straits Commission Asked

TURKEY OPPOSED

British Would Refer Turkish Position to League

Montreux, Switzerland, July 6 (AP)—Great Britain demanded today unrestricted passage for her warships to the Black Sea as the International Dardanelles conference resumed its session.

The British proposal was embodied in an official memorial of 24 articles distributed to all delegations as the conference.

Contrary to the draft of the Turkish proposal, the British demand crystaled in the same delegates called together to consider a Turkish request to reformify the straits, officially constituted as the Dardanelles, the Sea of Marmora and the Bosphorous.

Turkey, at the first sessions which were interrupted by the League of Nations Assembly meeting, proposed to limit warship tonnage traversing eastward through the Dardanelles to 15,000 tons at any one time.

The British draft also proposed maintenance of some form of a straits commission, a feature which Turkey eliminated. Greece has objected to it because she declared no international supervision was necessary.

The British statement also refused Turkey the right to close the Dardanelles when Turkish diplomats become convinced that war threatened by war.

The British insisted Turkey should submit such a question to the League Council which would decide by a two-thirds note whether Turkey was menaced.

WESTERN CANADA IN NEED OF RAIN

Hot Sun Glares From Cloudless Sky And Mercury Soars

Winnipeg, July 6 (CP)—The need of rain for prairie wheat, particularly in Southern Manitoba and Saskatchewan, became more acute today.

Temperatures of 90 and higher prevailed in Southern Saskatchewan and Southern Manitoba, with maximum early readings of 102 at Broadview, Sask., and Pierson, Man., both key on the Manitoba-Saskatchewan boundary.

The highest reading in Winnipeg during Sunday was 96 and at Brandon, Man., was an even 100. Portage la Prairie, halfway between Winnipeg and Brandon, reported 98. At Minnedosa and Regina it was 96 and at Swift Current 95.

Alberta and northern parts of Manitoba and Saskatchewan were cooler. Calgary and Edmonton each had readings of 78 and at Baskatoon it was 86.

Beckwith Transport Co. To Answer Charges

Napanee, Ont., July 6 (CP)—Two transports owned by the Beckwith Transport Company of Picton were stopped today on the provincial highway by Traffic Officer Sam Bertin of Belleville. A checkup of operating licenses revealed that the license permits had been marked up and one trailer was operated without a P.C.V. and no ownership permit or P.U.V. card could be produced for a second trailer carrying a P.U.V. load. Horses and trucks were ordered to the police station here for investigation.

Police and Agitators Tangle in Toronto

Toronto, July 6 (CP)—Three men were released after questioning by police here late last night following a clash between police and agitators in Balmy Beach Park at the east end of the city yesterday morning.

The original crowd was swelled to about 2,000 by onlookers who flocked in from the Board Walk when trouble started. Inspector Charles Greenwood and two of his men attempted to stop a a meeting being held without a permit. Those taking part objected to the proposal that another group, a regular Sunday religious meeting, had been allowed to remain earlier in the evening.

More police arrived, and the leaders of the meeting were taken from their improvised platform to the police station for questioning. No charges were laid. The religious group had been permitted to hold their meeting because they had a permit, police said.

TWINS JOINED AT SKULL BASE

One of The Babies Lived But Fifteen Minutes

Michigan City, Ind., July 6 (AP). —Twin girls joined at the base of the skull were born today to Mrs. Wesley Glick in the Clinic Hospital.

Born but one lived 15 minutes.

Dr. J. G. Rogers, attending physician, said he was considering the possibility of an operation to save the remaining baby. He said the twins were similar to that of a pygomeo twins born last week to Mrs. Diego Florman of Everett, a Boston suburb.

Mrs. Glick is doing nicely, the doctor said.

Midwestern Drought Increases Crop Damage

Despairing farmers pinned their hopes for a break in the protracted siege on a change in weather. But the relief sought for the immediate future. Instead, a continuation of the high temperature blanket was forecast.

Thermometral heat seared the prairies from the Rocky Mountains to Western Indiana yesterday. All-time marks were broken at Williston, N.D., and Moline, Ill., with respective readings of 120 and 109 degrees. A new record of 105 was established at Moline, Ill., and matching included:

Miles City, Mont., 102; Hastings, Neb, 107; Bismark, N.D., Sioux Falls, S.D., and Norfolk, Neb., 106; Grand Island, Neb., 105; Des Moines, 'Ia., and Dickinson, N.D., 104; Havre, Mont., 102; Huron, S.D., 100.

Scattered showers fell in southern and Atlantic States. Light precipitation was indicated for tomorrow in some parts of the Dakotas, Wisconsin and Indiana but the general prediction was for hot, dry weather.

LEAGUE CONTROL OVER DANZIG CITY STIRS DANZIGERS

President of Senate Says Control Must End After 16 Years

'DANZIG WILL REFUSE'

Dr. Greiser Laughs at Rumor Heard From London

Berlin, July 6 (AP)—Sixteen years of League of Nations control over the free city of Danzig will be "impossible" to sit and quickly, Dr. Arthur Karl Greiser, president of the Danzig Senate, insisted today.

In an interview with a Nazi newspaperman, Greiser reiterated his demands made before the League assembly at Geneva Saturday that Dean Lester, League high commissioner for the free territory, be removed.

"Danzig will refuse to appear again before the face of the League of Nations if her internal affairs are to be dealt with by committees of the senate president was quoted.

Senator Hse Ye Leagh.

He told a representative of the Vossiicher Reotschrier he had received reports from Geneva that London newspapers about a report German troops were ordered to march into Danzig Saturday night.

He just laughed when Greiser commanted, "because I knew Geneva has sponsored the move to end League control over the conditions with the League except a decade and the free city's affairs.

German-Polish friendship would not be disturbed, he declared, if the League were to recall its Irish officer charged with supervising the esport's administration.

Former Opera Singer Charged With Murder

Cincinnati, July 6 (AP)—A former opera singer who has appeared in Canada and her chauffeur stood charged today with the slaying of her brother, Capt. Harry R. Miller, wealthy retired Cincinnati financier, and the dismembering of his body.

Deputy Sheriff D. C. Bates of Clermont County, Ohio, said the murder warrants to Cincinnati as Detective Sergt. Peter Kelly identifying Miss Flora Miller, 66, and Ernest Lee, Herbert L. Hicks, both of Cincinnati.

The filing of murder warrants climaxed an investigation which started when a head and pair of hands were found in a small lake two miles from Carrollton, Ky., last Sunday by two boys.

On June 19, a headless and handless body had been found stuffed in a culvert and burned on the clothes line in a culvert 20 miles from Carrollton.

Three friends of Miller identified the head as that of Miller after Capt. Kelly, a dentist, identified bridgework in the mouth as that he had made for Captain Miller two years ago.

Allege Woman Hit by Rail by Accused Man

Peterborough, Ont., July 6 (CP) —Charles Thomposd, 65, appeared in police court here today charged with assaulting Mrs. Robert Beare, of Stoneleigh Drive," Toronto, and causing actual bodily harm.

Thompson did not plead or elect to be tried and was remanded until July 20. Police allege that an altercation arose between the two when Mrs. Beare's husband purchased from Thompson a piece of building sage and that Mrs. Beare was struck by a piece of rail and Beare and another man thrown into the lake.

Mrs. Beare is in hospital, where it is feared she may be suffering from a fractured skull.

NEWS BRIEFS AND ODDITIES

London, July 6 (AP)—Flights of Zeppelin Hindenburg over England brought notice of peacetime consideration.

Viscount Swinton, Air Secretary will be asked whether he expects the government's policy in allowing foreign aircraft to fly over Great Britain without landing to "specific routes and at reasonable altitude."

The Zeppelin yesterday passed over two military areas in addition to a Royal aeroplane base, it was pointed out. Previous flights have been confined to over metropolitan areas, it was said.

Frankfort On The Main, Germany, July 6 (AP)—The Zeppelin Hindenburg left here at 10:30 p.m., today (7:30 p.m., E.S.T., Sunday) completing its fourth Atlantic round trip between the United States. The airship left Lakehurst, N.J., 8:46 p.m., E.S.T., Friday.

He struck the bottom of the pool, broke his back and died a few hours later.

DROWNING GIVEN AS DEATH CAUSE

H. D. Hipsley, Newcastle, Pa., Thrown Out of Boat by Accident

Gananoque, Ont., July 6 (CP)— Coroner Dr. F. B. Young of Seeley's Bay, who investigated the death of Harry D. Hipsley, 36, of Newcastle, Pa., at Gripper Lake, 30 miles north of Gananoque Sunday found that death was due to accidental drowning.

Dr. Young said that Hipsley was in a skiff with two other men, Wm. Ilam Milson and J. E. Milson, both of Newcastle.

William Milson, according to the coroner, was running the outboard motor in the stern when Hipsley, in the front of the boat with his foot on the gunwale, threw his line and then started and Mr. Milson evidently thinking that the boat was going to crash into the raft, anchored into the water, pulled his rudder quickly to the left, changing the direction of the boat, Hipsley, it is thought, lost his balance and fell into the water. He went down and efforts were made to rescue the person was close enough to grab him and he did not come up again.

LOSES FIGHT FOR RIGHTS OF DOWER

Mrs. Pauline V. Rogers Fails to Secure Order Over Fortune

Brockville, N.Y., July 6 (AP) — Mrs. Pauline V. Rogers, comely 42-year-old widow of Col. Henry Huddleston Rogers, today lost her fight in Surrogate's court to obtain her dower rights in the huge Rogers fortune.

The decision was not announced by Surrogate Robert S. Pelcovits in open court, and none of the principals to the legal tussle over the $16,000,000 estate, nor their attorneys, were present.

Under the ruling, filed with his clerk, the Surrogate refused to set aside the will of Col. Rogers' father.

Her bequest from the estate remains at $100,000 outright and the sum roughly estimated at $125,000 as an annual income from the estate.

In the midst of a heavy fog the car in which Graham was riding with Corporal W. H. Casselman, also of the R.C.M.P., collided head-on with another machine driven by Patrick Kirtley of Cornwall.

Casselman, Graham and Kirtley were only slightly hurt but Leo Villeneuve of Cornwall, a passenger in Kirtley's car required treatment in hospital here.

Wheat Jumps 5 Cents Corn Soars 4 Cents In a Frenzy of Buying

Oat Prices Also Reach Limit it Set By Exchange

FEARS OF DROUGHT

World's Carryover Estimated at Smallest Level in Nine Years

Chicago, July 6 (AP)—Wheat and corn prices shot up the full limits permitted by trading rules at the opening of domestic grain exchanges today. Wheat advanced five cents a bushel and corn four cents. . . .

Reports of serious losses to wheat in drought districts both sides of the Canadian border influenced the buying wave of speculative buying that deluged the markets.

Oat prices also skyrocketed the limit, with gains recorded on daily fluctuations in that market.

Prices for all grains were as new peaks for the season.

Trade reports were that drought and heat had destroyed crops in many sections of the United States, paralleling the unprecedented crop failure in the spring wheat belt. Canadian advices indicated grain growing in sections of the prairie provinces also was damaged seriously.

July wheat was bid up to around $1.06 and December was around $1.07⅞, within two cents of the 1935 peak. Wheat prices have advanced more than 13 cents a bushel in two weeks and were now 23 to 25 cents higher than a week ago.

Henry Speculative Buying

Resumption of heavy speculative buying in all world grain markets was based on fear that wheat production in the northern hemisphere might be so small as seriously to impair the carryover reserves carried over from one crop to another.

The inclusion of the supply situation was finally weighed on the outcome of the Canadian spring wheat crop, and many traders believed that should it develop that losses in the Dominion were sufficient the supply and demand adjustment might be slow. Although the United States winter crop turned out better than last year, this crop was expected to be forced to continue on an important basis, depending particularly on the Canadian crop for wheat.

The world's carryover of wheat was estimated at the smallest level in nine years. Successive years of poor crops in North America since 1932 have resulted in substantial depletion of the world's reserves, and a few years ago constituted surpluses that depressed wheat prices.

"Top" Prices Jump

Winnipeg, July 6 (CP)—Wheat prices soared with the thermometer at the opening of the Winnipeg Grain Exchange today with values at the high point 4⅜-4⅝ higher. July wheat was bid at $1.01⅜, October 87-91¼ and December 89-91¼.

With buying orders coming in from all over Southern Manitoba and Saskatchewan and the mercury soaring to unprecedented heights over prairie wheat area, prices shot up on the opening wave, with flax reaching the maximum five-cent range at one point.

Trading was extremely active, and Liverpool reacted to the unfavorable weather reports from North America.

Eden Will Not Urge Germany To Answer Questionnaire

Britain Still Hopeful of General Negotiations With Germany

RHINE QUESTION

London, July 6 (CP)— Foreign Secretary Eden told the House of Commons today that Britain would not continue to press Germany for a reply to the British questionnaire addressed to that country last April, concerning the Reich's foreign attitude towards her neighbors.

He was answering questions by several members of the House on this point.

Eden said: "I am not prepared to ask for an answer any more."

Arthur Henderson, Labor member and a son of the late Arthur Henderson, leader of the Labor opposition in the House, was one of the questioners. Henderson asked if the Foreign Secretary would consider making representations to Germany to hurry up the answer.

Eden said the British Government's ambassador in Berlin, "had reminded the German government on more than one occasion" that Britain desired an early reply.

Eden stated the British still were hopeful of general negotiations with Germany.

To a member's request for an inquiry into whether Germany was building fortifications in the Rhineland, Eden said: "I do not think it would be appropriate to raise this individual question separately at this moment."

Peace Garden Is Dedicated

Waterton, Alta., July 6 (CP) — A great international peace garden was dedicated here today—a symbol of long years of unbroken friendship between Canada and the United States.

The ceremony took place during the week-end when a cairn to John Hargrave, "Bronco Kid", founder of Waterton-Glacier Park, was unveiled. Messages were received from President Roosevelt and Premier Mackenzie King.

An engraved plaque carried simple lines stressing the unity of two nations and testifying to Canadian-American goodwill.

A hill in Rink Glacier with Waterton Park across the Canadian border and the international peace garden was passed by the United States House of Representatives three years ago. Similar legislation was approved by the Canadian government.

17 ARE SENTENCED TO DEATH PENALTY

Japanese Court Martial Sentences Five Others to Life Imprisonment

Tokyo, July 7.—(Tuesday)—(AP) A special court martial early today sentenced 17 leaders of the Feb. 26 rebellion to death and five others to life imprisonment.

It was in this rebellion that the Premier, Admiral Keisuke Okada, narrowly escaped assassination when government servants were killed.

Shortly after midnight Feb. 26, Lieutenant-leaders of the coup ordered some 1,400 men under their command out of their barracks and marched through the heart of the capital. Small groups of officers followed with machine-guns, rifles and swords and riding in motor cars went to the residences of five of the empire's leading statesmen in Tokyo and assassinated three of them.

JULY 15 IS DATE SET FOR ENDING LEAGUE SANCTIONS

Recommendation Placed Before League Assembly For Action

SANCTIONS REVIEWED

Failure Due to Fact Other Nations Outside League

By WADE WERNES

Associated Press Foreign Staff

Geneva, July 6 — The League of Nations co-ordinating committee adopted a resolution today fixing July 15 as the date on which to suspend economic and financial sanctions against Italy. The vote of the motion was unanimous.

The recommendation will be placed before the League assembly for final action at a meeting against Italy have been "by no means effective," Augusto Rosetti, secretary of Portugal, told the League of Nations co-ordinating committee.

Vasconcelos, president of the committee, moved the motion to raise the penalties from the Fascist regime. He declared "nothing is complete" because important countries are still outside the league.

Lesser Not Negligible

However, citing extensive trade losses and decrease of Italian gold reserves, the committee head asserted that "the failure of this attempt to apply sanctions are by no means negligible."

"Another attempt in the future might be made under better conditions," Vasconcelos added.

The co-ordinating committee deliberated, Emperor Haile Selassie sped toward London, heavy-hearted and empty-handed. His trip was for peals for "justice" denied, the king of which a country was reported to be ill, "affected physically by the strain of the past few weeks."

League delegates, freed of the embarrassing presence of the Negus, looked forward confidently to what they considered a more vital attempt—reform of the league system of collective security.

MARINE WINNER AT BISLEY SHOT

Bisley Camp, Surrey, July 6 (CP) — The final match, namely the Daily Mail meeting of the National Rifle Association which started today was won by Major R. A. Stanley and Sergt. Marines. Ashby posted a 34 out of a possible 35 for the first match Halfway.

A strong team of 16 Canadians, along with marksmen from all over the empire, is assembled here for the Bisley meeting, which opened last week.

The best Canadian scores in the Southern Railway were 31's, posted by Company Sergt.-Major H. Rudy of Guelph and Major T. Spittal of Montreal. Ten of the Dominion team entered for the match have seven shots at 200 yards.

BEATIFUL SPECIMEN BLACK BASS HOOKED

Ernest Hughes, Dundas street, local disciple of Izaak Walton, displayed a splendid fish catch in Belleville on Saturday while angling in Crowe Lake on Saturday. Though made a good strike, that gave him a merry battle of line and rod, finally landing his quarry, after considerable difficulty and was delighted to find he had caught a black bass that weighed exactly one ounce under five pounds.

BASS APPARENTLY ANOTHER HOOK

Some people say "once bitten twice shy". One well known newspaper fisherman was recently quoted as saying that once a fish is caught on hook and line and successfully escapes the jaws of the angler, it will never nibble at the fisherman's lure again. This statement was disputed and proved wanting over the week-end. While fishing down near Massassaga Point over the week end, Jack Garrow, Station St., hauled a fine specimen of black bass from the waters of the Bay of Quinte to find that the three hooks on his lure were once previously escaped from the jaws of another angler. In the fishy one's mouth was lodged a fish hook on the end of which was some two feet of line. Evidently this fish had originally bitten the line in two or so Mr. Garrow was unable to state, however, but he is today displaying his splendid catch.

ATTENDING CLINIC AT DETROIT

Mr. J. A. McPhe, left yesterday for Detroit to attend the Graduate Clinic conducted in connection with the 39th Annual Congress of the American Optometric Association that will open on Tuesday. C. A. M. Sherrington, Director of the Graduate Clinic Procedure, is a well known optician known for his work in visual correction.

These graduate clinics in Advanced Optometric methods of correcting defects of vision of children of school age are being held in the principal cities in the United States.

Mr. McPhe states that the methods of analyzing the causes for ocular problems have advanced so rapidly during the past few years that it is a task for the conscientious practitioner. Less attention is being given to whether the child can simply see well, and more to whether he is adapted visually to the demands of the modern educational requirements.

INSURANCE MAN HAS ANNIVERSARY

Mr. John R. Cummings, 53 Highland Ave., celebrated the completion of his twentieth year of service with the Prudential Insurance Company of America on Saturday evening. Guests from Belleville, Trenton, Napanee and Tweed were present and Mr. Cummings was presented by the district superintendent, Mr. A. D. Monck, on behalf of the company with a gold pencil, flash light combination for twenty years' service. The Belleville staff presented Mr. Cummings with a silver tea service, Mr. Harry Berger of Trenton making the presentation and Mrs. Cummings a bouquet of twenty roses, Miss Dorothy Hicks, district nurse, making the gift on behalf of the staff. Mr. and Mrs. Cummings graciously expressed their appreciation and the evening was spent in bridge.

FIFE IS AWAITING OWNER AT STATION

Some Orangeman may be minus his fife for the Glorious Twelfth. On Saturday Mr. Sam Gallagher, Galloway, found a fife lying on the street at the corner of Bridge and Front St. and delivered the instrument to the police station. None of the local constables being familiar with the playing of a fife, the instrument is awaiting its owner at the sergeant's desk. Presumably some musically-inclined fife player is searching for his instrument and on which to practice the remainder of the week.

YOUTHS HELD FOR OPERATING STILL

Three Tweed youths, Michael O'Dade, his brother Joseph and Jack Dwyer, were arrested by the R.C.M.P. over the week end on charges of operating a still suitable for the manufacture of illicit liquor. The lads were arraigned before a Justice of the Peace and remanded in custody until July 11, when they will appear in county police court at Tweed.

STONE CRUSHING IN COUNTY IS LOW EBB

With road conditions fair, stone-crushing operations are at a minimum, with machines at Springdale, Birch Grove, Wooler and Jackson's Point busily engaged in turning the only ones in operation, according to a statement issued by Simeon Fox, Hastings County Road Superintendent.

SCHOLARS PASS EXAMS AT WELLAND

Miss Jean Mozam has been successful in passing her examinations to the Junior Fourth, and George Hamilton Third, at Third, Welland, Ontario. Their father, Mr. Harold Mozam, who was moved to Welland just two months ago by the Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea Company, from Belleville, writes that he is quite proud of the success of his children because of not having had to attend a strange school as they have, Mozam adds, a word of praise to Miss McPherson, their teacher at Queen Alexandra School.

DRIVERS' PERMIT WILL BE CANCELLED

Brantford, Ont., July 6 (CP) — Norman Hunt, who some time ago pleaded guilty to forging the name of an accident, saying he did not like to be in debt, was arraigned when his car ran off the road on Rawdon Street and hit a fence, was given suspended sentence today. The court recommended that his driver's permit be cancelled.

The accused asked that the Crown Attorney F. B. Gilbert withdraw the statement that he was addicted to the use of narcotics. The Crown had stated at the trial the man was suffering from war wounds and had had to have ease. The court informed the accused that it could not withdraw words regarding the Crown's prerogatives.

RELIEF RECIPIENTS DOWN ABOUT HALF

Indicative of the general falling off in relief figures during the past several months, figures released by Mayor Hill today for the month of June reveal that the total number of recipients have been about halved for the same period one year ago. During June, 1935, total number of families on relief reached 399. This totalled 1,254 dependents, with 39 single applications listed.

During the past month of June total number of families was listed at 211 with 661 dependents and 8 single recipients.

The total for June, 1933 reached 1,577, while for June this year, total number of recipients reached only 666.

JAIL POPULATION NOW THIRTY-FIVE

Declared to be a high summer average, a total of thirty-five prisoners are confined in the Hastings County Jail. One woman prisoner is included in this total. Accommodation for the jail population is somewhat taxed has been provided by the use of extra cots and floor space in the corridors of the cell block.

COMMITTEES OF COUNCIL MEET

Regular business will feature two meetings of Hastings County Council committees to be held this week. At the regular meeting of the Roads and Bridges committee to be held in the city on Tuesday, the condition of highways on roads through the county will be discussed. At a meeting of the House of Refuge Committee, held on Thursday, the usual accounts and routine business will be dealt with.

12 YEAR OLD GETS LIMIT OF BASS

"Good fishing", commented residents and friends of 13-year-old Foy Wright, 194 Pinnacle Street, this city, when the youthful local angler displayed the largest of a small catch of bass caught by him in a small creek in the vicinity of Rossmore on Saturday. Measuring 20 inches in barrel or tackle the lad managed to land the bass on a 6 inch trout spoon, which scaled just a fraction under four pounds in weight. The fish was brought to the city and cast.

BAPTISTE LAKE TO BE SCENE OF CAMP

Travelling in a large coach bus, 32 boys from a West Victoria Orphanage Home, Toronto, spent the week-end bound for Camp Maka-Wabi-Kwa, Baptiste Lake, where they will spend the next six weeks in physical culture training and land and water sports. The boys were met at the lettering of their destination in the city and were taken on both sides of the conveyance.

WEEKEND TRAFFIC IS QUITE HEAVY

Traffic Officers, However State Only Occasional Speeder Summoned

Motor traffic in this district was the heaviest in years, Motorcycle Patrolmen reported today. From Friday until Monday there was an incessant stream of motor traffic seen passing through Belleville, bound all four directions. Unfortunately no major motor accidents were reported by the Highway Patrol in this area, however.

Although the heavy motor traffic I have witnessed on my detail since I came to Belleville," reported Motorcycle Constable Alan Elvins while Patrolman W. H. Delaney substantiated this statement to add: "The traffic was quite heavy and only by curbing the speedsters were we able to keep the motor accidents to a minimum."

Automobiles from many States in the United States, motor cars of all sizes and colors were seen in a constant stream passing through the city with no apparent destination in view. A few enquired possible fishing haunts and veered off to the north for the day, or else to the south for relaxation along the shores of Lake Ontario. But the weather experienced proved a boon to the tourists and soft drink business however.

"The greatest trouble we experience on the highways during these periods of heavy and congested traffic is the careless pedestrians, the kids who leave the line of traffic and run in," Yesterday I apprehended a Kingston doctor clipping it off at the rate of 76 miles per hour in forty traffic zone on Front Dundas street. Did I arrest him? I certainly did and I am sorry he has been said," stated Officer Delaney today as he said he apprehended a number of speeders over the week end. Constable Elvins declared he experienced the same difficulty on his eastern detail.

Mrs. E. W. McQuillan, Toronto, sustained a cut on her head and an injured back when the automobile in which she was riding stopped abruptly near the Airport on Saturday afternoon. Mrs. McQuillan was taken to the Belleville General Hospital where medical attention was received. Mr. C. W. McQuillan, the driver of the car, was proceeding easterly when he suddenly observed another motor car approaching from the intersection from the north. He was of the opinion the oncoming car was not going to stop and he swerved to the right striking a tree. Mrs. McQuillan and other car did stop at the intersection, however.

WEATHER

It has been decidedly warm in southern Ontario and Quebec, Prairie Provinces and it has become somewhat warmer in Ontario and Western Quebec, but continues rather cool farther east.

Lake Superior—Moderate easterly to southerly winds; mostly fair and warm.

Manitoba—Mostly fair and becoming somewhat cooler.

Saskatchewan —Mostly fair and cool quite so warm.

Take to Water Like Ducks' Says Ralph Morden, Instructor

More than fifty happy boys polled on the edge of the local Y.M.C.A. swimming pool at seven-thirty o'clock to take advantage of the series of eight free swimming lessons being given to city children between the ages of ten and fifteen years of age. The lessons are intended those who had made previous applications for membership through the medium of The Daily Ontario Intelligencer coupons.

During the present time, it was reported today by Mr. Ralph Morden, director of the Y.M.C.A. activities work at the "Y" fifty-five boys have been signed up for the present course. Mr. Morden is being assisted in the work of teaching young Belleville lads by Mr. Bert Hollowell and Arthur Martin.

This week the boys will receive instruction on Monday, Wednesday and Friday evenings and will have their class daily classes, with the exception of Saturday morning.

Mr. Morden, in speaking to the writer like ducks. Few of them are afraid and we are experiencing a very satisfactory progress,' it was stated by Mr. Morden today.

The majority of the boys taking advantage of the opportunity are around 12 and 13 years of age, with a sprinkling of boys of the maximum age limit of 15.

HOUSE DAMAGED BY LIGHTNING

Mr. And Mrs. Bowness of Mountain View Absent at Time

Lightning struck with character-istic swiftness during a brief but severe electrical storm which passed over Mountain View at 4.30 on Saturday night, entering the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bowness and stripping wallpaper and plaster from kitchen walls. Hydro and telephone lines were also put out of commission with further minor damage being done.

Mr. and Mrs. Bowness were absent at the time and were the bearers of the incident until their return from Belleville late Saturday night.

ORANGE SOCIETY ATTENDS CHURCH

Rev. A. G. Sinclair Preaches to Large Congregation at Victoria Ave. Church

Urging less indifference and more consistency towards their common faith in Christianity, Rev. A. G. Sinclair called upon all Protestants and more particularly members of the Orange Order, to face the issues that he said confront Protestantism in Canada today as he spoke to a congregation of the Order and kindred societies at the Victoria Avenue Baptist Church on Sunday morning. Some 200 Orangemen and members of sister circlets attended divine services at the Victoria Ave. Baptist Church on Sunday to commemorate the inception of their order and the Battle of the Boyne in 1690. The members paraded to the church from the Orange Hall on Ellis Road and returned to the Orange Hall for dismissal following the service. Orangemen from all parts of the district were present.

In opening his address Mr. Sinclair reviewed the early days of Christianity and related how in the 17th Century King James II of England, a Roman Catholic, became so to lead Protestants to invite William of Orange to come to the rescue of Protestantism in England. This resulted in the subsequent landing of the Prince at Brixham and his entry into London in 1688. "Orangemen of Orange in 1688, has stood as a rallying point for Protestants not only throughout the years," declared Mr. Sinclair as he urged those at his head to be true to the high heritage of the order throughout the Empire.

As the text of his message Rev. Sinclair took the 16th verse of the Bible: "When the Son of Man comes will He find faith in the earth?" Speaking on the subject of faith, Mr. Sinclair pointed out that there was a definite faith through which Christianity had passed through the ages. "Christianity has overcome in past years and will overcome in the future. The church has never been rich and radical. Faith and affection has not killed by indifference," he said. "Those who in their affliction have been the strongest supporters of the Christian church," he pointed out and referred to the many hymns written out of the depths of human afflictions and sorrows.

"What is the antidote of faith? Intolerance, inconsistency, indifference is the answer," Mr. Sinclair said.

Mr. Sinclair attacked the recent ruling of the schools in Ontario. He declared that the reason Roman Catholic Separate Schools obtain is that in these schools they teach Roman Catholicism. "I am not an Orangeman, but we are to keep up these schools," he declared emphatically.

"It is more than a question of religious education," he declared that should enlist the protest of every Protestant in the province. "I believe, though, that we have grown indifferent. We have no definite programme of action. We have nothing to protest against. We have no definite plan of action for the people to re-think their position in the light of the new service of humanity. We should exercise our faith as those who believed in Christ should in the world defend the civil and religious liberties that our forefathers have gave their lives. Then, gentlemen, we can come to you with definite proposals and all suggestions" concluded Rev. Mr. Sinclair as he welcomed the visitors to his church.

Following the service the Baptist Church choir rendered an anthem while the organist, Miss Dorothy Phyllis May sang a solo, "Nearer My God to Thee."

Mr. Johnstone's Pipe Band the parade of Orangemen and kindred societies. Leading the band in the parade: L.O.B.A., No. 350, Mrs. Bert Hall, Pres.; Benjamin Lodge No. 274, L.O.L., Belleville, Elgar Stapley, W.M.; Point Anne Lodge, No. 2026; Trenton Lodge, No. 1; Mohawk Lodge; Carrillon Lodge; Prince Edward Lodge and Trenton lodges from the district were also represented. Loyal True Blues and Chapter, Prention Boys, P.B.P. No. 853, headed by Ralph Hall, Master, were also present. Royal Scarlet Chapters; Sons of England and the Ladies' Auxiliary were also present among those to parade.

The Memorial Orange Lodge divine church parade was held one week in advance this year owing to the fact that the Orange work that is to be held in Belleville on July 13th this year. Mr. Rutton and Louis Soule were Bros. Wm. Rutton and Louis Soule.

COLLEGE STUDENT OCCUPIES PULPIT

Mr. Harry Atkinson of Albert College Speaks at Holloway St. Church

Sunday night Mr. Harry Atkinson of Albert College, occupied the pulpit in Holloway Street United Church.

Rev. R. R. Newman, the minister, in introducing the speaker, spoke of his work in the choir and the Sunday school and his loyalty to the pulpit.

Mr. Atkinson spoke of the growth of the concepts of God, in the life of mankind tracing it from the days of Samuel Hebrew with its restrictions to the personal Being, dwelling in the heart of man, to the idea of the Creator of the Universe as we think of Him today.

"Down within all men," declared the speaker, "there is the desire to worship something greater than themselves.

"Builder in God," he said, "an attitude to life which finds expression in our behaviour to our fellow men."

He told the congregation what it means to say that we want God. In the church He is taken too much for granted.

"If so-called Churchgoers wanted God as they say they would have one believe this church would be full tonight," he declared.

He brought his address to a beautiful close with a passage from a poem by Basile Wellwood in which the yearning on the part of man for God and the Voices of the Soul; those voices which cry out always for God.

Mr. Newman, the minister, thanking the speaker for his address said he was greatly impressed that a young man so early in his career was thinking so deeply and his address showed, about the things of life.

"We need young men in the church," said Mr. Newman. "We need men alert, ready to face the great tasks which is theirs, and we are grateful that Albert College is able to make a contribution to help young men prepare for this task."

Obituary

WILLIAM S. WILSON (Formerly of Roslin)

William S. Wilson, who was born at Roslin 67 years ago, the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Wilson, died at Starbuck, Manitoba, on July 3rd.

The late Mr. Wilson had been engaged in farming at Starbuck for thirty-one years. He was unmarried and in religion was a member of the Church of England (Methodist). Him are two sisters, Mrs. Clappsaddle, Roslin; Mrs. J. Waterhouse, Amethusby Town-ship; five brothers, T. B. Wilson, Colton, California; George W. Wilson, Belleville; Ernest Wilson, Vancouver, B.C.; Charles Wilson, Roslin, and Albert Wilson, Roslin.

The body will be brought east for interment; funeral arrangements will be made later.

LATE RONALD W. WILLIS

The funeral of Ronald Victor Willis, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Victor Willis, 215 Dufferin Avenue, took place from the Belleville Funeral Company Funeral Home, Saturday afternoon. The service in the chapel was conducted by the Rev. T. H. S. Hall.

MRS. GLADYS HORNE (Canniffon)

After being in failing health for some time, Mrs. Gladys Horne, wife of Mr. Harold Horne of Canniffon, died on Saturday, July 4th, at Gravenhurst, Ont.

The late Mrs. Horne was born 33 years ago in Belleville, a daughter of being Mr. Samuel Wells and the late Mrs. Wells. By all who knew her she was well esteemed and her passing is deeply regretted by her relatives and friends. She was a faithful member of the Standard Church.

Surviving her are her husband, Mr. Harold Horne, two daughters, Dorothy and Enid and one son, Alfred, all at home; her father, Mr. Samuel Wells, and her step-mother, Mrs. Wells, Montreal; one brother, Mr. Sidney Wells, Belleville.

MRS. G. A. PAYNE (Campbellford)

The death occurred at the Belleville General Hospital on Saturday, July 4th., of Mrs. Payne, widow of George A. Payne, barrister, formerly of Campbellford, Ontario. She had been in failing health for some time. She was a daughter of the late Mrs. Ida A. Harris.

Predeceased of Mrs. Payne's death was received with deep regret by many friends in Campbellford.

The funeral will take place at Campbellford on Tuesday, July 7th., at 2.15 o'clock p.m., standard time.

They wanted to nominate me for a position on the executive committee, "Nothing doing" I told them. We're too busy down there. Anyhow, just at the present time. I don't believe that our city, or some of the other cities, too, for that matter, could stand the expense of having their mayor chasing around to some of these committee and executive meetings. It would be different if anything was ever accomplished at them. But as far as I can see it is much a waste of time.

"When city council does get my report on the cost, no doubt they'll be of the same mind," added Mayor Hill.

WILLIAM PEPPER SERIOUSLY HURT

Truck He Was Driving Struck by Toronto Car

William Pepper, 90 Chatham Street, employed as a truck driver with the Hoosion Lumber Company was seriously injured Saturday afternoon shortly after five o'clock and rushed to Belleville hospital, where he was reported to be in a serious condition suffering from a ruptured pelvis and a possible fracture of the hip. It was stated today by his parents that he passed a fairly good night apparently being in much pain.

Pepper was delivering a load of lumber to a house on McDonald Avenue and in backing his truck on making the turn off Dundas Street into McDonald Avenue, the big truck was rammed by a car driven by Mrs. Leona B. Davenport, 13 Langley Avenue, Toronto, accompanied by Mrs. Alma Mockleland, 1702 Dufferin Road, Toronto. Both occupants of the motor car were shaken up but not seriously injured. Sergeant Arthur Booth investigated the accident. It was reported that Mrs. Davenport by the police. After the accident Pepper was rushed to the hospital a short distance away and attended by Dr. George H. Stobbs.

COULTER, WEIR FAMILIES MEET

Searles Beach, Oak Lake, Scene of Reunion on Saturday

Searles Beach, Oak Lake, was the scene of a jolly family gathering on Saturday when one hundred guests attended the annual picnic and social party. Relatives arrived from Belleville, Trenton, Bells-ville and Kingston and thoroughly enjoyed the interesting programme.

A delicious dinner was served, the tables being very attractively arranged with summer flowers and ladies in charge. Following the gathering was brought to order by Mrs. Harold Coulter, Oak Lake, and Mrs. George Weir of Roslin was presented with a suitable address and the oldest lady present. The youngest lady present, Bobby Coulter, 22 days old, Belleville, was also awarded a gift. The guests then joined in singing "For They are Jolly Good Fellows".

Officers were then elected for the coming year as follows:

President—Mr. Hugh Weir.

Vice-presidents, Mrs. Ross Hall.

Sports Committee—Mr. Fred Coulter, Mr. Albert Weir, Mrs. W. Patterson.

It was decided to hold the picnic next year on July 3rd at Searles Beach. Sports and games of all kinds during the day was greatly appreciated by the gathering.

The afternoon's entertainment was in charge of Mrs. Ross Hall and Harold Weir, Oshawa, who rendered solos.

Ice cream and cake were then served and the happy gathering was brought to a close with the singing of "God Be With You Till We Meet Again".

MAYOR TOO BUSY AT WORK HERE

Shows Newspaperman What Volume of Work Devolves on Mayor

"Mayors' conventions..... executive meetings .....phooey..." mildly commented Mayor Harry Hill as he tackled a voluminous pile of correspondence in his executive office at the city hall this morning.

"Mayor's outings..... holidays — that would be more like it. If ever anything real has been done at any of these meetings or conventions, I've yet to hear of it. Mostly it's just a lot of fiddling around. They meet and pass resolutions and bills and afterward practically all of them have already been up for action by the government."

Contained in the mail received by the Mayor this morning was a letter from the executive meeting of the Mayors' Association to be held in Toronto.

"At the last convention we had I was approached by several to offer myself as candidate for some office

TEN KILLED AS TRAFFIC SOARS TO HIGHEST PEAK

Minor Mishaps Over Week-end Brought Injuries to Scores

2 INDIANS DROWN

Three Narrowly Escape Death Near Campbellford

(By The Canadian Press)

The Province's death toll stood at 10 today after a week-end during which highway traffic soared to the season's highest peak. In addition to fatal accidents, minor mishaps brought injuries to scores of others.

Three people died in car crashes, four drowned, two were killed in a motorcycle mishap and a six-year-old girl died from burns.

Mrs. Mary Lennon, Detroit, was struck by a streetcar and killed by a car that did not stop. She received injuries which caused her death before she could be taken to hospital. Her husband, Frank Lennon, Ban, was injured at the same time. The two were crossing the street when struck by the car.

Ward Chatham, Tuoll Goldsim, of Niagara Falls, N.Y., was killed when the car in which he was a passenger skidded on wet pavement and crashed into a tree. Three other Niagara Falls residents were injured in the same accident.

Thomas Hamilton, 72, North Bay, who had just celebrated his 50th anniversary of opening his barber shop there, died in hospital after being run over by a car. Police said the driver, Frank Perrit, told them the man had stepped off the curb into the car's path.

Six-year-old Laura Margaret Adamson was playing on a corner lot in Kitchener, when man in a nearby house shop saw her suddenly enveloped in flames. They rushed to her aid but the child was so severely burned, over her entire body she died a few hours later.

Police said the little girl was playing with matches in which her father claimed the matches were kept in a high cupboard out of the child's reach.

Hawthman Drowns

Norman Mc. Ritchie, 22, Irish-Canadian lineman, formerly employed at J. J. Smallman's Medway plant in the London district, drowned in the Otonabee River, Peterboro. It was the district's first drowning fatality of the season.

One of Morrison's three companions, James Slattery, 39, Lorado, made a heroic effort to save the man and brought his unconscious form to shore, but it was too late.

Within a few hundred feet of their destination, two Walpole Island Indians drowned when their small rowboat capsized in the Bay River near Tupperville. They were Sylvester Sande, 40, and his cousin, Benjamin Sande, 21.

Two other occupants of the boat, Hazel Stamp and Gordon Sands, fighting for their lives, were rescued from the water by occupants of a yacht anchored nearby.

The party of four was returning from Algonac, Mich., at the time.

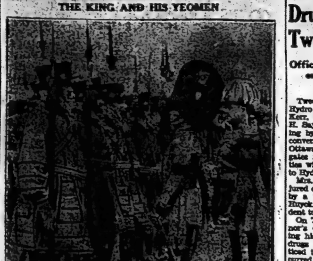
Dr. Allan, Courtright coroner, investigated and said inquests would not be held.

Married only a week ago and spending his honeymoon at Campbell's Cove, 20 miles north of Gananoque, Harry Hinkley, 25, Pittsburgh, Pa., drowned when he lost his balance and fell into the water as he tried to start the outboard motor on the boat. The body was recovered an hour and a half later.

William Turner, 26, and Miss Marion Vincent, 18, both of Toronto, were killed when the motorcycle they were riding crashed into a car driven by Norman James, Toronto, on the highway near Maple, 30 miles north of Toronto. Miss Vincent was riding pillion on the machine and Turner was driving.

Another motorcyclist and his girl companion rode away from the scene of the accident and police were unable to learn their identity.

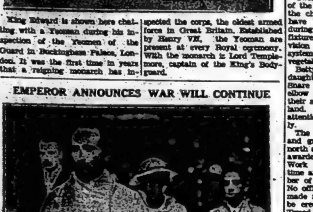
Nearly Killed



Campbellford, in the Peterborough district, had four near-fatalities as three men narrowly escaped death from a high-tension wire and a 14-year-old boy was revived after being dragged unconscious from the Trent Canal.

John Allard and William Wild, Toronto, were sitting in their car when a high-tension wire carrying 44,000 volts snapped from a pole and lay crackling in the grass scant inches away. Grass and gravel near the pole caught fire from the sizzling wire but men looped a rope around it and moved it away from the car.

Charles Martin, 14, unable to swim, fell into the Thames Canal from the Dow Brick and sank in 10 feet of water. The young son of Lockmaster Walter Sutton saw the accident and gave the alarm. Mr. Sutton rowed across the river and pulled the boy to the surface with a long pike pole.



On the way to the shore, Roy Wilton, who accompanied Mr. Sutton, applied artificial respiration and soon on the river bank continued resuscitation efforts for one hour. The boy revived and was taken to hospital, where doctors gave him a good chance for recovery.

THE KING AND HIS YEOMEN

King Edward is shown here chatting with a Yeoman during his inspection of the Yeomen of the Guard in Buckingham Palace, London. It was the first time in years that a reigning monarch has inspected the corps, the oldest armed force in Great Britain. Established by Henry VII., the Yeomen are present at every Royal ceremony. With the monarch is Lord Templetown, captain of the King's Bodyguard.

EMPEROR ANNOUNCES WAR WILL CONTINUE

Determined to make a personal plea to the League of Nations for help for my country," Emperor Haili Sellassie of Ethiopia is pictured as he arrived in Geneva from London. Behind the emperor are two of his children. Although England and Russia have refused recognition of Italy's conquest of Ethiopia, the pleading emperor was coldly received in the city of Geneva, which was surrounded by cautioned when a group of Italian newspapermen who hissed the emperor's speech before the league were arrested.

Sellassie has announced the reorganization of the Ethiopian army.

ACTION SCENE FROM CAMDEN STRIKE

After the serious rioting in Camden, N.J., in which half a dozen persons were injured, police guards have been increased at the Victor division plant of the R.C.A. Manufacturing Company. This picture was made during a minor disturbance, when a policeman and a striker sympathizer came to grips. Union leaders and company officials are negotiating. Supreme Court Justice Lloyd directed the Camden grand jury to try to fix responsibility for the disturbances which have marked the strike, and which have placed at least 40 cases of disorderly conduct in the Camden courts.

Drugs Taken from Tweed Dispensary

Office of Dr. M. O'Connor entered in His Absence

Tweed—The members of Tweed Hydro Commission, Chairman C. H. Carr, Jos. Rashotte and Secretary H. Sayers left on Thursday morning by motor to attend the Hydro convention in the Chateau Laurier, Ottawa. At this session the delegates from the various municipalities will discuss matters of interest to Hydro owners.

Mrs. Anna Clark was slightly injured on Dominion Day, when thrown by a motor car operated by Bert Hayek. This was the only accident to mar the day.

On Thursday Dr. Maurice O'Connor's dispensary was entered during his absence and a quantity of drugs taken. Dr. O'Connor was notified the theft shortly after it occurred and reported the matter to the police. Constable Clare Hayes of Tweed, in co-operation with the Provincial police, were successful in apprehending the guilty party, who had been accused of drugs in Madoc, Stirling, Wartworth, Foxboro and elsewhere by breaking into the doctors' offices.

Tweed Dominion Store is now one of the most up-to-date branches in the chain. Extensive alterations have been made to the interior during the past week. New green fronts are being installed. Provision has been made for a modern system of handling fresh fruit and vegetables.

Betty May Shave, an 8-year old daughter of Mrs. Shave and Mr. Shave of Belleville, dislocated her elbow on falling from a chair at their summer cottage on Sugar Island. The child received prompt attention and is getting along nicely.

The contract for crushed stone and gravel on No. 37 Highway, north and south of Tweed, has been awarded to C. L. Storey of Bath. Work will commence in the near future and will take care of a number of unemployed in the district. No official announcement has been made regarding the new bridge to be erected on Alf Mott's river at Tweed but it is believed work will commence in the near future.

The Ontario Bridge Company is repairing Shoo Bridge which is in bad shape. Traffic through this area has been re-routed through Tweed. Metcalfe and Cowdrey Streets paving project which is under the direction of Mr. Fox, Provincial County Roads Superintendent, has not been started as yet. A start has been received regarding the date when this work will be begun. One hundred and fifty men will be engaged in new road construction work from Tweed to Madoc Junction. Tourists to this part of the province will find this a good road again.

Spritzer and Realty of Campbellford, who have been engaged in supplying crushed rock for a contractor, have moved to Tweed and been given a new contract on No. 37 Highway from Foxboro to Harthlook. They have moved their stone crushing outfit to Tweed.

On Tuesday morning Joseph Payette of Queensboro appeared before Magistrate Ketcheson charged with having a car while intoxicated. On pleading guilty he was fined $50 or 30 days in the County Jail. Payette was driving a car belonging to Mrs. Murphy, Belleville, at the time. Alex. Johnston of Alberta, was given 7 days on a similar charge of operating a motor car while in an intoxicated condition.

Clarence Villwell pleaded guilty to the charge of driving a car, careless of an accident, and operating a car without a driver's license. He was sentenced to fifteen days on each count, to run concurrently, with two months' sentence additional. Fred Duquette, Elsevir, was fined $10 and costs on a charge of being drunk. Chas. Johnston on a similar charge went to jail for 10 days when unable to raise the amount of the fine.

Nelson Maracle, an Indian, was given two years at Kingston, on pleading guilty to breaking, entering and entering the homes of Martin Deshane and James Hinchey of Marlbank. Maracle has a record of several previous convictions on similar charges.

A most enjoyable lawn social was held at the United Church Auditorium on Friday evening. Proceeds amounted to $35.00. An interesting program of music, recitations and songs was given. Mrs. Murley Simmons was a beautiful blanket in a bean guessing contest.

Miss Lyla Mae of Toronto Public Schools Staff, formerly a teacher of Tweed Consolidated School, was a visitor in Tweed for a few days during the week. She is now in Belleville, a guest of Miss Orace Houston.

Mr. Bud Hinch of Stoco, a student of Ontario Business College, Belleville, was operated on for removal of appendix in the Belleville General Hospital.

There are several additional cases of mumps among the pupils of Tweed Consolidated School since school closed on June 26th.

Mrs. Irene Hall, a recent graduate of Belleville General Hospital, has received word of her success in passing examinations for Nurses' Registration as required by the Department of Health.

Dr. W. M. Mather left on Thursday for a visit of several weeks' duration to the Western States and the Pacific Coast, during which time will visit friends and relatives along the route.

Mr. George Freeman was painfully bruised and badly shaken up as a result of falling downstairs at his home last week.

Tweed Consolidated School was successful in passing all the pupils of the Senior Fourth class in the recent Entrance Examinations. Tweed Separate School was successful in passing 100 per cent. of eight.

Mrs. Russell Frost and children of Niagara Falls, N.Y., are camping at their cottage on Sugar Island for the summer months.

Mr. Paul Rashotte will undergo an operation at Hotel Dieu, Kingston, where he is a patient.

Miss Elaine McAllister of Otter Creek School, has returned to her home near Kingston. She will attend Summer School at Kingston.

Miss Margaret Hickle, who has been visiting her aunt, Miss Margaret Holdcroft, for a short time, left on Tuesday to join her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hickle of Clearwater, Fla., at New York, whence they will sail on the steamer "Leonardo" for a two months' vacation in Europe.

Mr. and Mrs. William DeGrafe and son, John, of St. Catharines, spent Dominion Day in Tweed. They left later to spend a short time with Mr. and Mrs. Neil DeGrafe in Campbellford.

Mr. and Mrs. Alex. Turcotte are spending a couple of ten days with Mr. and Mrs. Lee Turcotte in Belleville, N.Y.

Miss Myrtle Foster, B.A., was operated upon in St. Joseph's Hospital, Toronto, and is getting along nicely.

St. James' W.A. met at the home of Misses A. M. Rayburn and G. M. Ferris. The president, Mrs. Wallace, was in charge. Rev. Mr. Swayne read the Scripture lesson and offered prayer. Mrs. George Clarke read an interesting sketch on the life of King Edward VIII. Mrs. Mitchell read an article from the Hindu paper expressing admiration and appreciation of the work of the English missionaries in India. Mrs. Baker read a story, "Everybody's Dog" which depicted treatment often accorded to immigrants to Canada.

The meeting was closed with the Mizpah Prayer. Lunch was served and a vote of thanks was tendered to Misses Rayburn and Ferris.

Mr. William Gredcott, Sr., of Sulphide, has returned home following a recent operation in Toronto General Hospital. His condition is still regarded as grave.

Dorothy Parry who has been attending College of Education in Toronto, has returned to her home in Sulphide.

C. WANNAMAKER HELD FOR THEFT

Allegedly Took Car And Wrecked Same on Station Street

Cecil Wannamaker, Cak Hills, was arrested by local police shortly before midnight on Saturday after he had allegedly stolen a car from its Front Street parking place and crashed it on Station Street. The car belongs to Frank Sexsmith, merchant of this city, when he crashed the vehicle against a curb on Station Street. Leaving the car on the street where it had crashed, but a local man, believing him to be acting in a suspicious manner accosted him. Wannamaker left when the police arrived, they being on the scene shortly after the car was sent in by Mr. White. In police court on Monday Wannamaker was charged with theft and not being asked to plead was remanded for a week's time in jail. In the meantime the police will carry out an investigation regarding car thefts in this district during the past few weeks.

Mr. White and his family were preparing to proceed to their home and left their car for a few moments and when they returned found that the steering column had been unlocked. The theft was immediately reported and Constables Arnold and Gwyn proceeded in the police car to North Front Street and arriving on Coronation James Street found a citizen holding the man who gave his name as Cecil Wannamaker. The car was found wrecked on Station St., the "key" which had been broken with other damage.

POLICE BLOTTER

Saturday local police were busied Saturday local police were busy as a number of thefts and attempted thefts were reported. Late Saturday afternoon Mr. Domenico's automobile was found abandoned on Highway No. 2. The revolver and ammunition were missing, however.

James Browning, 28 St. Charles St., complained to the police on Sunday the fact that a motor car had run over his bicycle on Front Street. Browning claimed the driver of the motor car knocked the bicycle over intentionally with it.

When asked if the car driver had been trying to run Jim down he did, but later drove away without having his name following an accident. The number of the car was obtained.

F. C. Arnold found a bicycle abandoned while going over his beat over the week-end. The "bike" was in still ill. Frank Adsorey claims some of the Claimants, said the action would be based on the charge that the York couple had not taken proper care of Peers before his death.

Henry Peers was the last of three Rochester brothers who—in the surprise of the countryside—amassed the fortune.

Mr. and Mrs. Vom discovered the treasure only last week after stories of "hidden wealth" had been current for some time.

An iron box unearthed on the property yielded $60,000 in securities which were taken promptly to a Davenport bank. A second search uncovered a second box containing $117,000 in gold and silver certificates, bonds, unmashed checks and certificates in a machine shed. The same day $3,500 was found in the house.

HEIRS TO FORTUNE GUARD TREASURE

Tipton, Iowa, July 6 (AP)—An irate heir to the $213,000 found on the farm of a recluse today aimed a "shot in the pants" threat at "any rubber stamp" in search for more hidden wealth.

The Vosses, it is fully planned to recoup down on the place in a hectic treasure hunt.

Relatives and other ideas. He posted himself as guard and warned:

"Don't worry about anybody digging around here. I'll get 'em.

"Anybody who tries it will get his pants full of shot or my dog's teeth in his leg."

Then the outraged relatives hastened to the little legal dignity in the form of a suit to break the will. J. France, Attorney for some of the Claimants, said the action would be based on the charge that the York couple had not taken proper care of Peers before his death.

THE TOURIST COMES

What the visiting tourist means to a country was indicated in no uncertain manner on Saturday, the annual observance of Independence Day, which brought thousands of U.S. tourists into Ontario and the other Provinces, thousands passing through and many stopping at Belleville. It was the heaviest weekend traffic of the year, according to the police.

The motor is a way to take a holiday. That is the way the holiday and the car are linked up in the popular mind today. This attitude will continue while there are long stretches of highway and vast expanses of landscape unknown to the last motorist of the United States and Canada.

The cause of this unprecedented traffic was of course the day and then it was the fact that there is a spirit of continued recovery. Whatever the forebodings of some, the people and industry believe in the continued revival of business and work. A glance at the type of cars used by the visitors shows them almost without exception cars of very recent manufacture, mainly new cars. This is an indication of new wealth in the hands of the people and of the manufacturers and their engineers and artisans and also in the hands of the owners and mechanics of trade. Canadians are pleased to know that many Canadians visit the United States summer and winter because they know that citizens of the Republic will visit Canada. All these peoples are heralds of even better understanding than the excellent understanding which now exists across the border. U.S. residents and Canadians understand one another better through visiting one anther's country. There is reciprocity of thought and heart. There is of course the main object in these tours, relaxation and new experiences. These come as a natural consequence of travel, for there yet has not been found any better means of broadening the mind and widening the sympathies than by travel.

GARBAGE AND WATER

If there is a time which marks out the wrong of garbage dumping into streams and rivers and lakes it is the present time, for this is the season which makes the practice seem all the more reprehensible. If one were to judge by the way in which some people act, it would seem that many people do not realize that there is a law against pollution of waters. Brockville Recorder and Times believes that "either municipal or provincial health authorities should make a tour of the upper St. Lawrence and the back lakes and find out for themselves how people who would never think of dumping their garbage, old bottles, tin cans and other refuse on their front lawns when they are in their urban environment, think nothing of throwing it into the nearby waters, the pollution of which is increased by such a lazy and filthy practice."

What is said of the upper St. Lawrence would apply to watering places and resorts in other places. One knows from the past how a summer resort park can be litered with greasy papers and decaying food if the picnickers do not act sensibly in disposing of this rubbish. The Brockville paper calls it sheer laziness so to do, because it is one of the simplest matters in the world for garbage to be disposed of upon land when it originates on the summer cottages or camps. If it cannot be buried in pits, it may be burned at a minimum of trouble and expense in either a recognised or makeshift incinerator. Because people do not wish to put themselves to even such a small amount of trouble, however they throw it into the river or lake to wash up upon the shores elsewhere and to add further impurities to water supplies which already have to be treated because of their pollution."

One of the most reprehensible of acts is the throwing of bottles into water in river or lake or bay, especially if where there is a danger of bathers suffering cuts. Many a beach has been ruined by thoughtless persons throwing bottles into the water or broken glass. And it has even been known for folk to throw bottles in the water for target practice with stones or gunshot. The result is easily seen—long painful, gashes in the feet, perhaps in a season, when contaminated water may bring serious sickness or a severed tendon may result and a person be badly crippled.

Mention must be made of the practice of dumping refuse along the river bank to be thrown soon or late in the stream. There is too much of such practice.

If those who offend would only use thought, they would realize that they gain nothing by such carelessness and cause risk of accident or pollution through contaminated water. It costs little or nothing to exercise a little precaution—the same precaution as is used at home.

BIG BUGS EAT UP LITTLE BUGS AND LITTLE BUGS EAT UP LITTLER BUGS, and that keeps the bug population down to a livable and yet livable level. Recent opening of a new entomological laboratory at Belleville brought the question of big bugs and little bugs very much to the fore. Belleville was always noted for the number of "Big Bugs" it supported, also "Little Bugs" who wished to be numbered among the "Big Bugs", perhaps, but just couldn't make it for lack of money, or brains, or both. However, Belleville now has a Big Bugg'y whereas, heretofore, it only had a little bugg'y and the Dominion Government is behind it all, training harmless bugs to make war on the bugs which destroy the crops and cost the country much money. Down in the Belleville Entomological Laboratory battalions of beneficial bugs are being trained to go forth and annihilate the bug enemies of the field crops, orchards and vineyards, and so the ceaseless war goes on of science for and against Nature and Science generally rises on all fronts, although the battles are fierce and long. For instance not long ago a dangerous bug escaped from Japan, landed in the United States and before it could be controlled did millions of dollars worth of damage to fruit trees in Eastern United States.

THEN THERE ARE OTHER BUGS BIG AND SMALL, and just now Uncle Sam is having a devil of a fight with TERMITES, a species of ant which eat up everything in sight, enormous appetites and no discrimination as to quantity or quality. Damage from Termites last year in United States was estimated at $50,000,000. Everything looks alike to them, furniture, books, food not protected in metal containers—principally the things you prize most, which the busy termite proceeds to sink without trace. Here's a picture of Termites at work—MEET THE TERMITE::

Fashionable

His clothing being decidedly rustic in appearance, his host suggested that he could get a suit from a city tailor, to which the young man agreed.

"What about a small deposit, sir?" asked the tailor, when measurements had been taken.

"Just as you like," replied the other: "put one in if they're fashionable."

Little Benny's Note Book

Us fellows was sitting on Sam Cross's front steps tawking about diffrent subjects such as whether you could ever really tame a tiger so you could really trust it, and Puds Simkins said, All I know is, I was scratched by a cat once, and that's enough for me.

Aw what's that? Sam Cross said. I been bitten by a snake and knocked down by a bull and chased by a mad dog and kicked by a stalyin, he said, and I said, O yes, like fun you have.

Him being the biggest liar around and Gilmore Magee said, Go ahead and prove it if you have.

How am I going to prove it when none of them felt any marks? Sam Cross said, and I said, A snake leaves a mark.

Sure, a snake leaves a mark, the other fellows said, and Sam Cross said, That's rite, I forgot, I still got the snake mark on my leg rite in back of my knee.

Well let's see if you have, Shorty Jodge said, and Sam Cross put his leg back, do you think I'm going to roll my stocking down rite out here on the street?

Why not, I've saw you come out without any shoes or stockings all a ways here, Puds said, and Sam said, That's diffrent. Coming out of the house that way is diffrent from undressing on the street.

Well all rite, go on in the house and come out with your stocking rolled down, I dare you, I said, and Sam said, Okay, I'll be rite back.

And he went in and pitty soon he came out again with one stocking rolled half ways down and a little blue mark on his leg, Puds Simkins saying, Aw, thats fak, will you leave me wet my fingers and smear it?

I wouldn't be so unsanitary, Sam Cross said. Wich just then his father started to go in the house and I quick said, Did Sam ever get bit by a snake, Mr. Cross? and Mr. Cross said, No, and I hope he never will.

And he kept on going in, and Sam said, You guys must think I tell my father and mother everything.

And he got up and went in himself, and the fellows got up a game of cops and rackateers.

374 DEATHS IN HONORING FOURTH

Largest Fatality List Since 1931 and Second Largest in Nine Years

(By the Associated Press)

The United States today counted 374 violent deaths in the week-end celebration of Independence Day.

It was the largest Fourth of July fatality list since 1931, when 443 died, and the second largest in the last nine years.

Fireworks resulted in 11 deaths—the great number in that category since 12 were killed in 1930. The figure tended to confirm advance estimates that the sale of pyrotechnics had increased substantially this year.

Motor vehicle fatalities numbered 198 and drownings 94.

Others lost their lives in tavern brawls, airplane crashes, wild shooting and mishaps and other accidents. Fires and lightning claimed other victims.

The record compared unfavorably with the list of 305 in 1934; 159 in 1929; 178 in 1930; 343 in 1932; 185 in 1933; 175 in 1934; and 316 in 1933 despite widespread appeals for a safe and sane celebration.

Couple Surrender to Police for Questioning

Chicago, July 6.—(AP)—Edward Andrew Vallette, 21-year-old "platinum blonde butterfly".

Freed appeared at the Hudson Avenue Station with his Attorney, Abrahams Marovits. He wore a dark suit and a cap, showed no outward appearance of the illness which his Attorney had reported.

He was not accompanied by his wife, Ruth, whom police have sought since her photograph was pointed on as resembling that of the woman who visited Miss Vallette's apartment just before she was slain.

The best things in LIFE

It's easy to say that "the best things in life are free." But think a moment. Aren't the things YOU value most the ones you've worked and planned and saved for?

This very day, perhaps, you're looking forward to making some purchase that will mark another milestone in satisfaction and achievement. It may be something comparatively costly, like a new home—a car—a vacation spent in travel. Or it may be simply a party dress—a set of breakfast china—new curtains for the living-room.

You can take real enjoyment in the ANTICIPATION of such an investment. But be sure the REALIZATION doesn't disappoint you. Before you buy, read carefully the advertisements in this newspaper. Consider real values. Weigh the merits of one product against another. Find out where and when you can take advantage of price reductions.

STIRLING YOUTH PLEADS GUILTY

Gets Two Years Suspended Sentence And Makes Restitution

Arthur Hagerman, 18 year old stirling youth, pleaded guilty to two charges, one of breaking, entering and theft and a second of forgery when he appeared before Magistrate R. J. Butler, K.C. in town hall police court, Stirling, this morning. In default of counsel a two year suspended sentence was passed upon the accused by the magistrate and most of the proceedings being paid by the young man's father.

Hagerman was charged with breaking and entering the garage, Stirling, and stealing automobile accessories and also issuing a forged promissory note in part payment of an automobile. Frank Goulding, garage proprietor for the accused youth and entered a plea of guilty on both charges. "Your Worship, I am the first time this young man has ever been in trouble and I would ask for leniency he shown in the case. Apparently this young man had the fatuous idea he had a right to motor car despite the fact the automobile dealer there had refused to issue only receiving $25.00 a month as wages, I think he should have refused to sell a car to a young man like this at the first place. It is his first offence and I would ask that he be custody for the past ten days," stated Mr. Goulding.

"Young man, this is a serious crime." Do you realize you could be sent to Penetang for 14 years?" said His Worship before meting out the two year suspended sentence. Hagerman was also told to keep up the peace by Crown Attorney R. C. Denman, K.C.

A charge of keeping liquor for sale against Mac Marcus of this city, also appeared in police court this morning to the absence from the city of one of the prosecution's witnesses.

Lloyd Dafoe, Hamilton, appeared charged with reckless driving and entered a plea of guilty. The charges was laid by Provincial Constable Alec Kidd, of Madoc, following an accident on Highway No. 14 yesterday, while Dafoe's car crashed into the ditch south of Marmora. Judgment in the case was reserved until July 14th at the request of the accused.

An old offender pleaded guilty to a charge of drunkenness. "Let me go this time and I will leave town", promised the prisoner.

"We've heard that story too often already, Tom dollars and costs", replied the Bench. The fine was not forthcoming and the case was adjourned back to the cell block along with two other inebriates, who shared the same fate.

A domestic case was amicably settled when a charge of assault arose out of the alleged assaulting of a woman by her husband. They appeared in court together and agreed to live peacefully in the future.

DRIVER FAILS TO SEE "STOP SIGN"

Two Cars Collide at Corner of Cedar And Catherine Streets

Failing to observe the stop sign, owing to the over-hanging of the branches of a tree on the north-east corner of Cedar and Catherine Streets, a motor car driven by Mrs. Ross Baker, R. R. No. 8, Belleville, collided with another car driven by Mrs. Ethel Bonter on Catherine street, by Bonter's home about 10.30 on Sunday morning crashing the Baker car into a Hydro pole at the southeast corner of the intersection. Mrs. Baker and Mrs. Keene, passengers in the Baker car received minor injuries and shock. Both vehicles were badly damaged during the collision.

Mrs. Keene was proceeding south on Cedar when Mrs. Baker who admitted not seeing the stop sign, swung to the right instead of straight on that point. Mr. Baker was driving the car on Catherine St., when Mr. Keene's car struck it left rear fender of the Baker car near the centre of the intersection, and then crashed into the car.

Mrs. Baker suffered from shock and was taken to the office of Dr. W. J. Deacon for examination, later being removed to her home. Mrs. Keene also sustained minor shock and bruises. Both cars were damaged, stated today that Mr. Keene also struck the Hydro pole on the intersection because he did not see the stop sign.

A charge of reckless driving was laid against Mr. Keene in today's police court when he appeared and pleaded guilty. The minimum fine was imposed by Magistrate Butler and subsequently paid.

GOLD DISCOVERY MADE

Kingston, July 6.—(CP)—Gold discovery at Henderson in Kennebec township, about 60 miles north of Kingston, were reported here today. The discoveries were said to have been made by M. J. Arter and Fred Lyon, who have been prospecting in the district for two years.

According to the reports, the gold was found in several places over an area of 30 acres. Rich specimens of claims have been staked.

Chivalry Not Dead Just Accommodating

"Pull down the gas," William, startled the voice of a 300-pound member of the "weaker sex" as he tugged at the crank of an ancient speed car, entering court at 10 o'clock this morning. And William, a seemingly unperturbed, 175-lb. youth, meekly complied. The motor roared, then died. Finally, Policeman Wilson moved over to allow the heavy lady to squeeze herself beneath the wheel. Then he explained to the court the fact that chivalry is not dead just accommodating.

LAYMAN SPEAKS AT BRIDGE STREET

Tells of Place of Laymen in Church of To-day

The layman's prominence in the modern church activity was stressed by Mr. W. D. Goodrich, of Montreal, prominent lay member of the United Church, at the opening service at Bridge Street United Church on Sunday morning when the church was a visitor in the city over the week-end and was prevailed upon by Rev. Dr. James Endicott, Toronto, to speak on the question of the layman in the church to-day.

While the layman plays a secondary part in the church organization, since we he is surpassed in skill in the pulpit, and in practical knowledge of the work by the ministry, men of the conference, he occupies a prominent and important part in activities of the local church, said Mr. Goodrich. Every field of activity of the local church shows the layman in control and aided by the layman. He has no small part in the success of the services, for, said Mr. Goodrich, the church service is spoiled by the reception given it by the congregation, because the congregation is not paying attention but is thinking of the week's work. Many a sermon which would be effective is diverted from so being because of the lack of response from the people which the ministry has to face. Mr. Goodrich concluded. He cited the remarks of Sir Cedric Hardwicke, the English actor, who said that the legitimate stage will continue and will be improved over the moving picture because the actor on the stage feels the reaction of his audience which is not present before the footlights. Similarly the congregation helps the minister and the service.

After stressing other points about the layman's opportunity in the church and his duty, Mr. Goodrich pointed particularly to the failure chip engendered in the church. "There is no place for church-in existence. Mr. Goodwin pointed back to the primitive Christian church to show that fellowship was the first requirement. Without fellowship the church's problems are solved, even the financial problems. Only when all are one in heart and mind can the church be a real power and service.

Reeve of Hungerford Lost a Big One

D'Alton Clark, well known Reeve of Hungerford Township, and one of the best fishermen of the province of Hastings County Council, today on a hotel verandah here, and all who repaled fellow councillors and counties, expressed the fish, that got away while he was enjoying sport in the Lost Channel near his home at Big Island. Before returning to the reeve, the turgid waters of the channel, which is one of many fish-filled waters of all varieties.

"I'd caught several nice bass and a few pickerel", related the reeve. "Then I got a bigger fish, the line nearly pulled me out of the boat. Playing the fish carefully, I managed to get him alongside the boat, when he took a flying leap, sailed over the top of the line and loose and flopped back into the water. I would be a fish that weighed from 18 to 20 pounds", lamented the Reeve.

"Hungerford" questioned James Haggerty, county treasurer.

"Lunge," supplied Mr. Clark.

REGISTRATION AT PLAYGROUND BEGINS TODAY

Playground Program is Drawn Up, Says Superintendent

"Although the official opening of the playgrounds doesn't occur until Wednesday, July 8, registrations will commence today," said Mr. George Laughlin, Playgrounds Supervisor, to The Ontario Intelligencer.

Referring to the activities to be established during the season, he said that quite a third of the work would be devoted to handicraft. Including such skilled work as rag mats, coping, pencilling, archery, basketry, clay modelling, painting, kite-making, possibly some bead work, rug-making, the fashioning of artificial flowers, paper novelties, stocking, needlework, raffia, crepe paper flowers, scrapbooks and a list of other activities too numerous to mention.

Something definite is needed as regards the Junior Baseball League, Mr. Laughlin, "and that programme we have already drawn up."

The programme outlined was of wide scope. He spoke of the possibility of a Senior baseball and basketball material in Belleville and declared that competitive baseball, carried out between the two playgrounds, would help to remedy this condition in the future. It is his intention to organize two teams representing the Junior and Senior playgrounds, for baseball and inter-ground games. Each playground will be equipped and stocked with the best word in back-stops installed so that the proper facilities will be provided.

As to softball, a league will be formed with the four playgrounds including Midget, Junior and Senior groups. The boys and girls Junior and Senior for the girls. Volleyball is another undertaking with two nets to be used. Nets are for the girls. Horseshoes, jacks and checkers are also planned. Quoits is a game which should attract a great deal of interest in "other ball". Also there will be lacrosse played from a pole 15 feet high from which is suspended a ball, the object holding a tennis ball. The object is to wind the rope around the pole with the ball, the first to do so being declared the winner.

Track and field events will also be held with gymnastics, dancing a presentation of prizes and a huge picnic to wind up the season.

It is evident that this programme will be carried out under the strict supervision. Mr. Laughlin is assured close co-operation in all things pertaining to selection of capable staff. At the east end playgrounds, Mr. Harold Bowen has been appointed to take charge of the boys while Mrs. Dorothy Zufelt, the girls.

Registration commences starting on Wednesday—the official opening—at 9.30 a.m. and will be conducted at Dannifton and the Rivards Junior at the east end diamond. "Dannifton" will be run in charge of Mrs. Dannifton with George Lee, manager of the Belleville Y.M.C.A. and Miss Kelleher, Weeks or Noakes to the mound to do the hurling duties. Rivards Junior will be in charge of Mrs. Rivards with Mr. Lee as athletic, will be in charges of the boys while Mrs. Dorothy Zufelt, the girls.

FINKLE FAMILY HOLD RE-UNION

Over 150 Members of Family Meet at Oak Lake

With one hundred and fifty in attendance a most successful outing was held at Finkle Park, Oak Lake, Manitoba, yesterday, the occasion being the Finkle Family Reunion.

Mrs. Finkle, mother of Stirling was the oldest guest present. Able M. Finkle of Belleville was the youngest. A picnic lunch which was loaded with good things to eat.

Much time was spent perusing old documents and books relating to family history. Dr. George Finkle was the head of the family came from Germany some time before 1760 and first settled in Duchess County, New York, where he was engaged in the fur trade. Through his loyalty to the British Crown his estates were confiscated and he was forced to leave the country and settled in Quebec City with his three sons, John, George and Henry. Later they settled family in Bath where they became leading merchants and prominent citizens.

Something definite is needed as regards the Junior Baseball League, Mr. Laughlin, "and that programme we have already drawn up."

TORONTO MINES CLOSE

Toronto, July 6.—(CP)—The gold section of Toronto mining market was strong on a strong advance today, led by O'Brien and Preston, both selling in heavy volume at a point higher. O'Brien passed 43 and closed around that figure on the day. Preston sold around five for the day and Preston around 2.18 was up 10 cents. Senior golds were quiet but firm and several strength rules in the base metals. Silvers were generally firm.

Other active and strong golds of the secondary division were McKenzie, Pamoster, Sisco, Sullivan and Red Lake.

Hollinger-Ankerite returned to its high mark of 58 for a gain of 10 points. Hollinger was the strongest of coal. Sherritt was about the strongest of the base metals at 1.08, up 6 points.

TORONTO INDUSTRIALS CLOSE

Toronto, July 6.—(CP)—Industrial shares were a bit heavy in the first hour of trading today. Declines were under-sized. The oils, metals and a few of the other interlisted leaders were steady. Canada Breadlies came out in considerable volume with Canada Bread and Dominion Stores in the close. International Nickel maintained a strong appearance around 38 and closed a gain of about 1-2 and in the final hour. Imperial Oil was firm at the close. In good volume C.P.R. closed at 13 3-4, a point higher.

Some 20 odd blocks of 5,000 shares or more in the industrials passed over the tape at 86 for a loss of 5 cents. Abitibi, Bell Telephone, Canada Steamships, Western Grocers and Canners B. were off. Laura Secord sold higher at 1.00 and Canada Bread at a half point. Bell Telephone, Consumers Gas, Dominion Textile were weaker of the weak utilities. Crown Nest Coal dropped 6 to 80.

WALL STREET CLOSE

New York, July 6 (AP)—The news was scanty and prices mixed in today's Stock Market.

Buyers pushed up a number of specialties, but selective strength was not sufficient to overcome selling in the last hour that was affected by the drought and the possibilities of a major strike. Gains and losses were quiet near the final hour.

Current coal production was officially estimated at 67.3 per cent of the Coal Code basis, a drop of 6.6 points from the previous week. It was the largest week's recession in about two years. A sharp upturn in the industry was said to have been partly responsible.

Metcalfe Mines Takes over 75 per Cent Interest in Central

A meeting of directors of Malcolm Mines, Ltd., in Toronto, this week authorized the acquisition by the company of 75 per cent interest in the Central Malcolm property, thus bringing its own Malartic holdings on the north and situated about 3 1-2 miles east and south of the town of Malartic in which a shaft is now being sunk. The Central Malcolm property consists of approximately 500 acres on the Malartic surface work has demonstrated good width of commercial ore. A diamond drilling program has been mapped out and will start on this . will start immediately. Drilling is being done on the Thompson property, which adjoins the Malcolm property on the north-west. A wire from Boulder Basin Mines, in which Malcolm holds a substantial interest, states that high grade ore has been encountered in a raise, a drift on which has been put on this work to speed up progress of development.

Dunlop Mill Will Increase Size of Erection of Second Mill Unit

Although no official information is available it is believed, in sources close to the situation, that the report that recent underground developments have increased ore reserves to such an extent, that the management may very shortly give serious consideration to the erection of a second mill unit of a capacity of probably the size now in use. The present mill has a capacity of 150 tons per day, but it is understood that this is 130 tons; it will be running at full capacity some time this month.

The Dia Vein, which has now become the most important of the four veins opened on the property, is yielding very high values across big widths on the drift level while on the third level considerable lengths have been opened up yielding mine average values, or approximately 1 oz. gold per ton. A series of diamond drill holes have been put down with strong probability that the same values will be found to a depth, and the deepest level to be opened up this Summer, at a vertical depth of 500 feet as well as for an additional length of over 1,000 feet.

It will be seen that ore reserves, exclusive of any indicated ore by diamond drilling, would be sufficient to warrant an increase over and above 150 tons daily.

Marketing of the ore appears to be under accumulation and the returns therefrom are high, and the price would suggest that good ore body is forthcoming.

O'Brien

Although no official information is available it is reported on the Street that O'Brien Gold Mines, with high grade objectives on the 600 foot level and the same ore is encountered on the 5th level it would appear that the mine will have a continuous shoot of tremendous length and width. Each level to one thousand feet with vertical parallel lines below the bottom level not yet tapped. It will be interesting to the short time ago The Quebec Miner reported "It is quite within the realm of possibility to forecast a bet that 1936 will be a record year for all the wonder Canadian gold mine."

The New York market has been acting well. Seldom does the press-post of interest cause instability a bull point for stocks. But in this case the bear element is predominant on a per share basis, and using 1935 profits and dividend rates as a guide in the majority of cases is not sufficiently large to detract materially from the market's strength of representative stocks. The New Deal began to show its teeth during previous several years ago that taxes would have to be considerably increased by and the stock market long ago began to take this certainly into account. As an offset to the higher rates, there now has appeared a bar policy which, in a broad sense, forces numerous large companies at least temporarily to increase distributions to stockholders. As a longer term consideration the present tax is somewhat modified or repealed—can hardly have any other result than to accentuate business and intensify depressions. And at this stage of the proceedings the end boom is indicated to appear first.

The present tax law in the United States would appear to emphasize even more strongly the distribution held by the shares of companies whose earnings are largely retained. Not new yet approached levels which might be considered high or even as normal. For higher dividends are almost invariably followed by higher market prices and the new tax legislation will doubtless mean that dividend rates will be lower paid with earnings trends than would be the case under the old case. Thus investors have added reasons for interest in corporate issues and acquisition of advantageously situated shares.

International Petroleum

An order of the International Petroleum was recently asked by a stockholder, Mr. Hamilton, of Montreal plantation as to why the stock did not give a more active participation of itself in the market. The individual in question did not process so much in the stock himself as from the stock market, but his remarks surrounding the petroleum and the oil industry in general are indeed very interesting. As the case is, the authority stated that the operations of the company itself are still on a most satisfactory basis and that the only reason for International Petroleum not showing a more active market is the fact that there may be some talk of a break-down in the oil production pro ration measures in times of the oil producing states of the United States on account of the large recent output in the Rodessa field. Should this happen there will result in a breakdown, this well-posted source stated, which is not merely temporary. As a matter of fact, it is believed by many informed that it is not entirely improbable that the long-walled further increase in the price of crude may take sometime over the next three or six months. If this production should become a reality, few crude oil producers will be able to make headway despite keen competition. Net profits for the year ended May 31st, 1936, amounted to $16,202,467, the highest figure since 1931 in which year $17,210,191 was shown. The margin of profit was smaller, however, notwithstanding the larger gross story volume. Loblaw earned $1.11 on the "A" shares, paid out a $1 in dividend to shareholders and carried $26,767 forward as profit to surplus. Such results are indeed gratifying to the management.

Advice to the Lovelorn

By Beatrice Fairfax

GIRLS TO BE GIRLISH ONCE MORE AND CURED APPROVES

Glance at any shop window and see the display of frills and ruffles. Yes, if you doubt it, the fashion fairy again decided to be charmingly feminine.

That strange hybrid creature Bo Derek, that we have seen all around us for the last few years, is not as definitely as her grandmother's long-skirted. And "there's a reason", as a certain patent medicine ling used to say.

The fashion artiste is none other than Edward, VIII of England. That undisputed Prince Charming among all sorts and conditions of women, from princesses to the telephone girls he so often danced with on his good-will missions around the world, likes them to look like girls.

The reasons seemed to be the ostrich feather industry. For years this sweeping adornment was OUT. It didn't go with bobbed hair, shorts and slacks, in which girls—and Heaven help them, older women—achieved the depths of feminine ugliness.

But the failure of the ostrich feather business in South Africa was a serious blow to British trade. Ruin threatened reaches on which ostriches were raised. And after fifty discouraging years feathers and went hoodlum in their styles. English ostrich ranchers on the Veldt went broke.

But Edward the Charming had scarcely warned the throne before he let it be known that he liked ostrich feathers on hats! Hence the boom.

From the time of George IV, of to a he-man.

PERSONAL THANKS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Will you help us by telling us which is correct in these cases?

1.—A says that it is proper to send a card to thank a person for a gift. B contends that, to thank for a gift, one must write a personal letter. Which is right?

2.—A says that you send a card of thanks to people who send you flowers to a funeral. B says that here again it is better form to send a personal note of thanks.

B.

B wins in both social judgments!

1.—It is never good form—indeed it is extremely bad taste—for us to send a ready-made thank-you card to thank for a gift. The people who have been so kind and thoughtful as to send us a gift voluntarily do not like to receive from us a card with a ready-made comment on it, the printer's words of thanks, not ours. What the friend wants is a few words of thanks composed by us, written by us. Ready-made thank-you cards take the edge off the pleasure terribly tasty people, superficial people, people who won't even take the trouble to write a note of thanks of their own to express appreciation for the kindness of a friend. Shame on 'em!

2.—B is right again. For every note of sympathy or message of sympathy, for every floral message sent, a note of thanks should be written. It is only right that we thank a person in public life, when the family is so important socially or professionally that the letters of visiting-card.

Good Taste in Dress

Avoid Conspicuous Looks, is Advice

Make-up is Essential

By HELEN FOLLETT

It is contrary to nice old-fashioned ideas, yet it is true that the dashing, exotic beauty looks best when she looks not at all as nature intended. There is something about her that is pleasingly barbaric. She has exotic qualities. With vivid lip coloring, a hint of the shadows on her eyelids and hair arranged in extreme fashion, she is a vivid personality. Catch a glimpse of her before the war paint is on and she is just another girl.

Different times bring different modes, but we still believe that the average woman must be wary of make-up as she is of extravagance. To look distinguished is something different. That delightful look is acquired by refinement and artistry of the simplest sort and line, discretion in the use of conspicuous cosmetics, poise, posture and charming manners.

There are a lot of beauty lessons to be learned and a lot of things not to learn different ones. What suits the cinema little girl is her rôle for the gay creature who is the life of the party. The foundation of good dress, it seems to me, is good taste. If a woman has that she makes no mistakes. If she lacks it dress—across the best she can do is to trail along with the crowd, buying pretty well to standardized styles.

Every woman should set her beauty house in order, no matter what her age may be. If wrinkles are there they must have attention, she feels that she is suddenly looking old. The first thing to do then is to look after her health and go on a slenderizing.

Facial treatments do a world of good if given by an operator who thoroughly understands her business. The oiling cleanses the skin and removes dead tissues and friction rouses fibers, glands and epidermis to function properly.

There's no sense in feeling or looking old. "There's life in the old gal yet," is a phrase often used, she's got to do is to be up and stepping. The possibilities of rejuvenation are all around her.

"CHUMS" S. S. CLASS HONOR MEMBER

The members of the Chums Class of Front Road Sunday School, on July 1, 1936, met at the home of their teacher, Mrs. Noble Brown, to honor one of their classmates, Miss Jean Logan who has been a teacher in the school for the past year.

The evening was spent in games and contests, after which the matter of saying good-bye to one whom they had learned to love dearly.

The following address was read by Miss Madeline Bell:

Dear Miss Logan:

Perhaps you are wondering how it happens that the Chums Sunday School class are meeting here tonight; but the fact is we felt we could not let you leave without showing us in a small way our love for you and regret at your leaving our neighborhood.

We feel, as a teacher in our community you have been unexcelled and as a good pastor we would like to keep you with us. But sometimes even the best of friends must part so as a slight token of our love we ask you to accept this bowl hoping as you use it you may recall your happy days amongst us.

Signed on behalf of the Chums Class:

Mrs. N. Brown, teacher, Misses Helen Brown, Ruth Brown, Madeline Bell, Pearl Cole, Hazel Crestitz, Alma Bradshaw, Ruby Johnson, Audrey Bradshaw.

A Flemish pattern cream bowl was then presented to Miss Logan by Miss Audrey Bradshaw, secretary-treasurer, after which a dainty lunch was served by Mrs. Brown and her girls.

Miss Logan was given a number of useful and lovely gifts from her scholars of S.S. No. 2, Thurlow.

Creating Kind Memories In Life

Regular Home Rituals Help Child in Time of Fear and Sorrow

By LISA GRENELLE

When the children were all in bed father would come in, perch himself on the edge of Margaret's cot and burst into song. Father was no Caruso, and sometimes he missed a bar altogether and one of the children would say, "Oh, you're not right; or mother, who had a way of breaking in with a high soprano, would correct him impatiently. Mother loved to begin over.

Children's songs, each of the selections, quarrel over them cheerfully, laugh, and finally joined lustily in the chorus.

Missing one of these musical evenings was considered unthinkable, and to be excluded from one was the worst possible punishment.

Were they, these nightly "singsongs," the most important part of the children's childhood? It seemed in later years that they were more important than any personal triumph or planned expedition, more important than Christmas, birthdays, the Fourth of July or the first trip to Europe.

Kept Family Ties

It was over the long-songs" that the children first spoke and laughed when they met again after years of separation. It was the singsongs that kept the family ties from breaking even when time and circumstances finally had separated the family.

The joyful year when Fred was falsely arrested in St. Louis and the year when Jean's fiancé decided or where to turn—it was the thought of those "sing-song" evenings, and father bellowing with such fustic, that gave him strength to go on. Fred said: "When Margaret lost her baby, and that time Tom was taken to the police station on some foreign city—all of them told the same story; how they had gone for comfort and courage to the memory of those long-songs. You could child they never failed to bring peace, a smile, courage, and the desire to go on.

Harmony, Friendship

Was it the songs they had sung? Most of them were forgotten. Was it the theory or music? No. You could remember only father's gusto, his sincere enthusiasm and something that always lack back of it all. They needn't have sung at all.

Whistling, telling stories, playing some foolish games, or just holding hands in the dark and saying nothing at all would have done as well. It was just the harmony, the warm understanding, the friendship of a family that lived to be together every evening.

If they had sung together only occasionally, it would have been a pleasant incident but nothing more. It wouldn't have had the lasting effect. It was because it was a nightly ritual, symbolic of deep, warm family and companionship, that gave it permanent meaning.

What memory are you creating for your child to support him in his time of fear and confusion? Perhaps you don't sing, or even believe in the value of ritual. It doesn't matter. Any ritual will do, as long as you do it together, and in that hour at least forget everything but your friendship and family for each other.

Fashion Flashes

By ALICE ALDEN

Dancing feet peep out from behind frocks and yards of dangling ones net. An exquisite dance frock of black net has a diamond studded bodice. Very short sleeves, full-to-the shoulder puffed sleeves. The skirt fashioned of yards and yards of net.

Get your ticket for town and start off wearing a dress of sheer black crepe with a diamond-studded sash and a collar, edged with white, that can be worn high or low. There is a cute short-sleeved bolero of white waffle weave piqué.

Sleek charm is paramount with the new formal wraps fashioned not of taffeta or velvet but of sheer fabrics. A perfect beauty is a flowing summer evening wrap in blue starched chiffon, double thick. The long enveloping cape has raised shoulders and a flaring skirt that reaches the ground. It is buttoned at the trim waist.

The youthful mind appreciates the fact that clothes for girls always to look sleek instead of "little girly"—a pretty girl would object to wearing blue linen for evening when at tea a pink poke and ruffles adding to the tea-table necklace. The effect is pink, too.

No chance of losing its shape is the good fortune of a square bag of navy blue calf, for it is squared with a narrow gold frame all 'round.

A tonic for a wardrobe of simple black or blue frocks is a long, flared skirt of taffeta in a flower-sprigged design. Buttoning down the front it will gladly help out as an evening wrap.

"Prince Nembest," on-starring Robert Taylor and Loretta Young, at the Belle until Tuesday.

Roslin and District

Roslin—Miss Marion Fargey has returned to her home here after spending several weeks camping at Oak Lake.

Rev. D. C. Hill was in charge of the services in the Presbyterian Church on Sunday for the last time.

On Thursday of this week Rev. and Mrs. Hill and family left for their new charge in Exeter.

Mrs. Welsh of Toronto, was a visitor at the home of her son, Mr. H. R. Welsh on Thursday.

Many relatives and friends were in attendance at the funeral services for the late Mrs. Edward Baker, which were held from the family residence to the Anglican Church on Thursday afternoon. During the service Rev. Mr. Beaney sang a solo, "How Great Is His Love."

A very successful garden party was held in the Anglican Church grounds on Tuesday evening.

An excellent program was provided by the Napanee Community Choir and Mr. Donald Hudson, magician of Toronto. After the program the ladies of the church served a delicious lunch.

The July meeting of the Women's Auxiliary was held at the home of Mrs. Goulder on Thursday evening.

Miss Alice Black of Belleville, spent the past week with Mrs. J. Chisholm.

Several from here attended the church Sunday School picnic at Oak Lake on Friday.

The July meeting of the Women's Association was held at the home of Mrs. J. Chisholm on Thursday, July 2nd.

With the president, Mrs. R. H. Herrington presiding the meeting was opened by the singing of several hymns. Rev. R. H. Herrington led in prayer after which the Scripture lesson taken from the 17th. chapter of the Gospel according to St. John was read by the president. In the absence of the secretary, Mrs. Reid, Roslin was appointed for the meeting. The minutes of the previous meeting were read and adopted. Several items of business were dealt with. Mrs. Reid responded to roll by a verse from Scripture containing the name of fruit.

After the singing of another hymn, Miss E. Carter, leader for the month, took charge of the program which was as follows: A musical selection, "Land of Sea, Heroic" by Miss Kathleen Carter, Mrs. H. R. Herrington sang a solo, "Beautiful Isle of Somewhere". Mrs. J. Chisholm then gave a very interesting talk on Florida and showed a number of curios and souvenirs she had during a visit there.

Rev. Herrington closed the meeting followed by a dainty lunch.

BELIEVE MAN MURDERED

Redwood City, Calif., July 6 (AP)—The mysterious beach death of Junius Cravens, art director and critic, sent authorities on a check of his mental institutions today in hope they might provide a solution. The body of the 33-year-old stage and screen director was found Saturday at the foot of an ocean beach cliff. Coroner William Crosby said he was convinced Cravens was murdered.

CAPITOL

"The Voice of Bugle Ann"

One of the most amazing and dramatic court cases in history comes to life as poignant, gripping drama, in "The Voice of Bugle Ann," based on MacKinlay Kantor's famous novel and brilliantly given Lionel Barrymore one of the most appealing roles of his career, "Captain Courageous" and "A Free Soul." Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's colorful story of Missouri hunters and their famous hounds is now playing at the Capitol Theatre.

Barrymore plays Spring Davis, the old farmer who kills a man to avenge his dog, and makes a dramatic plea in court for dogs as man's best friends. The dramatic action is played against an interesting background, for with a pack of actual Missouri hounds, thrills of fox-hunting are staged. There is a love romance running through the graphic story, in the hands of Eric Linden, last seen with Barrymore in "Ah Wilderness!" and Madeleine O'Sullivan.

Free to the ladies attending Monday and Tuesday—store hours 2 and evening, another beautiful piece of Hostess Ovenware.

Coming Wednesday

"SHOW BOAT"

The account should be tinged with drama to match the story of "Show Boat." Edna Ferber and Elmer Rice have given wings to Miss Ferber's novel. There should be music; springtime romance. And there is. That element is supplied by Irene Dunne and Allan Jones on the Capitol screen on Wednesday, for days.

Music and romance and drama fused together by magic that weaves an enchanting spell. This lovely describes "Show Boat," which will sweep across your emotions like the rushing tide of the Mississippi.

What memories the Kern-Hammerstein songs bring back. What thrills in the love story of Magnolia and Ravenal, portrayed by Irene Dunne and Allan Jones. There is the convicting thrill of life in the narrative, peopled with 3,500 players on the screen.

Tom is the rhythm of the age in Paul Robeson's songs, "Old Man River" and "Ah Still Suits Me." Behind his splendid robust baritone there are pulsing years of harmony, swelling from 200 resonant voices that rise and fall and beat the tree branches vibrating in the wind. Or like ship's sails, billowing full, thrusting against a swift-running sea.

By now it must be clear that "Show Boat" is a big picture, packed with excellent entertainment. It's a whale of a picture. In fact if you care for a pun, it's a James Whale of a picture. That capable gentleman directed it.

Roll on, oh, Mississippi, and bring us more like "Show Boat."

AT THE BELLE

"Private Number"

A new screen romantic team has soared to popularity in the combination of Robert Taylor and Loretta Young, according to the cheering comments of the patrons leaving the Belle theatre Saturday where "Private Number," the Belle's first co-starring production, had its Belleville premiere.

"Aren't they grand?" "Don't they go well together?" "I like them better than any other pair I've ever seen." "I hope they are starred together soon" were the typical remarks made as patrons left Robert Taylor and Loretta Young. "Private Number" is the outstanding romantic hit of the year.

The picture opens with Taylor a young millionaire's son, mistaking Loretta, a maid in the household of his father's friend, for the titled amused girl explain.

The romance blossoms into full bloom when Loretta accompanies Taylor finally to their summer home in Maine and one moonlit night, while Taylor and Loretta are dancing on the lake, they decide to get married.

As Taylor still has another year of college, Loretta insists that the wedding be kept secret and Belgoes back to school while she remains as a servant in the household.

Basil Rathbone has ideas about Loretta himself and is furiously repulsed. He accidently discovers that she is going to have a baby and communicates the news to Mrs. Winfield. Loretta remains silent about her husband but irresolutely Mrs. Winfield blurts out that Taylor and Loretta are married.

Rathbone is determined to have his revenge and convinces the Winfields that Loretta is a gold-digger. The heart broken girl runs from the house and goes into hiding.

Taylor returns from college to find his wife has disappeared. He is bitter against his parents for the manner in which they treated Miss Young but the rascally butler convinces a pal that he knows where that Loretta left deliberately and is content to extract money from the Winfields.

The picture moves romantically and dramatically toward a startling conclusion and the fadeout finds the two youngsters happily reunited with Taylor proudly gazing upon his new son. Lionel Barrymore, Neil Taylor and Miss Young are perfectly cast. Patsy Kelly is hilarious as a domestic servant and Basil Rathbone's performance is a suberb piece of villainy. Marjorie Gateson is also featured. A program of extraordinary interest is presented on the above attraction. The entire programme will be repeated again tonight and Tuesday matinee and evening. The feature offering starts at 2.10, 7.20 and 9.45.

OSHAWA CHEVIES DEFEAT NAPANEE

Twelve Innings Played Before Task is Accomplished

Napanee, Ont., July 6.—(CP)—In one of the best games seen on a local diamond, Oshawa defeated Napanee 5 to 4 in 12 innings in a Central Ontario Baseball League game Saturday. Jake Biddle, Oshawa and Tom Pointer, Napanee, both southpaws, went the full distance.

Scarlett hit a home run to deep right in the fifth after Pointer had pitched Wilson out, but a hit pitched ball, to wipe out an Oshawa lead, but May scored his second down on a wild pitch, went to third on a walk, steal and a poor throw by Handford.

Gibbards got the equaliser in their half when Wilson tripled and with Manager Ernie Gibbard at bat the squeeze play worked perfectly, Wilson being over the plate before Biddle picked up the ball. Both sides were retired in order in the ninth.

Oshawa won the game after the two were also in the twelfth. Miller was hit by a pitched ball, going to first, stole second, to third and when Card's throw hit him after being trapped between the bags. He scored when Mathews hit through short. Biddle retired Hagines to end the game. Oshawa pitcher did not issue a walk.

Largest Still Ever Uncovered Confiscated

Sarnia, Ont., July 6 (CP)—Two men in custody on charges of violating the Excise Act, and $40,000 of liquor manufacturing equipment under guard, Royal Canadian Mounted Police were seekiig a Detroit resident today as the operator of the largest still ever uncovered in Western Ontario.

Allegedly operating under pretense of drilling for natural gas, officers of the Provincial Police of the Windsor detachment of the R.C.M.P., found the equipment and 4,000 gallons of mash, in a frame building set up inside a barn near Strunk's Mercury in Raphenia Township.

Gerald Maxwell of Cookstown, Ill., and a man named Cassidy of Chicago, allegedly found on the premises, were arrested and taken to Lambton County Jail here.

Phillies Put Together Long-est Winning Streak of Season

(Sir Peter)

(Associated Press Sports Writer)

There must be something about that National League lead to give a ball club the fitters as soon as it gets in first place.

Ever since the season started, it's been more or less the custom for a team to start faltering almost from the moment it landed in the driver's seat—the Cubs did and now the Cardinals and Cubs.

A week ago the Cubs climaxed a long uphill haul and took over the top. They lost immediately and were back in second place again. But the gas house outfit was no sooner holding the lead than it too started slipping again and the Cubs pulled out in front last Saturday.

And that, for the second time in a week, lasted just a day, for yesterday the Cubs dropped a pair to Chicago off the top again with a 6-2 win, while the Cardinals slugged the Cincinnati Reds 8-6 and 17-7 in a doubleheader to move in.

And while the 1st of the month out-again business was coming off with the Cubs' two-win spree, at least momentarily, the former scourge of the rampaging Reds, the supposedly lowly Phillies, also took something else to talk about by helping themselves to their longest victory streak of the season, stretching it to five with a pair of yesterday at the expense of the Boston Bees, 7-6 and 4 at that, two wins which threw Brooklyn Dodgers apparently forgot they were in the Polo grounds, where they're supposed to be fenced, and clobbered the Giants 9-1, despite Mel Ott's 19th homer.

American League

The Washington Senators, too, did some forgetting. It must have slipped their minds that they were the murdering New York Yankees, time after batting and pitching, and that the batting boys had just made the odds on the Yanks 1 to 6—highest in history—to take the pennant. But with Jimmy Deshong, a Yank cast-off on the mound for them, the Nats turned back the slayers 9-3 to win triumph didn't put the Senators above fourth place in the League, because the Red Sox, finding the Athletics as easy as ever, won every other club in the league by finding Philadelphia enough with a double-header decision, 16-3 and 8-2 to hold onto third place.

The second Detroit player to ascend by walloping the Browns 12-3, while his up-and-down Cleveland Indians were up in the first game of a twin bill with the White Sox, by 11-4, and then were down in the nightcap 6-2 before Johnny Whitehead's seven-hit pitching.

Canadian Sprinter Sticks to Old Suit At Olympic Trials

(By Elmer Dolmage)

(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Hamilton, Ont., July 4—(CP)—Tousle-haired Jack Brown will wear a grimy, unloved track suit at the official Canadian Olympic trials in Montreal next Saturday and not for all the tea in China will he dream up for sprint business. The old suit is likely to cut down a figure, too.

On the basis of Provincial trials, Brown and one or two others have a chance to make Vancouver's second National McPhee's record time in the National trial sprints at 100 and 200 metres. There is an excellent chance that the 21-year-old Toronto boy will win his way to Berlin.

"You looked terrible out there against those fellows," Dave Strain of West End Y.M.C.A., Toronto, admonished Jack Brown after a few minutes after Jack had whipped the competition in the trials in the 100-yard final. "Why don't you wear a decent uniform?"

Well, I won and I don't care about anything else," Jack replied.

"That new uniform I got from you doesn't fit and the one does. This old suit moves along by itself in those races and all I have to do is hold it."

So the Brown boy will be a blot on the Olympic picture next Saturday, as he likes to be. At the Provincials he won the 100 yards in 10.1, merely trotting the last 25 yards. He probably could have romped home in 9.9 with the wind that prevailed. Two weeks before he ran 100 metres on the slow Varsity stadium track at 70-yards in 10.2.

He wasn't the star here Saturday because he wouldn't turn it on when he wasn't necessary. He doesn't care about time any more than he does about his uniform.

"I guess," he laughed, "we'll all have to keep plenty when Howie McPhee is in the race."

Blakeborough Sets Record

On this occasion, boss Dave Strain figures Brown may touch 10.6 or better on 100 metres. He won't be surprised if the world record-holding Howie McPhee's favorite athlete but he will be shocked if Jack fails to make a place on the Olympic team. McPhee was clocked in 10.3 last week in Vancouver.

Sammy Richardson and Larry O'Connor are the leading stars of Provincial titles. Sammy set a new Canadian record of 46 feet, 7 inches in the running hop, step and jump and O'Connor broad jumped 23 feet, 9 1-4 inches, in a foul jump he rescinded 25 feet, 6 inches.

Gordon Dunlop, 21, Toronto student, equalled his own Canadian record of 15 seconds for the 120-yard hurdles, beating Jim Worrall, Athletic formerly of McGill, in three yards.

Only highlight of the meet included the javelin throw of 193 feet by Jack Courtright of Ottawa, a mere yard off the best in history by Sylvanus Apps of Hamilton self in Montreal last year. Courtright is the 140-yard dash. The University of Western Ontario star caught Bill Pritts and Ray Lewis of Toronto at the tape to win in 49.2.

Bob Blakeborough, St. Catharines, former University of Alberta track and field star, won the 16-pound hammer throw. His best throw meas 137 feet, 10 inches, 3 inches off feet below the world-record.

Political Chieftain Drives His Pacer to New Track Record

Hon. Earl Rowe, recently chosen leader of the Ontario Conservative party, is not letting his political interests interfere with his greatest hobby—breeding and racing harness horses. Here he is pictured driving his chestnut pacing stallion, Peter Chilcoots, to a new track record for the mile at the Orangeville (Ont.) fair's harness meet. Peter Chilcoot is just sweeping into the turn in the finish which covered the mile in 2.11¾.

AMERICAN LOOP BATTERS BETTER

All-Star Game to be Played in Boston on Tuesday

Boston, July 6 (AP)—The National League will concede about 22 points in batting to the American League sluggers when the pick of both circuits line up tomorrow for the annual all-star baseball game.

Manager Joe McCarthy has at his disposal an array of American League sluggers hitting the ball for about .336.

The question seems to be whether Manager Charlie Grimm's benches for Circus representatives, batting for .312, have the pitchers to subdue such clubbers as Lou Gehrig, Joe DiMaggio, Bill Dickey of the Yankees, Jimmy Foxx of the Red Sox, Earl Averill of the Indians, and Charley Gehringer of the Tigers.

The National League has two steellar southpaws available—Lefty Grove and Vernon Gomez—but whether he will open with one of them against the National League's many right-handed batters is uncertain.

Until this morning McCarthy had two right-handers he could have started, but Tommy Bridges of the Detroit Tigers picked up the grippe because of a cold, which forced him from the mound in his home opener day. He returned to Detroit with most of his teammates, leaving Mel Harder, Cleveland and American League's most eligible righthander.

The game will be played under World Series rules at 12.30 p.m. (E.S.T.) at Boston National League Park.

AMATEUR BALL

(By The Canadian Press)

Two thousand baseball fans at Kitchener got one of the treats of the year on a cloudy Sunday when they saw 32 players, chosen from the Ontario Inter-County League by Western Ontario's sporting public, wage a five annual all-star baseball game.

Held to raise funds for the promotion of minor league baseball and the benefit of injured players, this game was also a test-match between players of the east and west groups. The east won out 11-4.

Seven pitchers were used in all, with Murphy of Galt being credited with the win. He bowed only one run in the three innings he worked, for his 3 hits were cracked out. Means of Gordon, leading the east side with three hits in three times at bat. The west group established a lead what was never overcome, scoring nine runs in the first two innings.

Central Ontario's league-leaders, Oshawa, went 17 innings before downing Napanee 5-4. It was a battle of southpaws, Arthur Lacey, ace, Jake Biddle, getting the advantage over Tommy Pointer in the final stanzas.

Miller got his twice, but it was three hits that won the game. After two were out in the 17th Miller went to first base being hit by a pitched ball. He got to third, when a throwd ball hit him after Smith was trapped between the bases. He scored when Matthews hit through short. Biddle retired Napanee to win the game. Jake did not issue a single walk, although he allowed 13 hits in 17 innings.

In a Niagara District League game George Jamieson struck out 14 to Dorchester Park's 5-1 victory over Chippawa. The victory broke a five-game slump for Niagara Falls. Roy Wescott started for Chippawa but went out when Niagara Falls scored four runs in the fourth, and Kolachyak finished the game

New York, July 6.—(AP)—Is that Cincinnati team going, or is it not? Certainly we hope to tell you, good old Glenn Cunningham showed the boys a thing or two down in Princeton Saturday . . . and we like a sell-out for the all-star game at Boston tomorrow. You can find plenty of dough around if you want to bet on the National League.

The Jinx continues to visit Dandy MacFayden of the Bees . . . He has tried and failed six times to pull up his mixup, victory of the season.

The Dodgers aren't the only ones daffy folks in Brooklyn . . . Fifty thousand fans went all the way to Philadelphia to see the Stengelers bumped off twice on the fourth.

Joe Gould, who has been flirting with Mike Jacobs, went to the box fights in London and hopes to tell you, good old Glenn Cunningham showed the boys a thing or two down in Princeton Saturday . . . and we like a sell-out for the all-star game at Boston tomorrow. Why are there so many more 300 hitters in the American League than in the National? . . . The Giants are heading to fetch that extra two bellboys have gone to ribbing them.

Joe Gould: Mobility and good sportsmanship made a big hit over the radio in the prize fights.

That fellow with the reg face is Jess Abramson of the N.Y. Herald-Tribune sports staff. He has an office when a bird popped in and said he wanted to see Mr. Abramson. "Sit down," . . . Jess thought the guy was kidding and tried to give him the bum's rush . . . The applicant turned out to be Bob Feller, National Decathlon champ in 1934, who wanted to try at the broad jump . . . Ouch! . . . P.S.: Clark got in all right.

Jimmy Braddock has started light drills at Barney Ross' old spot at Parsdale, N.Y. . . . Notre Dame has a football candidate named James J. Hughes, who was born on St. Patrick's Day . . . He doesn't make the team, you needn't be surprised if there is a revolt or some sort.

About the most uncertain thing in the world is a baseball. Even the heavyweight wrestling championship of the world nevertheless is forthcoming bout between two of the claimants as follows: Dave Levin (of his successor vs Vincent Lopez or his successor).

This corner now thanks to Sam Buta, Jacksonville Times-Union; Ed Hill, Asbury Park (N.J.) Press; H. W. Funk, Monroe (Mich.) Evening News, and Ralph Morse, St. Johnsbury (Vt.), Caledonian-Record, for timely hits last week . . . See you at the All-Star game in Beantown tomorrow.

FOXBORO SCORES AN EASY WIN 11-3

Takes Stirling in An Exhibition Game on Friday Night

Stirling, July 4—Playing a return exhibition till here Friday night the Foxboro lads trounced the homesters to the tune of 11-3. The locals were simply bandcuffed before the slants of Harry Ketchenon who was on the mound for the winners, he turning them down with three small blighs, while the Foxboro boys jumped on Lee for eleven solid counts to win the game with ease to spare.

Foxboro took the offensive in the first frame, scoring two runs on a couple of singles together with some loose fielding by the Stirling nine, getting three more in the second on two hits and a passed ball and going ten runs ahead in the third when six hits and an error netted them five more, adding another for good measure in the sixth.

Stirling got a runner on in the first inning but Ketcheson turned on the steam and retired them in order until the fifth when Long connected and pulled up at third, scoring on an infield out. The losers added two more in the next frame when Ketcheson momentarily lost control, hitting the first batter up and walking the next, both scoring on a single to left centre.

Gay and K. Ketcheson were the hard luck pitchers for the winners with three out of four, with Seeley and Wall getting a brace of hits apiece. Long, for the losers, was the only batter to connect solidly with Ketcheson's offerings, he getting a three bagger when E. Ketcheson missed the ball around out in left field.

Stirling—Lee, Conley, Fraser, Lee, Fox, Butler, McDonald, Long and Reid.

Johnny Kroner and Jim Henry, Reds—Batted former big homer and two singles in doubleheader opening, and latter limited Athletics to eight hits in nightcap.

Ernie Koob, Phillies—Hit three singles, batting in two runs in 7-6 victory over Bees.

Terry Moore, Cardinals—Got four doubles and three singles to pace attack in doubleheader win over Reds.

GOING TOUGHER FOR NEWARK ON NORTHERN JAUNT

All Teams in International Split Even on Sunday Date

LEAFS PLAY BETTER

Divide With Bisons After Losing First Game by 6-5

(By The Associated Press)

The Newark Bears, who have had a hard time keeping their heads above water in the International League since the year they gave up their "home" sector, can expect to find the going a bit tougher from now on.

The Bears opened their long road tour in Baltimore over the past week-end by splitting doubleheaders both Saturday and Sunday, that didn't prove costly as their leading rivals, Rochester and Buffalo, did exactly the same thing in their own parks. However, Newark now must venture into the League's northern division, where most of the championship hopes are and it's a safe prediction that the Bears will have plenty of trouble holding their present 2½ game lead if they manage to do that well.

Baltimore's Steve Sundra's hurling with a 13-hit assault to beat Baltimore 9 to 3 in yesterday's opener 6-3, while Bill Posedel's much heralded against Pearce and Salkeld in the second, went down 5-2. The Orioles made their usual good showing on the Polish Field, counting one in each game and Ab Wright, Les Powers and Ernie Chapman collecting one each.

Second Placers Divide

Rochester's second-place Red Wings split with Montreal and Montreal, winning the first game 7-6 when Phil Weintraub's double with the bases loaded scored the ninth, then taking a 4-0 shutout from Rochelle Hudson, who let them down with three singles.

Buffalo Bisons pulled the opening game of a twin bill from Toronto 6-5, then took the short end in the second, 8-1, to make the day's program completely indecisive. Albany Senators whipped Syracuse 6-4 then the Chiefs turned around and trounced Albany 8-1.

Home runs by Frank McGowan and Ben Chapman with one on out in the ninth to give Buffalo its opening victory, then Frank Kelleis homed in a three run blow for the Leafs. Babe Dahlgren's circuit drive with Dee Isaac aboard in the first inning of the second clash featured the Albany-Syracuse tangle bill.

Pitchers Impressive In Can-Am. League

(By The Canadian Press)

Two pitchers made impressive bids for the Canadian-American League during the holiday weekend as 12 games between all games were played.

Bob Harrison, right-hander from the Bell-Mid-Ontario League, pitched nicely to give Massena Bucks a 2-1 win over the Brockville Leading Ontario Senators while Nicholas, the other newcomer, pitched Watertown to a 4-0 win over Perth's Blue Cats.

Senators balanced the 3-3 defeat of the Sunday doubleheader with Lefty Orr's three-hitter over Perth Sunday. Saturday's Senator-Massena contest was rained out.

The Pirates' ninth inning save Brockville a 4-3 victory over Owego after Owego had tied the count in the eighth.

Owego defeated Perth 6-3 in the other Saturday game. The week-end results left Ottawa far in front, five games ahead of Perth in the league standings with Brockville two games farther back and Watertown 11½ games behind the leaders.

Two games are scheduled for today.

CURRENT SPORT

DAY BY DAY

The Oshawa Chevies widened the margin between them and the Kingston Ponies to a full game when they downed the Napanee Gibbards 2 to 4 after an even dozen innings or better, Saturday afternoon. The Oshawa's cemented the Chevies with Saturday's game in Napanee on the much coveted platter. Purses of the Chevies' runs were purely of the pin-feature, however, as the winning tally in the twelfth. With the score all knotted up four all and Tommy Pointer going great guns, the ex-Belleville hurler hit Tip Miller, the first Gibbard to get to the ninth. Then Tommy uncorked a wild pitch and Miller scampered to second. Pointer then redeemed himself by nipping Miller off the keystone sack, but Ken Chase then had to centre field on the play and Miller waltzed to third and scored on a sensation dollar run on Matty Matthews' timely hit and the Gibbards lost a perfectly good ball game.

The game was purely a battle of south-paws with Jake Biddle and Tommy Pointer being the center of attraction. Biddle was hit freely all afternoon and was credited with a total of 13 safe hits, while Pointer kept the Chevie singles down to ten in his hitting exhibit. The Gibbards kicked in with five glaring errors, four of which resulted in runs being subsequently scored by the Oshawa gang. The Chevies can thank Ken Chase's defensive outfit for being in first place today, as the game was purely a gift.

Trailing three to nil and with two aboard Art Scarlett tried to sacrifice but fouled. On the next pitch Biddle laid the spud in the groove and the ex-Belleville outfielder connected for a two base clout right-centre for a beautiful home run scoring two in front of him and knotting the count. Scarlett got the splendid hand for the clout. After Biddle had thrown a perfect game to score Wilson when the squeeze play miscarried perfectly. Pointer who had three hits on Saturday, opened the eleventh with a hit but failed to score as the much retired batsman at this time was not in evidence. The Chevies had runners on in any league and on the reverse a fine one to win.

This Sunday May Oshawa's third sacker, had a field day. May ran wild on the paths pilfering bases almost at will. He helped himself to three hits out of four tries, scored three runs and fielded splendidly. As a matter of fact the Oshawa Sunday player's splendid ball against the Gibbards.

It was a tough game for Tommy Pointer to lose, Tommy was slightly shaky going until the seventh when he retired to his old pitching form and breezed along in fine manner until that drastic twelfth. Tommy pitched himself into some bad holes by walking batters and at times being nicked for hits, but he managed to pitch himself out of the most of them. The Gibbards showed some very poor base running, failing time after time to take advantage of extra bases, when the ball would be hit to the wrong field for singles.

Joe Daly and a consignment of the Kingston Ponies were on hand and evidently were pleased with the home team to win and drop the Gibbards into second place. Joe would have been the cane had Napanee won. The Ponies had "it" next on Sunday and Monday, while Biddle came in for his share of the Brown cheers, that were meted out by Compeau, Hewitt Smith, Scrutton, Elliott and Jamieson. Don't think the Oshawa gang didn't show their "rabbit ears" either, as they heard some of the Ponies' boys of chatter. Incidentally the term "rabbit ears" used in baseball circles is for a player, who hears the line of conversation coming from the grandstand or the opposition bench or coaching line.

On Wednesday the Kingston Ponies make their second league appearance of the season in Belleville and there is a high possibility that Jack "Chile" Williams, still a favourite in Belleville baseball lover's hearts, will get the pitching assignment for the day. "Jack" has been practicing faithfully all season and is in grand shape. Only today he asked me to let him pitch in Belleville on Wednesday next, and I may grant this request. Jack stated Skipper Daily on Saturday.

Doubtlessly Manager Weir will start big Ed McIver against the Ponies knowing the Dalyites have no particular use for port-side flingers. At the request of the local Kiwanis Club members, who are building a Big Ben for the opening of their new playgrounds in East and West Belleville, Wednesday's game will see Standard Time in force (S.S.T.) This will give all fans an opportunity to see the battle of the lefthanders, Belleville's ace of the staff, Jack Williams, and their new star, Ed McIver, on the South sides.

Today we find the standing of the C.O.B.L. reads—

Oshawa	8	3	1
Napanee	6	4	2
Peterboro	6	5	0
Napanee	3	8	0
Belleville	2	8	0

Wednesday—Kingston at Belleville

On Wednesday the regular weekly league game will be staged in Victoria Park under the sponsorship of the Belleville Yacht Club. One week from Wednesday the annual Club picnic and Mikel Cup race will be held at Massanoga.

The Missing Man

-by-

Mary R. P. Hatch

Dr. Peck stood staring until she was gone and for some time afterward. Then he said, starkly, "Vane, have you ever read the room with your ravings, Mrs. Hamilton is a most estimable lady."

"I ought to know as much about my wife as anybody, Dr. Peck. There is a most foul conspiracy afoot to rob me of my wife, family and fortune, such as it is. But now I am myself: it shall go on no longer. The shot which I firmly believe was fired to end my life was beneficiently ordered to restore me my faculties instead. I am myself again, doctor. I am Vane Hamilton and I shall no declare myself and appeal to the courts to restore me my rights."

"My man, you forget we all knew Mr. Hamilton, and that he was a different-looking man. His hair was light, and yours is dark."

"I care not for that. My hair was light once. I did not know it was dark until yesterday," and then he explained such circumstance as he had done to Mrs. Hamilton to Dr. Peck who listened with grave, disdainful amusement. At the close the doctor said:

"A madder scheme I never knew or heard of. Let me advise you. She is no more about for no one will believe you, and it will lead to nothing but trouble for you. Vane Hamilton owned here and is established among us firmly in the confidence of all. There is no doubt, none whatever, that he is the true Vane Hamilton. Your claims would be looked upon as absurd, to say nothing of their wickedness. You are well known, Prima Rios, a man of good character and a good workman. Let me advise you again not to jeopardize your interests by a mad act founded on your admiration for a married woman."

"I admire no woman but my wife, sir, and as for my interests and character as Prima Rios they are of no account to me. I am more than the shell of a caterpillar is to the butterfly. My experience for the last months strikes me as very similar. I know nothing about it, and care nothing about it, except that it has separated me from my family and changed my personal appearance almost. And now let me tell you something, my good sir. Constance knows that I am her husband."

"She she said so?"

"Not exactly, but she might as well, and, furthermore, she has never believed in this man calling himself by my name."

Rumors of this sort had come to the ears of the busy doctor as well as concerning the friendship said to exist at one time between Rios and Mrs. Hamilton; but he had not brought much about the matter by having it gossip with little or no foundation in fact. But now he was, or fancied he saw, his mistake. This eager-faced, energetic man was a far different person than he had supposed him to be. He was a man clearly capable of making and supporting a claim of a nature so astounding that, improbable as it was, it could not fail to create wide disturbance. If Mrs. Hamilton joined with him, he would be far more serious still, and the results could only be guessed at, not foreseen.

The hint that he had been shot to be put out of the way was, of course, doubtless, a strong feature in the man's case; and there were complications relating to the late bank troubles which, no doubt, could be brought to bear against him. Moreover, the man before him, Dr. Peck concluded, might be Ashley himself, who by some strange mistake was believed to have died. It was not unlikely. In the light of these astounding claims it was very probable, he thought.

A man such as Ashley was proved to have been for the story of his adventures was well known in Grovedale—was the man, if any such could be found: his adventures evincing a most daring nature and great nerve and determination. Granted he had fled to Grovedale to evade pursuit, disguised himself to appear as slightly demented, and as a common workman, it was not too much to believe of such a man that he had become infatuated with Mrs. Hamilton and sought to be near at his side, basing his actions on her attitude toward her returned husband and his slight resemblance to the latter. Then, too, the shot fired on Mr. Hamilton's premises might well have been done by his own hand to evidence his own assertion that the design was to get rid of him and his claims, which would suggest that Hamilton did is himself.

Dr. Peck was no lawyer, nor did he reckon himself particularly astute, but as he sat there facts and definitions evolved themselves with startling force and rapidity, mingling and commingling in the wildest confusion until his brain seemed bursting. Strange how dormant ideas start into being and range themselves side by side to do battle for or against a startling assertion. A luminous path seemed open to his vision, leading straight to the time when Vane Hamilton left Grovedale in the first place, and he saw clearly the long line of events since then down to this strange declaration just made to him. Back of it all was deep, dark mystery. Villainy was there, anyone could not be far distant, and for every one concerned in the matter there would be a supreme maddening and extreme. Indignation arose in his heart toward the man before him. It became in an instant too deep for expression, and he arose without speaking another word and left the house.

"MARVELOUS MARVELOUS!"

Chapter 29

In a week's time the man known as Prima Rios was up and about and professed himself well. He said little about his wound, but it was well known he had said more to be knew nothing about it in any way. It being common before he regained his sense of identity. It was remarked that he had shaved off his long whiskers, and that he looked and acted much more like Vane Hamilton than he had done at first, and it was easy to conceive in any one that he would destroy or stamp any natural resemblance with the seal of actuality if he could.

His eyes were downcast no longer, but bright and determined: his head was carried as erect that he looked taller by an inch or two, and there was a swing in his movements resembling the prodigality of his former self

Two Members of North Bay Council Offer Resignations

NEW DEMANDS MADE

Two Officers Injured, When Recipients Storm Relief Office

Relief problems troubled half-a-dozen city and town councils throughout Ontario today as relief strikers and unemployed workers made new demands. A split in council in conference with A. J. D. Grey of the municipal department brought about the resignation of two members in North Bay. A special relief for rental purposes was deemed necessary unless government assistance was forthcoming at Penetang. Strikers gained new concessions in Toronto and Hamilton.

An immediate investigation and re-registration of relief recipients was decided upon by the Council in North Bay, Aldermen R. Thompson and G. E. Palmer resigned from the finance committee when a suggestion made by Mr. Grey, that officials be made available for relief purposes until the end of the year by a lapsing entry, was accepted in part.

Reform To Work.

Members of the Penetang Workers' Association decided to return to work following last night's meeting of council, on the understanding that their representatives be made to Welfare Minister David Croll for increased relief grants. Workers said the strike would be resumed unless action was taken within two weeks.

In York township, two policemen were injured and relief recipients used ladders to storm the relief offices. Two besieged police phoned for the police and remained there for several hours until Reeve Maud Magwood announced relief cuts would be restored and single men placed on relief. The cuts ranged from $2 to $5 a week, according to the size of the family.

In Hamilton, workers wishing to help were told by Mayor Morrison in caustic indignant when they were refused admission to a special meeting to discuss the relief situation. Council refused permission on the grounds that the press and the public were citizens and therefore could not speak for the city. Only 200 of the 2,000 workers were of the opinion they had a right to attend the meeting of taxpayers.

At Orillia, council met a delegation of relief workers presenting demands that wages be restored to the 1933 level and that single men employed be restored to relief rolls. After hearing the delegation, council invited the workers to see them after the regular town meeting in an attempt to reach an agreement.

Committee Named

Mayor Harry Anderson, Aldermen Wills and Armstrong were appointed as a committee to investigate the costs of the administration of justice and report back to the council at an early date. The City Engineer was authorized to prepare a statement of the proposed work within the confines of the suburban area and in view of the amount of money on hand and that no work be started nor any material purchased until such time as the work is approved by the city council as a body. On request of the Robb Wave Organ Company, the question of an agreement on the building now occupied by the company at $1,000 for the next nine years. The application of George N. Simmons to sell Real Estate for the city on a commission basis was referred to the property Committee especially appointed. Mayor Hill and Aldermen Cushing and Marlow will meet the county officials on Thursday morning with respect to work to be done on College Street. The committee has power to act and pass expenditures not exceeding $100. Two letters of protest were received from residents with respect to oiling certain streets in the city and these were referred to the Works Committee.

The Belleville Municipal Band requested, that they be engaged for a series of 12 concerts at a cost of $600 and the whole matter was referred to the special committee of public works for a report. A number of bylaws were passed, the chief one being the ratifying of an agreement between the city and the Ontario Shore Gas Company, by which gas has embodied all the proposals submitted by the Ontario Shore Gas Company and which will give as the last regular meeting of the council. The meeting no further business the council adjourned.

An Invitation to You from the Kiwanis Club

After a considerable amount of work on the part of the Kiwanis Club of Belleville the new East end and West end Playgrounds will officially open on Wednesday afternoon.

Chairman Harold Selden of the East End Playgrounds and Chairman Albert Bayshaw of the West End have left nothing undone to make the official opening of these two children's playgrounds an event long to be remembered. The Belleville Kiwanis and the Kiwanis Club are a group of public men who have been responsible for the establishment of these playgrounds and they extend an invitation to the children of this city.

Thanks to the citizens of Belleville and surrounding country who contributed so generously to the Kiwanis Carnival and draw last year, it enabled the Kiwanis Club to undertake the largest project that the club has undertaken since its inception.

The Kiwanis Club have voted a sum of $4000.00. Four thousand dollars to be expended on these two playgrounds and before the official opening on Wednesday, I expect that from the above appropriation, but no doubt when the citizens will see the vast improvements in these playgrounds on Wednesday, they will agree with the Kiwanis Club that it was money well spent and a credit to the City of Belleville and a monument to Kiwanis.

The citizens of Belleville and surrounding country can show their appreciation to Kiwanis by attending the official opening which is scheduled as follows:

EAST END AT 2.00 P.M. AND WEST END AT 4.00 P.M.

I would also like to see all the children attend the opening, either the East or West End Ground as both if convenient. There will be many games, races and amusements for the children and ball games and novel contests for the grown-ups.

I wish to take this opportunity of thanking all the Club members who have taken an active part in this project and to the contractor, Mr. Edgar Rutherford, and all the men who have had any thing to do with the development of these two children's playgrounds.

F. DOMENICO,
President, Kiwanis Club

Agreement Between City and Ontario Shore Gas Ratified; Council Adjourns Till Sept.

Proposals Made by Company Incorporated in Agreement

RACE SANCTIONED

Motorcycle Can Use Streets For Race With Certain Provisos.

Belleville City Council completed all outstanding business at the regular session on Monday night and adjourned for the summer months, the next regular meeting of that body to be held on Monday, September 28th and in the meantime authority was granted the Mayor and treasurer to conduct the business, that would come before the council during that period.

The Quinte Motorcycle Club was granted permission to hold a race meet in the city on Labor Day, the council granting the right of the use of Yeomans Street between Front Street, West Moira Street and Cathcart Street providing the Motorcycle Club plan on holding a championship race of 200 miles and believe the same will attract a large concourse of people to the city.

11 CANADIANS TO BE PRESENTED

London, July 7 (CP)—Eleven Canadians will be presented at the afternoon receptions to be given by the Governor-General, Lord Tweedsmuir on July 21 and July 22.

They are as follows: Mrs. Reginald and Miss Daphne Pelkey of Vancouver; Miss Rose Anne Rollins and Miss Marjorie Judd of Victoria; Miss Dorothea and Miss Helen Campbell of Toronto; Mrs. Ian Hay Rhonda and Miss Ruth Taylor of Kingston, Ont.; Miss Margaret Bowman of Montreal; Mrs. Karl McCullagh of Camp Borden, Ont., and Miss Beverly Plumb of York Mills, Ont.

The two afternoon receptions take the place of the royal courts cancelled on account of the death of King George. They are intended as an opportunity for women to be presented to the King who would ordinarily have been presented at the courts.

Women will be able to wear colored gowns, as the period of full court mourning ends July 21st. It is understood that the debutantes will pass before the King, making their bows, as at the court.

NOTED FRENCH WOMAN DIES

New York, July 7 (AP) — Madame Anatole Lobrau, widow of a well known French writer, and only sister of the late Henry P. Davison, international banker, died today at the Harkness Pavilion.

She was married to the late Lobrau, president of figure in the French literary world. In Paris on September 3, 1921. He died in 1926.

HON. J. P. VENIOT IS DEAD AT 72

Former Post Master General For Dominion and Member of N. B.

Bathurst, N.B., July 7 (CP)—The political wars were over today for Hon. Peter J. Veniot, whose span of 42 years in the political arena carried him to a provincial premiership and portfolio of Canada's Postmaster General.

The 72-year-old member of the House of Commons for Gloucester died from an abdominal illness last night in this village where he started his political career more than four decades ago. His strength had weakened steadily for days.

He will be buried Thursday morning in the cemetery adjoining Sacred Heart Church that Mr. Veniot attended.

Thus the end of a political career that began here in 1894 when Mr. Veniot, John Venlot was elected to the New Brunswick legislature. It left a marked gap in the thinning ranks of the political old-timers who are still able to hold their own in the parliamentary basins of today.

For Mr. Veniot was still in the thick of it when death struck him down. His days as Premier of New Brunswick had ended in 1925; he had given up the Postmaster-Generalship when his Liberal colleagues of the King government were swept out in 1930, but he was still active as less than a year ago, to carry his views and votes into both his opponents lost their deposits.

His death was the third among House of Commons members since last year's general election. D'Arcy

Ethiopian Offensive Will Begin in Next Few Days

DEPEND UPON RAINS

Italian Garrisons Live in Hourly Dread of Attacks

London, July 7 (CP-Havas)—The Djibouti, French Somaliland, correspondent of the London Daily Herald in a dispatch today that an Ethiopian guerrilla campaign against the Italians will begin soon under cover of the big rains.

"With the dynamiting of the Addis Ababa-Djibouti railway line, the wiping out of isolated garrisons, the damaging of roads, and the raiding of Addis Ababa itself, the Ethiopian offensive of which the Italians are living in hourly dread will soon begin in the next few days.

The cutting of the railway line will be followed by night attacks on small garrisons left at important points on the hilltops of Shoa, which Italians entered the country through Dessie, Lake Hamus and Harar.

"Once the rains set in the roads will be washed away and become completely impassable to any kind of motor vehicle.

SON IN THRESHER SAVED BY FATHER

Parent Halts Flow of Blood From Son's Jugular Vein

Essex, Ont., July 7 (CP)—Clair Smith, 17 years old on Cornfield Beach Township, had a narrow escape last night, without an instruction in first aid or medicine, acted swiftly and courageously in an emergency.

The father, William, aged about 60, and Clair were testing some new threshing equipment at their farm when the accident occurred. Clad in township near Windsor. The son's arm was caught in the large drive belt and he was twisted between it and the wheel. Clair's left arm was caught and almost torn off and his jugular vein and trachea were cut.

William Smith stopped the machine as far as he could. He extricated his son's body and used his hand to stop the flow of blood from the wounds. He did his best to stop the loss of blood from the shoulder. Other members of the family heard their cries, called a doctor, who treated the wounds, moved Clair to a hospital at Windsor. Doctor said the son would have died without the father there.

FLIGHT OF ZEP CAUSES WORRY

British Press Says a Different Route Taken Each Trip

London, July 7 (CP Havas)—Flights of the German airship Hindenburg over strategic areas of Britain and Canada were again the topic of anxious comment in the British press today.

On each of its four voyages so far, The Daily Express said, the Hindenburg has chosen different routes to cross Great Britain. It has crossed the Canadian area of the mid-lands and the naval shipyards along the coast of the channel.

When it was in Canada on its last trip, the paper went on, the Hindenburg flew over Lake Ontario over Prince Edward Island, and the ports of Saint John and Halifax. These two ports, it was pointed out, are the only ice-free harbors in the Canadian area and they have drydock facilities capable of handling vessels of her size.

The crews of the Hindenburg and the Graf Zeppelin, the paper replied, are trained to fly both craft.

COMMITTED FOR TRIAL

Windsor, Ont., July 7 (CP)—On charges of murdering their nameless infant, whose mutilated body was found on the Canadian shore of the Detroit River last March, May Robertson and Beverly Pringle were committed for trial today after a preliminary hearing before Magistrate D. M. Brodie.

NEWS BRIEFS AND ODDITIES

IN EXCITEMENT FISH WERE LOST

Classify proclaiming to the world in general that their catch was the beautiful muskies, a party of fishermen tied up at a dock near the junction of the Appletree and Thrasher rivers, Sturgeon Lake.

Company of the pilings rushed to the dock. They crowded each other as they strained for a glimpse of the fish. Suddenly the dock collapsed, plunging ten people in the water. They sputtered and splashed in three feet of water, eventually crawling out in a much bedraggled condition.

Then someone discovered the fish were missing. Back into the water waste splashed two members of the party, retrieving the catch after a diligent search.

GOVERNMENT OFFICES ADOPT EARLY CLOSING

Commencing on July 1, under summer regulations, the majority of local Dominion Government offices have now adopted the four o'clock closing hour in the afternoon. This period of early closing will be observed until October 31.

42 BIRTHS IN CITY FOR MONTH OF JUNE

June, the proverbial month of wrangs blossoms and brides this year, was also listed in local records as one of the busiest months of the year for total number of births in the city. According to vital statistics just compiled during the past month a total of 42 births were recorded. Of this number 22 were male and 20 female. Marriages reached comparatively high figures of 18. Deaths on the other hand showed a reduction, with a total of 21 of which 13 were male.

REGULAR PLACEMENTS MADE ON FORMS

Coincident with the announcement of the Hon. David Croll, minister of Welfare, that the present campaign to place men on relief throughout Ontario has resulted in a total of 7,000 being found jobs so far, a statement by Mr. J. J. Kelly, superintendent of the local Employment Service of Canada office indicates that the same, consistently regular placements are being made locally. During the past week or so an average of a man a day is being found work in and throughout this section. It was stated today. Last week a total of eight men were placed. Seasonal work at present has accounted for a fairly large number of local men-

HORSE RACING A FEATURE OF FAIR

Horse racing will be one of the features of the Belleville Fair this year, despite rumours circulated throughout the city and district to the contrary, it was announced by the committee of the Fair Board today.

"We don't know who started the rumour that there wouldn't be any races, but we do know that they are entirely wrong. There will be just as many races this year as there have been any year," stated Mr. R. H. Ketcheson, Fair Secretary, today.

A complete race program for the three days will be: Wednesday, September 2, a 2-year-old colt race and the 2.15 Class. On Thursday, the 2.27 Class and the 2.30 Class; on Friday, September 4, the last day, a 2.24 Class and 2.20 Class.

HUCKLEBERRIES WILL BE A GOOD CROP

Huckleberries are ripening on the rocky hills of Prince Hastings and already the first of what promises to be a record crop this season is being picked by residents of that section. Over the week-end several Belleville visitors who motored to some of the northern townships for the express purpose of picking the berry returned with meagre baskets, but report plenty of the crop now ripening.

MOIRA RIVER NOW FISH POND TRICKLE

Humbled from a raging, destructive stream this spring, the Moira River at the present time has been reduced to the proportions of a fish pond trickle. Now, along its shallow marsh, groups of children congregate daily and in the evenings enjoying safe bathing facilities in the now warmed waters, which trickle devlously past and around numerous small weed and grass grown islands, left by the receding currents. At the lower end the first of the season weed and rush crop has already gained a good start, while in the upper harbor green scum and weeds has assumed formidable growth.

HAY CUT OFF LOTS USED BY RESIDENTS

Not all the hay harvested in the section at the present time is being taken from the fields of the rural districts. In the city there are many lots of loads of the green forage being cut, then garnered from vacant lots and side streets, where it has been cut by employees of the local Parks Board. All public works lately have been eagerly sought by the horse owners and carted to their barns.

"Anyone, who wishes to have their weeds and grass cut on any vacant property they might own, will be glad to furnish me with the location of the lot," stated Parks Board today. "We are anxious to cut it just for the city convenience, it was announced by the committee of the Fair Board today.

"They'll be glad to do the work free."

At the present time six men are employed by the department on weed cutting.

RASPBERRIES AT 25 CENTS A BOX

Attendance Remarkably Small For Midweek Market

Shirley Poppins, Coreopsis, Delphinium and Cornflowers made a gorgeous riot of color at the market this morning, attracting many women lady buyers from a crowd remarkably small for a midweek market.

Delicate flowering shalls, white maple affahs, which when submerged in water will blossom into a light green foliage and which incidentally have a "Made in Japan" mark were offered at the low price of 10c and 15c and were quickly snapped up.

Red raspberries making their first appearance of the season, and there were only a few of them, commanded a price of 25c per box. Cautious buying on the part of purchasers caused a slow movement in the fruit, the rumor that prices would drop during the week-end, holding off potential purchasers.

"This is the last year I'll be in," said a vendor, offering strawberries at 10c per box, and gooseberries at five sample for this time of year, brought 25c for two boxes.

Next year will be different, with early varieties giving way to later ones. Prices ranged steady at 10c and 35c per quart. Red cherries at 10c per box and 50c for the 6-quart basket, red currants at 15c and 25c, black currants at 30c, gooseberries at 10c and basket vegetables at 10c rounded out a supply of jam-making fruits which brought steady sales.

New potatoes were plentiful at 25c per peck, basket of tomatoes at $2.50.

Other vegetables remained firm with new beets, spinach, cabbage, carrots, onions, etc., maintaining a steady level at 5c.

Whitefish was offered and sold at 15c per pound by vendors.

"Are these eggs graded," a part young lady vendor was asked.

"Graded—what's that mean?" flashed back the part one, reaching for change for a $5 bill, as soon as the hens do their duty the prices will be the same."

Honey, jams and marmalades were offered at prices ranging from 10c to 25c, according to size of jar.

POLICE COURT

Charged with non-support and deserting his wife, Bert T. Walley, Belleville, was arrested in Toronto by Jay yesterday. Walley was brought to Belleville by Plainclothes Officer Fred Land today and appeared in custody until Friday. Police officers state that Walley failed to send description by the local police department late last week and refused to support his family for 30 days.

Clarence Gallinger, Cornwall, who some years ago was the star goaltender for the Cornwall Colts during the days of the Big Four intermediate group of a decade ago in the O.H.A., was arrested in Belleville last night on a charge of drunkenness. Gallinger was taken into custody following complaint received by police regarding a man who was handling his automobile in a reckless manner.

Following his hockey success as a goal-keeper with the Cornwall Colts some 12 years ago, Gallinger turned professional with the old Toronto St. Patricks of the NHL, when they held forth at the old Mutual Street Arena. Gallinger was released in custody until Monday charged with intoxication today.

Two large forestry transports and trailers were held in custody near the police station all night after being found speeding without permits by Provincial P.C.V. A. officers. The charges were laid by Motorcycle Patrolman Sam Ervine, who apprehended the drivers violating this law on Highway No. 2 near Trenton yesterday. Charges are pending.

Activities generally were held in and about local police circles during the past 24 hours and no crime of a serious nature was reported. The lone inebriate and three tourists occupied the cell block at the police station last night.

Local owners of dogs, who have been delinquent in having their their 1936 dog licence, are warned to procure the same forthwith, the court action follows, as has already been the case in some incidents.

HONOR MASON AT LARGE GATHERING

Albert MacDonald, Wellington Has Been in Order 63 Years

When the Past Masters Association of Prince Edward District meet here tonight there will be the usual meeting and election of officers at Masonic Temple, but something out of the ordinary will be the presence of years rich in Masonic lore will awaken in the heart of one of the most colorful figures in district circles in the person of Mr. Albert MacDonald, Wellington, at present a visitor in the city.

"Sixty three years a Mason" is the proud boast of this fine old gentleman, and all of them in the membership of the Consecon Lodge in which he was initiated.

Last year Mr. Macdonald was presented with a jewel, emblematic of fifty years membership in the Masonic Order, by the Grand Lodge of Ontario.

Eighty-six years of age, he joined the order when a man of twenty three maintaining his membership during a number of years spent in the U. S.

He is a great lover of horseflesh and has been engaged in the uniforms working on a ranch, which specialized in the breeding of blooded racing stock.

"I once saw an unique race" he said, "and one which ended in tragedy. I worked in California at the time, when the cowboys were pushing their way across the continent. Iron monsters puffed and snorted their way through prairie wilderness and fertile valleys.

"My employer, Mr. R. Caldwell incensed at the intrusion of the train, offered to bet a large sum of money, that his prize broncho could beat the train over a stated distance. Numerous pokiks, he was told was accepted and the race was on. Neck and neck they race for a distance when the train, with its wheeled sulky and driving beautiful rally. Beside him on the track the "iron horse" puffed and snorted. And here tragedy crept in to the picture. Caldwell had passed out in front by a full length, but failed to note a steel crossing in front of him. The horse got across alright but Caldwell was killed instantly. The horse was sold later for twenty thousand dollars."

GALA DAY EVENTS TO MARK OPENING OF PLAYGROUNDS

Children Wanted to Take Part in Events on Wednesday

PRIZES FOR ALL

Wanted

Children of all ages, preferably accompanied by parents, at the east end west end Belleville Playgrounds, to take part in sport programme. Prizes for all participants; novel afternoon's fun assured. No admission charge. Apply at the grounds for registration. All entries given fair trial. Personal appearance must be made Wednesday afternoon, July 8.

Signed:

Frank Dominion, (President), per The Kiwanis Club of Belleville.

The above notice sums up kwai Kiwanis Club hopes from the children of Belleville when they call today tomorrow. The Club expects a huge crowd to be on hand at the east end playground for the official opening at two o'clock. Youngsters are invited to make a day of it, with full use of the additional $4,000 worth of equipment just placed on part in the splendid sports' program which has been drawn up for their benefit.

A Free Day For Everyone

And here we will let you into a little secret. No matter whether you be a boy or girl between every boy or girl who has participated will be given a prize. Unusual, eh? Yes, of course, it's unusual; but then it's Kiwanis Day and the Kiwanians are unusually generous as has been instanced in the past, is proven in the present and will be demonstrated to in the future.

A rough idea of the programme shows the diversified nature of the afternoon's fun. Boys and girls 5 to 8 years, 9 to 11 years, and 12 to 15 years will be conducted by the usual manner. The winners of each race will be awarded a prize. Boys and girls of other categories will receive some gift. Here is a splendid chance for every youngster to get in on something good at a minimum of effort. Another event which should be interesting the "Egg and Spoon Race" for girls, whose speed has always been a source of wonder.

Mixed-Failing Contest

One feature which should draw many entries will be the Children's Fancy Dress Parade. Prizes for the men" in the "Wall Driving Contest" and the accurate "Dart Throw" in the "Rolling Pin" bout. And although not being called to order regard the Kiwanians offer the fair sex the chance of proving their skill in the "Husband Calling" competition. A long list of competitors is expected in this section of the ladies' sports.

Boys Will Be Boys Will Be Boys

This tells briefly what will take place on the east side shortly after two o'clock. At four o'clock a similar programme will be conducted at the west side. Prize winners, who competed on the east side, will not be allowed to compete on the west side.

Come prepared for a pleasurable afternoon. A fast moving program is assured. The guest of honor for the occasion will be Kiwanis Day.

Happy hours are assured the children of Belleville, when the Kiwanis Playgrounds open Tomorrow, with a program of sports, races, contests, and fun for all arranged. The East Grounds open at 2 p.m., the West at 4 p.m.

Who is the District Governor of this Kiwanis District, and who will be the speaker at the gathering previously mentioned in the holding of the sports.

Everyone is urged to take advantage of the fair holiday and make tomorrow a 'red letter' day in the annals of the city. Tomorrow to be remembered when other tomorrows are forgotten. Let's show the kiwanis that the citizens of Belleville appreciate the Kiwanis Club's $4,000 gift to youth.

JAZZ TEMPO TABOOED WHEN NATIONAL ANTHEM IS PLAYED BY BAND

The Canadian National Anthem must not be subject to the vagaries of ragtime or jazz tempo; it may not even be included in a medley of patriotic airs. When played, it must be played alone, with becoming dignity, according to latest regulations received by Lt.-Col. N. A. Geen, O.C., of the local 49th Light Infantry, from Military District No. 3 headquarters, Kingston.

The communication received from headquarters today it was pointed out: "It has been brought to the attention of the National Defence Headquarters that in some instances, military bands are playing marches consisting of medleys of the National Anthem and other airs."

"It is considered that the National Anthem should be preserved for one purpose only, and should at all times be accorded the musical respect which is impossible when played in this manner.

"It is not considered by the National Department of Defence headquarters that these medleys are appropriate marches for use by military bands."

"Please issue such instructions as may be necessary to insure, that in future which include any part of the National Anthem are not played by any band at any unit under your command."

SKULL FRACTURE FROM HIGH DIVE

Prince Edward County Boy Attempts Dive Into Haymow

John Wannamaker, eight, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Wannamaker, Miller, Ont., Prince Edward county, is in critical condition in Prince Edward County Hospital with severe injuries received when he crashed through a rotting floor of a barn following an unsuccessful attempt to dive into a haymow.

Young Wannamaker leaped from a beam to the hay at the barn's side, landed too close to the edge of the mow and crashed to the cement floor of the barn, a drop of 25 feet below, striking his skull on the cement. Dr. N. A. Thompson of Wellington was hurriedly summoned and following examination rushed the injured boy to the hospital where it was discovered he was suffering from a double fracture of the skull.

THE ONTARIO INTELLIGENCER

THE DAILY ONTARIO INTELLIGENCER is published every afternoon (Sunday and holiday excepted) by The Ontario Intelligencer Building, Front Street, Belleville.

WOOD, SUGAR, YEAST

Science again has scored a victory. It has found a way to get the sweetness out of wood. After the making of paper, there is a small amount of sugar still remaining. But that has had to yield to modern knowledge and invention. It will become yeast.

At Liverpool, Nova Scotia, a plant is producing 20,000 pounds a week. Another plant will be built in Toronto and another in Vancouver. With these three in operation extracting yeast from the vast quantities of sulphide liquid from Canadian pulp and paper mills, there will be enough to bake all the bread in the British Empire.

Is not this a wonder—paper to wrap parcels, paper to read, paper for a thousand other purposes and yeast to bake bread, all out of wood. What a wonder is this! One of many we have experienced and which have become part of our daily lives and herald of the many thousands of such discoveries to prove yet of benefit to mankind.

TRY COURTESY ON THE HIGHWAYS

Minister of Highways, the Hon. T. B. McQuesten, is making appeal to motorists on the score of courtesy in the hope and expectation that there will be some reduction in the heavy lists of casualties as a result of automobile accidents on the highways of Ontario. No better campaign could be launched than this one which has as its object greater safety in riding and banishment of the terrible fear which many motorists must have that something is going to happen during each and every thoughtlessness or otherwise on the roads.

In fact Mr. McQuesten is appealing to the car driver on one of the noblest motives in human nature—the desire to be considered courteous—to be gentlemanly. He feels that if every car operator drove as he wishes everyone to drive on the highways there would be a great reduction in the loss of life and the suffering of victims of accidents.

The Province has provided good highways for the people and their guests, the tourists. The province is supplying supervision of the roads which should be adequate. Municipalities are making every effort within their boundaries to eliminate danger by the placing of signs and by setting out rules and enforcing them in a way to make driving safe for other drivers, for the drivers themselves and for the walking public. That legal side has been often stressed.

Now this other appeal is being made—this time to the innate courtesy with which most people are at heart blessed. Drive as you would have the other driver drive. This is just an application of the golden rule of life to motoring.

These appeals are being made through this newspaper as well as through all the newspapers of the province in a series of advertisements by the Ontario Highways Department. It is in fact an educational campaign in good ethics of the road—stressing a self-imposed task to be a good and careful driver. It is hoped through the co-operation of every individual driver and pedestrian and parents with regard to children, that the "Try Courtesy" campaign will bring success.

So the Ontario Intelligencer urges every operator and pedestrian to act in the spirit of the golden rule on the highways and streets. No one will suffer if the golden rule is carried out in its fullness. If the golden rule is not applied some one will suffer and suffer heavily. When one follows the golden rule he finds that the selfishness of the highway users does not seem so great and if everyone were to put into action that precept the highways would not have the undesirable record they now have.

The "Try Courtesy" appeal advertisements are very instructive, containing a great deal of information and sound advice. Most motorists have their notions on the ethics of driving and walking on highways and roads but do not put them into such striking form as that in which the Hon. Mr. McQuesten has seen them and pointed them out in this series of advertisements. He notes that driving with courtesy works two ways, it helps to save the other party and it saves the driver himself. Courtesy is the mark of a true gentleman. Last Friday there was an appeal made to the pedestrian to follow the rules for the motorist expects the pedestrian to obey the rules. If the pedestrian does not there may be an accident.

This "Try Courtesy" campaign will raise the safety of the highways if the people will but follow the advice.

There are only two powers in the world, the sword and the pen; and in the end the former is always conquered by the latter.—Napoleon.

The strokes of the pen need deliberation, as much as those of the sword need swiftness.—Julia Ward Howe.

SUMMER NIGHT

Give me the silver strumming of the rain
On vibrant branches near old eaves I know,
Then let the moon come out above the plain
That I may see the magic stir and grow:
The silver-misted plumes that the willows wave,
The dance of water that has caught the light,
The little shining slope of hill that gave
Its clover-sweetness to the Summer night.

Give me the sweep of pageants down the skies—
Cloud-argosies and each star-led crusade.
I need the earth and sky to make me wise
Enough to know how much your love has made
Completeness . . like the Summer night that stands
Above our quiet words and lingering hands.

—Glenn Ward Dresbach.

IN THE MIDST OF THE BALLYHOO, JOLLIFICATION, and general hilarious celebration of a political convention all precedents were broken when the thousands of delegates in response to a request by the chair, stood with bowed heads for two minutes in loving tribute to the memory of Will Rogers, cowboy philosopher and humorist. This happened at the recent Democratic convention at Philadelphia. Could any man ask for more than to live thus in kindly memory in the hearts of his fellow countrymen?

CHURCH BELLS THAT HAVE BEEN RINGING DAILY FOR THREE HUNDRED YEARS rang out cheerily last Sunday in the parish church of Burleigh, Chelmsford, Essex County, England. The bells were heard plainly in Belleville in a radio broadcast arranged by Columbia radio service, as part of the Independence Day programs. This church was built in the eleventh century, and the bells were carefully and lovingly made by an artizan who inscribed his name on each bell. Owing to the wear and tear of the years the bells have had to be turned so that the clapper would strike in a new place, but otherwise the bells are as sound today as when installed three hundred years ago. The broadcast was in honor of Rev. Lawrence Washington, Great Great Grandfather of George Washington, first President of the United States and known as "The Father of His Country". An interesting sidelight was the fact that sitting in the radio studio at London listening to the bells of Burleigh were three of ladies from Burleigh who had attended the old parish church and to whom the bells of Burleigh were sweet music. It is worthy of mention that the bells of Burleigh ring out the time of day every hour, in addition to calling the faithful to worship.

THE GLORIOUS FOURTH OF JULY, Independence Day, celebrated the length and breadth of the United States as a memorial of the severance of the ties with the Mother Country, was as usual marked with many casualties, despite the efforts put forth by newspapers and public men for "a safe and sane holiday." This year the casualty lists were even higher than usual with a roll of 251 deaths, and many injured from fireworks and other noisemakers peculiar to the holiday.

Penetration seems a kind of inspiration; it gives an idea of prophecy.—Greville.

LOOKING BACKWARD

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BY-GONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

Messrs. Hope McClintch and James Stortis have returned home after a trip to Buffalo and Rochester.

50 YEARS AGO

July 7th, 1886.

The annual inspection of the 15th. Battalion, Argyll Light Infantry, was held on the Cricket Field before Col. Villiers, D.A.G. Owing to the excessive heat the battalion did not turn out until about 6 o'clock p.m., the men were in readiness at 3 o'clock p.m. Upon reaching the field the battalion was drawn up in line and Col. Villiers and Major King inspected each man. Major King called the roll and the strength of the battalion was shown to be 371 officers and men as follows: No. 1 Company, Capt. W. N. Ponton, 46 officers and men; No. 2 Company, Capt. W. Mikel, 46 officers and men; No. 3 Company, Capt. John Henderson, 46 officers and men; No. 4 Company Capt. R. Laxier, 46 officers and men; No. 5 Company, Capt. A. Hart Hallwell, 42 officers and men; No. 6 Company, Capt. J. H. Walmsley, 46 officers and men. Col. Villiers complimented the battalion that he was well pleased with the inspection and that a great improvement was shown over last year. Belts, however, should be better looked after and when on parade the men should not carry handkerchiefs or other articles in their pockets. Three cheers were given for Col. Villiers and Col. S. S. Lazier after which the battalion was marched to the armory and dismissed.

Capt. W. N. Ponton's company No. 1, was unanimously awarded first place by the spectators for the movements in Independent company drill at the inspection of the battalion last evening.

Simple Living, Hard Work, Good Food, Christian Life Are Prescribed for Longevity

Mrs. John Symington Celebrates 94th Birthday by Making Herself a Dress

OLD DAYS RECALLED

She And Her Sister Mrs. C. S. Young 88, Read Bible Daily

"Following the rules of simple living, lots of hard work, plenty of substantial food, and the application of Christian principles", is the formula for longevity prescribed by Mrs. John Symington, 10 Alexander Street, who celebrated her 94th birthday on Saturday. Mrs. C. S. Young, 88, a sister joined in the quiet celebration tendered by Mrs. Archibald, John Street.

In possession of all her faculties, Mrs. Symington is mentally alert and active. She reads without the aid of glasses and celebrated her natal day by making a dress for herself.

Do Own Housework

These grand old ladies are direct descendants of United Empire Loyalist. Born of the union of Robt. McDowell Smith and Catherine White, on the old Smithfield, Ont., they lived their younger days in primitive surroundings. They spun cloth to make clothes for the family, assisted at the social functions of those days, and in general devoted themselves to the strenuous duties imposed upon the women pioneers of that country.

Today they take walks, do their own housework, keep informed of current topics and never fail to read their Bible daily. Staunch Presbyterians, they have attended services in their church regularly until recently.

Are Proud of Lineage

Mrs. Symington has resided in Belleville for the past 31 years, all her life previous to that being lived in Smithfield. Mrs. Young has lived with her for the past 19 years, following the death of her husband.

They are particularly proud of their lineage, as well as being descended from sturdy U. E. L. pioneer stock a great uncle, Sir Robt. McDowall, was the first Presbyterian minister in Upper Canada.

"There were six children in our family," said Mrs. Young "and we are the only surviving members, not only of our immediate family," she added, "but of the Smith and White stocks."

"Three husbands of our family died in this house within a period of two years. All other members were given Biblical names, and as we are the last two left, I suppose altogether prove that the good die young," she concluded with a smile.

AS VANCOUVER CELEBRATED HER G. OLDEN JUBILEE

Vancouver celebrated the opening of its golden jubilee celebration on Dominion Day in a blaze of July sunshine that grew warmer over the heads of 8,000 citizens who gathered in grandstands and around the enclosure where 2,000 troops stood massed, came the voice of the empire's greatest city. The lord mayor of London stretched a metaphorical hand across the seas, in reality a voice across the ether, to give best wishes from the world's greatest seaport to the city of Vancouver. Layout shows above, TOP, LEFT: to RIGHT, Sir Hon. R. B. Bennett, Hon. Ian Mackenzie and Mayor McGeer. Other pictures show a section of the crowd and the parade through city streets.

CATTLE STRICKEN ASSCORCHING SUN WITHER S PASTURE FIELDS

Despite the "permanent" waving of pastures and many other precautions, the states and provinces of western United States and Canada are in the grip of a prolonged dry spell. A burning sun is parching thousands of acres of grain and pasture, and cattlemen are forced to drive their stock miles for water. Even streams and rivers are drying up, more upwardly in the more southerly states.

ENGLISH PARTY SETS OUT TO CONQUER MOUNT WADDINGTON

Little Benny's Note Book

This afternoon I was taking a walk with Mary Watkins, her looking perfect in a big white hat to match her little white dress, and we started to go passed the flower store and Mary Watkins looked in, saying, My, look at all of them aren't they beutiful, I just love flowers, I think they're the prettiest things that grow.

Making me wish I was a millionair so I could buy her a big bookay, and just then I had a idea, saying, Hay, do you want me to take you inside so you can wawk around smelling all the kinds you like best?

O I'd love to, but what would the man say? she said, and I said, I'll keep him busy, dont you worry, come on.

And we wawked in and Mary Watkins started smelling, and the flower man started smelling, Well, young people, what can I do for you?

Seeing a big flower man with eye-brows as black as his mustash and pritty near as thick, and I said, What kind of flowers do you call those?

Meaning some on the other side of the store, and I wawked over with the flower man so Mary Watkins would have more room to smell, and the flower man said, Which kind do you mean? and I said, Them, and he said, They're called porkers and they're quite expensive just now. How much would you like to spend? he said.

Me not saying on account of not knowing, and Mary Watkins, and I said, How much are those yellow roses?

4 dollars a dozen, the flower man said, and I said, O, and he said, Yes, they come high, and I said, How much are the big red roses? and he said 6 dollars a dozen, and I said, Gosh, and he said, Well some on, show me your money and I'll tell you what you can get for it, if I have to get it changed first, I said. And a quick went and pulled Mary Watkins out, saying, Did you have some good smells? and her saying, Perfect.

BUSH FIRE CONTROLLED

Peterborough, Ont., July 6 (CP)—A bush fire in the Kelchcum Lake district, about 30 miles north of here, was said to be under control today. The fire broke out Sunday and destroyed several camps of the Peterborough Lumber Company as well as some second growth timber. Fifteen men under the Chief Ruff of Bancroft and Fire Ranger Herbert Cochrane of Apsley fought the fire.

PROGRESSIVE AND PROFITABLE YEAR ENDS FOR ROTARY

New Officers Installed And Reports From Committees Given

CHILDREN HELPED

Splendid Work Being Done by Club For Crippled Children

Belleville Rotary Club started another year Monday with installation of the officers-elect and reports from committee chairmen of the work of the year. President J. B. Boyce stepped down from the chair and was succeeded by Joe Shortt, President for the year beginning July 1: He will be assisted by Past President Boyce occupying the chair of Vice-President. Ross Neal was re-appointed secretary and Irv. Starkey will act as treasurer. Steve Pfrimoff will officiate as sergeant-at-arms. Mackenzie Hodgson was appointed editor of the Weekly Bulletin. Directors are Chester Hodgins, Cecil Douglas, Fred Deacon, Archie Cameron.

Guests present included Rotarians Ron Mowbray, Los Angeles, California; Harry A. Freeman, Troy, N.Y.; George Smith, Montreal.

A feature of the meeting was the appointment of the delegates to Rotary International convention at Atlantic City in Palm Beach suits, gayly bedecked with convention ribbons and badges all topped off with Turkish fez. The delegates were J. B. Boyce and Fred Douglas.

Reports from the chairmen of the various committees revealed a progressive and profitable year just ended. The crippled children committee had been responsible, by Chas. J. Symons, is particularly worthy of mention, showing that 500 children had been examined, 200 of whom were hundred per cent. cures and all greatly benefited by treatment. Medicine, clothing and school books had been provided during the treatment. One death occurred, that of a boy, who had passed through 1,141 days' treatment at the Hospital for Sick Children, Toronto. He was coming along fine with every prospect of complete recovery when he took a cold, developed pneumonia and died. A number of out of town cases were investigated by the Ontario Society for Crippled Children. A number of new cases were undertaken this year and treatment continued in cases undertaken some time ago.

One young woman on the verge of complete breakdown was given hospital treatment after a vacation arranged by Rotary, and she is recovering. Several young boys, one aged two and a half years were treated for eye affections, one girl for eczema, while a blind boy was sent to the Institute for the Blind. Many cases of tonsils and adenoids were treated, including cases from St. Ola, 81 miles from Belleville. One case, a baby girl, sent to the Hospital for Sick Children at Toronto, made a wonderful recovery, and her mother, with her heart full of gratitude, said to Chairman Charlie Symons, "I wonder if the Rotarians can realize what a wonderful work they are doing for crippled children and their parents—if they did their hearts would be singing with joy all the time."

Other cases included a boy with a deformed foot, a man 46 years of age suffering from infantile paralysis, who had not walked for five years, now is learning to walk on a runway built at his home by Rotary.

An artificial limb for a woman, besides transportation to Toronto, also for fitting, revealed the wide scope of the work undertaken by Rotary.

Chairman Chas. J. Symons paid a high tribute to the great assistance rendered by Rotarian Dr. Van Blaklaize, who gave free treatment to all Rotary wards needing medical attention, also to Dr. Chant, and others who rendered valuable assistance in the committee free of charge.

Tribute was paid to Rotarians Harry Hill and J. O. Herity, for hundred per cent. attendance since 1934.

Sixteen new members were added to the roll during the year.

Boys work included the building of a new dining hall at the Boys' Camp, Moira Lake, at a cost of $600, co-operation with T.M.C.A. and other activities.

Reports from all other committees revealed a healthy and progressive spirit in all club activities.

YOUNGSTERS KEEN ON PLAYGROUND

Children Will be on Hand at Opening on Wednesday

Belleville's youngsters are all enthused about the re-opening of the city's playgrounds and with the energies and interest directed into proper and profitable channels.

Well, then this enterprise of the Kiwanians is far more important than it appears to be on the surface," quoth your scribe, mentally amazed at the psychology of the thing.

"Indeed it is," came the reply emphatically in agreement.

They have devoted much thought to the subject and in all matters have received the fullest hearted co-operation of the Board of Education. Their prime reason for fostering the playgrounds is to give the growing child, up to seventeen years of age, to come to the grounds for his recreation."

There was the initial question answered again. The playgrounds were for the use of children up to and including seventeen years of age. The benefits would accrue to children of all ages; not just to the children.

Mr. Laughlin waxed seriously enthusiastic. Child training and by methods was evidently of a great pes," interjected his visitor at this point.

"Yes, there are five finer grounds in Ontario both as to equipment and site," declared Mr. Laughlin, and they are headed at this time of the year. Normal, healthy youngsters fast out of school, bursting with energy, pent-up during the school term, must have a natural outlet for their pep. It needs proper direction and proper facilities for the enjoyment of that energy. If there is no outlet the result is that there will be trouble of some kind. It is more or less inevitable. But given a proper guidance those same energies are diverted into proper and profitable channels."

There was the initial question answered again. The playgrounds were for the use of children up to and including seventeen years of age. The benefits would accrue to children of all ages; not just to the children.

Mr. Laughlin waxed seriously enthusiastic. Child training and by methods was evidently of a great deal of concern to him. Plans for the summer training lay very close to his heart and found fluent expression.

"Every boy and girl has some talent which can be developed," he averred. "It is the purpose of supervisors and their assistants, to bring out the inherent talents and qualities in a boy or girl. Some day those boys or girls who have visited a playground, such as we have in Belleville, will cherish their days that they did so. Quite a few of the work will be devoted to handicraft instruction."

All of which was very interesting. For some minutes thereafter the conversation embraced the tentative playground programme; but concerning this nought appeared in another article. Suffice it to say your reporter left with his paramount question fully answered, namely—that the playgrounds were not merely for the use of the kiddies but for boys and girls up to seventeen years of age and that a splendid programme of activities had been arranged for their benefit.

Good luck to you, Mr. Laughlin, your assistants—and your sponsors, the Kiwanis Club—in your activities amongst Belleville's youth! Parents will watch your progress with interest.

15,000 Visitors are Expected To Celebrate "Twelfth" Here

MANY WILL 'WALK'

Fifteen thousand visitors are expected to be in Belleville next Monday attending the Twelfth of July celebration being held at the Agricultural Grounds under the auspices of Benjamin L.O.L., No. 274. Large delegations are being sent from lodges in South, Central North Hastings, also Kingston and Frontenac lodges. Prince Edward County lodges are sending large delegations, while Lennox and Addington and Northumberland will also be well represented and the monster parade which leaves the grounds at 1.30 is expected the largest and finest ever seen in this district. The route of march will be from the Agricultural Grounds down West Bridge Street to Front Street, thence to Upper Bridge, Metra Street to Coleman Street, to West Bridge Street and back to Agricultural Grounds.

There will be a fine program of sports at the grounds morning and afternoon for valuable prizes, including baseball, foot races, tug-of-war, etc.

Several distinguished speakers will address the gathering in the afternoon, the chairman for the occasion being James F. Hill, M.P.P.

In addition to Belleville bands there will be several bands from out of town, so there will be plenty of music.

In the evening a dance will be held in Moose Hall.

Hot dinners will be served on the grounds from 11.30 a.m. by L.O.L. No. 274.

In view of the large number of visitors who will be in Belleville Monday the committee requests all citizens to decorate their homes and properties in order to make the best impression possible on the many thousand guests of the city that day.

Trenton and District

Trenton, July 7 (Special)—President Claude V. Graham handled his first completely official meeting last night. Members of the club were entertained by Flight Sgt. Syme of the R.C.A.F. Syme by his singing of hard tricks amazed all who were present. Sgt. Major Wilberly of the R. C. A. F. rendered several comic songs. Mr. Ronald Newton accompanied on the piano. Flight Sgt. Syme was introduced by Rotarian Ken Cossitt. A hearty vote of thanks was offered the speaker by Rotarian W. House. A discussion arose as to whether the Belleville Municipal Band will present concerts here once a week. It was finally decided to have Mr. F. Johson, leader of the band be present at the next regular meeting to lay his plans before the club. Trenton people are in need of concert entertainment. At present Trenton has no municipal band, and the citizens would certainly enjoy a Sunday evening concert.

Court

Trenton police court was a very busy place yesterday. Fifteen cases of speeding, reckless driving and drunkenness were disposed of by Magistrate Lloyd. The usual speeding offender was J. D. Watson of Holding Park, Minn. Traffic Officer Bert Delaney rode over Alderfive miles an hour to arrest Watson. Watson was paid $7. R. R. Tryon of Ohio was found guilty on a charge of reckless driving and paid $13.35. One of Trenton's old timers appeared on a charge of being intoxicated and was assessed $13.60.

Boy Hits Auto

Thomas Bowen, 12 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Bowen of St. Francis ran out from behind a car parked on the south side of Dundas St., in front of the Post Office and the right front door of a car driven by Mr. W. H. Cooper of Toronto. The lad was thrown to the road and suffered injuries to the elbow and left shoulder. The driver of the car was not blamed as the accident was purely accidental.

Supreme Service Station Entered

Police found that the Supreme Service Station on the east side of the river was the victim when bottles of coca-cola constituted the offenders' loot. Entry was made by breaking a back window.

Obituary

LATE JAMES SCOTT (Stirling)

Stirling, July 7—A large number of friends and relatives attended the funeral of the late James A. Scott which took place in St. Paul's United Church, Stirling on Monday afternoon. Rev. James E. Bedell of the Rawdon circuit conducted the service assisted by Rev. W. J. Scott of St. Paul's Church, Rev. Reddick of Harold's Station, Rev. Dixon and Rev. Clark of Shannonville. The service was held for members of the choirs of Bethel United Church and St. Paul's Church, Stirling were united in the leading of song. During the service Mrs. Francis Jeffery sang the "Good-night and Good-morning."

The late Mr. Scott passed away at his home on the fourth concession of Rawdon township on Friday, July 3rd, which would have been his eighty-eighth birthday. Deceased was the son of one of the district's oldest and most respected citizens. He was born in Durham County the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Scott. His main interest in life was church work having been a local preacher in the Methodist Church for many years he had on several occasions ministered to the people of Rawdon circuit and other churches and was widely known as a local preacher of unusual ability.

The pall bearers were Messrs. R. Tucker, C. U. Heath, John Green, Fred Sutherland, John Farrell and Ernest Anderson. Interment was made in the Stirling cemetery.

PICTON

Annual Service In Old Church

Large Congregation Again Worship in Century-Old Edifice

Picton—A yearly service that links the past with the present, is that held on the Sunday nearest Dominion Day, each year, in the old St. Mary Magdalene Church, built by the Rev. Wm. McAuley in 1824. Again on Sunday, July 5th, this year services attended a large congregation, many of whom had attended worship in this edifice for many years before the building of the present church. Outside the church is in good repair and the churchyard beautifully kept, due to the untiring efforts of Honorary Superintendent Nelson Bailey, and the treasurer of the Churchyard Fund, Mr. Harry Hunt. Inside the building has caused damage and decay, but the ceiling of the chancel a few or the old pews the beautiful old windows and one of the early pipe organs, now out of use, enable one to visualize something of the former beauty of the church. Old or once among the parishioners recall that Miss Hannah Foster presided for many years at this pipe organ which was "pumped" by the sexton, Mr. Bailey.

On Sunday, Miss Eleanor Holmes presided at the organ assisted by a string trio, Messrs. Clifford Cooper, A. R. Grindrod, and Harry Hunt, supplied an obligato for the congregational singing. A procession of choristers, headed by the philtrums and spires were arranged with flowers, Rev. Canon Allen, Rector Bailey and Messrs Margaret Bailey and Nettie Zimmerman and Mrs. Jyle Bleecker, on July 12th, and Mrs. Jones. Beautiful flowers were also placed on the altar by Mrs. Ivan Bird, Mrs. Edwin Loucks, rector of the parish from 1911 to 1913, and Mrs. Loucks, by their three daughters, who were present from Ottawa, for the service. Canon Walter Loucks was unable to be present on this occasion. Rev. Harold Collier of Bridgeton, was guest soloist, at the taking of the offertory, rendering "Pergin", most acceptably. Messrs. Colin Carter, and A. R. Clifford, officiated as ushers. The surpliced choir in the chancel, sang the responses to the service of Almighty Fraser. The service opened with the processional hymn "The Church's One Foundation", followed by "God Save the King" and prayers by the Rector, Rev. C. C. Winter. Rev. A. J. Anderson, B.A., of Milford, read Psalm 46 "God is Our Hope and Strength" Rev. S. M. Scott, B.A., of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, read the lesson, beginning of Chap. 6 of the Book of Deuteronomy, and the 14th Chap. of the Gospel according to St. Luke, beginning at the 15th verse. The hymn "O God Our Help in Ages Past" was sung by the congregation and prayer offered by Rev. Mr. Anderson.

Rev. J. D. McKenzie Naughton, rector of St. Andrew's Church, Toronto, was guest preacher, speaking very convincingly that the work of our redemption is accomplished by God—that salvation is the free gift of God and that by the summons from without which is the word of the gospel, preached by our ministers, and by the Holy Spirit within us. If we seek God with an honest and sincere heart we shall find Him. But if we put off hearing to God we shall cease to draw to us. Rev. Mr. Naughton closed the service with prayer and Benediction. Hymn No. 356 was sung as the Recessional.

Milford baseball team met Picton Juniors in Picton on Saturday afternoon and carried off the game with a score of 7-6. Young Ron Shannon, a recent recruit for Picton, played brilliant ball and drew promise of going farther.

The Juniors are hitting again in local waters. Perry Lyons, Green Point, landed three-and-one-day last week along the "Fish Shore" of Picton Bay, weighing 15, 7 and 5 pounds.

Two Indians were arrested late Saturday afternoon, and lodged in the local gaol, charged with being intoxicated and fighting. A doctor had to be called to attend them as one suffered from a broken bone in one hand, and the other a deep cut in the lip requiring several stitches. They will appear in local police court.

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Christie and Mr. and Mrs. L. Kells of Belleville, spent Sunday with relatives in Picton.

Hong Kong, July 7 (AP) — Twenty officers of the South Western Chinese air force defected today, taking with them 12 bombing and fight planes.

The ships were flown from Shishow in Kwangtung Province to Changsa in Hunan.

Other deserters from the air force were reported to have gone to Shanghai by steamer from Canton.

What a Fanny Idea

"Hey Bill, pack your bags and come on bare right away. This Canadian fishing is the bee's knees. We got 90 brook trout today without half trying and the woods are full of 'em. And don't forget your flannel underwear and mittens for we woke up here to a cold iron have to wear gloves to haul 'em out, and the fish are in cold storage the minute they hit the air."

The above is not an excerpt from a movie short but an actual conversation overheard on a street corner last evening, and is purported to be the body of a message sent to his friends by an enthusiastic American now in this vicinity for the sole purpose of doing a spot of fishing.

And as this inquisitive reporter edged a bit closer in an effort to discover the name of this haven of cool air and frozen fish, he was surprised to hear a local sportsman, one famed for his modesty and reticence, when speaking of his own accomplishments, go to speaking one letter, when he informed them that only a few weeks ago, while on a piscatorial nightmare in North Hastings, he and his friends were forced to heat water in order to remove a thick coating of ice from the windshield of their car.

All of which, if true, augurs well for the business and popularity of the north country, and one may now expect a great influx of tourists from the Sunny South if only to fish then to enjoy the reputed cool temperatures of the fishing grounds if it isn't neutralized by the warm gusts emanating from the sportsmen, when speaking of their catches.

POULTRY MARKS TO HALT THIEVERY

Changes in Legislation Makes Possible Identification

For the protection of the breeders of poultry the Provincial Government recently passed legislation regarding the registering of brand marks for poultry, thereby assisting in the reducing of so many present poultry robberies throughout the provinces. Inspector Frank Gardner of the Provincial Police, today issued a bulletin from his offices informing all constables in District No. 8 of the new regulation.

In part the bulletin reads—"On the request of the poultry raiser of this province a change has been made in the Brand Act, making possible the registration of brand (tattoo) marks for the identification of poultry. The branding of poultry has been successfully applied in other countries and materially assists in the law enforcement to restrict contact and reference lists at their disposal when stolen chickens are apprehended. Poultry owners are rapidly grasping the opportunity to protect their fowl by them the district Provincial Police office, marking brands.

In this way the O.P.P. will have direct contact and reference lists at their disposal when stolen chickens are apprehended. Poultry owners are rapidly grasping the opportunity to protect their fowl by them

AT THE BELLE

"The King Steps Out"

Every once in a while, something electrifying happens on the screen, a new picture, a new personality emerges to make audiences tingle. This time it is a picture flushed with enchanting music, clothed with a gay amusing story, directed with the utmost finesse, acted by an excellent cast of players, focused on the screen's loveliest voice—Grace Moore's.

Wednesday, Thursday and Friday matinee and evening at the Belle, Columbia's musical romance "The King Steps Out," will be shown in all its Viennese splendour. Miss Moore lilts her lyric soprano voice to the tune of Strife Dreams, Music and succeeds in thrilling all within hearing.

Handsome, talented Franchot Tone plays opposite the diva in the role of Emperor Franz Joseph of Austria, a young monarch in search of a bride; he finds part-to-find fashion. Bouquets must also be handed to Walter Connolly, who once more turns in a Sully-ey performance; Raymond Walburn, an excellent character actor, is also in his short film career, has shown no weaker. Victor Jory, Elisabeth Risdon, Nana Bryant, Frieda Inescort, Reginald Owen and Herman Bing.

The story goes that the royal ruler wants a bride, and his ambitious mother selects for him Princess Martina's daughter. Heroes without the girl's knowledge or consent. The duke has always been on bad terms with the Dowager Empress, who is his sister-in-law. Wanting to be on the scene, he takes his daughter Cissy with him incognito to the castle town. There the emperor, thinking Cissy the ambassador calls in his bride to be just as he has announced his betrothal to her grandmother.

Naturally things come out all right, but not before Miss Moore has filled the theatre many times with her golden voice. Josef Von Sternberg is responsible for the fine direction; and Sidney Buchanan has written the screen play.

"The King Steps Out" is a winning picture, full of music, love, romance, gaiety and entertainment. An excellent comedy featuring that lovable old character Maude Clyde entitled "It Always Happens" and an all-color cartoon, "Private Number," the new Fox triumph will be shown at the Belle theatre tonight (Tuesday) for the last time, commencing at 7.10 and 9.15 p.m. During its engagement it has been acclaimed one of the year's outstanding romantic hits.

Robert Taylor's debonair manner and youthful charm complement Miss Young's beauty and wide-eyed appeal perfectly. And, added to the thrilling drama is suspense, drama and comedy by the irrepressible Buddy Rogers, Basil Rathbone and Marjorie Gateson are also featured prominently in the supporting cast. In addition the screen also offers added enjoyment of a high quality the following featurettes an all-star comedy entitled "Rainbow," an all-color classic cartoon that will please everyone and Metro News, the last ever-popular Belle News Flashes.

AT THE CAPITOL

"Show Boat"

Rarely has a play exerted such an emotional grip on actors who have taken part in it, as has "Show Boat", the Jerome Kern-Oscar Hammerstein II musical romantic drama which comes to the Capitol theatre tomorrow.

The hold that the production has on performers is indicated by the overwhelming desire of thousands of actors from "Show Boat" companies who could not be placed in the cast, under Universal wishes to make a film with several Captains Andys, Magnolias, Ravenals, Julies and Sheriffs playing the parts at the same time.

Irene Dunne expressed her pleasure at portraying Magnolia on the picture, saying that Magnolia was the same personality in the original road company. "It is a perfect role for a star," Irene declared.

Charles Winninger added, "Every character in the story is so distinct and so well developed that the producer is an actor's delight."

"I think it's the music that gets under the skin of show folks," maintained Helen Morgan, recreating the part of Julie which she first played in the New York hit. "I don't know what the music does to an audience but I can imagine, from what I know it does to me, it is like the first ray of Spring sunshine. There is a thrill every time the overture starts."

"It is the music" agreed Paul Robeson, the world famous baritone, whose singing of "Old Man River" has made him one of a favorite throughout the country.

"The drama of the story is what I like," says Queenie Smith. She should know. She has won stardom dancing and singing the musical comedy end on the dramatic stage.

Ends Tu-day.

Now comes a new talking screen with one of the most amazing thrillers to the day's end of man ever presented and which will Lionel Barrymore in a role as dramatic as those in "A Free Soul" and "The Copperhead," is now showing at the Capitol Theatre.

This is "The Voice of Bugle Ann" based on MacKinlay Kantor's famous novel of the old hunter who kills a man and goes to prison to avenge the death of his dog Bugle hound. The novel created a furor. Incidentally it is based on an actual case.

TO RETIRE

Reports from London indicate that Lord Wigram (ABOVE), private secretary to the late King George, and who has been carrying on in that capacity for King Edward, will be succeeded by Major Hon. Alexander Hardinge, heir of Lord Hardinge of Penshurst, former viceroy of India. Major Hardinge is the same age as the King.

FLAWLESS FORM

Equalling world record of 10.3 seconds for the 100 metres, Howie McPhee, 20, of the University of British Columbia is shown taking his victory with a smile at the provincial Olympic trials in Vancouver. The coast fans call him a second Percy Williams. They say "Jawless" describes his form.

G. J. KILGOUR DIES SUDDENLY

Brockville, Ont., July 8 (CP)—George A. Kilgour, 70, assistant wire chief for the Bell Telephone Company here, died today in the office of Dr. S. M. Goodfellow at Westport, ten minutes after he had reached there from a summer camp at Wolf Lake to seek advice for a pain in the region of the heart. He had been feeling unwell for three months. Death was ascribed to heart disease by Dr. G. H. Hamilton, coroner.

SKULL FRACTURED IN FALL FROM MOW

Chatham, Ont., July 7 (CP)—Raymond, six year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Van Overoop of R.R. No. 1, Eberts, was admitted to St. Joseph's Hospital suffering from a fractured skull and other injuries received in a fall from the mow of a barn.

The accident occurred on the farm of the boy's father. The lad had climbed into the mow, and losing his footing slid from a pile of hay and plunged to the floor, his head striking the ground.

BELMONTS AND SARGENTS TIED

Both Teams Assured of Playoff Berth in League

Belleville-Sargents moved into a tie for first place with the Belmont Restaurant nine in the local Industrial Softball loop by taking the Belmonts into camp in the form of 8 to 1 last night, while in the second game of a twin bill in the loop, the West Ends sprung a surprise and downed the Corbin Hardwarers 5 to 3 to drop the losers into second position. With but two more games scheduled in the Industrial loop however, the Belleville-Sargents and the Belmonts are assured of no worse than a tie for first place and an assured play-off berth.

At Coleman Flats, Tommy Hughes was in rare form last night as he limited the Belmonts to six small hits and one lone tally. Hughes hurled the entire game for the "Sodamen" and at no time was in trouble as he breezed through six scoreless innings, the Belmonts failing their one tally on the six in the final frame. Bill Cannon pitched creditable ball for the Belmonts and was hit freely, being nicked for a total of 13 bingles, included circuit blow by Hughes. Fred McGuire and Barrage Townsend were the only Belmont batter to collect two hits for the losers.

The line-ups:

Belmont Restaurant—Amo, Cooper, Barrage, St. Louis, Morgan, Duncan, Townsend, Tapp and Carson.

Belleville-Sargent—Darvell, Harrage, McMartin, Bushnell, Robinson, Hughes, F. McGuire, J. McGuire and Weaver.

West End Victorious

On the Yeomans Street grounds a tidy pitchers' battle ensued as the West Ends edged the Corbins and downed the Corbin Hardware 5 to 3. The West End hurler Celestato them into a tie with Ciaco for third position in the loop leaving the Capitol and Belmont to do battle for the league definitely out of the league pennant-chase.

Behind the five hit pitching of Ciaco, Harris and Weston managed to squeeze out their 5 to 3 win over the Corbins. The West End hurler was in trouble in the early stages in the initial frame to bang out five hits that resulted in five runs and although they nicked Graham, the Corbin hurler for five hits the rest of the way of scattered nature and no more runs were chalked up by the winners throughout the contest. The Corbins scored two runs in the third frame in the fourth to complete the tallying.

R. Brown, C. Brown and Ling were the big swat-smiths for the West Ends, the latter connecting for a pair of circuit blows.

Thompson proved the more prolific hitters for the losers.

HON. J. P. VERNIOT IS DEAD AT 72

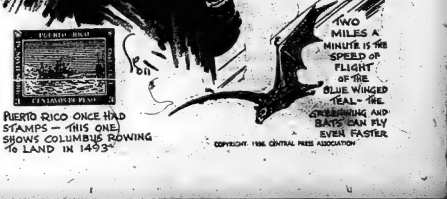
Plunkett, Victoria Conservative, and F. W. Peters, Liberal member for Wright County, both have died in the interval.

In House Since 1926.

The veteran New Brunswick Liberal had been in the House of Commons since 1926. He became Postmaster-General right after his first federal election in that year, and he held the important portfolio until 1930—first Canadian to fill the position.

Before taking it over, he had left the New Brunswick Public Works Minister to become the Province's Premier in 1925, on the retirement of W. E. Foster. Conservatives unseated Mr. Veniot in the last defeat his party in 1925, though, and he stepped out of the premiership.



Ten years later, he and Hon. Mr. Baxter were to face each other in a different setting, the chief of the New Brunswick Supreme Court, Hon. Mr. Baxter was constituted a Royal Commission to investigate Mr. Veniot's charge that Royal Canadian Mounted Police used third degree methods in New Brunswick.

The charge was found to be not fully substantiated.

In religion, Mr. Veniot was a Roman Catholic. He was married in 1885 and had six sons. All members of the family were at his bedside when he died and came. Walter of Ottawa and Peter, Jr., of Montreal, had arrived the day before the veteran politician died.

Lucky Seventh Is Only Myth

St. Louis, July 7.— (AP)— The lucky seventh? It's largely a myth, a survey of the season in both leagues so far showed today.

Fans in St. Louis, both those habid rooters for the "Gas House Gang" and those faithful followers of the Browns, can stand and stretch in the seventh with justification.

The two St. Louis teams this year have scored most of their runs at home in the seventh inning.

But fans in other cities would do well to choose some other time to do their "seventh-inning stretching". In fact, with some teams, it would be just as well if the fans didn't sit down during the first inning.

Apparently on the idea that a good start means everything, the New York Yankees, Detroit, Boston Red Sox, Chicago White Sox and Philadelphia Athletics do their best scoring work the first time at bat. New York Giants choose the first and third with equal run-making facility.

Washington, Chicago Cubs and Boston Bees drive in most of their tallies in the third inning. Brooklyn and Boston Red Sox have been "hottest" this season in the second, Cleveland in the fourth, the Phillies and Pittsburg and Cincinnati in the eighth.

KINGSTON PONIES HERE WEDNESDAY

Williams And McIvor to Hook up in Hurling Duel

Baseball's battle of the current season is slated to be played at the local ball bivouac Wednesday evening when the Kingston Ponies and the Belleville seniors tangle in a regular scheduled O.B.B.L. tussle. Two features stand out to attract the customers through the turnstiles for this particular game.

First, two of the most outstanding left-handed hurlers in the Central League are slated to oppose each other in the battle of opposite flingers. Big Ed McIvor for the locals and Jack "Chief" Williams for the Ponies. Of course this feature makes it hard for the home fans as both Williams and McIvor are great favourites among Belleville baseball fans and which hurler will receive the most verbal assistance will be hard to anticipate. For many years Jack Williams starred on the pitching mound in a Belleville uniform and always commanded the respect of local ball fans, wherever he was hopping his delivery it will be with interest to all lovers of the diamond game to see Williams in action, while Ed McIvor Belleville team mates for the first time has been a triple game star this season.

Opposing Williams we find Belleville's newest acquired hurler, Ed McIvor, who turned in the Cobourg Cherries best last week in a brilliant pitching effort. McIvor pitched himself into the hearts of local baseball fans and will doubtlessly retain that prestige against the Ponies. Williams and McIvor resemble each other on the hilltop as they are both very deliberate in the offerings and are pitchers of the first school.

Secondly the Ponies will be minus one or two of their regular players, Hewitt Smith, veteran third sacker of the league champions is indisposed with an injured shoulder, while Mickey Compeau's injured finger is still bothering him. While Oaklin and Ed Scrutton, two juniors filling in these vacancies in the Ponies infield, Manager Joe Daly may find the shedding more difficult than, when his veteran infield of Joyce, Elliott, Compeau and Smith are clicking it off to fashion. To date the local senior squad has been clubbing with a good brand of ball and Wednesday's game will be no exception.

Seven Records Fall As Women Compete

Montreal, July 7.—(CP)— Seven provincial records—in the Senior, Intermediate and Junior Divisions —fell yesterday as Quebec women and girls competed in the Provincial track and field championships.

Leading the assault on the old marks, the Pats relay team of Montreal set up a new 440-metre record at 50.8 seconds, bettering the old 53.4 mark. Among the individual seniors, Bunty Wilder of Kingston, Ont., formerly of Montreal, hung up a new eight-pound shot put record at 29 feet, 8 3-4 inches, ahead of the old one by 6 1-2 inches. The other senior mark went to Helen Ovenden who hurled the discus 94 feet, 8 1-2 inches.

Among intermediates Georgina Flanagan was the only one to set up a new standard, leaping 15 feet, 2 1-2 inches in the broad jump. The leap was close to five inches better than the former mark.

CURRENT SPORT

DAY BY DAY

It will be interesting to watch the reaction of local baseball fans, when the Ponies and the locals clash in a twilight fixture at the Fair Grounds on Wednesday evening. The reason we suggest the game will be more interesting than usual is the fact that Ed McIvor, Belleville's newly acquired south-paw, will oppose Jack "Chief" Williams, who for years was the idol of local baseball lovers. When McIvor subdued the Oshawa Chevies recently he won the admiration of local fans, but despite this fact Williams is still loved by all. Jamieson hurled the last game played by the Ponies so it is safe in assuming Williams will get the pitching assignment for the Dalyites. If both hurlers pitch up to form we are looking for a pitchers' battle that may equal or even better the Pointe-aux-Pins clash at Napanee on Saturday, and that was a honey.

Mickey Compeau, veteran shortstop for the Ponies personally assured us he would return to the line-up versus the locals here on Wednesday. "My finger is healed and I'll be in, there," predicted Compeau, but Manager Joe Daly modestly looked at him and smiled. Maybe Joe is saved as his nearly acquired services of Collis and Scrutton, both of these lads have had considerable junior and intermediate experience and have been playing with the Ponies for a fortnight. Hewitt Smith is definitely out of the line-up, as if Compeau's finger is still bad, Bill Elliott can move over to third and the two youngsters will cavort with Oaklin at second and Scrutton at short. The local squad worked out last night and will line-up Wednesday the same as they did the evening they whipped the Chevies.

Belleville's late victory in the C.O.B.B.L. has been in a twilight fixture, so let's hope they continue scheduling "night games" on Wednesday.

The Kingston club is running into no end of tough luck in their schedule this year. Already the Ponies have two postponed games, owing to rain, one with the Pros and the other with the Cheries. On top of this they have a tie game to play-off with the Oshawa nine. And there is no money in tie games. All of the postponements are at Kingston.

News dispatches revealed that nearly 400 persons lost their lives in the United States and Canada over the week end. A very large portion of these unfortunate persons were drowned, some for their own folly, some in calm present day and age there is really no excuse for persons, especially the younger generation, not being able to swim. For instance right in Belleville for the next two weeks the local Y.M.C.A. is conducting a free swimming lessons for all boys between the ages of 10 and 15 years. There are no strings attached to these swimming lessons, three qualified instructors will be with the boys in the "Y" pool each morning.

All ready nearly 60 teen aged boys have signified their intentions of taking these lessons. These free swimming instructions are under the supervision of Ralph Dafoe, Arthur Martin, Howard Kerr and Arthur Murphy, who have passed examinations before the National Lifesaving Board to teach life saving and swimming. With such an opportunity before them and the assurance of the proper supervision and protection, parents should only be too glad to send their children to the "Y" instead of allowing non-swimmers to plunge carelessly into open waters as is the case during the warm days of the summer months. Instructor Morden assures us his classes should all be able to swim well enough at the end of two weeks' instructions to permit them to swim out-of-doors without the safety of the parents being constantly concerned about them while their children are at play.

Today's baseball question has always been the seat of much controversy and we hope it will clear the matter once and for all. The question reads—Runner on first base, batter hits a grounder to shortstop, who throws to second in an attempt for a force play, but the runner slides to beg safely with all of a questionable decision by the umpire. Is batter credited with a hit or a fielder's choice? C. J. D. Toronto. His also states: Runners are on second and third. Batter hits a double play to infield—White to Smith, Left on base— Oshawa, 5; St. Mary's, 3. Umpires—Norm Curson and Joe Cawin.

Hog heat in Belleville next Monday night, George Harris, secretary of the Queensbury Club, has the number one wonderchap on hand added that if the show was staged they could promise them two real heavyweights for the card in Al Monroe and Ross Wright. Efforts to procure Ralph Kahea are being made, that is if the show goes on.

With only two games left to play in the local Industrial Baseball League, all teams in the loop are eligible for a play-off berth except the lowly Optical nine. Last evening the hopes of the Corbin nine were shattered some when the West End downed them 4 to 3 while the Belmonts fell before the Belleville Sargent to create a tie for first position between these two clubs. Play in the Industrial loop has been keen all season and the games while scathed witnessed by the fans. The secret of the success of the loop lies in the fact that the league title race is low relative to pacing individual teams, with all star players, thus assuring even competition throughout the season. The final games in the league are scheduled for Friday night following which the league play-offs will commence, Four of the six teams can qualify for the finals.

Casey Stengel, manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers, was in the city yesterday and reported that at the city hostel camp, "Strictly on a business trip," was Stengel's reply in a guessing game of who was the first to see in the community. (There is no truth in the rumour he was in town scouting one of the local C.O.B.B.L. talent, however).

The Oshawa Chevies played an exhibition game in the Big Five on Toronto last evening and were defeated 2 to 0 by the St. Marys Club. The largest crowd of the current season watched the game, nearly 5,000 fans filling the pews of Christie St. Jack Turner, Chevie right-hander, yielded but three singles and walked only one Toronto batter, yet he lost his game. "Just one reason why pitchers become greyhaired."

OSHAWA CHEVIES LOSE TO ST. MARYS

Toronto, July 7—Nearly 4,500 fans, the season's largest crowd, turned out to watch St. Mary's Juniors of the Western City Senior League defeat the Oshawa Chevrolet Motors, 2 to 0, in a fast, well-played game at Willowvale Park last night. It was a tight pitchers' battle between Jimmy Turner and Elmer Crowell, and while the former followed only three hits to Crowell's four, both pitchers in the last half of the sixth inning proved his downfall.

The Missing Man

by

Mary R. P. Hatch

"This idea of being my brother is, doubtless, another part of your strange life," said Mr. Blandford tartly, "but you may say nothing about that after awhile. Let me advise you to forget it at once—now. It may save you trouble."

"Then may you are not my brother?"

"No, I am not.

"You are not personating another man and laying claims to his wife, family, property and character?"

"Most certainly not."

"You did not try to end my life by a bullet, in that you might enjoy the rewards of your baseness?"

"I will deny that, also, if you wish and save leave me, and do not repeat these inquiries, I warn you."

"I leave you, but not in quiet possession of what does not belong to you, Recalled that. I shall not charge you with attempted murder for I hope and trust you are not responsible for the shot. It restored me to reason. But I shall regain my property, my family, and my name, and without another word or look at all either, Miss left the room.

"He is as crazy as a loon," said Mr. Carter.

"There's method in his madness, though, and it is only too evident that Constance believes the story," said Hamilton, gloomily.

"Perhaps not. In the present state of affairs, she told me, she thought it best to go away with the children; but that does not imply a belief in that madman's story."

"I hope you are right. But no matter. He will learn that I am not to be trifled with."

"I don't believe he could get a lawyer in the country to take his case if he should think of bringing a suit."

And Mr. Carter was right. The claimant went to nearly every lawyer in Grovedale and the adjoining town of Lincolnshire, but not one would incline his ear favourably to the suit. It was plain to be seen that there was neither profit nor favor in it, and more than one advised him to drop the matter. Old Squire Sherwood said to him:

"Now, take all old man's advice. Go no further, for suits are like curses, sometimes. They come home in roost. The case would certainly go against you and the next thing you would be indicted for perjury."

Mr. Sherwood you did not once look upon me as a man who would attempt to set up a false claim."

"I never knew you, Mr. Miss," said the lawyer, politely, "and my advice is good."

That night a letter reached Constance at the hotel.

Dear Constance: I did not mean to address you or ask for help. But what can I do? No lawyer will undertake my case. They think me poor without credit and an impostor. For your sake, for all our sakes, I cannot give up so. You have money. Will you risk it in making plain the mystery which perhaps may save my property is in the hands of a villain, though my own brother, and of course, I cannot use it. Think of it. He will use my money to fight my claims to it. Could this speak more ironically? Do your own judgment in helping me. I would not ask your aid if I could help it, for I know the act will be misinterpreted by many, if not by you. Can you advise me of anything better?

Your husband,

VANE HAMILTON.

Constance looked at the letter with alarm. A bold declaration those last lines! And he asked for her advice, evidently seeing nothing out of place in it nor in the request for monetary aid.

She sat a long time in deep thought, and then, with sudden resolution, dressed herself with exceeding plainness and went out on to the street, walking in the direction of the office of Morley & Stevens. Morley was the first lawyer in the county, and Stevens was scarcely less distinguished. They were the first to whom Miss had applied.

Mrs. Hamilton was well known to them and highly esteemed. Both members of the firm were, as it chanced, in the office, and both wondered, not a little, at her errand.

She did not give them long to speculate.

"I called to see you in regard to the rival claims of two men, each professing to be Vane Hamilton, my husband," she said, with much composure and dignity.

"Ah! Strange, very strange! Miss came to see me about that claim, but we dismissed him."

"I am sorry that you did."

"Sorry, madam, sorry, Mrs. Hamilton?"

"Yes. You perceive the case is a very special one. I would wish that it might be as ably conducted as if would be by you and Mr. Stevens upon one side and Stone & Ferguson on the other; for in that case I should know it would be well considered."

"You have doubts, then, I conclude, which is the real Vane Hamilton."

"I have. Even if these doubts were less slight than they are, I should wish for a thorough examination. Therefore, I wish you could be induced to alter your determination to act as counsel for the person known as Primus Rites. I will even go so far as to pledge myself to pay the costs."

"Indeed, you surprise me, madam."

"Ah, but you do not understand the wearing anxiety of my daily life. I would give much to have it over; and there is no way, is there, known to bring the matter to trial?"

"That is the best way," said Mr. Morley, glad to help in the matter.

"The other claimant," continued Constance, "has found his own counsel. Therefore, I have no need to aid him, but I wish to have everything brought to light, every circumstance weighed and to do this both sides would be well presented."

"Very true, madam."

"To, I understand that you will reconsider your refusal, Mr. Morley?"

"Undoubtedly. We will talk with the person hitherto known as Rites, and report to you later."

"Oh, thank you. You perceive, I think, that both sides of the matter concern me equally."

"Certainly; I had not looked at it in that light before, Mrs. Hamilton. Would you object to telling us which in your belief is your husband, for I perceive you are not certain?"

"No, strange as it may seem, I am not. The first claimant looks more like my husband, the other seems more like him in his ways, manners and speech."

"Have you tested them by inviting their recollections of incidents known only to yourself and Mr. Hamilton?"

"I have."

"And the result?"

"Neither has failed. Perhaps the recollections of Mr. Rites (I will call him so) are quicker. He claims to have recovered all his memory up to last May, while Mr. Hamilton, as he is called, owns to a vagueness sometimes, regarding names and incidents. But there is one thing in the other's favor. He explains why he went away every year in May, and Mr. Hamilton does not."

"Indeed."

"Yes; he went in search of his twin brother, stolen in childhood and supposed to be dead by all save his mother, who exacted on her death-bed the promise that he would spend two weeks each year in seeking for the brother."

"Does this look like a plausible explanation, Mrs. Hamilton?"

"It, in some aspects, Mr. Rites also claims that Mr. Hamilton is really Victor Hamilton, his twin brother for whom he searched so long."

"An ingenious story! Well, I must see this Rites who may, or may not be your husband, and talk with him. I confess I am beginning to feel great interest in the case, and will undertake it if I see my way clear. What do you say, Stevens?"

"I agree with you. Perhaps Mrs. Hamilton will give us other facts which may be of use to us. Have you any other good and cogent reason for thinking that Primus Rites, so called, is the true Vane Hamilton?"

"One other, but I should prefer not to speak of it to you. I never have to any one."

Mrs. Hamilton looked confused and embarrassed.

"You know," said Mr. Morley, "that a lawyer is much like a doctor: he should be trusted fully."

"But you will think me absurd."

"Never," said the lawyer, gallantly. "Mrs. Hamilton could not be absurd, even in thought. I owe I should be glad to hear this reason to which, I can see, you attach much consequence."

"I do. Well, I will tell you. Is your olfactory sense very keen?"

"I think not particularly," replied Mr. Morley, politely, and repressing his amusement. "Have you ever noticed that any person has a peculiar odor which is exhaled from his body?"

"I confess I never thought of it," said Mr. Stevens.

"But you know a dog will track his master's path by means of a multitude by means of it."

"True."

"Dogs have a more acute sense of smell than people, but many people have this sense in a far greater degree than others. You will admit that, for instance, can smell better than Mr. Morley. Yet as some people can hear or see better than others."

"Yes, your reasoning is good."

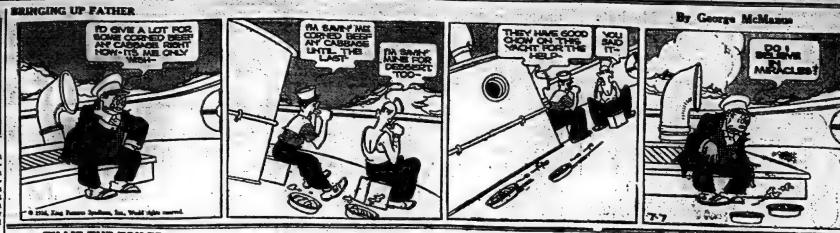
"I can smell scents that most people cannot. To me each person has an individual odor peculiar, personal and characteristic of them."

"Mrs. Hamilton, do your words imply that you have detected your husband through the means you describe so interestingly."

"Perhaps it would be not much to say, sir."

"I think not. At least such your opinion on the part of a dog or man (both can be given full weight many times. Please tell us what you thought about Mr. Hamilton, as called, returned."

"I thought it was he. I never doubted it until I recovered consciousness, for I fainted at the sight of him, in Mr. Allen's office. He knelt beside me and—and this odor of which I have spoken was strange to me. Had it been familiar I should never have doubted—never. It has been the means of making me mistrust his claims."



"This is marvelous, marvelous!" said Mr. Morley. "How does it strike you, Mr. Stevens?"

"We know by the sense of smell a dog can track a person long distances. We know, too, that many people have the olfactory sense strongly developed. Now, if Mrs. Hamilton is thus endowed—as no doubt she is—there should be nothing strange in her recognizing her husband through this sense. Still, as you say, it strikes one at first as marvellous, being so different from the usual course of affairs."

TORONTO INDUSTRIALS CLOSE

Toronto, July 7 (CP) — The industrial share section had points of strength today but volume continued on a small scale. Walker's common and Building Products featured the list and the construction groups, both adding about 1¼ points apiece. Some other liquors were steady to strong and Brewing was slightly lower. Banking issues to work higher were the Canada General stocks. The oils were unchanged to fractionally lower. C.P.R. were steady and International Nickel showed off less than half a point. Gains predominated in the base metals and utilities showed changes mainly on the down side.

Bell Telephone took a loss of a point, closing at 145 and Dominion Northern Power and International Utilities A declined fractions. His edition Bridge Pfd. dropped 2 and recessions of minor fractional proportions for Canadian Car, United Corporations and Dominion Bridge.

ONLY 9 BATSMEN FACE GREAT DIZZY IN THREE FRAMES

The Nationals as the "home" club were first to take the field.

The batting order:

THE PLAY

First Inning.

American—Appling struck out. Gehringer walked. Di Maggio hit into a double play, Whitehead to Dean to Collins—0 runs, 0 hits, 0 errors.

Nationals—Galan was called out on strikes with his bat on his shoulder. Herman smashed the first pitch to Rolfe for the first putout. He was under it for an easy out. With the count 1-0 and 2 balls, Collins walked on a fast ball that was inches outside. Medwick poled a long fly that Averill caught on the deep center. —0 runs, 0 hits, 0 errors, 1 left.

Second Inning.

American—Lou Gehrig walked on four straight pitches. With the count one and one, Averill lofted a high one that Durocher caught in short left. Dean displayed a lot of stuff and he fanned Ferrell on a fast ball and curve. Whitney Hayes drew Dean caught Gehrig napping at first and the Yankee captain was nagged on the Collins —0 runs, 0 hits, 0 errors.

Nationals—Demaree, Cub outfielder, got the first hit of the game as he smashed a single between Appling and Higgins. Gabby Hartnett's fine drive went through Di Maggio's legs for a three bag hit and Demaree raced home with the first counter of the game. Rolfe to Joe tried to make a shoestring catch of Whitehead's Texas Leaguer to Averill and Hartnett trotted home with another. Durocher hit to Gehringer and was beat out by a throw-out trying to stretch it, Whitehead taking third. Dean struck out, swinging—2 runs, three hits, 0 errors.

Third Inning.

American—Dahlgren was tossed out by Durocher. Higgins batter fouling several pitches, swung and missed a fast ball for the third strike. Grove fanned for Dean's third victim in the inning. The crowd gave Dizzy a big hand as he finished his three inning stunt without allowing a hit or a run. He faced only nine batsmen.—0 runs, 0 hits, 0 errors.

Fourth Inning.

Americans—Carl Hubbell, southpaw ace of the Giants and a pitching star of the 1934 all-star team, went to the box for the Nationals. Demaree made a long running catch of Appling's short foul near the stands. Gehringer walked a single to right for the Americans' first hit. There was some boos from the stands as Di Maggio came to the plate. Rookie Joe popped to Durocher after driving a long foul against the left field bleachers. Gehringer went to second and passed ball. Collins made a great stab of Gehrig's hot ground drive, juggled the ball, but recovered in time to toss to Hubbell for the putout.—0 runs, 1 hit, 1 error, 1 left.

Fifth Inning.

American—Averill popped to Herman. Rick Ferrell failed to solve Hubbell's screwball and struck out swinging. Radcliffe dropped a pop fly over Dahlgren's head for a Texas League single. Higgins fanned on a called third strike. — 0 runs, 1 hit, 0 errors, 1 left.

FIVE 90.— scoreboards ran

Nationalists—Rowe, pitching at the halfway point, the American league ball was quiet. Whitehead went behind the plate in place of Rolfeo as the umpires switched positions. Pitted Gehringer to Gehrig. Galan's long drive hit the top of the low right field wall. It caromed into the bleachers on the foul side, but was a home run despite the protest of the Americans. Herman slashed a hit to right and stalled at second and safe as DiMaggio fumbled the ball; it was scored as a single and error for the Yankee recruit. Collins, switching to the foul side of the plate, Medwick walloped a single through the left side of the infield scoring Herman and sending Collins to third. Demaree hit into a double play, Dahlgren to Gehringer to Gehrig.—2 runs, three hits, 1 error, 1 left.

Sixth Inning.

American—Rowe, trying to bunt, popped the ball between the first base line and the box and Hubbell made a diving catch. The pitcher finished full length on the ground as he made a great play. Appling lofted one to Galan. Gehringer walked and the crowd gave DiMaggio another tribute of the "Yankee Clipper" as he came to bat for the third time. Joe rapped the ball to Hubbell and was tossed out at first.—0 runs, 0 hits, 0 errors.

Nationals—Goose Goslin of the Tigers went to left field to replace Radcliff. Harnett went to third. Appling for Gehrig. Whitney fanned on a called third strike. Durocher popped to Gehrig.—0 runs, 0 hits, 0 errors.

Seventh Inning.

Americans — Curt Davis of the Cubs went to the box for the Nationals. Lou Gehrig greeted him with a home run on a drive that sailed into the bleachers in left field deep right field. Averill grounded out Herman to Collins. Bill Dickey of the Yanks lashed out a long double and grounded out Davis to Collins. With the count three and two, Goslin got a base hit on a grounder that Berman stopped but could not get the ball. Jimmie Foxx, first box first sacker and home run leader, replaced Higgins at bat and he lofted a high and hard smash that Durocher found and took for the second putout.—0 runs, 2 hits, 0 errors.

Nationals—Mel Harder went to the box for the Americans relieving Foxx on third base, Dickey behind the plate and Ben Chapman of the Yankees in center field. Chapman being grounded out, Harder to Gehrig. Galan fanned, swinging. Herman poled a long single to centre but his second attempt to steal was line filed to Goslin.—0 runs, 1 hit, 0 errors.

Eighth Inning.

Americans—Gehrig walked Chapman was thrown out, Whitney to Collins. The third sacker juggled Gehrig's hot grounder momentarily enough to nip the speedy Washington outfielder. Gehrig went to second on Dickey's out, Davis to Collins as Gehrig raced to third. Foxx was safe on a fielder's choice two quick strikes and then fanned on three pitched balls, Herman dismissed by a fook. 0 runs, 0 hits, 0 errors, 2 left.

Nationals—Medwick batted and was thrown out, Foxx to Gehrig. Ott, slugging Cincinnati outfielder Glenn batted for Demaree and poled a single past Appling. Hartnett lined to Appling and Ott scrambled back to first. Lew Riggs, Cincinnati third baseman, batted for Whitney and was called out on strikes. 0 runs, 1 hit, 0 errors, 1 left.

Ninth Inning.

ALDERMAN WELLS GIVES STATEMENT

more money in 1936 than in 1935. This statement is incontrovertibly true,—the figures speak for themselves. Any such idea is erroneous and misleading is simply foolish.

"As to the reason for this increase I have gone over the various reports submitted by the Superintendent for the last several years to the meetings of the Society, and in view of the facts that wards chargeable to the various Municipalities are not segregated in these reports, detailed figures are not readily obtainable therefrom. It will suffice to say however that the number of children in the Shelter and boarding on March 31st., 1936, at the end of Society's last year, was very substantially larger than that shown as being supported by public moneys at the end of any previous year. In addition to this, Mr. Rundle's own report shows an increase during the year ending October 31st., 1935, in the number for the year ending March 31st., 1936, of 13. It is interesting also to note that for the same periods, the applications for children numbered 30 and 220 respectively. In the former of these years, board and lodging was not paid at the rate of $2.50 per week. No doubt Mr. Rundle will have explanations for these figures as well but I do not believe any such increase can be served by carrying on a public investigation of the facts and figures of the work of the local Children's Aid Society beyond granting it forthwith to the attention of the Public Health Committee for report and valuable work done by them. It was not my intention to transgress the Society's work in dollars and cents but simply to point out to the taxpayers of this city once more that is requiring more of their money than this Council has.

Praised Society

"For the work of the Society I have nothing but praise,—I never suggested anything else,—although I may question the method by which now it it appears to authorize the building of a private residence for those who provide the funds for the Society to spend. I am particularly amazed at the finance committee, the whole if present Mr. Hutton refers as the executive committee), men of the standing in Toronto mentioned by Mr. Rundle, Mr. W. J. Ferguson, Mr. J. B. Findlay, Mr. E. R. McBride, Mr. Howard Frost, and Mr. W. F. Illey authorizing. They never did such a letter to be written. I have always had the impression that Mr. Rundle was a subordinate of the Board of the Society. I have as yet no reason whatever to believe otherwise. I fully understand the reason for his writing the letter, which explains for his raising the question of what Government was responsible for the increase in boarding out children. I do not consider it part of my duties as Alderman for this city to comment, on the wisdom or otherwise of any Government policy. But if that policy does cost the taxpayers of this city more than it formerly did, it is my duty to draw it to their attention and to call for an explanation before to an increase in an already high tax rate. And yet the figures in these statements were made without color or right. As to the details or per diem costs of children, that is a matter for the C.A.S., and not this council to deal with. This committee was made upon the matter of a by-law to call for an appropriation equally between the present and the next calendar year, and I believe I am carrying out the public investigation of the facts and figures of the Children's Aid Society when I say that I have nothing but praise for the work of the Society and that I am particularly interested in the welfare of the children in the Shelter and the work which is being done for them. In this connection I may say that I have received numerous letters from ladies who have visited the Shelter and are taking a keen interest in the welfare of the

KING INSPECTS ROYAL AIR PORTS USING OWN PLANE

Machine is Painted Blue and Red, Household Brigade Colors

FOURTH FLIGHT

Monarch Manifests Keen Interest in Finding Station

London, July 8 (CP)—The King made an hydroplane trip, flying in his own private plane to make an inspection of several stations of the Royal Air Force.

He was accompanied in a flight from Windsor to Northolt, and then to Wittering by the Duke of York, both piloting their own planes.

The plane in which the King and Duke brother flew was painted blue and red, the household, brigade colors. His Majesty wore a light blue uniform as Chief of the Air Force. Also he wore for the first time the new Royal Air Force cap, with a coloured flat peak cap for officers. The King had his cap on a baseball game in a park here and socked the first ball pitched to him over the right-field fence.

St. Louis, July 8 (CP)—Because his delivery horses work in the early morning hours, Joseph Lee, the head of the day's dairy here has installed electric fans in the stables.

Columbus, Tex., July 8 (CP)—Oscar Crawford, 68, received his first flight in an airplane. Pasadena charges for $12, and soon separated at the conclusion with Crawford and Lydia Heverneman at his side as the plane left for the first marriage license.

Paris refused to agree it will be the bride's father appears and consented. He nodded approval while the couple stood before the wedding ceremony. Immediately the groom's $3-acre farm near here.

London, July 8 (CP Havas) — King Edward today approved the appointment of Sir Eric Phipps as Envoy to Moscow, succeeding the Right Honorable Viscount Chilston.

Lavenia, Ga., July 8 (CP)—An airplane dropped to a near landing on a bridge highway near here and taxied up to a filling station. Seeing station.

"Fill her up," said the pilot to an astonished attendant.

The attendant complied with the order but before he thought to ask his customer's name the bonehalant flier had taken off down the road and taken off again.

Bonarlaw Woman Recognizes Her Son

Chatham, July 8 (CP)—During one of her periods of consciousness yesterday, Mrs. Silles of Bonarlaw, near Belleville, recognized her son, William, for the first time, in hospital here where he is under treides here.

Mrs. Silles has been in a serious condition in hospital here since Friday when she was found on the Canadian National Railway tracks just west of the station. It is believed she fell from a train while en route to Chatham to pay her son a surprise visit.

Authorities are waiting for her to recover in the hope she will be able to find some light on her mishap.

Mystery Legend on Shell of Egg Seen Omen of Troubled Era

Lindsay Apostolic Preacher Preaches on Message "Jesus Comes"

DRAINS, EATS EGG

Lindsay, Ont., July 8 (CP)—Because a farmer found a egg with the legend "Jesus comes" embossed on its shell, many Lindsay district people today foresaw troubled times for the world, prominent among them Mrs. Ray R. A. Dawson, Apostolic Church minister, who drained and ate the egg's contents. But first he preached a sermon Sunday and took as his text the inscription on the egg.

"I believe the egg is a warning of the second coming of Christ," Mrs. Dawson said, and added it was his belief the egg was a sign of "the last days as we are told in the Bible that there will be signs in diverse places."

Since broken by a man who sought to photograph it, the egg was found by Mrs. R. J. Copeland under a bush near her husband's farm near Lindsay. Before night fell, however, somebody stole sixty of his plenty plant black bees, Mr. Copeland's farm to see it. Besides the inscription quoted, the shell bore other indistinguishable markings.

NEWS BRIEFS AND ODDITIES

Niagara Falls, Ont., July 8 — (CP)—Jean Lussier says he plans to go over the Falls in a ball on Labor Day—but, however, will not be seen by the public until this week's baby fair date.

Asked about it, Lussier said: "Here I've got it now." It's there on a farm near Lockport. I don't dare reveal the actual location. Police might get to know it. It's the same ball I had ready to use in 1930 and I'll have a passenger used a blue print of it some weeks ago.

Westville, N.S., July 8 (CP)—Babe Ruth, enjoying a fishing trip in the district, showed several local baseball players here he can still knock the ball over the fence. He played a baseball game in a park here and socked the first ball pitched to him over the right-field fence.

St. Louis, July 8 (CP)—Because his delivery horses work in the early morning hours, Joseph Lee, the head of the day's dairy here has installed electric fans in the stables.

$25,000 BLAZE AT PETERBORO

70 Finished Boats and Warehouse of Johnson Motor Co. Burn

Peterborough, Ont., July 8 (CP)—The storehouse of the Johnston Outboard Motor Co. and the entire stock of several finished boats were destroyed by fire early today at an estimated loss of $25,000.

Fire Chief George Gimbott said he suspected incendiarism since this was the third blaze in the plant in the last two months.

The fire was a spectacular one. Burning of the newly finished boats, dry and painted, lighted up the sky and the blaze could be seen for miles. A second alarm brought out the city fire brigade, but the building and supplies were also lost in the fire.

Two weeks ago the plant of the Peter Hamilton Implement Co. was destroyed in another early morning blaze, only about a month ago the storage shed of the Canadian Canoe Foundry Co. were destroyed.

Because of the fire scare in the southeast today, the yards of the Peterborough Lumber Co., adjacent to the Johnston plant, were saved.

EDEN PREPARES SPEECH

London, July 8—(CP-Havas) — Foreign Secretary Eden was in seclusion at a country retreat today as Foreign Office experts worked on his speech setting out British policy in preparation for the Locarno Conference late this month.

CANADIAN SOLDIER KILLED WITH SIX IN CAIRO CRASH

Troop Carrying Plane of R.A.F. Cracked up in Landing

CAUSE UNKNOWN

Lt. Douglas E. MacIntosh, Victim, is Son of Judge MacIntosh

Cairo, Egypt, July 8 (C.P. Cable) —Seven soldiers, including one Canadian, were killed early today when a Royal Air Force troop-carrying plane crashed in landing after night manoeuvres.

The Canadian was Lieut. D. E. MacIntosh, of the Canadian Corps of Signals. He was understood to be in Egypt for a year on interchange duty.

The other dead:

Capt. S. E. Barford, Essex Regiment; Capt. the Hon. C. O. Hassall; Aircraftman J. White.

All of the dead belonged to Squadron No. 216. Six other occupants of the plane were injured and taken to hospital.

The plane burst into flames after it crashed in the darkness, but preliminary investigation indicated the victims were killed by the impact and not burned to death.

The machine, a stalled, at Heliopolis. It was carrying out night exercises with the Canadian unit of the army in the western desert near Mersa Matruh, when the crash occurred at the edge of the airdrome.

Cause of the crash was not immediately determined but experts began a technical investigation.

Ottawa, July 8 (CP) — Lieut. Douglas E. MacIntosh of the Canadian Corps of Signals, killed last night in Egypt in the crash of a troop-carrying plane, was the son of Judge C. C. MacIntosh, of Victoria, B.C. He was born in Tecumseh, Ont., on June 27, 1911, and graduated from the Royal Military College in 1930 and McGill University in 1932.

Lieut. MacIntosh joined the Canadian Signal Corps in 1932, going to England in October, 1935, on exchange duty. He went to Egypt two months later where he had been stationed since.

THREE DROWNINGS IN HEAT WAVE

St. Norbert Scene of Two And Red River Claims Third

Winnipeg, July 8.—(CP)— Three drownings in Manitoba in two days as the hottest weather of the year to wave that has enveloped the Prairie and Lakes region brought temperatures here.

Miss Victoria Pelletier, 30, of Valley River, Man., drowned yesterday in the Red River near St. Norbert, 10 miles south of Winnipeg, and James Dunn, 24, drowned in a gravel filled with water near Miami, 75 miles south of Winnipeg. Henri Gaudet, Winnipeg, also was drowning in the Red River in Winnipeg on Monday while bathing.

Royal Arsenal Explosion Causes Death of 5 Persons

London, July 8 (AP)—An explosion in the research department of the Royal Arsenal at Woolwich late today killed five persons, one a department official.

One employee was injured seriously.

Five detonations from the town of a metropolitan borough of London, aided arsenal squads in combatting flames which broke out after the blast.

Cause of the explosion at the great arsenal however, was not immediately made known.

Officials at the War Office said subsequently the explosion was purely accidental and that there was no mention of sabotage.

The victims were conducting an experiment.

The department official listed was Lieut. Commander P. A. M. Long, who had been employed in the arsenal thirteen years. He served in war-time as a sub-Lieutenant in the Berwick on the West Indies station.

Fire brigades from the Woolwich area were called to assist the arsenal squad.

The Woolwich Arsenal is nine miles from the centre of London. There are extensive barracks for the Royal Artillery, the Royal Army Service Corps and other units.

It is the largest arsenal in Great Britain, covering 560 acres and employing 14,000 men in normal time.

The Royal Military Academy, known to the service as "The Shop" is located on a common, south of the town.

Woolwich itself is a metropolitan borough of London, on the Thames

$4,000,000 Estate in Holland May Fall to Benjamin Duvall, Father of Belleville Citizen

90 Year Old Will May Bring Vast Fortune to John Robt. Duvall

DUVALL PHILOSOPHIC

From grimy roundhouse mechanic to a life of leisure and wealth made possible through his share of an estimated $4,000,000 estate and unsolicited concern in Holland, a land he has never seen.

That is the present hope and dream of John Robert Duvall, well known Cahuinton Road resident, as recently presented in a test of the legacy which apparently awaits him in Belleville and in which he will directly share.

Although a claim to the vast fortune, which was formally established, complete investigation of the legacy and will has now been commenced by Benjamin Durfin, Galt, Ontario, elderly father of the local resident.

"We're not counting any chickens before they're hatched, but we have hopes—high hopes," declared John Robert Duvall yesterday to a Daily Ontario Intelligencer reporter who sought him out at his modest home just north of the city limits.

Mrs. Eva Holland

"It appears from what we already know that all of the money is for one or more of us to go to Holland and establish our claim. The estate and concern have been handled carefully for the past two years by executors and it is quite possible they will advance the funds necessary to bring the claimants to Holland. I've been completely arranged for in

VETERANS TO PLACE WREATH ON MEMORIAL

When Prince Edward County veterans leave for Prescott this month to attend the unveiling of the Canadian War Memorial at Vimy Ridge, they will carry with them a beautiful wreath, a gift from the residents of the county to be placed on the Canadian War Memorial and dedicated to the county men who were killed in action during the Great War.

Dr. C. B. Stothers, I.P.S. will be the official representative and place the wreath on the memorial immediately following the unveiling of the impressive monument by his Majesty, the King; on July 30th.

According to a report from Picton a dedicatory service at which councillors and councillors will be present as well as the general public, will be held in Monument Park, Picton on Sunday morning.

Picnickers Enjoy Day At Weller's Bay

With over one hundred children and grownups in attendance, members of the Sunday School of St. Paul's Anglican Church, St. Paul St. held their annual Sunday School picnic at Weller's Bay recently.

Leaving at 10 a.m. in motor conveyances the party arrived in time to enjoy a delicious picnic dinner which was followed by a sport program with prizes awarded to competitors participating.

Officials of the Sunday School are gratefully appreciative to those who generously donated motor vehicles, also to donors of prizes for the various sport events.

LINDSAY LEGIONNAIRES GIVE PART OF COST

Claiming it should not be necessary to raise funds through the medium of a tag day, to renovate the local war memorial, Lindsay Legionnaires and members of the militia regiment have offered to donate 50 per cent of the cost. The work, costing $100 will be done in the near future, it was stated.

CITY TRAFFIC OFFICER PRAISED FOR WORK

A note of appreciation for the work performed by local Motorcycle Patrolman Douglas Hills in clearing Victoria Park of undesirables is expressed by members of the Belleville Board of Parks Commission. In recent years the gathering place for transients and at times noisy, members of the commission say that being kept cleared by the officer, who makes regular daily rounds. This year the park has become the favorite location for automobile picnickers and tired housewives.

Increase of Water Consumption Reported

Thirsty Belleville in an attempt at beating the heat has continued heat wave is accounting for an average consumption of from two and one half to three million gallons of water a day at the present time. As a result the pumps are now pointed out by Manager E. T. Austin, an increase or 30 million gallons of water was reported for the month of June alone, recorded as the local pumping station at the highest increase over any similar period since the construction of the filter.

Marched back yard gardens, increasingly popular beds, tubs and shower baths, the habit of attending tape to run in an attempt at cooling the drinking water supply and kindred mechanical habits of heat conscious residents are all attributable to the daily increasing consumption, it was stated.

MANY SWIMMERS AT VICTORIA PARK

Balmy breezes, warm sunshine, warmer water and summer holidays has resulted in a greatly increased attendance of swimmers on Victoria Park during the past week or so. At present daily average attendance of swimmers, supervised by lifeguard, George Semark, has reached the high total of from 300 to 350, many of whom are small children making the first rudiments of the lessons and swim will be given by the chief labor under the direction of the Department of public works.

DIVING TOWER IN PROGRESS OF ERECTION

Piles are being donated by Mayor Harry Hill, which will be used in the construction of a tall diving tower at the east of Victoria Park, have now been placed on the ground and work of construction on the tower is expected to commence within the next few days. Work of erection will be in charge of the chief labor under the direction of the Department of public works.

Unemployed Reticent About Taking Farm Jobs

With a view to securing employment on the highways, with the "Unemployed Single Men" seeking unemployed men are reticent about farm jobs at this period of the year, according to a report emanating from employment bureaus.

A noticeable lack of applications for domestic positions on the part of experienced women in local girls has been a feature of the past month, although many applications for positions as mother helper have been received from younger girls now leaving schools.

Clerical and white collar jobs are at a premium, many applications being on file. Experienced factory help position appears with over twenty unemployed stenographers on the local bureau waiting list.

"IRON SECOND" TO HOLD REUNION

Meet in Ottawa in August And March to Parliament Hill

While several thousand of the war veterans who saw service in France and Flanders will be on the Vimy Pilgrimage, several hundred members of the 2nd Canadian Infantry Battalion C.E.F., which saw service from Ypres to Cambrai on a score of battlefields, will be in Ottawa from July 31st to August 2nd for a Reunion.

The Reunion of the surviving members of the "Old Iron Second" as the battalion was popularly termed, has been a periodical event. This year the meeting place of the famous unit is to be in Ottawa, under the auspices of the Ottawa Branch of the 2nd Battalion Association, of which Major Harry H. Hester is the President. He has arranged an interesting programme for the Reunion. The regimental quarters of the Governor General's Foot Guards, the perpetuating unit of the 2nd Battalion, is to be the chief assembly point. On Saturday afternoon, August 1st, the full band of the G.G.F.G. will give a concert. In the evening there is to be a dinner at the Chateau Laurier at which Mayor Stanley Lewis of Ottawa and other well known notables will be guests.

On Sunday morning, August 2nd the 2nd Battalion Colors will be in the Armouries at ten o'clock and march to Parliament Hill for a memorial service in memory of the many of the unit who left the soils of the Dominion, who have died since. Rev. F. Mason of Toronto, a former section man in the unit will conduct the service after which a wreath is to be laid at the Cenotaph in remembrance in the Memorial Chamber by a specially appointed ceremony.

Two of the former commanding officers of the battalion will be at the Reunion, Lieut.-Colonel Arthur A. E. Swift and Lieut. Colonel A. T. Ashdown, D.S.O. Chairman of the latter being in command at the time of the Armistice and demobilization.

An interesting historical sketch of the 2nd Battalion C.E.F. was written by Capt. W. W. Murray, M.C., and will be in the hands of the Reunion programme. Capt. Murray will, however, not be present as he will be on the Vimy Pilgrimage. He is about 18 months he was Adjutant of the unit.

This Reunion promises to be an eventful affair in Ottawa.

DR. CARLETON OF STIRLING, NAMED

DR. NIEMEIER OF HAMILTON VISITS KIWANIS CLUB

Lieutenant Governor of District Gives Interesting Address

TO OPEN PLAYGROUNDS

Junior Baseball Team Possessors of New Uniforms

The official visit of Dr. O. W. Niemeier, F.R.C.S., Hamilton, Lieutenant-Governor of the Ontario Maritime district, the initiation of two new members, the discussion of plans for the opening of the East and West Hill Playgrounds and arrangements completed for the taking to camp of 100 boys and girls made the Kiwanis luncheon on Tuesday at the Queen's Hotel a memorable one. Congratulations and expressions of appreciation for the venture were expressed by Clare Yerman, president of the Picton Club, who was an honored guest with the Lieutenant-Governor. The attendance was one of the largest for some time and the singing of "O Canada" and Kiwanis and instructive address on Kiwanis aims and ideals by the special guest of honor. The luncheon was presided over by Frank Domenico, with Cliff Thompson acting as sergeant-at-arms. Harold Seldon as song leader, and Leo Higgs as pianist. Some of the songs sung at the International Convention at Washington were tried and the boys performed excellently on the first workout.

Frank Seldon, the secretary for the district and former secretary of Hamilton Kiwanis Club, was present also, also a brother of Harold Seldon of Belleville. Guests at the luncheon and was warmly welcomed. Frank is an enthusiastic Kiwanian and besides Harold, in charge of the construction at the Playgrounds for the East Hill and is the same in the Belleville Club.

Splendid Donation

A donation of magnificent proportions was announced by George Hall, chairman of the Kiwanis baseball team. George stated that the baseball property owned by the Alemite had been donated to the club by Art Young. The manager of that baseball club, Fred Deacon had supplied the crests, the Modern Cleaners had washed and cleaned the suits. One was exhibited at the luncheon amid hearty applause. The speaker, however, forgot to announce that he had repaired all of the baseball gloves were taken to the cleaners.

Bobbie Shapiro distributed blank forms in order that members could secure information for the Camp committee as to who were going to choose to enjoy the camp at Moira Lake. The camp will be under the details and there is no doubt the children will have a glorious time. Two hundred and fifty underprivileged girls and boys, two to be chosen by each member of the club. All expenses will be borne by the Club, excepting some incidentals which the parents will be asked to bear. This is a real worthwhile effort on the part of the Kiwanis Club.

Praised Work of Club

Dr. Niemeier was introduced to the Club by George Griffin and Kiwanian appreciation was expressed by F. C. Sealock. The speak-er was delighted with the reception given him and stated he was delighted to attend on his official visit. He stated that the record of the Belleville Club was known throughout the district and their latest venture of providing playgrounds for the youth of Belleville was a most wonderful objective and he was sure, that the members would be fully repaid in the years to come. The speaker also referred to the other work done by the Club which included scholarships, juvenile softball and hockey, Y.M.C.A. work and camps and lastly the helping of crippled children and paid a compliment to the medical profession for their help for their unselfish service to their behalf.

"But," he said, "there is another lofty ideal that is keeping Kiwanis alive and that is the code known as the Golden Rule. In the world today there is widespread confusion and industrial disturbance discord and distress and there is a total lack of moral sense of responsibility between nations but the relationships between Christian living is materialistic age and there were so many gadgets by the improvement of which life would be ruined. We have developed a mania for speed and consequently accidents have become an immoral race. Racketeering is prevalent and dishonesty among our youth and there can be no better work than that which the Kiwanians are engaged in. The logical agency to check these evils is the church but the body does not function as much headway.

Club attendance is at a low ebb and only ten percent in London, England, attend church on Sunday and the family Bible is becoming extinct. These conditions are challenges to the Kiwanians and with renewed strength and a cooperation of purpose must meet and overcome," said the speaker in conclusion.

At the close of the luncheon Mac McVeigh and Clarence Jeffrey of Church Street, Toronto, and Lieutenant Governor, being introduced to the Club by Biddle Logan and Cliff Sargant.

TOURISTS PRAISE LOCAL BUREAU

Headquarters at Fireman's Park Attracts Hundreds

That the Tourist Information Bureau established at what is commonly known as Firemen's Park is proving a long-felt want is evidenced in the large number of enquiries from tourists, motorists and otherwise who have taken advantage of the service offered by the bureau.

Since its inception a few weeks ago, when only tourists, for the most part American, passed through Belleville, the Bureau facilities and registered their names in considerable numbers, and as greater number, have taken advantage of the "curb service" provided by the bureau.

Nearly every state in the union and practically every province of Canada is represented on the bureau, with some coming as far away as Florida and Mexico. Canadian visitors from the distant Rockies have stopped en route to eastern destinations.

We not only provide service to tourists from the far-away places," said Vernon Orr, bureau manager, but we have established a special service for local people desirous of going to any point within the district. There is a complete list of every motor camp and popular stopping ground in the counties of Hastings and Prince Edward.

"We have had several complaints from tourists regarding street signs on No. 2 highway at Front and Bridge Streets," he continued, "this is the street that tourists inevitably take the wrong turn. Only this morning we redirected several who had taken the wrong direction, while enroute to Toronto."

"This, however, has been reported to the Ontario Tourist Publicity Bureau and understand measures are under way to remedy this situation.

"Fine service, congratulations, and the complimentary remarks inscribed on the register of the Bureau is appreciated," concluded tourist this morning.

New York State was tops yesterday with 16 cars stopping enroute to holiday spots. Pennsylvania with 9 ran second while Ohio was represented by 7.

Far-away California and British Columbia cards were noted with a good representation from the sunny south.

Victims, apparently of a not-so-funny joker, were treated to expensive fishing tackle, sauntered through the store with their prize and politely reported to be had at the "Four Corners" fishing grounds. They informed that their obvious destination was apparently the marshes, the village tourists, a little creatilleer, smiled and decided to procure their fish dinner from the top of a nearby restaurant table.

Lindsay Hydro Board Member is Disqualified

Lindsay, July 8—Judg J. A. McGibbon handed down judgment Tuesday ruling that Mayor A. Dick-son, Lindsay Hydro Commissioner, is disqualified as a member of the commission because he accepted work and remuneration from the Commission while a member of that board contrary to the Public Commission Act.

The action was brought against Dickerson by a local electrician, Charlie Cole, who claimed electrical fans in Lindsay placed at a disadvantage by Dickerson, also an electrician, accepted work for the Commission. The action followed the installation of a number of electric fans which were made by the Commission.

Action has been started by Mr. Dickerson to unseat merchant members of the Town Council who, he says, are accepting civic business.

Dickerson added he would attempt to disqualify the whole Town Council. "I claim that it is illegal for any member of the Town Council to vote for the payment of an account to a member of the council," he said.

U. S. FISHERMAN COMES TO COUNTY

Switches Allegiance From Kawartha Lake District

After having journeyed to the Kawartha Lakes district for the past thirty years, and after fishing and camping trip, C. F. Hunter, 1004 Mount Pitt, Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, has switched his allegiance, to some of the more favoured locations of the Kawartha.

In a letter received by Mr. J. O. Hertig, manager of the local Board of Trade, Mr. Hunter, a member of Commerce, a query is addressed regarding the possibility of securing suitable camping equipment in the City of Belleville.

"The writer intends to be general among a good many potential visitors to the district that Commerce, and particularly one large store in that city is the only place this equipment can be secured. If it is possible to purchase, what we need in your city, I would be glad to be advise all my Pittsburgh friends," stated the writer.

"For the past thirty years I have been going to the Kawartha Lakes district on my vacation, and, camping and going, I have stopped in Trenton and Peterborough to make purchases of woollens, blankets, etc. This year, however, I spoilt it as I found, when I examined my purchases, they were "Made in Germany". After putting them in use I found also that they shrunk or were otherwise spoilt, which I had been getting in past years.

"Buying Canadian made goods in Ontario or anywhere else is just taking money from our people who need it—How come?" asks Mr. Hunter.

Information that he could purchase any needed article in the camping line in the city was immediately forwarded by Mr. Hertig.

POLICE BLOTTER

A Kitchener motorist was hailed by police and failed to produce his ownership license for the motor car which he was driving yesterday afternoon. He was being questioned by Sergeant Harmon, when it was discovered that the motorist's driving license had expired. A slight fender damage resulted and the matter was amicably settled by the motorist paying for the repairs.

A number of motor car owners found police stickers on the windshields of their vehicles this morning for alleged violation of all night parking by-law in Belleville. The offenders were instructed to report to the police station.

Earlier Tuesday night a hot last night six transients applied at the police station in search of a night's lodging. No arrests were necessary in Belleville during the past twenty four hours while adjacent highways were free from serious motor accidents. The Motorcycle called reported today.

STUDENT DIES OF INJURIES

Toronto, July 6 (CP)—Sam Grant, 22, first year medical student, died in hospital today from injuries suffered Saturday when a Sedan automobile ran on the sidewalk and knocked him down.

Victor Himmelfarb, walking with Grant, was injured. Himmelfarb was thrown on the road and was found by police suffering from a broken leg. Himmelfarb was thrown through a plate glass window and suffered cuts about the head, face and legs.

Four youths in the car were arrested on charges of auto theft. They are Frank Connolly, 17; Peter Connolly, 18; Roland Pratt, 18, and Henry Alexander, 18. They are scheduled to appear in court Friday.

They drove 950 miles. Mr. and Mrs. James Whalen, of Stone, were the oldest married couple present having been married forty-five years.

D. BANNISTER TO HANG FOR MURDER

On Second Trial, Jury Finds Accused Who Is Guilty

Rochester, N.B., July 7 (CP)—Two brothers lay under the death sentence in this village today, convicted of murder in Westmoreland county's kidnap-killing plot that cost three lives last winter.

Daniel and Arthur Bannister, alleged to have killed three people in abducting a baby for their mother, were to die little more than a month apart. Found guilty for the second time of murdering Philip Lake, Daniel had night watch set for execution date set at September 22.

Allen now only hearer of a reprieve, Arthur must hang August 20. His appeal for a new trial turned down, his life was extended that he might be available for testimony at his brother's second trial.

The two were accused of killing Lake, Lake's mistress and his bailiff boy Jackie at Pacific Junction, a few miles from here in January. The crown claimed the crime was instigated by Mrs. May Bannister, their mother, that she wanted Lake's baby girl Betty so she could extort money from two Moncton, N.B., men.

Betty was found in Mrs. Bannister's aside in Moncton, and the mother went to penitentiary for "harboring" her.

AGED MAN SENTENCED

Brockville, Ont., July 7 (CP)—John D. Byrne, 72, of Mallorytown was sentenced today to serve one year in the Ontario Reformatory on a charge of indecent assault affecting a girl of seven years. Arthur Broadbent, also of Portland, was remanded until July 10 on a similar charge affecting a 12-year-old girl.

FINDS ALL-BRAN BETTER THAN PILLS, SALTS, AND OILS

This Natural Food Relieved His Constipation*

We quote from his letter: "... So I decided to make a fair trial (of Kellogg's ALL-BRAN), with the result that I felt much improved. I have quit all laxatives since then."

*For 34 years, I had to take pills, salts, oils, teas, or other fluids, which did more harm than good. ALL-BRAN now is my breakfast cereal for the whole family."—Mrs. Martin Wrobiewski (address upon request).

Meals low in "bulk" often lead to constipation. Kellogg's ALL-BRAN provides generous "bulk" which absorbs moisture, forms a soft mass, and gently exercises and cleanses the system. ALL-BRAN also furnishes vitamin B and iron.

Two tablespoonfuls daily are usually sufficient. How much better to use this natural food in place of patent medicines.

Use as cereal with milk or cream, or in cooking. ALL-BRAN is much more effective than part-bran products. It is sold by all grocers. Made by Kellogg in London, Ont.

*Constipation due to insufficient "bulk" in meals.

THE GIFTS OF KIWANIS

Today on two playgrounds dedicated to the use of children of the schools of Belleville, fetes took place which marked one of the largest ventures of the Kiwanis Club on behalf of the boys and girls of Belleville, with the provision of buildings and equipment purchased out of the club's fund which is being used for community and social work in the city. On these grounds today were gathered many hundreds of the young who for the first time had opportunity to come to a full realization of what the efforts of the club have wrought in their behalf.

Work of this kind is to be commended for it brings its own great reward in improved opportunities for exercise, and for supervised play, for light and air, and for the creation of civic and community spirit. Among the parents today on these grounds were those who recalled when childhood and youth did not receive so much attention as they do in this age.

When years ago the late Thomas Ritchie gave incentive to work among children by the presentation of playgrounds in East and West Belleville and made a magnificent contribution in the Children's Shelter, he launched a work which has been steadily bearing fruit. His little children and the younger portion of the adult population of today owe a debt to that man and to all those others who have been carrying on the work through the agency of the women's institutes and through the co-operation of the Board of Education. Today the Kiwanis Club stands as one of the outstanding contributors to the all-round development of childhood and youth.

Words cannot too highly endorse the work of this organization, which is marked with intense zeal and activity.

THE NATIONAL ANTHEM

Anyone who believes the National Anthem is the expression of the national and the Empire life must approve of the stand of the Department of National Defence as communicated through No. 3 Military District that the National Anthem must be played with due dignity. Special reference was made to the fact that some military bands are playing marches consisting of medleys including the National Anthem and other medleys.

The National Anthem is in reality a prayer as the first line indicates and to almost everyone it is and will remain so. Hence the requirement that it be played with due dignity and solemnity. All who have participated in patriotic assemblies know the spirit of these gatherings—when the playing of the National Anthem is in reality the expression of devotion to one's country.

SCOTSMEN IN NEW YORK PULPITS

Many visiting British clergy and ministers occupied New York pulpits on Sunday. Men must learn the wonder of small things, according to the Rev. Joseph Buchanan of the Ralston Church at Paisley, Scotland, preaching at Mount Washington Presbyterian Church, New York. "It is natural to admire great things. We are much impressed by them. The historian as well as the common man is impressed by the Pyramids or by the fabric of the Roman Empire. But we must also learn the wonder of small things. Small things are the elements out of which great things are composed, and the best measure of their importance."

Another visiting Scot in New York, Rev. G. H. Dick, chaplain to the Governor General of Cunningsburgh, Shetland, Scotland, preached at West End Presbyterian Church, on self-denial. "It is not the large self-denials that are trying, but the steady levels of daily life. The momentary trials and little irritations we meet every day test us most and are harshest to meet in the best spirit. Our problem is how to deal with them in such a way that they will be an influence for good rather than evil. We meet not only to be self-controlled but also God-controlled."

Dwellers on earth live on an island and their views and policies are those of "islanders", said the Rev. Dr. Frederick Norwood at Broadway Congregational Tabernacle. He is the president of the Free Church Council of Great Britain and Wales, and until recently pastor of the city temple of London, England. God created the splashing splendor of the heavens, and "dotted in the earth a miniature by the Supreme Artist. Yet in some way we are apt to think of it as if it were a disintegrated fragment of the universe. We are beginning to realize that the earth is an island, embosomed in a vast universe. We make guesses as to how we came to be on it, but there is no conceivable way we can get off it. As men and women we are are marooned upon it." He declared that man used instruments of precision and laboratories "to reduce the universe to a handful of primary elements and tell each other there is nothing more in it than that. Likewise a man can reduce all Shakespeare's plays to 26 letters of the alphabet if the plays are taken apart. Dr. Norwood denounced the use of high science to destroy and kill and he sees the world outtigering the tiger, "and they will again". This he called going back to the jungle.

FOUND THE WAY TO GRIN

Oh, I know a sight that's bigger
Than a Shriner's jeweled pin:
It's a crippled little figure
Who has found the way to grin.
It's a little back made stronger
Than it ever was before,
And a lighter heart and brighter
Face a'gleaming at the door.

It's a spine that once was twisted
Being made a real good spine,
And the surgeons then assisted
By the members of the Shrine.
We all sit down here to labor,
Make the earth a better place—
To be more and more the neighbor
As we share life's common race.

And our laughter shall be sweeter
And our fun more worth while
By the ripples of the cripples
We are helping now to smile.
Let me say it, loud and louder,
By each strengthened hip and spine,
I am just a little prouder
Of my fez and of my Shrine.

THE ABOVE POEM WAS SENT THIS COLUMN by W. Cecil Grieves, Illustrious Potentate of Gizeh Temple, Ancient Arabic Order Nobles of the Mystic Shrine, Victoria British Columbia, after seeing a copy of the Rotary Crippled Children Edition of the Belleville Ontario Intelligencer. Mystic Shrine is very much interested in the work of reclaiming the crippled children and millions have been spent by the order in establishing a chain of crippled children hospitals across the United States. Naturally Shriners everywhere are interested in the work Rotary is doing for crippled children, particularly the Belleville Rotary Club which on a basis of population easily leads all other clubs in the work.

WHILE ON THE SUBJECT OF MASONRY it might be news to some that King Edward VIII is a Freemason. On July 22, 1924, he was elected Provincial Grand Master of Surrey, and on March 8, 1932, received the Thirty-third Degree at London. He is also Grand Superintendent of Royal Arch Masonry in Surrey.

HOW LONG SHOULD A MAN'S LEGS BE? Just one of those silly-ass questions some people delight to propound in an effort to confound the wise. Abraham Lincoln was asked the question and replied: "Just long enough to reach from his body to the ground." And if there is a better answer than that we haven't heard it.

THOUSANDS OF VISITORS FROM FAR AND NEAR WILL THRONG BELLEVILLE NEXT MONDAY, July 13, on the occasion of the Orange Celebration here. Lodges will be present from Kingston and all the country between, while Hastings lodges, South, Central and North will be out in full force. Prince Edward County will be well represented, and lodges are expected from Northumberland, and farther west. Many hands will furnish music and the day should be a memorable one. The committee in charge expect over fifteen thousand visitors and have been working hard to arrange an entertaining program. The committee would appreciate the co-operation of the citizens in the matter of decorations, etc. Let the visitors see Belleville with its best Bib and Tucker on. We call it Ballyhoo the Beautiful. Let us make good our boast by having our homes and lawns and gardens looking their best and a colorful welcome extended with flags and bunting.

Death On Poachers

A Scottish Magistrate in a mining district was continually having cases of poaching and wife-beating brought before him. The wife-beaters he generally let off with a caution, but the poachers he punished with the utmost rigors of the law. One day a miner was in the dock, accused of all but beating his wife to death. "I'll fine ye half-a-crown as a warnin'g", the judge said, "and if ye come before me again I'll treat ye as if ye were a common poacher!"

LOOKING BACKWARD

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BY-GONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

July 5th, 1913.

The annual garden party which was held in the grounds of the General Hospital yesterday afternoon was well attended and a most enjoyable event. Afternoon tea was served and in the evening a musical programme was carried out, some of Belleville's leading artists took part. The Tabernacle Church orchestra rendered several pleasing selections during the evening.

The Intelligencer this week referred to some fine early potatoes grown in the garden of Mr. Ackerman, West Moira Street, six of which weighed 1 1-4 pounds. Now Mr. G. W. Palmer of Canniffton comes along with a small batch of potatoes that for size and weight surpass the product of Mr. Ackerman's garden. Following are the weights of Mr. Palmer's potatoes: one potato 10 ounces; six potatoes 2 pounds and 13 ounces; 11 potatoes 4 pounds and 8 ounces. Mr. Palmer says if any one in this section can beat his early potatoes, which may be seen at the store of James Wallace & Co., Front St.

July 5th, 1906

The foundation of the Baptist Church which is being erected at the corner of Victoria Avenue and Pinnacle Street is rising well, but so far advanced as to permit of the corner stone being laid. The ceremony was performed at four o'clock in the afternoon of July 5th. In the presence of a large number of citizens. Mr. H. A. Hodgson of Montreal, a former well known citizen of Belleville, and one who took an interest always in the local Baptist Church, was selected to lay the stone. The inscription upon the stone is brief and reads: "Erected A.D. 1906." The proceedings were opened by the singing of the hymn—"The Church's One Foundation," and an appropriate prayer by the pastor, the Rev C. H. Rosaire. Mr. Hodgson in speaking referred to his coming to Belleville in the year 1877 and uniting with the local Baptist Church. On his present visit, however, he saw few old faces about him and referred particularly to Deacons of the church, Caswell and Davis. Mr. J. Richardson, clerk of the church, read a paper outlining the church's history as follows: "In the year 1873 the Baptist Home Mission sent the Rev. W. J. Paterson as a missionary to Belleville. A hall was used then to worship in. In the following November the church was organized with a membership of 29. In March 1874 it was decided to build a chapel and in MAY 1875 the chapel was dedicated. In July 1896 the property which stood where the new edifice is being erected was purchased for the sum of $4,500.00. The membership then was 230. On Jan. 19th of this year it was decided to build a new church and a sufficient amount of money was secured by subscriptions to warrant the work being carried on. Congratulatory addresses were made by the Rev. George Brown of the Tabernacle Church; the Rev. R. A. Laidlaw of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church; the Rev. A. M. Hubly of Emmanuel B. B. Church, and the Rev. R. H. Leitch of Holloway Street Methodist Church. The Rev. Robert Wallace, member of the congregation for 24 years, spoke briefly. The church officials are as follows: Pastor, the Rev. C. H. Emerson; Clerk, Mr. A. Richardson; Deacons, Messrs. C. H. Earle, J. Lancaster, J. Riggs, Rev. A. M. Hubly, W. Nurse and S. Lounsberry. Building Committee: The Pastor, Rev. C. H. Emerson; Messrs. G. A. Earle, W. B. Riggs, C. Sidrod, J. Riggs, M. Doolittle, W. Deacon and the Rev. Robert Wallace. The history of the church, copies of the Globe, Mail and Empire, Canadian Baptist, the Intelligencer and the Ontario and some coins were sealed in a jar and deposited within the cavity in the corner stone.

FLOORS AND CHAIRS

Floors are safer than chairs to sit on for certain people, such as unwatched babies, while chairs are generally preferred by people with rheumatism in their back.

Sometimes practical jokers pull chairs from underneath of you just when you are going to sit down on them, but a floor is always where you think it is, unless there just happens to be a earthquake at that moment.

As you grow older it gets more most exciting chairs are a rocking chair that's suddenly libel to go backwards farther than you expected and a weak legged chair with a innocent fat lady accidently sitting on it and tawking to your mother without knowing that's the ones that awt to be looking anxious instead of your mother.

The most exciting floor is a slippery one without a carpit, and the

GRAIN

Winnipeg, July 5 (CP)—Wheat futures held around previous closing levels with selling less active on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange in the first hour of trading today. Reports of scattered rainfall across the prairie wheat belt had the effect of slowing the buying movement.

Values near mid-session showed 1-3 higher to unchanged. July at 81 3-4, October 80 5-8 and December 81.

There was extremely little export business, support coming mainly from commercial houses.

Liverpool closed 3-8-1 1-2d lower. Chicago near mid-session declined near the previous close while Minneapolis ruled up to 1-4 cent firmer.

Read Gold Mines Profits

Read Gold Mines Profits for June was valued at approximately $98,000 as compared with the May production figure of $87,000, according to Vancouver exports. Production for the first six months of this year totalled $501,000 as compared with $427,000 for the period last year. Grade this year was better than $24 per ton, Reno's fiscal year ends June 30.

McLellan Long Lac to Diamond Drill

McLellan Long Lac Gold Mines has awarded contract for an additional 10,000 feet of diamond drilling to be done at its property in the Little Long Lac area officials state.

Considerable strength has prevailed in the newsprint section of the paper and pulp group. Strength that has been very noticeable in the paper issues has been permeating to other shares of these companies. The increase in exports of the Canadian newsprint industry has been commented upon on numerous occasions in recent months and practically certain that the commodity will be approved as a basic item in trade contracts. Oceanes are that this increase will be about 62.50 or $3.00 a ton.

The New York market has a better background than in 1934, when gone fallow conditions, among others, had a decided effect upon the course of trade. The industrial activity is being maintained at a high rate for this time of the year and factory industrial earnings in five to six years are about to be issued, all the same the stock market has not been unaware of the improvement and the higher earnings ratio of leading issues making for a more susceptible trend in broad intermediate movements in both directions. Hence, a rise in the Dow-Jones figure for industrial averages may be more a passing affair sooner than it was at the start of 1936, and it is best to keep an eye on the incremental current beneath the short swing movements.

Reports from New York are to the effect that short interest has been increased materially in the past few weeks, which, from a technical standpoint, is constructive.

The Current Business Status in Canada

The Monthly Review of Business Statistics by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics discloses a slight betterment in economic conditions was recorded in May. Three of the six major factors considered in this connection showed an improvement while the two unfavourable factors in evidence during March and April have continued to hold sway under review. The index of consumer goods prices rose from 113.9 in April to 113.8 in May, and speculative activity showed a considerably lower level. A minor recession was shown in the wholesale prices of vegetable products from 72.3 to 71.8. Of the eight main groups, the index number of the price of products showed advances, while in the remaining four declines.

Advances were shown in the monetary factors of Dominion Government bonds and in the deposit liabilities of the chartered banks. The combined index of bond yields advanced from 97.2 to 97.4. The combined index of demand and notice deposits showed a slight decrease at the beginning of May. In spite of the occurrence of five Sundays a decline in bank debits to individual business operations during the month under review.

Constructive factors included the continued strength in asbestos and imports of bauxite. The manufacturers' sales index was also considerably higher level. A slight gain was shown in the production of newsprint and the exports of wood pulp were considerably greater than in the previous month. Gains were shown in the index of employment calculated by the distribution industry over the low level of April. A considerable rise in the index of these factors considered in this connection recorded during the month under review is subject to adjustment but the balance was on the constructive side.

Red Lake Gold Shore in Production Again

Heavy machinery for Red Lake Gold Shore's mill is arriving at the property with 42 tons of equipment delivered on one day last week, states W. P. Mackie, mine manager, in his monthly report to the Toronto office. With the mill building framework now complete, the machinery is coming in time to permit of its installation before shovelling of ore begins, thus saving considerable saving in time and labor. Work is being pushed ahead on the installation of the water and cyanide plants.

In stope preparation on the 160-foot level Mr. Mackie states that development is still showing in all hot holes, and the new ore opening, discovered in the 175 crosscut, is developing satisfactorily. This is adding to the possibilities of additional ore occurrences. Every round, the report states, is showing more quartz and heavier mineralization.

The Trader in Barron's states that the chief factor influencing the market moment is the possibility of a steel strike. The selling in U. S. Steel common, however, is not regarded as particularly bearish, and it is interesting to note that the stock is now back below the level at which the Steel Workers Organizing Committee began its drive for collective bargaining

Rev. W. J. Scott Is Inducted at Stirling Church

Rev. H. W. Foley of Springbrook Takes Charge of Service

Stirling—An impressive induction service took place at St. Paul's United Church, Stirling, marked the beginning of the ministerial duties of Rev. W. J. Scott, M.A., B.D., formerly of Pinebarton, Ont., who after the induction service moved his family on Friday morning became the official pastor of the Stirling-Pastoral Charge which consists of the congregations of St. Paul's Church, Stirling, and the associated church at Carmel. Rev. W. J. Scott accepted the unanimous call tendered him by the Stirling congregation when he replace Rev. R. W. Rowland, who after eight years' pastorate, accepted a call to Peterboro.

The induction service was conducted by Rev. H. W. Foley of Springbrook, chairman of the Belleville Presbytery and the United Church of Canada, assisted by Rev. James E. Hooper of Hawkes Church, Conference Secretary. Rev. I. B. Hall of Thomas Street United Church, Belleville, Rev. Robert Hall of John Street United Church, Belleville, and Rev. H. H. Lackey of Bloomfield. The group of officiating laymen of the Stirling-Pastoral Charge who welcomed the new minister on behalf of that governing body, Mr. Scott, were led in the hymn and prayer by Rev. Foley, a full choir of voices rendered the anthem, "Come Unto Him," directed with Mr. G. L. Gibb and Miss Betty Lou Hagerman at the organ and piano. Miss Grace Pitman presiding at the organ.

Rev. Robert Hall in his inspiring induction sermon, stated that it was going to be the aim of the new minister through present economic strain to emphasize the necessity of life in the brotherhood man. We as a church must realize our responsibility and the opportunity to be channels of physical need which blocks the spiritual growth of our people. The first sacred speaker was Mr. H. E. Hulin, recording Steward, who read the detailed report of the action taken by the governing bodies of both congregations meeting the large call and call being sent forth to Rev. W. J. Scott.

The address to the newly inducted minister was delivered by Rev. James E. Beckell and the congregations were addressed by Rev. I. B. Naylor on behalf of the Presbytery of Belleville and Rev. W. J. Scott, on behalf of the United Church of Canada by the following group of clergymen representing that body in an official capacity, Rev. H. W. Foley, chairman of the Presbytery who conducted the service, Rev. Robert Hall, Rev. James E. Hooper, I. B. Naylor, Rev. L. S. Wight, Rev. H. H. Lackey and Rev. James E. Beckell, C. U. Heath and H. C. Martin. Rev. W. J. Scott then entered the pulpit in an official capacity for the first meeting with the Benediction.

After the meeting the large gathering withdrew to the church parlors where the ladies of both congregations assisted in the serving of luncheon and a social hour which enabled everyone to meet the new minister personally was greatly enjoyed.

Fachere Defeats Stirling

Stirling's newly formed baseball team gave their first exhibition before a good crowd of local supporters on Friday evening when they met the flashy Foxboro crew and were defeated 11 to 3 by the more experienced boys from the south. Although boys seemed over anxious to make a good impression on the fans who had turned out in good numbers to give them support and this anxiety accounts for several errors and loose fielding which allowed the visitors to pile up their high score. Several local substitutes in the game, however, were well pleased with the showing they made and predict a bright future for them with a few more games under their belt. Batteries behind them. The local squad were minus several of their best players on this occasion and though on hand to aide here and there in the delicious dinner was served, the group basking part of the School. As the gathering sang "Nearer My God to Thee," Mr. George F. Steward interpreted it in the sign language. The guests passed a very pleasant afternoon and good progress was made in the hospitality of their host and hostess.

WALK UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food may not digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. You feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.

A mere movement doesn't mean that you have got rid of the causes. You need something that will make the liver pour out two pounds of bile juice into the bowels. Then you get constipation, the poisons go into the blood, and you feel punk, sunk and the world looks punk.

It takes those good, old, time-tested Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel like a million dollars. Don't accept substitutes. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name and definitely refuse anything else.

Women's Meetings

MELROSE W.I.

The June meeting of the Melrose Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. R. M. Badgley with an attendance of fifty.

After the opening exercises conducted by the president, Mrs. Badgley, roll call was made by the secretary, Mrs. Fifield, with fifteen members present. Mrs. Fifield read a letter from Mrs. Ellis, a former member of the Melrose Institute, who is now living in Fifth and polygamy holds sway, we realized more than ever, how fortunate we were in Canada. Mrs. S. MacDonald thanked the ladies for the card of sympathy she received at the time of the death of her husband. Mrs. Fifield thanked Mrs. and the Mipash Benediction, lunch and a pleasant social time was enjoyed by the ladies.

MELROSE W.M.S.

The Melrose W.M.S. held their regular monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. Chas. McFarlane on Wednesday afternoon, July 1st with fifteen members present.

The president Mrs. F. Bennett opened the meeting with a hymn, followed with prayer and Scripture reading taken from the epistle of Paul to the Galatians.

Minutes of previous meetings were read and the roll call was answered by Short prayers were offered by several members. Hymn, Prayer, with leader, then took charge of the programme. Another hymn was sung by the choir. Reading from chapter from the Study Book. Short talks were given by Mrs. Bennett, Mrs. Sinder and The Temperance Hymn by Mrs. McFarlane. Collection $2.60. Mrs. J. Wessel closed the meeting with the Benediction. Lunch was served.

FRONT ROAD LADIES AID

The regular meeting of Front Road Ladies Aid was held on Thursday afternoon, July 2nd at the home of Mrs. C. Wilkinson with an attendance of twenty. After a hymn and Scripture reading by Miss Ruth Greatrix, the minutes of the last meeting were read and approved. Mrs Doris Reid still acting as secretary.

The coin contest was declared closed with Miss Beatrice Ward, the winning leader. A total of $14.36 in coins of 1932 date was handed in. These had all been collected at the opening of the year. This means of raising funds for the Aid has been found very satisfactory and another contest for collection of coins of any date for the past six years was decided on to extend to the closing of the year.

Mrs. S. Geddes very kindly offered her home for a social to be held in the near future. After appointing committees and other business matters the meeting was brought to a close by all repeating the Mipash Benediction.

The hostess then served a dainty lunch assisted by Mrs. T. W. Crowe, Mrs. T. J. Brown, Mrs. T. Whittle and Mrs. A. Chase.

Trans Duncan, star of Universal's 1936 version of "Show Boat," is shown above with Helen Morgan, who played the part in the original production. Duncan, who is married to Allan Jones, bandleader and singer, starred with Jerome Kern's in solo. Now, Kern is working on a new picture.

Fashion Flashes

SOMETHING DIFFERENT, as well as something new marks the latest wedding custom. A really different wedding dress is of white tulle, with tiered bodice buttoned all the way down to the hem from a turn-down collar. Sleeves are short and end over the shoulder line. The fitted line flares from the hips and forms a sweeping train.

WATCH THE GAME in spectator sports frocks that are more dressy than the usual tailored sports wear. Typical of this trend is a white crepe frock with round yoke of white eyelet embroidery and broad belt of matching sash Short cape sleeves distinguish this model.

SUNNY DAYS call for shady hats. A nice model is of violet color shading straw with a ruching of matching velvet ribbon at the brim. It is trimmed with an American beauty rose in chiffon and velvet.

NOT ALL is white or pastel shades when it comes to new fabrics. A charming model is of violet chiffon print over low back, tucking in front and shoulder frills of shirred violet and gray chiffon. When velvet ribbon the color predominates. Colors mark the flared skirt.

THE LUXURY OF LEISURE

Leisure hours when things lovely negligee is of ecru lace over a slip of satin. The V-yoke is of insertion and wide skirt make a picturesque silhouette.

NO USE assembling a summer wardrobe without plenty of dark cottons. A useful little number is a navy and white percale with white polka dot design. It has short sleeves finished with organdie ruffles in white. White organdie makes a hemstitched border to the collar. There is a ruffled flounce at the skirt hem.

Hay Fever Mystery Intrigues Scientists

Washington, July 8 (AP)— The Department of Agriculture is going to-day to the great source of hay fever.

Trips will be a search to the south for a cause and a cure," said Dr. Henry Hasselbring, Bureau of Chemistry and Soils, "but we don't want to raise the hopes of sufferers too high."

Like a corps of detectives tackling a national mystery the sneeze sleuths dashed from one end of the country to another in search of the problem allergic disturbances.

Such a disturbance is anything from a sneeze caused by the odor of a poppy to breaking into a rash after tasting a strawberry.

FAMILIES FORCED OUT

Other families were forced from their homes of unknown origin in the down town district to the outlying sections of the city, early today, forced from their homes, numbering 19 persons, out by the Sandy Hill fire in the town.

The Sandy Hill fire in the town hall at 4.30 o'clock early this morning forced occupants to jump to safety from upper floors, and caused considerable damage. The older on Bay Street was one serious although Mrs. J. Mulligan were suffered.

WATER TOO WARM

"Show Boat"

It's here the "Show Boat" "Show Boat" with the memorable romance and drama of Edna Ferber's novel . . . with the inspiring melody and rhythm of Jerome Kern's music. "Show Boat" with the glamorous cast . . . the lavish appeal of Oscar Hammerstein's play . . . the 1936 musical film version now at the Capitol.

The picture tells the love story of Magnolia and Gaylord on a Mississippi show boat. Irene Dunne, the star, and Allan Jones capture the imagination in these romantic singing roles. Charles Winninger plays Captain Andy, genial river showman. His straitlaced wife is portrayed by Helen Westley.

"Show Boat" is filled with music and dancing and heart throbs. The popular Helen Morgan, who pulls sings several delightful songs. Paul Robeson, noted Negro, gives resonant voice and robust life to his role, with a chorus of 300 singers providing magnificent background effects in the background. A cast of 50 people make reality and sweep to the production.

Besides the surefire songs that are inseparable from "Show Boat" there are three new Jerome Kern-Oscar Hammerstein songs.

The United Artists film will be enchanted by "Show Boat" resume. You will be enthralled by its romance and thrilled by its drama. "Show Boat" will echo in your thoughts and hearts long after forgetting that ever floated on the river of memory. Be sure to see it.

"Old Kate" is Dead, Hawker of Matches

London, July 8 (AP)—"Old Kate" Kathleen Lucy Price, famous London crowds for the last 11 years as a picturesque hawker of matches opposite the Gaiety theatre where she sang between times and lost three days out a home for paupers yesterday, died at a home for paupers yesterday.

By repute a sister of a former Governor of Puerto Rico and the daughter of an American Colonel, "Old Kate", her friends said, was married three times and lost three fortunes bequeathed by her respective husbands.

One friend remarked: "She died as she lived, without saying anything about her age."

HITTING THE COMEBACK TRAIL

CURRENT SPORT

DAY BY DAY

For the first time in four years the National League All-Star team trumpled over their American League rivals yesterday. From the time the Great Ditsy Dean retired the first nine American League batters in order until the final out, the senior loop aggregation seemed certain of victory, although the Dean's rig-ied outfit did threaten in the seventh and ninth. Joe Di Maggio, the colorful Yankee outfielder, drew the wrath of the fans upon his head for trying to make a shoestring catch of Hartnett's drive, that went for a triple and started the National Leagners on what proved their winning rampage. The all-star cast crowd ever to witness baseball's classic sat intently in the "Wee-Hive" park in Boston and were in no sport mood to show room. The greatest hurler in the National League and probably in the majors of the past decade, simply tog-tied the reputed batting power of the American League murderers' row. It was a sweet victory. Gehringer and Hermsley, the most prolific hitters, each getting two hits for three tries.

Myrne Joe McCarthy director of the Chicago Cubs of the National League baseball tried in vain to win his battle yesterday. He used three pinch hitters as Lee Gehrig and Bill Dickey were walked to start a circuit blow, but with no results as Lee Warneke, of the Cubs, was master of the situation. The Cubs dismissed the American bats from the batting list in the first inning the first off Bob Grove in the second with the next with Lefty Grove pitching, in the fifth, gave the National enough margin to win but they were hard pressed to protect in the last three stanzas.

All roads lead to the Kiwanis playgrounds on East and West Belleville this afternoon, as baseball fans turn out for the kiddies with free drinks and ice cream will be distributed by the Kiwanis celebrities being on hand from the two part of the country. The very latest in equipment, everything has been supplied by the local Kiwanis Club for the entertainment and recreation of Belleville's youth, and with experienced supervisors, whose duty it is to look after the welfare of the kiddies.

Jack Compana announced today he would start one of his wrestling shows possible in Belleville early in August. Compana definitely stated he had signed Hal Rasberry, the Saskatchewan Flash, Chalmers, the most John Katan in the main bout, Jack Mcintyre will meet Jack Ryan before he was recently defeated and exonerated by no less a personage than Jack Dempsey, former heavyweight O'Mahoney. Two other high-class preliminaries have been signed with Al Mercier and Dan Petrol. Mercier is known as one of the most agile and speedy wrestlers in the modern realm of the mat game. Always a crowd pleaser, Mercier should doubtlessly prove a favorite in Belleville. The bout should be staged rather early, commencing at 7.30 p.m. in order to give out-of-town fans an opportunity to see the bouts before they return home. Mahler, another Jack Corcoran is going out of his way to give local fans a show that could be promoted in any large centre, and he has yet to sign an opponent for Hal Wright, the massive Texas Ranger, who recently annexed the city's championship.

-The Oshawa and Peterboro' sport writers are in a conference over a technical play that arose during the Dominion Day Napanee at Oshawa ball game. It seems with runners on first and second the Oshawa catcher threw wild to first base, allowing both runners to advance. The runner going from first to third failed to touch second base, as the other runner was rounding third. Subsequently the Napanee team made the out at second, but the umpires allowed the run to score. The Oshawa scribes say "nay, nay", no run. The Peterboro's scribe adds "nuts to you", sure it's a run. In their gibberings too, have managed to eject a lot of queer rulings and ideas, but we are withholding our judgment in the matter, as it is purely technical according to the Oshawa scribes claims and likewise to the Peterboro's scribes claims. Ed Peterboro's arbiter's Information rule No. 9, covering the pending runners, not following runners. While the Oshawa scribe says all wet when he says R is the duty of the official scorer to determine whether or not a run scores. That is never the duty of the umpire-in-chief, my fran. And Merkle did not hit the ball of his famous play.

Ti Mansour night's meeting "the city fathers" it was decided to permit the Quinte Motorcycle Club to hold a 25-mile motorcycle championship road race in Belleville, under certain conditions. These conditions are adhered to leaves of . . . Gorille. The speed will have an opportunity of showing its prowess once the caliber of which never before has been seen in this city. There was first suggested by George Pearce, but Mr. Pearce has left the performed motorcycle racers on the Belleville circuit. Motorcycle fans all parts of the United States and Canada will be invited to attend the race and it will be held on Labor Day. The course suggested is Yonkman Street, West Moira, around the corner to Catherine to Yeoman St. to Dundas, to Different and hazardous road. The final course will be another new flu in the hands of the Belleville Motorcycle Club.

As per usual the Oshawa sport scribe gets his statements mixed up. He says Napanee should not be pleases along to his many (?) readers in this of the National Billiard batting trophy will be played on the latter attaining the highest batting average of 70 C.B.I.-"No, no, Georgie the cup goes to the Belleville player who leads his team in batting. The same as was the case last year, my fran."

At present Dan Rowntree is leading the Oshawa cricketers with a batting average of .444 while Mr. Ellis Mercier is next with .400.

The Oshawa scribbler says he's going to write to Judge Landis for a ruling on the play that occurred during the Napanee-Oshawa game. He hops the Czar of Baseball gives a better ruling on it than he gave in he did during the final game of the Pittsburg-Washington world's series of 1925. Perhaps the Oshawa scribe doesn't know that Pittsburg won even the St. Louis Sporting News the two real Authorities on baseball on the continent.

JOHNNY CAWTHRAY TO MAKE BID FOR TRIP TO OLYMPICS

By SYDNEY GRUSON

(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Montreal, July 8 (CP)—Notre Dame de Grace swimming tank champion, surely Canada's hope, will climb the steps to the spring diving board and make his bid for a place on the Canadian Olympic team.

There would be nothing out of the ordinary in that except that the 18-year-old Ottawa youth has come up among the Dominion's best the hard way. If he's successful, it will be the realization of a two-year ambition.

The story of Cawthray and his diving begins two years ago in the Ottawa hotel where, as he puts it, he was stationed in the Hydro-Therapy Department—or the Turkish Baths. With free use of the pool adjoining the hotel, Cawthray decided to "fool around on the diving board".

He "fooled around" until he attracted attention of Willis Hollis Mullen, a diver of note in past years, and senior Scoutmaster in charge of the Troop of Sea Scouts. In 10 months he entered the Canadian championships and won thirds on the three and one metre board.

"Anyway," said Johnny here last night as he watched the Olympic swimming tank, "I'd take a rest at Ottawa and improving much after a while, I saw pictures of diving at Miami, Fla., and spent a hunch decided to get down there for training."

So in January Johnny quit his job, bummed a ride to Coral Gables at Miami and "lived from hand to my life." Less than $70 in his pocket, he had to go on with income. "So after my friends registered in a hotel, I'd sneak up and sleep on the floor. That went on for two nights."

Everything was fine for three months. The $70 plus some money earned carrying bricks, cleaning, swimming and diving, and watching she, lasted and Johnny sent the acquaintance of Al Wiskoff, Olympic diving champion in 1924 and 1928, and Howard Smith, one of the world's best exponents of graceful. Under Desjardin and Smith, Johnny learned to dive. "I had to start as the beginning."

"I dived for hours every day of three months and I'll tell you I was finally I had to stop and get enough money to come home. I got a job as a life singing in a night club, made enough money to come home and started dived and they started out June 1st.

They got to New York June 8, after the singing-diver sang some new, and Johnny started practicing. "Practice, you know." Three weeks ago in New York, then home to Ottawa where he arrived last Saturday.

PHYLLIS DEWAR RECORD BREAKER IN 100 YD SWIM

Defeats Irene Firie in Fast Time on Two Occasions

Swimmers of the Canadian Olympic team recorded the second clash of their record-breaking development today with Vancouver's Phyllis Dewar topping Toronto's Bob Pirie already aboard the Olympic bandwagon. They shared the honors.

Miss Dewar who splashed into the Olympic picture with a win in the 1934 with two victories in the British Empire Games prepared for her attack on the 440-yard, women's record after just 24 hours of rest and a gruelling mark for the 100 yards' free style last night.

Defeating Irene Firie Milton of Toronto with the greatest of ease Miss Dewar covered the distance from 63.2 seconds down to 63.3 in the heats and then in the finals again trounced the statuesque Mrs. Milton and was clocked at 63.4.

Bob Pirie, holder of the family banner flying with victories in the years 1932 and 1934, starred in both events. Tonight he will tackle the 440 and will be held as the logical equivalent of the Olympic 1,500 metres.

Pirie equalled his own Canadian record of 24.3 seconds in winning his heat and then defeated Ken Lecour of Hamilton and Ben Gazette of Montreal, Canadian champion, Bourne of Montreal, who clicked off 25.2 seconds in the first heat, placed fourth in the final.

Then the rain-filled boy of Canada's Olympic hopes took to deal with Bobby Hooper of Vancouver in a match for the world's record of 5.08.8 was sure to go over. Hooper was second to Pirie in 1932 Pirie and Hooper were under it.

Pulling ahead steadily in the first 50 yards Pirie was by about five yards in 1.53.1. Hooper was caught in a 57.3. Until the second half-a-yard length of the Notre Dame Ice Grace tank, the two swam shoulder to shoulder in a thrilling duel.

Then Pirie, apparently satisfied to be the greatest swimmers Canada has ever developed at these distances or none at all, drew away from over the mile route. Pirie's Canadian record of 5.08.8 and the 4.5.4 seconds is expected to be lowered by several seconds.

The Dewar-Milton struggle will be resumed at 440 yards when Miss Dewar defends her title and makes their Olympic bids in men's and women's divisions. Many sportsmen's diving will be another feature.

Toronto and British Columbia shared all the titles decided last night, Monica Tryon of Victoria won the 200 yards breast stroke for women in behalf of the far west and the two Toronto divers were added to Pirie's pair.

Miss Tryon had a comparatively easy time in her specialty, winning from Joan Langley of Vancouver in 3.34.4, more than two seconds slower than the Canadian record. Kay Reynolds of Toronto was third.

The men's breast stroke event was just as easy for Gerald Claxton, Vancouver, who defeated the former title-holder, Bill Puddy, in a one-sided final. Puddy finally fell into third place behind Tom Prentice, also of Toronto.

Echoes of Biggest Financial And Freshman Flops Fail To Dampen Spirits of Winners

Superior Pitching of Dean, Hubbell And Warneke Counts

DI MAGGIO "GOAT"

Up Five Times And Failed to Get Ball Out of The Infield

(By Alan Gould, Associated Press Sports Writer)

Boston, July 8 (AP)—Echoes of the biggest financial and freshman flops in the four-year history of the All-Star ball game failed to deprive National leaguers today of their jubilation over turning back the Americans for the first time.

Faced by the Great Dizzy Dean and Carl Hubbell, then shucked from danger by the stout right arm of Lonnie Warneke, the Nationals capitalized their superior pitching to squeeze out a 4-3 decision under unfamiliar circumstances before a crowd, that compiled little more than half of the stands at National League Field.

Led by Manager Charley Grimm of the Chicago Cubs, the Nationals won because they forced the "freaks," capitalized opportunities and on the whole played smarter baseball. They had a share of luck, but they were primed to win.

The favored Americans lost because they celebrated "Murderers' Row" thus handcuffed by rival pitchers for eight of nine innings and, and to relate, because their sensational shortstop, Joseph Paul DiMaggio of the Yankees, picked the occasion for his worst afternoon of one-day slump since he flashed across the star-cluttered big league sky.

"Brent Shoe"

Rookie Joe, a national baseball hero on account of his sensational season, came to Boston to get the "Brent Shoe" for the first time in his life. Nowhere was he known to the fliters or just not having "much luck," as he ruefully expressed it. DI Maggio flopped with as resounding note as the attendance.

The California recruit had three chances in the field and missed two of them. Charitable scorers charged him with only one error, but his slugging was not in each of the National Leaguers' scoring rallies.

Up five times, against the support pitching of Dean, Hubbell and Warneke, DI Maggio failed to get the ball out of the infield even once.

He left seven men on bases, capping the climax of his dismal day by fizzing out with the bases full in the seventh, to end the big scoring splurge of the Americans and popping out to the ninth with the tying run on second base.

Instead of an anticipated sellout crowd of 43,000 at the old Wigwam, now the "Bee-Hive," the park attendance numbered exactly 25,- 534. Although the weather was perfect and the attraction unusual, the pale receipts were little more than $30,000 and expenses considerably over half the amount taken in.

Old 'Con' Game Worked for $1400

Detroit, July 7—(CP)—Mrs. Lena King, Negress, saw another Negro woman pick up a purse in a downtown store yesterday. By an odd coincidence, she was talking to a third Negro woman, a stranger to her.

Presently the three found themselves in a huddle and there was some talk of dividing the contents, which appeared to Mrs. King to be $6,500.

Stranger No. 2 then suggested that they all consult her boss, whose offices were in the National Bank building. Mrs. King and stranger No. one waited in the lobby, while the one who had the money went up to his office for advice. Presently she came back and reported.

"He says we don't know how to handle money. He says we got to show him we can live at the counter without touching this new money. How we going to show him that? You got any money?"

Mrs. King had $3,000 left by her husband's insurance, and there remained $1,400. She drew this out of the bank and returned it over to her friend.

"Show this to your boss," she said. "Tell him we can live on that."

Mrs. King waited in the lobby, while the woman with the boss took the money to her boss, and the other woman left in to do some shopping. Neither stranger no. one nor stranger No. two came back.

HIGHLIGHTS OF ALL STAR GAME

Boston, July 8.—Boons from the right field bleachers rang in the first inning of baseball's All-Star game, the first time in his big league career.

The sensational Yankee rookie outfielder not only appeared to have had case of the all-star fitters, to the crowd's as well as the American League's humiliation, misplayed it, but he was luckless even in the one instance where he tried hardest to come through.

That was in the seventh, where, with the bases full, Joe took a toehold on one of Lon Warneke's fast balls and smashed it on a fine to Leo Durocher's hands. A foot or two either way and it would have been a base hit, scoring two runs, and perhaps the winning run of the ball game. Cheers mingled with the boos when Joe finally came to bat for the last time in the ninth but again the ball was hit hard, and the last out with the tying run on second.

DI Maggio had only three chances in the field and missed two of them.

The batting guns were turned in by Frank Demaree, Cubs outfielder, and Southpaw Carl Hubbell. Demaree ran 40 yards to back up Luke Appling's foul fly near the right-field bleachers, in the fourth. Hubbell made a diving slowed-hand catch of Schoolboy Rowe's pop fly not far from the third base line, in the sixth.

The great Dizzy Dean was a trifle wild but showed the American leaguers a world of stuff during his three innings. Dizzy walked Appling and Gehrig, but struck out three, didn't allow a hit and faced only nine men. Dean's big moment came when he caught Gehringer napping off first base and retired him on a snap throw to Rip Collins, in the second inning.

Lon Gehrig made his first hit in four all-star games the gaudiest of the day, a home run wallop that sailed high into the right field bleachers, just as the Iron Horse's "Jury box", The ball travelled well beyond the 406-foot mark. Yankee Lou was robbed of a single by Rip Collins in the fourth. The Cardinal first sacker made a diving stop of Gehrig's hot smash and tossed to Hubbell for the put out.

Three American leaguers and one National leaguer played in their first straight all-star game. Lou Gehrig and Charley Gehringer, for the Americans and Gabby Hartnett for the Nationals, as all-time all-star signments. Ben Chapman, now with the Washington Senators, the fourth member of the Yankees in the circuit, replacing Earl Averill of the Indians, to keep his record intact. Wally Berger, who played in each of the three previous games for the Nationals without getting a base hit, sat on the bench all afternoon.

Outside of the box, the Nationals made no substitutions until Mel Ott batted for Frank Demaree and Lew Riggs, third baseman for the Cincinnati Reds, batted for Whitney in the eighth inning. Six starting players on the winning side remained for the game, The Americans used all of their pitchers in the game.

Jimmy Foxx, hero of last year's game, also drew jeers . . . First when he batted for Pitcher Bob Feller in the ninth . . . Next when he took a third strike in the eighth, with Gehrig on third, Goslin on first, two out and the American Leaguers batting.

Umpire baiting was not uncommon . . . Hartnett was a chronic kicker . . . He objected to Beans Reardon's eye-sight when Beans was behind the plate the first half of the game and continued when Bill Summers took his turn as umpire-in-chief . . . Dizzy Dean didn't like the way Reardon called "em and "outs."

Grove had his troubles before and during the game . . . Before the fray up, a Cronetti heave nicked him on the right shoulder . . . Then Lefty bumped his noggin in the dugout while autographing a ball for a fan, a home run ball to top it off he was charged with the first defeat the American Leaguers have suffered in All-Star competition.

As usual, Al Schacht wowed 'em with his pre-game antics, the funny man of the Red Sox was a one-man riot with his travesty on the Schmeling-Louis fight. Garbed in natty purple tights, Al's left side was also shockingly torn just to foot . . . That was the Louis side of it . . . for Al's right was in front of the third-base stands, Schacht knocked his dark half out with a series of (Schmeling) rights to the jaw.

GRANTS MADE

Toronto, July 8 (CP)—Grants from the Government to aid in defraying the expenses of the Olympic trials and also for minor baseball and swimming were announced today by J. F. Thompson, Secretary of the Ontario Athletic Commission.

How Much Do You Know About Sport?

(By Earl Hilligan, Associated Press Sports Writer)

Chicago, July 8 (AP)—Two sports fans have been debating baseball whipped recently and who holds the United States Open Golf championship, but now they want a few stories on the sport headliners of a year ago.

Here's a quick way of finding out how much rust has accumulated. Get out your pencils, keep your eyes from dropping down, and see how good you are on the sports stories that made big news in 1935. That's get overwhelmed 17 points, start off fast—they get tougher.

1 What team won the 1935 Rose Bowl game?

2 What track athlete shattered three world's records and tied another in one afternoon—and the event?

3 What tennis star wrote the greatest rally of the year and what's major net championship did it bring her?

4 Who was the leading hitter of the 1935 baseball season?

5 What team contributed the biggest thrill to football last fall and Owen's a big boy in the backfield to even beaten?

6 Name the golfer who completed a "little slam" in championships and name the events he captured.

7 What was the biggest boxing upset of the year?

8 Who won the year's record daily double track bet and how much did he win for $2?

9 Who made the greatest golf shot of 1935, a shot which enabled him to win $1,500?

10 Name the three big races which Charles captured after signing the Kentucky Derby.

12 How did Kingfish Levinsky glibly explain his first round beating by Louis, thereby costing boting one of the classic remarks for the fight game's history?

Here are the answers: (1) Stanford, 27, Southern Methodist, 0. (2) Jesse Owens, broke jump, 10th-yard dash, broke world's record, 220-yard dash, 220-yard low hurdles and broad jump. (3) Helen Wills Moody won two games of final set after trailing 3-5 to win Wimbledon championship from Helen Jacobs. (4) Pete Fox, Detroit rightfielder, .368. (5) Notre Dame, by scoring three touchdowns in last period to beat Ohio State 18 to 13. (6) Lawson Little won British and United States amateur titles in 1934 and 1935. (7) When James J. Braddock beat Max Baer for heavyweight title. (8) Harry Topper, Jersey City, N.J., truck driver, who won $7,305.40 for $2 at Tropical Park, Fla. (9) Gene Sarazen who sank 230-yard spoon shot for a deuce on the 485-yard hole, giving him tie with Craig Wood in Augusta Master's tournament and enabling him to win playoff and $1,500 first money. (10) The Preakness, Belmont and the $30,000 Arlington Classic. (11) Sam Parks of Pittsburgh trailed Golden open winner at Oakmont. (13) "I can't say."

Boston, July 8.—(AP)—All-star game pickups: Charlie Grimm promised he's sending the American Leaguers away from the Beehive bewigged and be GH . . . Too bad young DI Maggio had to flop along with the attendance . . . And all this while some hard-hearted Boston fans were going around referring to the Red Sox as the Red Flops.

Judge Landis showed up in a new hat . . . He won it bribing the weather would be good . . . Jimmie Foxx (don't forget that extra X) looked like the American League goners with a flat curve in batting practice . . . That may have been the tip-off on what was coming.

Al Schacht's solo burlesque of the Schmeling-Louis knockout is his funniest stunt in years . . . Al simply wowed 'em.

Casey Stengel was dashing around checking to see if Van Mungo was still here . . . He was afraid he might have jumped the team," said Casey . . . "I wonder why all these fellows who've been trying to buy Van Gogh's think much of can't start him?"

Tonight's fare was red when Dizzy plucked him off first . . . "You fellows should do your sleeping at night," hollered Dizzy . . . Just as Columbia Lou began the long march to the dugout . . . Gehrig . . . Lou's homer in the seventh was his fourth in the last seven all-star games. But it gives him an average of a single a game . . . Everybody mingled with Joe DiMaggio the life of any baseball party.

One of the reasons the crowd was the smallest ever was because Boston fans have been hearing for a week the game was a sell-out . . . Baseball men are calling Judge W. G. Bramham minor league czar, and Joe Carr, his promotion man. The "Prechidents" had their first fine work . . . In bringing the minors out of the doldrums . . . Owner Tom Yawkey took time out between autographing score cards to inform Paul Krichell that he'd "signed a job he'll be sorry for next year . . . Ditto Eddie Collins".

RUMBURG, KATAN IN MAIN BOUT

First Named Wrestled in This City as "The Unknown"

One of the best programs ever offered at a local wrestling show is that arranged by the Queensbury Club for next Monday at the Belleville Arena. Hal Sumburg, who is matched with John Katan for the feature bout, is in the main event at Lake Placid, Toronto, tomorrow night which is an indication of the calibre of wrestlers being sent along by Canada's leading promotor.

Rumburg's name is new here but has been in Belleville before. His last visit was as "The Unknown." Wearing his sombre black mask he won successive bouts from Ed Meake, Andy Moore and Irish Jack Donovan. Rumburg's reputation word, that the fans will get quite a surprise when they see Rumburg, who hails from Spokane, Wash., without his mask. He is a handsome, blonde athlete, comparatively young and the fans who follow who've been trying to buy Van Gogh's think much of can't be start him?"

RUBE WRIGHT

Making his Belleville debut will be "Rube" Wright, a 225 pound giant, beautifully built, who hails from Texas, where he was a Texas Ranger before taking to wrestling. He is matched with the rugged Al Dunlop.

Wright has appeared at several recent shows in Toronto and has been convincing display of his ability but Dunlop, now weighing well over 200 pounds, has been met by promoter Corcoran as the most improved wrestler in the sport.

SQUIRRELD HOLDS UP TRAFFIC AT PICTON

Automobiles honked stridently in Picton streets on Saturday morning. Pedestrians rushed to the scene of a traffic jam. They milled about in the centre of the street. The traffic slowly started and proceeded at a snails pace behind a large black squirrel which strolled nonchalantly down the middle of the street apparently oblivious to traffic, police and other regulations.

The Missing Man

by

Mary R. P. Hatch

"You say," said Morley, returning to the subject of his questioning, "that the first claimant was unrecognizable in this way?"

"Yes, sir; though he looked exactly like my husband, spoke like him, walked like him, wore his ring, carried his note-book and papers, I mistrusted him, and for this reason:

"And the other claimant?"

"The other's manner, as seen in church, reminded me of Vane; his eyes, also."

"But the color?"

"That was familiar, sir; I noticed it almost from the first. It was what led me to be kind to him, to think he might possibly be my husband, for it even, sometimes, outweighed with me the fact of his dark hair."

"But you did not speak of it."

"No, sir. I did not speak of it, I could not compel myself; to until it seemed as if it would be wrong to withhold the fact any longer. I did not even speak of it to Mrs. Fry."

Mrs. Hamilton thought of the time she had been almost overwhelmed by a sense of this color when Mrs. Fry had opened his trunk, but she did not speak of it. It had been so familiar as to cause her great agitation, though to no one else would any scent have been recognizable.

"There is no good reason for your hesitation, as you must own, Mrs. Hamilton, when you view the matter dispassionately. The sense of smelling is a faculty of which few people possess it in a small degree, it is because we do not need it so much, perhaps, as the other senses. No doubt it could be cultivated.

"You are very kind," said Constance, simply, "and I think you are right, Bill, to ordinary people the matter would appear strange, absurd."

"We shall not speak of it, nor make it any part of our case, unless similar circumstances can be discovered to throw light upon yours."

"I think you are right," said Mrs. Hamilton, arose from her seat, and soon after quietly left the office.

"Whats does she favor, Mr. Sherman?" asked Morley, facing square around and leaning forward a little in his interest.

"Blue," replied his partner, promptly.

"You are right, undoubtedly; and the reason she has just given us."

"Well, it is a strange case, Mark my words, Mr. Morley, if it ever comes to trial it will create a great-er sensation than anything since the celebrated Tichborne claimant trial."

"Why, that was nothing to this!"

"Granted. We shall certainly gain notoriety, if not the case," said Morley, laughing. "Mrs. Hamilton is a smart woman."

"Deep, rather than smart. The way she influenced us to accept the plan was masterly."

"But she was right. Both sides are of interest to her."

"Well, they are about even, though I did think No. 2 hadn't the ghost of a chance."

CHAPTER XI.

THE CLAIMANT

"Go to Morley & Stevens, I think they will listen to you," was all the note contained, but to the recipient it brought more joy, proving as it did that Constance had been quietly working, if not in his behalf, to give him an opportunity to prosecute his claims and prove that title to be either true or false.

Immediately after the receipt of the line from Constance, Elles repaired to the office of Morley and seeming reserved and modest told his story with attention. It is well known to my readers by this time, claimant, as we will henceforth call him for convenience, gave two or three addresses of this character). None of them ever tried to aid me —quite otherwise; and I feel as if it would be useless to count much upon them."

"If it could be shown by any means where you lost your sense of knowledge, how the defendant possessed himself of your ring, or any point of similar consequence, it would be of material aid. Something that somebody may have noticed occurred perhaps on the road to Portland or afterwards. An advertisement might bring out this something. What do you say, Stevens?"

"A good idea. Send one to Rowsall and let him put it before a million readers."

"We will. If you say so, Mr. Hamilton."

"I do; but you say nothing to me about costs, Mr. Morley," said the claimant, anxiously.

"We have talked with Mrs. Hamilton on that. That will do for the present. Of course, we realize how prepared the writ, and so forth. You must study the matter yourself, and not forget to mention any point that bears on it. It will be a hard fight. The defendant has possession in his favor, the countenance of Mr. Carter, and the recognition of his friends, so he always them to be. He has passed through the ordeal of reinstatement. He has been examined by brain specialists, and, as I happen to know, pronounced 'not-accountable. All this, you perceive, is in his favor. Then, too, he resembles the Vane Hamilton we knew perfectly; that is ordinary people would say so, while your resemblance is much less marked, to say nothing of your changed hair."

"Well, call in tomorrow. By that time we shall have arranged the matter somewhat in our minds, prepared the writ, and so forth. You must study the matter yourself, and not forget to mention any point that bears on it. It will be a hard fight. The defendant has possession in his favor, the countenance of Mr. Carter, and the recognition of his friends, so he always them to be. He has passed through the ordeal of reinstatement. Then, too, he resembles the Vane Hamilton we knew perfectly; that is ordinary people would say so, while your resemblance is much less marked, to say nothing of your changed hair."

"No, that would be beat."

"You of course see, Mr. Hamilton, that this sixth, whoever recovers, will not end the matter. The natural outcome will be a suit for perjury and forgery. Then there is the tank mystery still unsettled. One matter follows the other. You have, no doubt, considered all this."

"I have," said the claimant, firmly.

"Well, call in tomorrow. By that time we shall have arranged the matter somewhat in our minds, prepared the writ, and so forth. You must study the matter yourself, and not forget to mention any point that bears on it. It will be a hard fight. EVEN RIVERS DRY UP AS HEAT WAVE SWEEPS WEST

With thermometers rising and little hope held for rain in the near future, farmers of western Canada can do little but sit back and watch their crops burn to a crisp. In western United States conditions are even worse, with drought and grasshoppers laying waste large areas. Even rivers are drying up, as the ABOVE picture shows. This was once a generous stream of water flowing through North Dakota. At TOP, cattle seek vainly for food in parched pastures. Little can be done for them, and they are left to die in the blazing sun.

Pact of Germany and Austria Rumored to Prevent Hapsburg Restoration

AUSTRO - GERMAN PACT TO PREVENT HAPSBURG RETURN

So States Spokesman For Howel Guard at Vienna

NAZIS POSITION

No Knowledge of Such Accord is Admitted in Berlin

Vienna, July 9 (AP)—A spokesman for the Heimwehr (home guard) said today Italy and Germany had concluded a far-reaching agreement to prevent a restoration of the Hapsburg throne in Austria for at least three years.

This secret information, said the spokesman, was received by leaders of the Heimwehr.

He listed four points in the reported accord:

1. Germany's recognition of Italian sovereignty in Ethiopia.

2. Germany's guarantee of Austria's independence for three years.

3. Italy's guarantee there would be no Hapsburg restoration within three years.

4. Austria and Germany to sign a non-aggression treaty on their differences before next Sept. 1 when Nationalist Germany will be reincorporated into the Austrian cabinet.

Agreed Over Nazis.

The last point was taken to mean that the cabinet would be broadened to include Nazi sympathizers who, however, would be responsible to Chancellor Von Schuschnigg. Nazi activities if Germany promised not to encourage Nazi activities in Austria.

Such men would be known as Nationals or Liberals.

The press paleocho of the German legation and a spokesman for the Austrian chancellor stated they had no information regarding the reported agreement.

Berlin, July 9 (AP)—A spokesman for the German foreign office said today he had no knowledge of any accord between Germany and Italy as reported in Vienna.

(A Heimwehr official in Vienna said Germany and Italy had reached an agreement to preserve Austria's independence for the next three years and to prevent a restoration of the Hapsburg throne during that period.)

WORKMEN FIND TASKS BEARABLE

Local Industries Find Heat Not Very Oppressive

In spite of the high temperatures and the prevailing intense heat, many city manufacturing concerns are running their plants to capacity with very few reporting serious inconvenience from the heat waves.

Belleville-Sargent rubber plant employees at 4 o'clock today instead of five. American Hardware Co. told the Ontario Intelligencer that as yet conditions are not unbearable. Some departments have installed working conditions comfortable even under extremes, and unless present temperatures rise, we expect to get along. Some employees were in favour of working from 7 a.m. to noon, but business conditions would not permit it unless the heat became unbearable.

Metal-Johnson, Stephen-Adamson C.N.R. locomotive shops and other concerns report no change in working schedules, although conditions are uncomfortable under present temperatures.

TOO HOT FOR CRIME SAYS CHIEF KIDD

"It's too hot for any violations of the law or crime activities I guess," jokingly added Chief Kidd as the local police blotter showed very few calls. One odd feature was noticed at the police station, however, as the transient register showed that a number of visitors to Canada were afforded a night's lodging in the cell block last night despite the intense heat that prevailed. "How do you account for such a large number of tourists flocking to the police station in search of a night's lodging when it would be much cooler sleeping out of doors?" Chief Kidd was asked. "Well the only answer I can think of is the down Maple boys were afraid of a thunder shower blowing up," replied Chief Kidd with a chuckle. Whatever the reason at the police station last night was the largest of the present month.

'Salt Pills' Prevent Heat Prostration

And speaking of heat, back in the old days in England—and the custom is observed all over the world today—they used to salt their beverages.

Today salt is being used in big quantities over during this torrid months as guard against heat prostration. Salt is obtaining increased sales, and "salt pill" containers have been placed alongside every drinking fountain. One factory reported ordinary table salt.

Boy Born to Mrs. O. Dionne At Farmhouse in Callander

Callander, Ont., July 9 (CP)— A baby boy was born to Mrs. Oliva Dionne, mother of the famous quintuplets, early today.

Dr. A. R. I. Royal officiated. He was assisted by Nurse M. Charette of Callander. Both mother and boy were described by the doctor as in "exceptionally good condition."

The birth occurred at the Dionne farm home where, in May, 1934, the famous quintuplet sisters were born to Oliva and Elzire Dionne.

The baby boy born to Elzire Dionne is her 13th child. Mrs. Oliva Dionne have three boys and eight girls, including the famous quintuplets born May 28, 1934.

In addition to Yvonne, Annette, Cecile, Emilie and Marie, the other children and their ages are: Ernest, 8; Rose, 7; Therese, 6; Julien, 5; Pauline, 2.

Mother is 37 Years old

Mrs. Dionne was born Elzire Legros, May 8, 1905. She was married Sept. 18, 1926, to Oliva Dionne.

The Dionnes have always made their home in the Callander district of Northern Ontario, only a few miles from the city of North Bay.

A little more than two years ago the world was startled and the little village became famous when the quintuplets were born. An ominous secretary doctor attended the mother.

Dr. Allan Roy Dafoe arrived at the farm home two of the babies were born, the third while he was being delivered. Midwives were in attendance.

8 Year Old Girl Killed Running Across Road

Colborne, Ont., July 9 (CP) — Betty Jean Gray, eight-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Arliss of Colborne, was killed last night when struck on the highway at Colborne by a car driven by a man named Smith, London.

The girl had alighted from a car driven by Kenneth Blake, Colborne, which stopped on the north side of the highway in William Quinn, Colborne. Mrs. George Bowler, a passenger in Graham's car, was injured about the face and body.

Coroner Dr. H. M. McDonald has ordered an inquest and no charge has been laid against Quinn.

President's Mother on Way to Summer Camp

Lubec, Me., July 8 (AP) — Bearing a huge Chinese lily, Mrs. Sarah Delano Roosevelt, mother of the President, arrived here yesterday by motor from Boston.

The lily, gift of a Boston friend will be planted in her summer home on Campobello Island, N.B.

Accompanied by her chauffeur and Mrs. Bradford G. Weeks, of Groton, Mass., Mrs. Roosevelt left immediately aboard the Campobello-Lubec ferry for her summer home on the Canadian island.

To a question whether she believed her son would be re-elected she replied:

"People who are not in sympathy with him will undoubtedly make a strenuous fight to prevent re-election."

She ended the sentence with a smile.

FOR SECOND DAY HEAT RECORDS ARE ESTABLISHED

Highest on Wednesday is Reached At Six O'Clock

WARM WINDS BLOW

Berries And Peas Suffer Through Parching Wind And Sun

Gaining in its blistering strength, the sun today established Belleville's temperature at the highest in history, namely 103 at 1:48 o'clock. Half an hour later 103 was still registering on the government-tested thermometer at the city waterworks station.

This temperature was for shade. Temperatures in the sun ran to 140 here.

At two o'clock yesterday afternoon 98 was the high and the best hogs mounting records at that time. 102 was reached.

Only the saving effect of a quite strong breeze lessened the sense of the intense torridity.

Belleville's thermometers which bobbed rapidly upward yesterday afternoon, to register 101 and then 102 degrees in the shade at the city pump house shortly before six o'clock, probably set an all time high heat record for this district, according to officials of that district today.

At the local Dominion Meteorological Laboratory, on East Dundas Street, registrations of the rocket thermometers reached the highest point of 101 degrees late in the afternoon. Registering 16 degrees above the north degrees Fahrenheit.

Although the thermometers continued their upward surge during the afternoon to reach their high peak at about six o'clock, from the time a slight abatement of the excessive heat was noted. Humidity, fortunately, was not so high. It was likely which in a measure relieved the excessive heat.

Likely New Record For Years

"That mark probably will set a record for years to stand," said Mr. Austin, manager of the local waterworks department today, under whose direction the daily temperatures are taken.

"Not since 1921 at least, the first year we started taking official temperatures in the Dominion Park has it been so high. The next highest was 98 which was in the year 1931, a high mark of 101 degrees was officially reached.

"All our thermometers had been downtown and exposed on the

REPAIRING TIRE, FATALLY HURT

Oshawa Young Man Dies Two Days After Accident

Oshawa, Ont., July 9 (CP) — Isobe Graham, 25, of Oshawa, died in hospital here on the last lap today of an accident near Bowmanville two days nights ago. Graham was fixing a tire on the left front door of his car, pulled up at the side of the highway facing west. He was struck by a car travelling west and driven by William F. Quinn, Oshawa. Mrs. George Bowler, a passenger in Graham's car, was injured about the face and body.

Coroner Dr. H. M. McDonald has ordered an inquest and no charge has been laid against Quinn.

GRANDSON SAVES MAN WITH FORK

Drives Off 1600 Pound Bull And Gives Grandfather Time to Escape

Windsor, Ont., July 9 (CP) — Elmer Reiva, 67 year old farmer of Gosfield South township, near here, was gored to death today with his left hip fractured in three places after being dragged up and down the length of his stable by a 1,600 pound thoroughbred Guernsey bull. Reiva's injuries would have been more serious had not his nine-year-old grandson, Jack, heard the cries for help, and come to the rescue with a pitchfork. He drove the tines into the animal and drove him out of the stable.

Reiva then crawled over to the manger and fainted.

Jack had been trying the bull in the stable when a strand in the halter shank broke. He had three fingers through the ring in the bull's nose and he hung on as the animal went on a rampage. After going three feet to the end of the stable and then back the bull had crushed Reiva against the manger. It was at this point that Jack Reiva arrived.

The angle ceased and when Judge McNeece asked Kennazes what he had done, he replied:

"From your bench outside, your Honor, I forgot to turn off the screen."

DESIGNS WARSHIP WHICH HE CLAIMS IS TORPEDO PROOF

Capt. Horton of Halifax Will Shortly Claim $1,000,000 Award

MODEL SUBMITTED

Horton is One of 40,000 Who Offered Plans to War Office

Halifax, July 9 (CP)—An old Nova Scotian master mariner, Captain with 61 Horton had today he would go to England soon to look into his chances of winning a $1,000,000 award offered by the British admiralty for a "torpedo-proof battleship".

"It was while I was living in Truro that I designed the new type battleship," Captain Horton said. "Shortly after the British made the offer of the reward was made by the admiralty "to the person who would send them plans and a model of a practically torpedo proof ship to the opposite corner of the earth." I had several letters from the board of inventions and research in London, and from Ottawa.

"So far as I know," Captain Horton said, "no claim for the award has been made and I am planning a trip to England in the near future to see how my chances are of getting it."

Full details of his invention were with British authorities, he said.

Drought Sidelights

Tallula, Ill.—Farmers of this village refused to visit saunkers with the temperature at plus 100. They slept by day and at night came out to harvest their crops by moonlight.

Aberdeen, S.D.—Traveling salesmen tipped off Aberdeen garage owners how to "air-condition" automobiles for hot weather. The salesman said they just throw a 100-pound cake of ice in the tank each morning, keep the windows closed and ride cooler than usual, according to officials at the Vineland Experimental Station.

St. Paul—The mercury reached its maximum in Hamilton all along the shady side of Lake Ontario, thermometers recorded an even 110. These observations were verified by figures given pavements however, and the highest recording government thermometer was found between 104 and 105.

Tractor workers on the T. H. and B. railway west of the city were forced to lay down on the job today. The hardy crew had never before quit work because of hot weather, the foreman said.

USE ARMED FORCES AGAINST STRIKERS

Paris, July 9 (AP) — An armed force will be used "with care" to put French strikers who refuse appeals to arbitrate business places, Premier Leon Blum declared a Senate said today.

The minister explained that by an armed force he meant gendarmes "without bayonets". Paul Faure, minister of state, concurred in the plan.

Somnambulist Lets Self Drop from Fast Train; Trenton Air Man Safe

Scratches Only Injuries Suffered By Roy Laing

INCIDENT IN N.S.

Though Troubled With Sleep Walking First Incident of Kind

Halifax, July 9 (CP)—Unharmed after lowering himself from a speeding railway train in his sleep, Roy Laing of the Royal Canadian Air Force base at Trenton, Ont., was on his way to his uncle's home in Dartmouth, N.S., today after giving police and railway officials some anxious moments.

When John Aldermaster, a fellow passenger on the Halifax-bound Ocean Limited awakened from a sleep last night as the train sped at 50 miles an hour, he was amazed to see a man hang by his hands from the passenger window sill and let go.

The emergency alarm rang. The Limited came to a standstill. Trainmen rushed back with stretchers. They did not find anyone, but later police reported they had picked up Laing.

"I am troubled with somnambulism", Laing explained. He had been unconscious of what he had done before but it was the first time, he said, he had climbed out of the window of a moving train. Except for scratches from the cinders, he was uninjured.

Racing Yacht is Granted Reprieve

Cowes, Eng., July 9 (AP)—The historic racing yacht Astra," won a 24-hour reprieve today from a watery grave.

Ready for scuttling, she rode at anchor in Cowes roads as unsinkable weather prevented seamen from carrying out one of the last commands of the late King George.

Hartley, the flower-wreathed craft pulled out of her slip ready to go to the bottom at midnight. Her final plunge was set later for tonight.

By the provisions of his will, the late monarch ruled his yacht should first be offered to his sailors. If they refused she was to be sent to the bottom of the channel over which she had been victorious.

King Edward and his three brothers decided this during 1910 when they turned their attentions from marine activities to other forms of sport. The doom of the "queen of the sea" was made almost complete when her hull was bored with many holes to make her death swift.

Tonight, weather permitting, she plugs will let the gushing water into her hull and the last trim craft, originally built in 1862 for King Edward VII, then Prince of Wales, will sink quietly to her last resting place on the shifting sands.

BERRIES COOKED ON THEIR BUSHES

Intensive Heat in Area of Hamilton Causes Losses

Hamilton, July 9 (CP)—Raspberries and gooseberries and similar small fruits were cooked before they hung on the bushes, it was found throughout the Hamilton and Niagara district yesterday.

Grape crops are holding up well in spite of the drought and the yield of cherries will be large, but the fruit is smaller than usual, according to officials at the Vineland Experimental Station.

Dr. W. T. Macoun described the maximum in Hamilton all along the shady side of Lake Ontario, thermometers recorded an even 110. These observations were verified by figures given pavements however, and the highest recording government thermometer was found between 104 and 105.

Tractor workers on the T. H. and B. railway west of the city were forced to lay down on the job today. The hardy crew had never before quit work because of hot weather, the foreman said.

Big Silver Nickel Called Obstacle

Kingston, Ont., July 9 (CP) — "One of the most difficult things the church has to face is the big silver nickel," Rev. H. Ben Rev. John T. Lyons, Lord Bishop of Ontario speaking at the unveiling of a memorial in St. James Methodist hall at Joyceville, 16 miles from here. The big nickel is at wide-spread and as common as six bits, he said. "It is often a matter of wonder to me how people manage to find room to contribute adequately without complaint to amusement. Nevertheless, the church must be realized the problems of the church, they would be of greater assistance."

BRIDGES BLASTED BY ETHIOPIANS

Railway Lines Cut East and West of Awash River

Paris, July 9 (AP) — French officials said today they were informed Ethiopian warriors had blown up several bridges of the French and Italian railroad between Djibouti and Addis Ababa. They said it was reported the line had been cut east and west of the Awash River.

They said Italian troops were pushing the railroad but that the Italian forces were too small to prevent one line being cut.

Officials said they expected the Italians to repair the damage and to put heavier forces in that part of Ethiopia.

Millions of Japanese Bugs Weigh Just Eight Pounds

Little Parasites Reach 'Lab' to go to War to Save Wheat

HENCE TO WEST

A very small box with very live contents was handed over the side of the C.P.R. liner "Empress of Asia" yesterday that vessel coming from the Orient at Vancouver this week.

From it came a strange ticking and buzzing sound. Those entrusted with the care of the small package handled it with careful manner and extreme caution.

All the way from the Orient it had remained in the liner's refrigerator chamber! It is temperature which had never dropped below 37 degrees, nor risen above 43.

The box contained eight pounds of much alive parasite bugs—millions of them—on their way to the local Dominion Entomological Laboratory, packed in special moss. They were despatched from the liner by fast express and arrived in this city in the best of condition.

In the west farmers have about given up hope in their struggle with the destructive insects preying on their wheat. But from Japan came the helpful consignment of parasites which will be carefully nurtured in the local laboratory. Afterward to be sent from here and released in the west to combat the insects.

At the present time corn borers in Hastings and Prince Edward County are receiving information from entomologists at the local laboratory. During the past week or so field men have liberated thousands of the tiny parasites in fields throughout the district, while many millions which have been bred locally will be liberated later in an attempt to reduce the population of the borer which has made such inroads on local crops.

Montrealer Has Two Wives And He Must Support Both

First Marriage Annulment Overwhelmed After 2nd Marriage

SORBONNE PUZZLED

Montreal, July 9 (CP)—Louis Sorbonne was a little puzzled by it all but he has two wives now and courts have decided, for purposes of support, it's perfectly legal. More than that, Louis is responsible for the support of both.

With Mrs. A. Clemence Dachez brought Sorbonne to court yesterday on a charge of non-support. He married her several years ago, Sorbonne told the court and then had the marriage annulled. Louis married again. Three children were born from the second marriage.

Then his wife attacked the annulling judgment. She was successful. The first marriage was declared valid and she obtained a separation and alimony order.

But times were hard. He supported one family for a time, then stopped. The non-support charge followed.

Chief Judge Gustave Perrault was sympathetic. In the absence of a third judgment invalidating one or other of the marriages, he found Sorbonne responsible for the support of both wives.

The chief judge found also, however, that Sorbonne's reasons for failure to support his first wife were plausible and he was acquitted, with the advice to do the best he could by both.

City and District News

COOL NIGHT ATTIRE BEFORE DONNING

At least one resident of the city found temporary relief from the heat last week during before retiring through the absence of worry of using the family ice box for a novel device.

Carefully rolling her nightgown into a compact bundle the lady explained placed that article of clothing attire into the refrigerator, where it was suitably cooled until ready for donning.

The success of the experiment was so assured, that it will be continued as long as the present heat wave continues, it was stated.

WARM WEATHER MEANS MORE WORK

The heat wave has just meant extra work for the local Board of Parks Commission, and although flower beds and grass are rapidly drying out, so far the majority of parks are coming through in fair condition, it was stated by the Chairman of the Board of the Commission who concluded an inspection of the parks today.

TINY SAIL BOAT TRAVELS 110 MILES

A tiny sail boat liberated by W. Harris, 49 Wheeler Avenue, Toronto, and containing a note asking whoever finds the model craft to communicate with the sender, giving the place at which it was picked up, was recovered on the shore of the Sandbanks, ten miles south of Wellington this week by Charles Mallon, Bloomfield. The tiny boat had made the lengthy trip down the lake from Toronto without incident. The craft is 12 inches long, of solid wood construction, with sheets of copper for sails. The rudder was stationary fixed. Behind the mast was a small bottle containing the note.

WEARIED BY HEAT TRAMP REPOSES

Sits Against Solid Wall And Goes To Sleep

A hardy knight of the road expired, apparently by his evening travels, July 7 by the heat at an early hour this morning, and reposed peacefully against the solid wall of a downtown office building.

Police officials of metropolitan trickled through a stubby beard, Mattied, wet hair hung over one eye and his clothes, of nature, obvious at last to the demon heat, showed evidently his intolerant gurgling snores proclaiming that the spark of life had not yet fled.

They die in U.S.—Canada dies only at below in Rainy River."

Believe it or not, a downtown shop window was the unexpected boasting displayed in a prominent place with a view, no doubt to remind the perspiring ponds that the present heat won't last forever.

LOSS ON BERRIES WILL BE SERIOUS

Picking on One Patch Falls From 175 Last Year to 2 This Year

That continued drought and intense heat of the past few days will result in a severe loss to fruit growers, is the consensus of opinion of the majority of vendor-growers on the market here today.

Farmers from West Lake and Hastings state that the fruit is drying on the bushes. Mrs. Herbert Taylor, Gilead berry grower stated that in place of 175 bushes picked from her patch last season, in the second picking she harvested two this year.

With the high temperature keeping farmers in the comparative coolness of this country, a small number of vendors braved the city heat to dispose of their wares.

Abundance of fruit on the market brought a sharp decline from $3.50 per basket to 80c the peck or $3 per bushel with one vendor disposing of all his potatoes at this price.

Raspberries were scarce and realized nearly a 50c per box. Slight movement was reported in this line with purchasers paying only fairly in spite of reported drought conditions.

Red cherries were in quantities maintaining a firm trend at 40c per 11 quart basket. Sweets were also slightly with a scarcity of the fruit selling at $1 per box.

Bilinson Strawberries dropped to the level of whitefish, going at 16c per pound whole and 18c sliced.

Large red raspberries at 25c each brought few purchasers. New cabbage at prices ranging from 5 to 15 cents moved briskly.

Christ Church And Sunday School Hold Annual Picnic

The cool breezes of Lake Ontario flowing across Community Park in Wellington, Ont., played an important part in the success of the annual picnic of Christ Church Sunday School, held there on Wednesday afternoon.

Motor cars transported over two hundred members and officials to the lakeside village where a sumptuous basket lunch was served at an early hour.

Afternoon activities were confined to a splendid program of sports in which grownups and children participated. Races, and the novelty races evoking much merriment held the attention of the community under the supervision of Mr. Vaughan, in charge of sports. A new novelty the "Anyway Race" was introduced, and caused much excitement and entertainment.

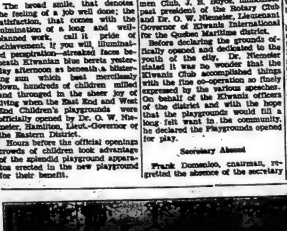
The Sunday School returned to the city at 8.30 last evening concluding one of the most successful picnics in the annals of the church.

RENYE RELEASED

Toronto, July 8 (CP)—Steve W. A. Armstrong, of nearby Etobicoke township, was released last night from the basement of the Lakewood school house after making concessions to the unchipped strikers who had held him.

The news was released while police were making plans to clear the building.

Children Romp and Play as Belleville Playgrounds are Officially Opened by Kiwanians



Dr. O. W. Niemeier of Hamilton Performs Ceremony

LARGE ATTENDANCE

Various Organizations Are Represented at The Opening

The broad smile, that denotes the feeling of a job well done; the satisfaction, that comes with the culmination of a long and well-planned work, call it pride or achievement, if you will, beamed in deep expansion—streaked face behind Kiwanian blue berets yesterday afternoon as beneath a blistering sun which beat mercilessly down, hundreds of children romped and thronged in the sheer joy of living when the East End and West End Children's playgrounds were officially opened by Dr. O. W. Niemeier, Hamilton, Lieut.-Governor of the Eastern District.

Hours before the official opening crowds of children took advantage of the splendid playground apparatus erected in the new playground for their benefit.

Pictured above is President of Kiwanis, Frank Domenico, and some of the Kiwanian taken at the east-end playground which was officially opened yesterday afternoon at two o'clock and at the west-end ground at four p.m. where over $4,000 of new equipment has been installed through the Belleville Kiwanis Club.

Forgotten was the intense heat which radiated from the earth; forgotten were the whistling dust clouds which scrolled and spun as children's feet raced about to explore new places, and new thrills in the swings. Grime-streaked little faces peered wetly with perspiration from their owners raced for the four new sliding chutes. Little tots churned in up to the eddies of sand in neat compact sand-pits. Rotoswings, giddily twirled in the bright sunlight were packed with scores or milling children. Shrieks of laughter rose above the hum of excited voices, when another new thrilling device was discovered. And he threw his "Kids" Day. And he threw his heart and soul open in the sheer exuberance of youth as proud, and appreciative grownups, the most of them parents, looked on, deriving as much enjoyment from the scene as did the youngsters.

Rush To Play

Teeter-boards or seesaws, four alliding chutes with one provided especially for the tots, and the Rotoswings, Giant-Strides, the old-fashioned swings built on the rocker-board and improved horse-shoe pitching pitches received their full vided attention of the children.

Debating terminally were surrounded by a horde of thirsty children. Cooling showers, installed in an enclosure connected with spacious rest rooms in which tired children may repair momentarily from playexertions, drew the delighted applause of the children, with some daring youths sampling the cool water of the showers without bothering to disrobe.

Grimy-faced urchins in ragged pants and soiled shirts rubbed shoulders with neatly dressed children, for the Kiwanis are no respecter of caste or social distinction in their "We Build" ventures. Social differences if there is such a thing in childhood, was not in evidence.

At a table sat two solemn visaged little men with checker pieces on each side one reposed a large box of popcorn. "Your move, Bill," said one. And promptly moved his hand into his opponent's popcorn stack. The incident was over and done with in evidence everywhere, with the boys and girls having a heel more than their young masters.

Wistful and appealing was the expression on the face of a pretty seven-year-old as she stood with brace on her limbs, as she was wheeled about in her chair to see the various sights.

Many Speakers

On a raised platform and with the aid of loud speakers, the short addresses were delivered yesterday to the large crowd gathered to do honor to the playgrounds and the Kiwanis Club, who supervised their construction. Seated on the platform were Frank Domenico, president of the club, who acted as chairman, Rev. L. R. Naylor, who dedicated the playgrounds with prayer, Mayor Harry Hill, George Critchton, chairman of the Board of Education, Rev. A. Beauchamp Payne, chairman of the playground committee for the Board of Education, H. Findlay, secretary of the Board of Education, Wilmot Whitehead representing the Parks Board, Frank Cushing representing the Separate Schools Board, Father Collins representing the Separate School Board, George Paisley representing the Y.M.C.A., Carl Sills, president of the Belleville Club, A. B. Bowen, immediate past president of the Rotary Club of Belleville, O. W. Niemeier, Lieutenant-Governor of Kiwanis International for the Quebec Maritime district.

Before declaring the grounds officially opened and dedicated to the youth of the city, Dr. Niemeier stated it was no wonder that the Belleville Kiwanis Club, with the fine co-operation so finely expressed by the various speakers on behalf of the Kiwanis officers of the district and with the backing of the citizens generally, should have long felt want in the community, who declared the Playgrounds opened for play.

Secretary Absent

Frank Domenico, chairman, regretted the absence of the secretary George Griffin from the ceremonies, as he underwent an emergency operation for appendicitis on Tuesday night but that he was progressing favorably. Dr. Niemeier, Dr. E. O. Cronk and Dr. R. A. Flynn all members of the Kiwanis Club performed the operation. In addressing the assembly Frank said, in part:

"As President of the Belleville Kiwanis Club, I wish to tell you all a most cordial welcome to the official opening of these Kiwanis Playgrounds for East Belleville playground.

"I am very gratifying to these of us who have been endeavoring to work out these improvements to see so large an attendance of citizens at this inaugural function. The Kiwanis Club does not carry out these efforts on behalf of the community for any self-glory or applause. Our motive is a higher one. We do our part and then believe we are performing a public service. Nevertheless we all humanly appreciate to experience a deep sense of satisfaction when we are given to understand that our work is noticed and appreciated.

"I am glad that these well equipped and convenient playgrounds have been made much to relieve of our children. Here they will be able to enjoy themselves to the full under clean and wholesome influences. A remarkable film and entertainment program has been mapped out for the season by the capable supervisor, Mr. Laughlin. He is the right man in the right place.

"When all the members of the Kiwanis Club have performed their service to us willingly and faithfully in this benevolent work, it is perhaps fitting that special mention be made to single out say individual for praise. But I do think I should refer particularly to the fine leadership and co-operation that has had in the untiring zeal of Harold Seldon, chairman of Public Affairs and chairman of the East End Playgrounds and of Albert Boynton, chairman of the West End Playgrounds. These two outstanding Kiwanians by their unselfishness endeavors, have borne an important part in carrying these undertakings through to a complete success.

Harold Seldon Praised

Harold Seldon, who was chairman of the Playgrounds Committee for the East End publicly thanked all those who by their very considerable assistance made the Kiwanis Club was enjoying in opening the playgrounds. He concluded by a surprise a surprise on the gathering by announcing that Miss Fraser, who conducts dancing classes in the city had volunteered her services during the summer for two hours each week and would conduct classes at each playground. This announcement was received with cheers by the children. Harold explained that the equipment was the best that money could buy and he hoped that the children would take the same in a respectable manner and that there would be no mishandling or damage around the playgrounds.

Harry Hill, Kiwanian, thanked the Club for their effort in providing healthy recreation for the children and that the City was most pleased and on their behalf thanked them. "Kiwanis is doing a fine service in this city," said His Worship. George Catron gave a short history of the Playgrounds, stating that the Board of Education and the late Thomas Ritchie had combined to provide a playground in 1919 and the Board since that time has been interested in the City and children and he was proud of the effort of the Kiwanis Club in their contribution of $400 to the equipping of the two playgrounds in each section of the city. Rent Boyce of the Board brought felicitations from that organization and hoped that the opening of the grounds would bring healthy minds and strong bodies to the many children who would participate in play on the premises.

Rev. J. J. Collins, brought greetings from Monsignor Nicholson and the Separate School Board for the Parish displayed by the Kiwanis Club and stated that the playgrounds were the equal of those in Ottawa, which were considered the finest grounds in the Province.

A. Beauchamp Payne addressed his remarks to the children particularly, stating that the playgrounds have grown since last year and all that has been done will be appreciated. The School Board and the Kiwanis Club have worked in co-operation and it is up to both the parents and the children will show the same co-operation. On behalf of the Kiwanis Club, "We

MISS L. GRIER REVISITS CITY

Daughter of Former Rector of St. Thomas' Also Visits In Picton

An interesting visitor in the city today was Miss Lorna Grier, daughter of the late Mr. Grier, rector of St. Thomas Church for over twenty-five years almost fifty years ago. She was a leading figure and popular personality in the community. Miss Grier is in fact serving members of a family of thirteen children and spent her earliest life in Belleville moving to Toronto in 1871. Since then Miss Grier and always made her home in that city. Her eldest sister, Miss M. J. E. Grier was principal of Bishop Strachan School for many years.

Miss Grier has come to the city frequently to renew old acquaintances, but not visit here for years ago. While in this district she motored to Picton for the day and to Brighton. A charming interesting visitor, Miss Grier had only a short time to spend in the city. She returned to Toronto early this afternoon.

EAST SEYMOUR

Rod Seymour—Misses June and Isobel Clayton are holidaying with their mother and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. John Rannie.

Rev. L. Hoyles of Belleville, conducted the parish of St. John's United Church in Campbellford last Sunday morning and preached a very inspiring sermon.

Rev. Harold Peal of St. John's Church, Campbellford, is taking with his family a well-earned vacation.

Miss Allan Simms has returned home from an extended visit with relatives and friends in St. Thomas, Shadeland, Aylmer, Dodsworth, Guelph, Toronto, Markham and other places. She reports that the hay crop in Western Ontario is very heavy, especially red clover, and alsike and red top are also a very short in stalk. Rye was seldom seen more than knee high.

Miss Flora Weatherall has been engaged to teach Senior 4th School, No. 11.

Miss Lena Formerly of Masonic School is engaged by S. S. No. 1 Sidney for the remainder of Miss Leslie Matthews.

Mr. Malcolm Hutchison, who has been teaching in S. S. No. 2 Sidney for years but has resigned in order to attend Queen's University, was presented with a beautiful purse, the camera at the close of the school, in appreciation of the excellent teaching of his pupils.

Two children of Mr. and Mrs. Vance of Detroit, are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Percy Cook.

Mr. Wm. Rannie spent last week with his son, Mr. W. W. Rannie of Monie.

Rev. and Mrs Hugh Shaw spent a few hours with the latter's brother-in-law, Mrs. O. P. McConnell of Brighton recently.

RELIEF STRIKERS WIN DEMANDS BY IMPRISONING OFFICIALS

Toronto and cities throughout Ontario are facing congested efforts on the part of municipalities and other recipients to either have relief increased or to increase the prevailing rate. Demonstrations in North York, on the outskirts of Toronto, in North York township, Brighton, Milnico and other centres, by relief workers active for more than a week, and have caused no end of discomfort to councils and relief administrators, who are unable to meet the demands. In North York, violence flared when police attempted to beat back the crowds. Several were injured in the melee, which saw the retreat of the police and eventual victory for the strikers as the county council voted unanimously to restore the cut. ABOVE layout shows scenes from the demonstration. LEFT, handing in food to strikers keeping relief officers and council members prisoners, TOP, the council as it acceded to the strikers' demands. TWO MEN SOUGHT IN POISONING CASE

Police Locate Store at Which Purchase of Similar Poison Bought

Woodstock, Ont., July 8.—(CP)—Two men were sought hyrpoloe today as they continued inquiries as to how mutilated packages of poisonous paris green got into the well on the farm of John Hall, near Salemburg.

The paris green tainted the water and drew attention of Hall's family to the fact something poisonous was in the well.

First announcement since the packages were found June 26 , by Harry Yart, Hungarian who volunteered to investigate, came from Crown Attorney Craig McKay of Oxford County last night.

It was announced that Kennedy, Otterville Feed merchant, had sold five one-pound packages of paris green to two men he described as "foreigners", about the middle of May. The packages were of the same brand as those found in the well.

No announcement was made as to progress made by police in their search for the two men.

Attention to the Otterville transactions was attracted more by the smallness or the purchase than by the actual selling of a poisonous compound.

Oxford County is an extensive tobacco growing districts and paris green is sold to farmers in huge quantities to kill cutworms.

UNION VALE

Union Vale, July 8—A large number of neighbors and friends gathered at the home of Mrs. Viola Reynolds on Monday night to present the bride and groom Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Reynolds (nee Helen Rebecca Welsh) with a miscellaneous shower of gifts. The early part of the evening was spent in social chat and music. About ten o'clock a large basket beautifully trimmed in white and pink and heavily laden with gifts was carried in by the groom's little nieces, Georgie and Bruce Reynolds, and presented to the bride and groom. After the untying of the gifts, the groom in a few well chosen words thanked their many friends for the lovely gifts, inviting all to come and see them. Lunch was served, and the evening came to a close with every one wishing them a long and happy wedded life.

Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Hudgins of Long Point, spent the dinner hour on Thursday with Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Tipcoal.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Pearsall, Bata, and Leland, were guests Sunday visitors with Mr. and Mrs. Carl Mallory of Bethany.

A large number from here attended the regatta at Picton on July 1st.

Invent Machine to Produce Oil From West Tar Sands

Kingston, July 8.—A machine said to be capable of producing oil from the tar sands of Northern Alberta has been built here by the Canadian Locomotive Company. Officials of the company said it has proved successful in tests.

The tar sands are said to be high in content of gasoline, kerosene crude oil with an asphalt base. The machine is now operating on the hot water washing system in which the oil is separated from the sand.

The machine will be shipped to Fort McMurray, Alta., at the end of the week.

WHEN THE TEMPERATURE RISES

Nothing like the weather as a topic of conversation has been discovered. While the old planet on which man spends his life in the series of generations of men which come and go, it will no doubt make the main topic. Life's real topics and interests are few in number, just as one can say with a certain amount of truth that there are only thirty six dramatic situations in which man can find himself though there are thousands of variations of these.

The weather has a myriad of variations and is so whimsical that therein lies its supreme charm as a human interest.

It does not take long to work up the interest in a heat wave for it brings its own evidence and interest, its own sweat and prostrations, everything to make mankind feel it has come. Most cities of Ontario neared the record for intensity of heat, quite a number crossing the century mark in the shade. Figures of heat in the open of course were very high.

This is the second heat wave of the season, for the latter part of May saw records broken for that time of year. On that occasion Belleville felt the heat intensely.

It is now over two weeks since the summer solstice when the sun reached its height and began the slow descent down into the shorter days. But the accumulation of heat in water and in the land with the stored up rays of the sun continues to increase until late in August. Then September indicates the summer heat is lost its power though there are many warm days in that month.

On a day like yesterday man was delighted that the sun was no closer than over ninety million miles away.

The Statistics branch, Ottawa, provides information as to the temperatures on the average for fifty years. At Toronto in July the average highest for that was 91.6, Lindsay 92 and Vineland 93. The monthly mean for 54 years was 69.5 at Toronto, 67.9 at Lindsay and 69 at Ottawa. Figures for this time for August were 89.4 at Toronto, with a monthly mean of 65.5. September figures were also slightly lower still, 85.6 at Toronto for average highest and 60.8 for the monthly mean.

In the year 1935 Toronto's highest temperature in July was 92.8 degrees, August 88.9, September 81.9.

Yesterday Toronto scored 104.5 degrees in the shade at one point for all-time record.

NEW FORCES FOR ATOMS

"The theologians of the Middle Ages who argued on the number of angels that could stand on the point of a needle are intellectual kin of our mathematical physicists who are trying to explain the nucleus of the atom," says the Ne wYork Times. "Like the angels, the protons, electrons, deuterons and neutrons about which we read are hypotheses. Luminous tracks are seen on photographic plate. They are our only justification for assuming that particles are hurled out of the nucleus. It is a necessary assumption. Without it we could explain nothing about the atom — Rsolf's hypothesis.

"Granting that the mysterious particles are indeed ejected when neutrons batter nuclei, what holds the atom and hence the universe together? Gravitation, electricity, magnetism—none of these answers. These (laws) have no validity within the atom. So at last week's symposium on nuclear physics held at Cornell, Professor H. A. Bethe suggested that undiscovered forces must be at work of which we have no conception. It may be so. But the philosophers among the mathematical physicists will see here another example of the artful dodging in which science sometimes indulges. Not so long ago we were told by Eddington, Jeans and others that to describe the behavior of two electrons is fewer than seven dimensions were necessary, one of which is our Einsteinian friend space-time. Does this mean that the two electrons cannot exist without seven dimensions, just as we cannot exist without air and water? Not at all, admit the learned. Merely that there is no other way of describing what happens when a system of two electrons is formed. Or as one astute scientist put it: (It is not the electrons that require the seven dimensions, but the mathematicians.)

"So it is with the forces that Dr. Bethe believes that we need. His plea is a confession that the mathematical physicist is baffled. It was not God but Newton who created gravitation—created it because a force was needed to explain mechanically how the solar system hangs together and operates. But the relativists have shown that the operation of the universe can be explained without anything so crude and animistic as 'force'. Yet here is Professor Bethe demanding new forces, more forces. Haven't we complexity enough? What we need is unity, simplicity. At one extreme are the stars and nebulae behaving quite in accordance with relativity; at the other, atoms with nuclei composed of hypothetical particles about which very little is known and which must be explained in accordance with a quantum theory that has no relation to nebulae and stars. Oh, for another Newton to link atoms and stars in some superb, dazzlingly simple formula. Our seven dimensions, our longing for new forces would vanish like smoke in air."

UNCLE SAM LAID A HEAVY HAND ON TOURISTS RETURNING FROM THE WEST INDIES well laden with rum and other alcoholic concoctions produced in the isles of the Caribs. Many of them were packing one hundred dollars worth of the juice which cheers and also tangles the legs, thinking it was O.K. to bring that amount in free of duty. A day from port a customs bulletin went up stating that a new ruling had been issued limiting the amount of alcoholics to be brought in by tourists free of duty to one gallon. Gosh, but that put a blight upon the trip for sure. However, a big party was staged the last night out when the passengers tried to absorb the excess gallonage—even at that there was plenty left in the morning in sight of port, and all along the rail could be seen men sadly consigning the last of their excess alcoholics to Davy Jones Locker. It is said that one thousand tourists were effected by the change or clarification of the regulations. The new regulations went into effect forthwith and 300 cases of liquor were affected on the first two tourist ships arriving, with $2,000 collected in duty more than was expected by the passengers who clung to their liquor.

COUNTERFEIT SLUGS FOR SLOT MACHINES have flooded New York city and a wholesale hardware merchant of that city is under arrest for making a business of manufacturing and selling these slugs which take the place of five, ten and twenty-five cent pieces in operating telephone, restaurant coin boxes and subway turnstiles. He was found guilty, the sixteenth of twenty persons arrested in a raid last April to be convicted of the slug racket. The extent of the racket may be in the fact that in 1935 4,277,256 slugs imitating coins of various denominations were dropped in New York Telephone Company coin boxes in New York State, entailing a loss of $344,624. In March of this year the company lost $25,272 in the metropolitan area alone through the use of 330,408 slugs.

"WE BUILD" IS THE SLOGAN OF KIWANIS CLUBS, and the Belleville Kiwanis club certainly has made good by building rest rooms and shower baths on the children's playgrounds of this city. Besides that various devices of modern playground equipment has been installed and everything done to make the kiddies happy and healthy, and protected from auto mobile traffic. Kiwanis has invested over four thousand dollars in the health and happiness of the children and Belleville has acquired well equipped playgrounds of which the citizens can be justly proud. Kiwanis has also contributed materially to the building up of a modern summer camp for boys at Moira Lake, besides a constant series of good works done in secret which have resulted in alleviating much human distress and changing sorrow into happiness. All credit to the Kiwanis Builders why they continue in good works seeking the betterment of Belleville and all that therein is.

MATHESON—BERNEY

Old St. Paul's Church, Delta, which is this year celebrating the 125th anniversary, was the scene of a charming wedding ceremony on Saturday afternoon at four o'clock, when Miss Velma Lorene Berney, Reg. N., only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Berney of Sperton, was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to Donald Ian Matheson, B.A., M.D., son of Dean and Mrs. Matheson, of 51 Queen's Crescent, Kingston.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. A. B. Payne, rector of St. Thomas' Church, Belleville, a personal friend of the brides family, and he was assisted by Rev. A. G. Wahslin, rector of St. Paul's. The church was beautifully decorated by girl friends of the bride with roses and delphinium and the guest seats were tied with satin ribbon and bouquets of pansies. Mrs. T. B. Sheridan presided at the organ and played Wagner's "Romance" during the signing of the register.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was a picture of loveliness in floor length bine lace with large picture hat in pink with blue accessories and carried an old-fashioned nose-gay. The groom was assisted by Dr. Robert Muirie in attendance.

Mrs. Berney, mother of the bride, was gowned in brown figured chiffon and wore a corsage bouquet of yellow roses.

Mrs. Matheson, mother of the groom, wore a pink crepe ensemble and corsage bouquet of white roses.

Guests from out-of-town were Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Elliott, of Kingston, Mrs. A. B. Payne of Belleville, Mrs. A. G. Wahslin of Alberta, and Mr. and Mrs. Bryce Berney of Addison. The ushers for the ceremony were T. B. Sheridan and Clifford Berney.

Following the ceremony the bridal party and guests left directly for the Hotel Manitona, Brockville, where a delightful wedding dinner was served. Following the dinner Dr. and Mrs. Matheson left by motor for a trip through the Adirondack and New England states returning by way of Montreal. The bride travelled in navy blue figured dress with white accessories.

On their return the young couple will reside at 33 Wall Street, Brockville, where the groom will open an office for the practise of medicine.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Westfall Celebrate 40 Years of Marriage

Carrying Place Postmaster Retires Some Interesting Local History

Trenton, July 9 (Special)— Mr. and Mrs. Charles Westfall, popular Westfall were married at the Concession Road on the 5th day of July 1896 by the Rev. Mr. Harrison, of former pastor of the Methodist Church, Trenton. Since the time of their marriage they have spent a very enjoyable time and each has added the other in their accomplishments. Mr. Westfall has run a grocery at the Carrying Place for well over twenty five years, accompanying the grocery business is the Post Office. Last February Mr. Mr. Westfall was postmaster of the Carrying Place office for a period of twenty five years. When he first took over the office it was known as Murray post office and in 1913 Mr. Westfall through his efforts had the name changed to Carrying Place. His wife and son Vernon are sworn in as postal assistants. Since the post office has been under Mr. Westfall, its circulation has increased over one hundred per cent. The Carrying Place postal business is one of the oldest in Canada and according to data held by the present post master it was first opened in 1825. At that time a man by the name of Charles Biggar operated it. Mr. Westfall has held the office under his name the longest of any of his preceding nine post masters. One of the former masters told Mr. Westfall that he remembered when the mail was brought into Carrying Place from what is now Trenton but was called Mud York at that time. Carrying Place was about the halfway point between Trenton and Kingston and the riders rested up at that point. Horrer has anyone tried to hold up the mail since I have been operating the mail route" stated Mr. Distinguished Gentleman. My wife has always aided me in the business and I Vernon also when I was sick that Mrs. Westfall carried bags of mail on her back from the Carrying Place station which is one mile from our store, added Mr. Westfall. The mail has never been held up on account of weather, since he has been in charge but he says that during the year of 1917 and 1918 that it often took him seven hours to deliver his fifteen miles of routes. In conclusion he says that he has enjoyed every year since he has been post master of the Carrying Place office.

Bay Reeds Ended

The Bay of Quinte is a very beautiful and picturesque route to travel by boat and the C. H. A. Roberts, skipper of the cruising launch the Romar of Toronto, the Romar and its crew which was composed of Capt. C. H. O. Roberts, Mr. Marvin and Volker all of Toronto were among the twenty boats that visited Picton's Yacht Club over Saturday and Sunday, Mr. Roberts had not been on the Bay of Quinte since 1917 and marvelled at the many changes since that time. Mostly he noticed that Trenton harbor was no longer filled with dredges and mechanical boats. In conclusion the skipper said that it was the first fourth of July that he has not heard the bursting of firecrackers.

The Hellem of Cleveland a motor cruising vessel from the Vermillion Yacht Club of Cleveland skipped by Mr. William Cooney docked at Trenton over July Fourth. As his comrades skipper Cooney had Mr. W. W. Cooney of Cleveland, Mr. R. Potter of Cleveland and Mr. H. Butterworth of Cleveland. They were here for seven days and spent three weeks. Motor trouble held them up in the Welland Canal, but they enjoyed seeing the scenery on the Great Lakes and the Trent waterway. The group decided to travel through the Trent Canal back out into Georgian Bay and home.

Major Downs Amateurs Big Success

Last Friday and Saturday night No. 14 of Major Edward K. Bowes' celebrated amateurs were at the Capitol Theatre. The cast was made up of Leo Wallers, K. Scott, M. Martin, the three colored boys and many songs and jokes and are known as the three rascals. Two young girls, Miss M. Sarnia and Miss M. Peter made up a dancing team. A Perchell, impersonator of radio pianists was an exception. Mike Ballero, impersonator who was with the contingent that visited Belleville some time ago brought the house down by his perfect imitations of radio, screen and world personalities. Miss P. White featured by her dancing. N. York acted as master of ceremonies and said "all members of the troop liked the town very much and hated to leave. They are now playing at Cornwall and points east.

MOTORISTS SEEK RESPITE FROM HEAT

Endeavouring to procure relief from the intense heat of yesterday, hundreds of citizens lined the bay bridge and its vicinity last evening. The curb of the highway was literally lined with motor cars and other vehicles, filled to capacity, as citizens used the bay bridge road as a rendezvous to endeavour escaping from the heat conditions that prevailed in the city. During the evening a slight breeze crept up that proved refreshing along the bay front, however.

Obituary

JAMES CASEMENT

(Point Anne)

The sudden death of James Casement at Point Anne late Wednesday afternoon came as a great shock to his many friends and deep sympathy is entertained for the family in their bereavement.

All day Mr. Casement had performed his duties as steam engineer at the plant here for the Canada Cement Company and it was while on the way home at about 5.45 o'clock that he was seized with a heart attack and expired immediately. For some time he and his family were aware that he had a heart condition.

Mr. Casement was greatly interested in sports, especially baseball, and for some time he had been the president of the enthusiastic manager of the Point Anne baseball team. Yesterday evening a match was scheduled to be played at Point Anne between the team of that place and the Napanee team. When the latter team arrived Mr. Casement had been dead a short time and the game was postponed.

The late James Casement, who was in his fifty-second year, was born at Hanover, Ont., and came to Point Anne from there where he was in the service of the Canada Cement Company nine years ago. By the officials of the company, his fellow employees and all who knew him, he was well liked and highly regarded.

In religion he was a member of the United Church.

Surviving him are his widow, whose maiden name was Miss Ida Maycock; three daughters, Margaret, Doris and Thelma, all at home; two brothers, Robert Casement, Windsor, Ont.; John Casement, Walkerville, Ont.; three sisters, Mrs. John Fleisch, Walkerton, Ont.; Mrs. C. L. Scott, Mabton, Washington; Mrs. Archie Patterson, Hanover, Ont.

FAMOUS ENGLISH QUADRUPLETS CHRISTENED

A rare picture is this of the christening in the church at Synesbury, England, of the English "St. Quads," children of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Miles, by Canon South Phillips. The children are, left to right, Ann, Ernest, Paul and Michael. Mrs. Miles is holding Ann at the side of the clergyman, while the father has been shoved over to the extreme right; nearly out of the picture.

GOLD MINE AREA SWEPT BY FIRE

Three Reported Missing as Flames Swept by High Wind

Port Arthur, July 9 (CP) — Forest rangers and volunteer crews recruited from mining camps and surrounding settlements battled fiveday blaze in the Little Long Lac gold mining section 160 miles east of here.

Damaging mining properties and burning timber stands, the flames were fanned by a high wind yesterday and three were reported missing.

Report of the extent of the damages conflicted. Ontario Forestry officials said the Hard Rock Gold Mines property so far had escaped damage but that buildings on the property of the MacLeod-Cockshutt Gold Mining Company had been destroyed. Those reported included the bunkhouses, offices and similar structures.

Buildings Escape

John G. Dumbrille, manager of the Hard Rock Gold Mines Limited addition, telegraphed here last night that his company's buildings had escaped and that only minor damage had been caused buildings owned by the Madsen-Cockshutt mine.

Fires were still a hazard in wide sections of the mining area, reports here said. Safety of three unidentified men was still in doubt. Telephone communication from the Hard Rock Mines was restored today and the men were missing. Whether they had fallen prey to the flames or found safety still was unknown early today.

Upwards of 500 men were believed to be fighting the outbreaks today by the directors of Ontario Forestry crews. Reports emanating from the fire fronts told of fire crews being beaten back by the flames.

Gerald Cooper, resident of Ivanhoe, 1,000, was a refugee for many of the settlers in the district. They fled to Ivanhoe, some on the run from the fire, took on serious proportions Tuesday. They carried personal and household belongings.

Obituary

ALEXANDER M. McCOY (Madoc Township)

After a long illness Alexander Milne McCoy passed away at the family residence in Madoc Township, on Wednesday afternoon, July 8th.

The late Mr. McCoy who had reached the advanced age of 80 years, was born in Madoc Township, and had resided there all his life, having been a very successful farmer. He was well known and highly respected in the district. He was a member of Cooper United Church and fraternally he was a member of Madoc Lodge L.O.O.F. and L.O.L. No. 1133 at Hazard's Corners.

Surviving him are his widow, whose maiden name was Miss Ida Bowerman, William McCoy and Earl McCoy at home, and Herbert McCoy of Madoc Township; two daughters, Mrs. Arthur Vermilyea, Thurlow Township and Miss Alberta McCoy, Reg. N., Ottawa. He was the last of his family.

The funeral announcement appears elsewhere in this paper.

At the Theatres

AT THE BELLE

"The King Steps Out"

Once again the golden voice of Grace Moore comes from the screen, in Columbia's new musical romance "The King Steps Out" which opened at the Belle theatre yesterday (Wednesday) before large audiences at each performance.

It is the diva's third picture since her return to the screen, and is as sensationally successful "One Night of Love" in 1934, and the film being "Love Me Forever" which also was well received.

On this occasion Miss Moore has for leading man Franchot Tone, who made his film with Miss Moore in one of the most popular stars on the screen today. Tone is seen in the role of Emperor Francis Joseph, who woos one daughter of Grand Duke Leopold, Grace Moore Connolly—and finally marries another daughter, one might safely presume, would be Grace Moore.

The music in "The King Steps Out" was written by Fritz Kreisler who is accepted as be the world's outstanding exponent of the violin and a composer of classical calibre. He famed composition "Caprice Viennois" is sung in the film by Miss Moore, with lyrics by Dorothy Fields who also penned the words for the other Kreisler music in the picture.

It is a romantic tale that the film tells. The young king is being influenced by his ambitious mother, the Dowager Empress, who wants him to marry Helena, one of the daughters of her brother-in-law Max, with whom she has been at loggerheads for years.

The Emperor commands the girl to come to the castle with her mother, ignoring Max, who, wanting to be on the scene, the Duke takes his daughter Grace Moore) to the castle town incognito. There by pure accident, Francis Josef sees Cissy and falls in love with her, after all preparations have been made to announce his betrothal to Helena.

In a gay, Viennese setting the romantic tangle is resolved and Miss Moore sings many Kreisler compositions, filling the film with her famous voice, Put, then "The King Steps Out" on your "must see" list. It is a refreshing musical romance, pleasantly bewitching picture.

An excellent array of talent features have been chosen to blend in true harmony with the above feature. Manager Doerpinghaus can assure you again of a splendid audience or evening's entertainment in cool comfort at the Belle today or Friday. Performance start daily at 1.30, 7.10 and 9.15 p.m. Saturday presentation commences at 2.15, 7.45 and 9.50 p.m.

AT THE CAPITOL

"Show Boat"

"Show Boat" began making records when Edna Ferber's novel climbed into the best seller class and stayed there like a constant star in the fiction firmament. Then the stage play scored a tremendous hit in New York in 1928. Road shows swept across the country in a trail of triumph. Equal success was attained in London when the play opened there. The New York revival in 1932 proved that "Show Boat" had entertainment qualities which did not dim with time. And now one of the most popular stars on the screen, opened at the Capitol theatre yesterday until Saturday night.

The Jerome Kern-Oscar Hammerstein music retains its appeal. The songs which are inseparable from the play are featured in the film and three new tunes were created by the team pair for the 1936 screen version.

The production is a musical romantic drama, centering on the love affair of Magnolia and Gaylord, dashing river gambler and heart breaker. Most of the action takes place aboard Captain Andy Hawks' Mississippi show boat, with some sequences in New York, Chicago and in Parkers.

The cast contains eight principals in roles they played in the stage production. Irene Dunne portrays Magnolia in the first road company. Allan Jones, featured opposite her as Ravenal, first interpreted the character in a St. Louis stock company.

Those who appeared in the original New York company include Charles Winninger as Captain Andy; Helen Morgan as Julie; Francis X. Mahoney as Robberchaw and Sammy White as Schultz. Paul Robeson, singer of "Ol' Man River" played Joe in the 1932 London offering. There is a singing chorus of 300 voices and a cast of 3000.

Jerome Kern composed the music; Oscar Hammerstein II, who wrote the lyrics, is also the author of the stage play and the screen version.

Former Teammates Tamed as Williams Hurls 6 Hit Ball And Ponies Defeat Locals 7-1

Belleville Players Kick Ball Around For Seven Errors

GRAY LED HITTERS

Small Attendance Due to Intense Heat That Prevailed

Jack "Chief" Williams, who for years pitched 'Belleville ball clubs to dizzy heights, returned to his old haunts in Kingston unfamiliar yesterday and gave the locals a little taste of the medicine they had previously assisted Williams in meting out to other teams as the Belleville hurler pitched the Kingston Ponies to a well-earned 7 to 1 victory over the Belleville squad in a regular C.O.B.L. fixture at the local fair grounds. A scattered few loyal fans were in the stands to sweat in the heat of the hottest day of the year so far, witness a splendid pitching effort on the part of Williams, 71 'tho the locals' hitting was in his favor.

Displaying the poorest form of fielding produced by the local C.O.B.L. squad booted the ball for seven glaring errors and a scattered variable kind, while their errors of omission were equally as bad as the seven of commission. Playing a various game behind H. McIver, the locals looked like a team in the hands of the accepting Ponies at every possible opportunity. Every local player was guilty of errors except Lakefield, Wetr and Gray, the latter two being outfielders, however.

Williams in Rare Form

Williams was in rare form and pitched a steady ball backed by errorless ball by his team mates, the "Chief" literally combed Belleville batsmen for a clean-cut victory. Jack only whiffed three local batters, but twice these strike-out came with men on locals threatened. McIver struck out four, but was slightly wild as he passed an equal number of free passes, Williams only walking four. As the locals collected a hit from only every member of the Daly-led outfit accounted for at least one knight except Webber, the lead off man for the Ponies.

Sozy Cray led the locals with the willow banging out three singles out of four trips. Wetr, Lakefield and McIver collected the other three Belleville hingles, the Williams hits well scattered. In the seventh, when the Wetr-led clan scored their lone tally, was the only instance of the game in which the Belleville team counted more than one hit. Daly, purely Williams' day and he made the best of it by hurling a steady game, at no time exerting himself, except in the seventh when he bore down to strike out Webber with two aboard. The box score tells the tale where seven errors, all practically inexcusable, were chalked up against the locals.

The Play

The Ponies opened with a vengeance to give Williams a three run lead in the initial frame. Webber struck out, Compeau got a scratch hit to short and raced to third as McIver picked up Elliott's attempted sacrifice and threw wild to first, Elliott pulling up at second. McIver struck out McQuade, but walked to Green. Stan thrusted as a junior, stepped to the plate and singled scoring Compeau. On the throw-in Stan knaved the ball wild to advance the Scrutton boys. Corley singled scoring Elliott and E. Scrutton, but Wetr nipped S. Scrutton at the plate for the third out. Kingston added another run in the fifth without a hit being registered in their favor. McQuade was safe on Smith's error, stole second and scored, when Ted Scrutton rifled a sharp single to centre. On the throw-in Scrutton raced for second and arrived at the bag only to be subsequently called out for missing first base. The next two Kingston batters went out to first. The Ponies added three more runs in the sixth and after two were out, the same situation as arose in the initial inning, Joyce whiffed, Williams singled and went to second as Uzonki threw wild to first for an error. Webber sided to left and Compeau hit putting two on. Elliot strolled filling the bases as McQuade hit, scoring Williams and Compeau, Elliott later scoring as the Belleville infield were slow in ridding the throw-in.

Belleville scored their lone tally in the eighth, Green walked and smiled at his ex-team mate, Williams, as he sauntered down to first. St. Louis sided to centre, but McIver rose to the occasion and singled, Green pulling up at second

JOHN KATAN HAS IMPOSING RECORD

Expects to Take Rumburg Who Wrestled Here as "Unknown"

One of the best wrestlers Canada ever has developed is John Katan who will try to hand Hal Rumburg, the former "Unknown", his first defeat when they meet in the main bout of the show at the Belleville Arena next Monday evening. Katan is the former Canadian champion, having won the Canadian title from Earl McCready, who subsequently regained it from him and then departed on a four of Australia and New Zealand from which he is expected to return shortly. Katan was 190 pounds, when he turned professional but was soon down to the 200 pound mark as the result of the physical development given him by wrestling. His gained valuable experience during a three-month period in which he trained daily with Ed "Strangler" Lewis.

JOHN KATAN

During a stormy career, Katan has wrestled the world's best wrestlers, including Jim London, ex-champion, against whom he drew a $40,000 gate at St. Louis some three years ago. He now weighs 215 pounds and, as those who saw him when he beat Al Dunlop here will agree, is remarkably well developed and proportioned.

Rumburg will be making his first appearance here without a mask and the fans are going to be surprised at the handsome appearance of the big blonde heavyweight from Spokane, Wash. He and Katan rate highly and the bout is expected to be one of the best ever seen here.

Two rugged wrestlers will be opponents in the semi-final between Al Dunlop and "Babe" Wright while Dan Sebrof, Bulgarian strong man, is matched with Al Mercier, the "Flying Frenchman" for the preliminary.

CURRENT SPORT

DAY BY DAY

Belleville may well be proud of its new play grounds, they are a credit to the community and monument to the Kiwanis Club, through whose efforts they were made possible. Despite the intense heat of yesterday, hundreds of kiddies and adults commenced at the two new recreation parks during their inaugural. President Frank Desmond and other Kiwanis notables accorded a note of welcome to all and sundry, then the fun started, the kiddies of Belleville frequent the two local playgrounds as often and long as possible. The very latest equipment in playground accessories has been provided while experienced supervision is also afforded the children. The parents need not worry regarding the welfare of their children while playing at either of the local play-grounds. For instance each day Supervisor Thomas has arranged for the program of activities, that range from games for little tots to baseball and basketball games for the older children. Then, the shower baths in the new recreation building should prove a centre of attraction to the little tots during the warm spells of the coming weeks.

Perhaps the less said about last night's Kingston-Belleville ball game, the better. How senior ball players could beat the ball around so prodigiously and with so much as a scratch, is a baseball fan's secret. When the locals were not misjudging every ball presented, they were standing around the field committing the most glaring errors—errors that were somewhat assisted by the near indifference of the most indifferent ball players seen ball. On the other hand, however, maybe we expect too much from the boys. They are only amateurs and doubtless are trying to the best of their ability and given time, will lead from the ranks of the locals the cry of "Play ball!" Anyway, if they are not poor playing, is getting to be a byword locally.

Hats off to old Johnnie Williams. The ex-Belleville hurler did just what he promised to do. He beat the locals single handed and he pitched against them and he well deserved his victory. Of course his team mates gave him their support, but even the locals presented him with errors with their every ball game, but never the less Jack Williams pitched a lovely ball game and gave the locals a taste of their medicine they had previously handed out to the Kingston nine. Incidentally they had previously handed out to the Kingston nine. Incidentally they had previously handed out to the Kingston nine. Incidentally

Heat Wave Sends Citizens In Quest of Cool Breezes; Incidents of Warmest Night

Streets And Lawns Swept By Furnace-warm Air

WARM NORTH WIND

When summer comes—when the mercury mounts and tarry, asphalt streets bubble and stick at their joints, heaving heel prints underfoot, and sirocco-like blasts of furnace heat sweep through downtown canyons as thermometers tell upwards, a yearning wells up in one hundred degrees of summer- heat habits change.

5 to 100 Degree

Yesterday in Belleville it ranged from 95 to 100 degrees in the shade in various sections—one of the hottest days in official records. And from the crowded tenements and flats, from comparatively cool homes and residences of stone and spring residents to seek comfort from the baking warmth.

During the latter part of the day swimming holes and beaches throughout the district were besieged with splashing hordes. The Outlet, the Bandanks, Presqu'Ile, even the miry waters of Moira Lake, in and above the city held their quota of bathers.

Water Pumpage Raised

Highlights on the city's record heat wave:

Thirsty residents again sent pulsing pumps at the city filtration plant working overtime forcing their costs of millions of gallons of water to the thirsty consumers, baths, parched lawns and back yard gardens and land on. "We'll probably set an all time record for pumpage this week," commented Manager H. T. Jones.

Tourists Need No Blankets

Two enterprising citizens, a member, a party of tourists in a large car, bearing California license plates pulled into the city tourist camp for a rest during the afternoon. "And some nights we've needed it in a cool country; we even brought woollens and heavy blankets," commented the manager. Sleeping out on the grass and lazily fanning with a piece of cardboard is the fad, informs the Sunshine State—but Ontario, please!

Relief

Relief in the form of moisture tinged stiff breezes which rippled the bay came in the late afternoon when visited Victoria Park during the afternoon and evening. While on the bay crews of wind and power craft filled with full loads of occupants trailed, launched and bare legs in the water.

The storage men defended the married men in a tug of war pull, while the final event of the day was the ladies' soap race, which caused rounds of laughter and a supply of soap to the winners.

Weeds

"Weeds are tinder dry" report returned visitors from the upper north part of the country, where the same heat condition is reported prevailing. "They are lucky if the harvest is ready in the nights have been rather cool for the time of year for fishing, though, they're simply not biting."

Peraping shoppers were carefully for the most part to choose the shadier side of the streets yesterday and today, completed their business quickly and sought the cooler home pitches.

Overcome by the heat Charles Ponton, Kitchener travelling representative, clutching weakly at an awning support in front of a downtown store was assisted into a nearby drugstore by a passer-by. Yesterday afternoon, where a cooling draught prevailed his condition.

Highway Crowded

While the city presented scenes whereby a comfortable night's sleep could be secured last night, roads and highways through the district were filled with cars until a late hour. In the Bandanks especially, light bathing parties were reported to an extent which is said to beat all boat. Owners of summer cottages nearby, were hosts to less fortunate city friends.

"Too hot to travel," commented the driver of a sedan, who was commodding toward a vehicle which contained but three persons, "business has fallen off about two thirds this week."

"Take a pinch of salt in your glass of water now and then through the day; it'll help you from heading too listless," advised one local tonsilor to a friend.

Walks Blow up

Concrete sidewalks continued to heave and pop with the heat with regularity throughout the city under the expansion of the heat yesterday, it was reported by the department of Public Works. A few instances of highway heaving were reported today, too.

Sun Helmets

Even into the rural districts of the section the dripping heat wave made its effect felt. Rural dwellers, although not exposed to on safari, with new type sun helmets in many cases suspended, articulates in open fields. Livestock grazed in the shade of trees and the spills of the threat of rapidly drying wells, demanded more than usual water rations. Crops and fields among whom heat prostration is not rare, were hardest hit by the blaze.

Occupants

Occupants of offices and staffs of stores sought the cool on the city streets late Wednesday afternoon as fair hot waves of air pouring down from the South, were the prophecies that by mid-afternoon the century mark or over would be reached. During the day yesterday, one of the chief jobs of attendants of the city pumping station was answering the scores of enquiries regarding temperatures. Aided by the troubles of pump house attendants is the fact that the continued heat wave is responsible for the first appearance of troublesome algae now threatening operations for the plant.

Ontario moved into its second day of sweltering heat today with no immediate relief seen from the heat wave.

Temperatures that bounded upgrade for record highs yesterday were again sharply on the upgrade with indications that at least some highs would be bettered or passed.

The Meteorological Bureau in Toronto reported 103 degrees at nine o'clock, daylight saving time. At 10:30 the mark was 96.1. Yesterday's all-time record, reached in mid-afternoon, was 104.5.

Hamilton yesterday recorded 96, Windsor recorded 96 at 1 a.m. after 100 at 10 a.m.

Welland had a mid-morning temperature of 96 and by noon 11 a.m. it was 93 with indications yesterday's high of 100.5 would be reached or passed.

No Respe Yet For Relief.

In Hamilton, where yesterday the top mark was 105, the reading in the city early as eight o'clock was 96 degrees.

In Ottawa, where the mercury shot to 108 yesterday, prepared for another day of excessive heat. One early morning temperature was 84.3.

The weatherman still held no hope of relief. He predicted "very warm" for today and tomorrow with the slight possibility of a thunderstorm.

The blistering heat continued to take its toll of Ontario crops already suffering from drought.

Local fruit, other small cash fruits were hard hit. Hamilton reported that in that district and stretching down to the Niagara area raspberries and gooseberries are already dried on the vines and "cooked" where they hung on bushes. Apple crops, it will be large but the fruit will be smaller than usual. Similar temperature Hamilton hovered around the 100 mark.

Galt's temperature was 103 at noon and 104 at 2 p.m. Guelph yesterday at that hour. The mercury dropped to 100 at 8 p.m. in light breeze. One industry closed its plant. A Coca-Cola soda pop campaign was established in the city. W. Strong, Inspector of the Dominion Fruit Branches, Department of Agriculture, Ottawa, was in Galt, said he did not believe there was any cause for alarm for worry yet in Western Ontario despite the long period of hot weather. He said it would take two or three more without rain before the situation became serious. Farmers report water levels in wells considerably lowered. Gardeners are noticing Blair reported tomatoes "cooking" on the vines.

St. Thomas had four of a water shortage, reporting reservoir storages to last months. Farmers said there was considerable damage to crops for some days.

TWO LOSE HEADS UNDER GERMAN AXES

Peter, Germany, (AP) — Two persons were beheaded today for one sentenced to life imprisonment for the murder of their daughter.

Apolonia Bichs, 51, was executed for the killing of her illegitimate female children of her daughter Anna.

The death sentence pronounced on her daughter, who is 28, was commuted to life imprisonment in consideration of her youth and what was considered her partially feeble-mindedness.

Joseph Brenner, 61, was beheaded after conviction on a charge of murdering and robbing his grandmother.

TWO CARS TAKEN ONE IS RECOVERED

Two stolen cars were reported to the Provincial police early today, one later being recovered. Early today a Ford sedan, 1930 model, was reported stolen to the authorities his car had been taken from its parking position on the northeast corner of Sidney, Later, however, the Provincial police reported the vehicle abandoned on the next concession, Thurlow, and that it had been found by takes as a prank. Later the Trenton police reported that theft of a blue colored 1927 Chevrolet coach bearing license plates M.K.-146, Inspector Gardner later learned the stolen car was seen headed northward on the Campbellford road.

STEEL PRODUCTION CUTS INTO STOCKS

Cleveland, July 7 (AP) — With steel mill production hovering around the 15 per cent basic since 1930 demand for iron ore is cutting into stored stocks at Lake Erie ports.

FOR SECOND DAY HEAT RECORDS ARE ESTABLISHED

Sixth day of the street it is very probable that the mercury will have reached a mark of 100 degrees or more. Whether the actual temperatures were in the sun in a matter of speculation and would depend largely upon the location at which they were taken. They tell us that the Plain north of the city and in the vicinity of the north station was about the city's hottest place."

Vagrant Rescued

Today the blasting heat was likely from the west, thermometers continued their rise shortly before noon, however, to reach a high mark of 92 degrees at eleven o'clock. Early prophecies that by mid-afternoon the century mark or over would be reached.

During the day yesterday, one of the chief jobs of attendants of the city pumping station was answering the scores of enquiries regarding temperatures. UNOCCUPIED HOME AT TRENTON BURNS

Loss is Estimated at $2,000 And Covered by Insurance

Trenton, July 9 (Special)—Only the boiler and a few vacant frame house owned by W. Lake, Colessa, on Sidney Street in this town remains today as the result of a brisk fire which swept the structure commencing shortly after two o'clock this morning. Fortunately the house, which was completely destroyed with an estimated loss of $2,000, part of which will be covered by insurance was unoccupied at the time and contained no furnishings or effects. Awakened by the glare of the burning residence a neighbor summoned the Trenton fire department who fought the flames for over two hours on the hottest night of the year. Starting at the rear of the house from some unknown cause, flames spread rapidly, threatening for a time neighborhood and a wooden barn at the rear.

SUITABLE RAILING FOR CONCRETE LANDING

Erection of a suitable railing on the concrete landing at the steps leading into the fields market at the south door for the protection of market patrons was the latest recommendation of the board of Alderman Thos. Cushing, chairman of Market and City Property. After a report regarding the need for such protection, a request was issued by Aldermen present to the department of public works to remedy the matter.

GARDEN PRODUCE IS WILTING UNDER SUN

Not the least of those afflicted by the present sustained dryness and drought is the unfortunate employed gardeners who during the past week have watched helplessly while their small crops of garden truck withered and wilted under the blistering sun. Many of the gardens are planted in vacant lots without water facilities and the distance to irrigation of the small crops can be done one of the major problems for the workers, in many instances railway than have their hard work for nothing. Many of the crops laboriously carried to patch for a market or a few gardeners.

DRIVER HITS TREE TO AVOID COLLISION

Swerving his automobile to avoid a rear end collision, a motor car driven by Jack Hamilton, Belleville city baker, crashed into a tree on highway No. 2 just west of the Belleville city limits last night. The radiator of the vehicle was badly damaged by the impact but fortunately neither of the occupants of the vehicle sustained serious injuries. Provincial Constable Wm. McBrien investigated and was told that another automobile driven by a friend of Mr. Wryder's car suddenly stopped forcing Mr. Wryder to apply his brakes and drive into the tree to avoid striking the vehicle in front. The car ahead left the scene before collided with the tree.

OWNERS REDEEM PROPERTY AT SALE

The tax sale authorized by the City Council and conducted by Treasurer Percival Ponton was held in the Council Chamber last night with H. B. Stock city treasurer acting as auditor. A great deal more property was redeemed this year than in the past by the owners, who had allowed arrears of taxes to accumulate due to the depression over the last few years. The taking back of property by the owners is a hopeful sign.

POLICE ON LOOKOUT FOR CLOTHING AGENT

The Belleville police department have been asked to be on the lookout for a man representing Clothcraft Ages About 35, weight 155 lbs. 5 ft. 8 in. in height, dark hair, heavy brown hair, may have small moustache, good dresser.

This man represents himself as agent for the Strath Craft Co. of 110 Dundas Street, Toronto, Ontario and carries around on oak sheild about 18 inches long by 14 inches wide, with the name of a large number done in bronze.

EXTRA MILLION GALLONS CONSUMED

One extra million gallons of water pushed through the mains and pumping station Tuesday, pumping city yesterday was only one of the present heat wave. It was reported Chief Engineer Jones of Belleville. Total pumpage for the twenty-four hours reached a high of 3,300,000, it was announced today.

As a result of the unprecedented consumption, pressure at times varied in the lower level house service, falling noticeably during the early evening as hundreds of lawn sprinklers were turned on full force to relieve the dried up condition or parched gardens and parched lawns.

A plea for moderation in the use of the city water during the present heat wave was voiced by manager E. T. Austin today.

"We don't mind the sensible use of the water, but we do ask that waste be avoided for the present period at any rate. Many instances have been noted where sprinklers where services have actually been allowed to run all night. We don't mind the use of water for this purpose, but the department just can't hand this

TORONTO MINES CLOSE

Toronto, July 9 (CP) —Cheaper gold stocks provided most of the mining action on the Toronto Stock Exchange today, but trading was limited. Hard Rock and O'Brien ran into profit-taking and slipped down about 7 cents but Red Lake Malartic and Lake Shore held their own for gold issues were dull and narrowly irregular. Base metals were quiet with exception of Aldermac which traded heavily at about steady prices.

McWatters, Chibougamau, Preston and Sullivan were soft spots, losing up to 7 cents for the East Dome issue. Industrials showed a good volume advancing more than four cents in close over the week. Massey-Harris, Steel of Canada and Canada Malting were the leaders. Imperial moved over points higher. Vmir dropped 1 1-8 cents. Industrial dividend it pays to yesterday's holidays.

TORONTO INDUSTRIALS CLOSE

Toronto, July 9—(CP)—Like the heat trading came in waves today on the Toronto industrial share market, opening slowly, doing better in the second hour, lagging in the early afternoon and perking up again near the close. The waves at no time rose very high and the general tone was steady.

Walkers common and the Canadian Car issues featured the trading. The average stock going up 22 to 25 cents, best advance of nearly two points, while the losses were no more than a point each.

Trade was better than steady and the other interlisted leaders International Nickel, C.P.R. and Smelters lagged. A small advance in the down the city's dollar. Industrial basket. A was up about 3-8. Massey Harris Pfd. lost 1-3 and Cockshutt Plow 1-4.

Produce Prices on Montreal Market

Montreal, July 9—The butter market was steady yesterday, sales transactions in Quebec 92-score on Canadian Commodities Exchange basis of reported at 22 7-8, unchanged from yesterday. Turnover was reported at 1,850 boxes, compared with Tuesday's 2,317 boxes. Closing quotations: Quebec 92-score 22 7-8 traded; Quebec 2nd scores 22 1-4 bid, Quebec May 1st bids, offered at 23 3-4, and Quebec May second bids at 23 1-4 and 23 3-8.

At yesterday's auction of cheese at the Board of Trade 2,948 boxes were boarded, of the total 1,000 No. 1 white sold at 12 5-8, 82 No. 2 white at 12 1-2, 1,000 No. 1 colored at 13 13-16, and 37 No. 2 colored at 11 15-16. Trade result indicated a somewhat firmer market. Closing prices on the Canadian Commodity Exchange were: Finest cheese unchanged at 13 bid for Ontario white, 13 bid for Quebec white and 13 5-8 bid for Quebec colored.

A steady trend, with demand rather this time of the year, was reported in the egg market, graded shipments arriving in carload or less lots, dealers quoted large at 21 1-2 to 24 cents, A-mediums at 22 to 23 1-2, B's at 21 to 21 1-2 and C's at 20 1-2. Canadian Commodity Exchange quoted the following prices: Extra large 24 1-2-25, 1-2-23 for A-medium and 20 1-2 to 21 for C. Grade.

Livestock

Toronto, July 9 (CP)—Trading was dull on the morning session of the Toronto Livestock Market today. There were no cattle sales, one calf market steady and hogs unsettled with indications firm. Lambs were 25 cents higher. Holdover from yesterday was 600 head.

Receipts reported by the Dominion Livestock Branch were: Cattle 130; calves, 120; hogs, 50; sheep and lambs 240.

The calf market was steady with common to medium grades selling at $4 to $6 and good to choice at $7.50.

The hog section of the market was unsettled but indications were firm. Yesterday hogs settled 10 to 25 cents higher for the day's top and variety and became at $8.90 to $9.10. Lambs were steady to 25 cents higher at $13.75 for good ewes and wethers. Heavy sheep sold at $4 to $5 and light sheep sold at $1.50 to $3 according to quality.

Cattle sold at $9.50 to $10.75; medium $10 to $10.50; bucks $3.50 to $3.75; stockers $5 to $6.50.

WALL STREET CLOSE

New York, July 9 (AP)—The stock market got back into a declining cubbins today and scored gains ranging from fractions to 2 or more points.

Less apprehension over the drought and steel labor difficulties, together with the continued flow of favorable business news, inspired buying in the steels, rails, utilities, specialties, merchandising and specialty issues.

Transfers were around 1,300,000

MARMORA

McComb Family Has Re-Union

Two Hundred Members Attend Chard Bridge Outing

Marmora — The McComb family reunion, which is held every five years was held at Chard's Bridge on Friday with over two hundred in attendance. An interesting history of the family is recalled extending as it does to 3rd, 1841, when the late Mr. and Mrs. David McComb, Senior, left their native County of Armagh, Ireland, to reside in Ontario. The old homestead is a little east of Marmora. All Rev. Mr. Reynolds' relatives came from places as far distant as Maryland, N.Y., and Weyburn, Sask., as well as from many parts of Ontario. Melvin McComb was re-elected President and Anson Connors of Campbellford, was re-elected secretary. At the next re-union the centenary of the settling from Ireland of these pioneer settlers will be specially marked. Mrs. C. O. Rhind, Marmora and Mr. and Mrs. Albert Campion, Marmora Township attended the re-union.

The regular monthly meeting of the Eastern Safety Committee was held in the Electric Shop on Monday, August 3rd, with President H. A. Elliot in the chair. G. Brooks reporting for the Suggestions Committee held at twenty-two suggestions having been received. G. T. Nicholson brought in the report of the Competitive Committee. Eleven suggestions were deemed worthy of an award. The star was awarded to the General Division. The report of the Production Committee was given by Wm. Regan. H. O. Loveless will be leading member on this committee for the month of July. Prizes posted during contest were held in the Silver Plant last month and the committee will conduct similar practices in the Oxide plant during the current month. C. H. Rinhard gave the monthly statement of the Benevolent Relief Funds. Following the report of the Publicity Committee given by W. R. Reynolds, the meeting adjourned.

C. H. Smooks of Akron, Ohio, canoeing with his wife and daughter, Imogene at Parker's Cove, Crowe Lake, believe in a fish dinner every day and having lived up to this for one week of his two weeks vacation expects to duplicate it this week. He has been most successful in his quest for bass and has a most interesting collection of artificial flies manufactured by himself which he never substitutes for other bait.

GIFT PRESENTED TO MISS LOUIS AT SHANNONVILLE

Shannonville.—A very happy event took place on Tuesday evening, July 7th, when the members and congregation of Trinity Church met at the home of Mr. Marshall Louis to spend a social evening with Miss Marcella who is about to enter on train as Nursing Sister in hospital. The early evening was spent in chatting and at 8.30 the Rev. Allen Pepper called the gathering to the front room, when the following address was read by Mrs. Pepper:

Dear Marcella,—

In the very near future you are to move into residence and commence your studies as a nurse-in-training, at Belleville General Hospital. As you do this, there will, no doubt, be moments when you will reflect on these old associations, namely, your own home, which has been your shelter in life and over which you have, since the sad loss of your mother, been chaselaine; your schools, both Public and Sunday, where you have worked diligently at the problem of becoming an educated young lady, and then your church, where you have been ever a faithful both in your attendance at Bible Class and in your duties as organist for church as well as Sunday School. We know for a fact that you are interested, willing and capable in your co-operation; and by so putting yourself into these things you have built yourself up into a strong and capable person. Your character is going to be further tested and tried in your period of training. We wish you the very best, kind companions, strength to shew thyself approved unto God, a workman that needeth not to be ashamed." (2 Tim. 2:15). And use daily son such prayer as this:

Give me clean hands, clean words and clean thoughts;

Help me to stand for the hard right against the easy wrong;

Save me from habits that harm.

Help me to work as hard and play as fair in

Thy sight alone as if all the world saw;

Forgive me when I am unkind, and help me to Forgive those who are unkind to me.

Keep me ready to help others at some cost to myself.

Send me chances to do a little good every day.

And so grow more like Christ.

Marcella, a host of friends have each contributed a little in order to present you with these tokens of their high esteem.

With every best wish,

Signed on behalf of the Members and Congregation of Trinity Church.

Marcella, although taken by surprise, made a suitable reply and thanked her friends for the beautiful travelling bag. A dainty lunch was served by the ladies.

Agricultural Field Day held here on the 1st of July was a success, and everyone present enjoyed the ball game and other sports that were run.

The regular monthly meeting of the W.M.S. was held at the home of Mrs. Everett Stratton on Thursday.

Little Miss Bernice Cregg of Hallowy is spending her vacation with her aunt, Mrs. Bert Judy.

Little Benny's Note Book

I was around at the firehouse tawking to Mr. Riley the hookin ladder driver, and I asked if he thawt fishes have feelings the same as people, and he said, Of course there do, you don't have a sense of grallidge, I know that from my private experience.

O, how, when? I said, and he said, One time when I was fishing in the gulf stream, I pulled in a shark that was so big it nearly pulled me over, my lumbago started again. Naturally I was tempted to keep it and present it to a museum with a brass plate saying Cawt by Capt. Riley on such and such a date such and such a year, but there was a certain look in that shark's eye, a sort of a pleading look, as if it was thinking of little baby sharks waiting at home for their dinner so I let it drop back in the water, Mr. Riley said.

Well, maybe I was a man eating shark, I said, and Mr. Riley said, It well, maybe I was, but I am confident that it reformed from this moment, and maybe even persuaded other man eating sharks to change to a vegeterian or at least a fish diet. But I'll get on to the 2nd part of my story. Well sir, a year or two after that I was taking a swim in that very same spot I was attacked by a giant swordfish. Luckily I knew something about fencing, and still more luckily a bed slat happened to float along just at that time, and I grabbed it and the next moment that sword fish and I were in the thick of an unfair wurst fite! Thats probely still being tawked about by the denizens of the deep in those parts, he said, I did my best, and he said, I would of if my weapon had been anything but wood, but no sword fish kept whistling down that

by

Mary R. P. Hatch

The claimant had time far failed to touch their sympathies; whether he would succeed in doing so remained to be seen. But he had startled their interest and curiosity thoroughly, and they plunged into a consideration of the case that very day. The writ was issued, the adversary suit engaged the tentative faculties of both lawyers, possibilities and probabilities were weighed in the balance of common sense and equity, and when the next day arrived they were well equipped to meet the claimant and to converse with him further.

The writ of ejectment was served. Seven days intervened, and a writ of summons followed. Mr. Hamilton agreed to recognize at the first terms of the Supreme Court, and he engaged the services of Stone & Ferguson, whose reputation by many was considered to equal that of Morley & Herens.

Mr. Carter, as it can easily be imagined, was greatly excited by these proceedings. To be continuously borne on the wave of one exciting event to another, without any act of his own was very hard, he considered. Why people could not be content with the established order of events he could not conceive. This Kane would never be reasoned, have dared to put in his absurd claim without the encouragement of his niece. Nothing would come of it but scandal and ruin, and they had had enough of that already. Here were Constance and the children at the Shore House, he and Vane doing their best to put up with Tilly's housekeeping, and now this suit! It was enough to make a quiet, peaceable man groan, and Mr. Carter groaned and ejaculated accordingly.

Mr. Hamilton did neither. Though it was plain to see that he was greatly moved by these measures, he kept quietly at his work-clutter, stormed when in consultation with his lawyers, who had engaged Detective Bruce to aid them in ferreting out evidence for the latter stood when the first Tuesday in November came and with it the trial term of the Supreme Court.

The claimant case was one of the first presented. It was to be tried by jury, and the chief justice and four associate judges were all in the courtroom when the case was called, the plaintiff and defendant occupied opposite sides of the room. The members of the bar sat at one end, the spectators at the other, the judges a little removed by themselves. The State reporter was present, likewise representatives of the most prominent and widely read Boston and New York newspapers; for the case was already widely known and commented upon by the press throughout the country. The principals sat with their counsel, Mr. Hamilton and her uncle together in the audience.

The court-room was small. It was destroyed by fire the next year but at this time its insufficiency to accommodate a large audience was keenly felt, particularly by the many who were turned away after the room was comfortably filled.

It will not describe the preliminaries so much the same in all similar cases, but pass on to more important matters. Mr. Mosley opened the case for the plaintiff in something like the following words:

"It is my purpose to narrate as briefly as possible the main facts upon which the plaintiff relies in support of his claim to the estate fraudulently withheld from him by his brother, Victor Hamilton; but I pause at the outset, almost overwhelmed by a sense of my own inability to present them in a manner commensurate with their supreme gravity. One thing I do assure you: that I am not to justify no wrong-doing. I shall not palliate a crime which is at stake here, to reestablish the plaintiff's claim to his own property, to his own family, and identity, of which the defendant has robbed him.

"To you, gentlemen of the jury, has devolved the task of reestablishment, of returning to the seven-fold joys of home and the honors of his position, my unhappy client. Upon your lips hang the decision whether his home, his family, his property are forfeited forever, and with them all hope of happiness in the community, whose welfare to him up to the time of his most unfortunate loss of identity was second only to that of his wife and children. Your conclusions must be reached without fear or without favor, as no doubt they will be, your conscience alone being your judge of the meditations of your hearts in this great case, which like many at the outset appears to be shrouded in mystery.

"The great burden of responsibility thrust upon you deserves, you demands, the devotion of every faculty of your minds and the most scrupulous attention to every point of the case. If your vision be keen enough, and I think it is, you will see that each event is inevitably linked with other acts which tend to elucidate each other. You will see the mystery vanish, and a plain, unvarnished tale arise in its place.

"You all know the plaintiff as well as I do. It was this man who lived among you over a dozen years, and all that time held a respectable place in the community."

Mr. Morley then broached the subject of the plaintiff's mysterious yearly absences as the result of his promise to a dying mother to seek for his twin brother supposed by all but her to have died soon after he was stolen. "The child, like another boy of Philadelphia, was snatched from his cradle by unknown hands, hidden away where no search could find him. Two years of anxious seeking, and the poor mother nearly frantic all this time! Then an anonymous letter was received, stating that the child had died a month after it was stolen. As time went on and no trace of the child could be found, all but the mother gave up. Meanwhile, Mr. Hamilton, the stepfather, lost the greater part of his property, and after a time, as the years sped, the search for the child was given up as unavailing. And the mother at last acquiesced. But on her deathbed she solemnly charged her son to seek for his brother. 'Take two weeks of every year,' said she; 'you will then have time left for yourself.' He promised. She gave him a ring with the words 'In Deo' engraved inside. Many people have seen the ring. It is now worn by the defendant, whom we claim is Victor Hamilton. If so, the ring belongs to him.

"Now for the proof of the plaintiff's statement in the deposition of the nurse, Hannah Sargent, who confessed that it was she who wrote the anonymous letter saying that the child had died soon after being stolen, for the purpose of saving the mind of her former patient, whom she had often heard say that she should feel better to know her son was dead than living in the midst of evil associates. She was sure that he was dead, or that a trace would have been found of him. And so she wrote that letter; did an evil that good might come. Only weak and foolish people dare to so lay that feeble hands on the wheel of human events. But she did it, and from a good source, she says. Her written evidence will be submitted in due order of trial.

"After his mother's death, Vane Hamilton, the plaintiff, set out on his sacred quest. It was in the month of May, the time set by his dying mother. Seven periods of search followed, the plaintiff in the last two getting upon the track of his long-lost brother. He was let into strange places and haunts, if not crime, of bad reputation until by degrees he became convinced that his brother was no other than Ashley, the notorious bank defaulter, all this time a fugitive from justice. He also learned that this man had a wife named Lenora, or Nora. Thus far his knowledge advanced up to the period of his seventh journey. Mrs. Hamilton would testify that her husband was greatly disturbed in his mind previous to going away; so much that she tried to detain him. He was very thin; his weight was twenty pounds less than usual; he had little appetite, and was exceedingly nervous.

Identity Of Drowned Man Remains Unknown

Cobourg, July 8.—An open verdict was returned by a jury under Coroner Dr. G. Perry last night at inquest held in the city hall to find the identity of a man whose badly decomposed body, bashed by two heavy iron bars, was found floating in the harbor here July 5.

The jury found the body was that "of an unknown man who died at unknown date in Lake Ontario and whose remains were found on July 2 in Cobourg Harbor."

Chief Ross said he believed the man tied himself up. It was pointed out the wire had been twisted together in front of the body within easy reach of the man's hands, which were free.

RAWDON

Mark Birthday Of Former Pastor

Party Motors to Scugog to Visit Rev. F. C. Joblin.

Rawdon, July 8—On Sunday, July 5th a party of ten from Mount Pleasant motored to Scugog Island to spend the day with the beloved former pastor and his wife Rev. and Mrs. F. C. Joblin.

The church is divided into four appointments and Rev. Joblin has two services in the forenoon at 9.30 a.m. and 11.30 a.m. Another is held in the afternoon at 4 p.m. and the evening is at 7.30 p.m. The party arrived in time to attend the service at 11.30 a.m. at "The Head Church" and it is needless to say that Rev. Joblin was most unusually surprised to see his old friends from Rawdon present comfortably seated in the pews when he arrived for his second service that morning.

At noon everyone enjoyed a delightful picnic dinner under the beautiful shade trees on the parsonage lawn and the time sped swiftly by as both Mr. and Mrs. Joblin completed for all their old friends on the Rawdon circuit. The dinner menu included a delicious birthday cake as Rev. Joblin crossed another milestone on July 5th, and his many friends gathered heartily felicitations.

In the afternoon the party attended service at the Indian Reserve where Miss Dolphena Bellowsy was pianist for the occasion. Miss Ethna Thrasher and Mr. John Osgoode delighted with a duet entitled "Every Promise." At the close of both services a number of snapshots were taken of pastor and people and at 5 o'clock the party left Mr. Joblin's twenty years of service in the ministry. No doubt many friends will be missed because of distance were unable to visit the Joblin home but heartily enjoy a peek at the snaps.

After the service Mr. Joblin took the party on a sightseeing tour of the island and they also visited Mrs. Joblin's aged father. Early in the evening the party set out for home regretting to part from Mr. and Mrs. Joblin but Rev. and Mrs. Joblin and her mother wish them God speed in everything as they journey along their pathway.

Those who enjoyed this delightful trip were Mr. and Mrs. Roy Thrasher and Mary, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Smith and Herbert, Mr. Orton Osgoode, and Mrs. Edgar McKeown and Frances.

No More Piles

Get Quick, Pleasant Relief

Probably not one person in ten knows the cause of piles is inside—that circulation of blood in the lower bowel.

That is the scientific truth about piles and the real reason why salves and suppositories do not give more than temporary relief. They do not remove the cause.

Your piles can not be relieved until you have corrected the condition which causes them. That is why internal medicine like HEM-ROID should be used.

HEM-ROID is the prescription of Dr. J. S. Leonhardt, who early in his professional life made many rare trips to relieve piles by correcting the cause. His success proved because it stimulates the circulation, eases the pressure of blood in the lower bowel, shrinks the parts and helps to heal and restore the sore, tender parts.

So if you have hated to get the relief you want from your sore, painful piles, and would like to give HEM-ROID a trial, you have our promise to return your money, if just one bottle of this powerful medicine does not give pleasing results. J. S. McKeown or any druggist can supply you with the genuine HEM-ROID.

HEPBURN EDICT SAYS MOB RULE MUST END IN ONT.

Police Arrest Ten And Charged Under Kidnaping Section of Code

OFFICERS HELD

Constables From All Parts of Province Rushed to Toronto

Toronto, July 10 (CP)—Backed up by the edict of Premier Hepburn that "mob rule is going to end in Ontario" special squads of police swooped down on Hamilton's municipalities early today and arrested ten men whom they charged with participation in the alleged seizure and imprisonment of Stoneboro township officers.

Charged under the same section of the criminal code that deals with kidnapping, the ten are alleged to have forcibly seized and held persons.

Warrants for the arrest of "about two dozen" were issued last night and police intimated the remainder of those sought probably would be taken into custody today.

They were issued by Provincial Police Commissioner Victor Williams after a conference with which Premier Hepburn, Welfare Minister Croll and other government officers participated, Joseph Sedgwick, K.C., of the Attorney-General's Department, was placed in charge of the prosecutions.

Wednesday Reeve W. Armstrong and Relief Officer C. Croth of Stoneboro township were held prisoners in the town hall overnight by 30 men by a crowd of relief recipients who demanded immediate relief and restoration of the officials deposed by the relief rolls.

Others Are Warned List

Alleged leaders of the disturbance in North York and York Township settlements in the week were also said to be on the wanted list. There unemployed seized the relief office and held officials prisoners.

Premier Hepburn said municipal land promoters and officers would join effort to put down "organized agitators" who are "playing relief recipients for suckers."

"They have gone too far during the last few weeks," he said. "We've got to stop. Not only do we intend to see that law and order are observed, but those responsible for disorders action will be fined or jailed so the law's penalties."

Provincial police were rushed to the city from Brantford, Hamilton, Belleville and other points last night. Twenty-five county constables were ordered to Aylmer, where William Keith for special duty, engaging them to operate in the Caledonian municipalities.

Those arrested and charged with participation in the Stoneboro disturbance are: MacDougall, 74; John Walbridge, 50; Stanley Walbridge, 32; John Woods, 26; Charles Irwin, 52; Joseph Sedgwick, 38; George Welch, 43; Louis Burnier, 43; Thomas Young, 47; and Gordon Sackett, 41.

TINDER BOX OF NORTH WATCHED

Lightning Storms Add To Menace of Forest Fires

(By the Canadian Press)

Weary Forest Rangers today watched the "tinder box" of the north, Ontario's forest area, reaching from the North Bay district to the Manitoba boundary, where fires blazed in several districts and possible electrical storms constituted a definite menace to the dry woods.

The largest of the fires were in the Geraldton section, 180 miles east of Port Arthur. Damage estimated at about $250,000 has been done to the MacLeod-Cockshutt mining property where the sawmill building and several others were destroyed.

An extra force of fire fighters was sent last night to wet down and guard the fire between the MacLeod-Cockshutt and Hard Rock properties.

Near Onion Lake, also in the Port Arthur region, five buildings of the Pigeon Timber Company were destroyed by a brush fire that raged along a four-mile front.

Lightning started several fires in the Sudbury district but they were brought under control. Fire fires near Sault Ste. Marie and other blazes in the North Bay area were also reported under control.

Sleep on Lawns, Verandahs To Escape Torrid Heat, Upstairs of Homes Scorching

Residents Seeks Bay Bridge Road And Other Cooler Spots

NO PROSTRATIONS

As a sweltering city and district, almost acclimatized to the unprecedented temperatures, moved into its third day of the present heat wave today new and novel means became the methods of its perspiring citizens to combat the melting mercury.

It was a sleepless night for hundreds of the citizenry, in spite of the fact that beaches, parks and even back yards of homes became the favorite open air camping spots for many.

Eyes rimmed red with the loss of sleep, employees of offices, shops and factories plodded late to work today, or in some instances, stayed home, too fagged to contemplate another day of sweltering toil.

Upstairs Baked

From baking Front Street flats and apartments, from terraces and bedrooms through which heat-laden breezes fail to stir, from curtains in windows faintly, migrated the occupants, complete with kit and bedding, to the open where whispering zephyrs helped play their part in the great game of "cooling off."

FOREMAN FEARED LOST IN BLAZE

Charles Swain's Equipment Found Four Miles From Camp

Geraldton, July 10 (CP) —Search was under way today for Charles Swain of Port Arthur, 37 year old Ontario Forestry Branch foreman, believed burned to death in a forest fire four miles east of here last night.

His equipment, found three miles from the main forestry camp, was picked up by Norman Skinner, fellow foreman, and brought here today.

Ned Sparks as Caustic in Home As on Screen, Says Former Wife

Mercedes Sparks Accuses Cross-looking Actor of Film

COURT TITTERS

Los Angeles, July 10 (AP)—Comedian Ned Sparks of St. Thomas, Ont., was accused in court yesterday by his former wife, Mercedes Sparks, of being as caustic at his home as on the screen.

Testifying in her property suit, she said:

"He told me to get the divorce and it wouldn't do me any good to delay."

"I've already kicked out two wives and it won't hurt to kick you out, too," she quoted Sparks.

"You know what going Hollywood is?—It's a disease."

The courtroom tittered and Sparks' attorney cut in:

"And you got $10,000 for a disease?" he inquired.

"I did," Sparks replied.

HITLER AND DUCE UNITE IN PACT CLAIM OF FRENCH

Fate of Austria Already Decided, Locarno Understood.

NEW OVERTURES

France And Britain Are Seeking to Return Italy to Locarno

Paris, July 10 (AP)—Premier Mussolini and Chancellor Hitler have formed a diplomatic partnership, informed sources asserted today, in the face of British and French efforts to return Italy to the Locarno Treaty Union.

The capitals of Italy and Germany already have agreed on the fate of Austria, diplomats declared, and probably have reached an understanding on the Locarno problem.

France attempted to gain Fascist friendship by denouncing her part in the Mediterranean Mutual Assistance Treaty, which Italian spokesmen asserted, while Great Britain extended an offer of diplomatic peace through her announced position of refusing to back naval strength in the vicinity of North Africa.

The Franco-British overtures were interpreted by officials as being Mussolini-bait attempts to win Italian support in prospective Locarno conferences when the principal subject is expected to be Germany's re-occupation of the Rhineland.

SEAFORTH LAWYER NOW IN TORONTO

Huggard Arrives Early Today Handcuffed To Constable

Toronto, July 10 (CP)—John J. Huggard, 39-year-old fugitive Seaforth lawyer, came back to Ontario to-day after 7,000 miles of wandering as an unwilling prisoner handcuffed to a stalwart provincial constable.

Huggard, wanted on charges of theft and conversion involving probably $150,000, was brought here after a long train journey from Los Angeles where he surrendered voluntarily to California police.

With him was Inspector F. C. Gurnett and Constable W. H. Clarke of the Ontario police.

"It was more than I thought," said Huggard, seemingly summing up the events of the past week-end, a train of events that led to his flight to a Brownsville saloon of the western Ontario town.

"I'm worried and nervous," he said.

Dressed in a moderately dark grey suit, that was rumpled as the day wore on, a pale blue shirt open suit worn by the fair constable Huggard stepped from the train with the officers slightly stooped, looking down.

Appeared Nervous

He paid no attention to cameramen perched on the baggage trucks. His face was freshly shaved, but he appeared a trifle worried and thoughtful. His grim early half was neatly combed and he wore no hat. Slung carelessly over his left arm was a light brown topcoat that fell across the constable's right wrist. Just a tell-tale bit of handcuffs could be seen from behind as the two stood on the platform.

Tweedsmuir Enters Hospital to Have X-Ray Examination

Quebec, July 10 (CP)—A member of the Governor-General's staff today confirmed reports that Baron Tweedsmuir had left Quebec City and entered hospital in Montreal but said he was "not really ill."

The confirmation of Lord Tweedsmuir's entry into Belleville for the first time, may they be blessed with the city which boasts of being "Beautiful Belleville."

Belleville should put on its best face and smile and present a spotless appearance as to streets and premises, while flags and bunting proclaim that Monday is indeed a gala occasion and that visitors are welcome.

Be loyal to your home town and to your country and advance the prosperity by co-operating in every effort to advertise and advance the city.

NEWS BRIEFS AND ODDITIES

High Point, N.C., July 10 (CP) —Edward Pendrow went for a ride in his auto on a train and escaped with minor injuries. Pendrow was pinned in the front seat here past in front of the train. The auto was picked up, carried 180 yards and demolished.

Detroit, July 10 (CP)—It was colder in the north here today, no matter what the official thermometer said.

Cooler, prisoners on the seventh and ninth floors of police headquarters reported, than last night, when six grew prostrate.

In the central heating plant semi boiling water through the cell block radiators. It was attempted to pair Paschal friendship by denouncing her part in the Mediterranean Mutual Assistance Treaty, which Italian spokesmen indicated, while Great Britain extended an offer of diplomatic peace through her announced position of refusing to back naval strength in the vicinity of North Africa.

The Franco-British overtures were interpreted by officials as being Mussolini-bait attempts to win Italian support in prospective Locarno conferences when the principal subject is expected to be Germany's re-occupation of the Rhineland.

Green Bay, Wis., July 10 (CP) —Nancy Dale Freward, 16 year old coxswain of the Green Bay and Western Railroad girls' crew, is accustomed to three men passed over her before the engineer could stop the train at a hospital doctors found Nancy sunburned. The Hills crept to within 20 yards of the tracks.

Luxembourg, July 10 (CP) —Miss Mary Chesley of Lunenburg, a daughter of Mahlona Gaudet, Acadian poet, has willed all her property to the Island.

The native of Nova Scotia died in India last May when she married with Gandhi among the natives. The property left by Miss Chesley is in the province. The extent of it is not known here, it was announced last night.

Toronto, July 10 (CP)—The value of automobiles and all kinds of animals as well as humans, is what Toronto yesterday. Down at Riverside Zoo two bears forged about their difference in value. The female got the pool in their quadrangle and Edward, leopard said. They take turns at going in for a dip, and yesterday, with the thermometer at 101 they forged all about it.

Both were in the same line and paid not the slightest attention to the fact that it was the first time in years they had done so.

Cowes, Eng., July 10 (AP) — Thousands watching yacht races at the late King George's review on the bottom of the English channel today paused to witness a unique funeral ceremony.

The dismantled hull was sunk beneath the waves by a charge of explosives in the form of a huge keg in the ship's bottom. The funeral ceremony carried out the provisions of Sir Thomas Lipton's will which ordered the yacht destroyed if none of his four sons desired her.

DECORATE MONDAY IN HONOR OF THE ORANGE VISITORS

Celebration Committee Asks Co-operation of All Citizens

Monday will see thousands of visitors in Belleville here to attend the Monster Celebration of the Orange Order, held annually on Dominion D.O.L. No. 4th.

The committee in charge of the celebration would appreciate the co-operation of citizens in decorating business and residential premises in honor of the visitors.

The Committee of Excellency entered Royal Victoria Hospital in Montreal for observation and examination at the advice of his physician. The Governor-General would return to the citadel, vice-regal residence here, Sunday, he said.

An official announcement yesterday from the citadel, the vice-regal residence in Quebec City, said His Excellency was suffering "from the return of an old gastric trouble."

He cancelled all engagements for the next few weeks on the advice of his physician, the announcement said.

P. J. O'ROURKE, FORMER MAYOR TRENTON, DIES

Wellknown Figure in Municipal and Newspaper Life Succumbs

WAS IN 82ND YEAR

Has Been Licence Commissioner, School Board Chairman

Trenton, July 10 (Special) — Trenton today mourns the death of one of its oldest, most highly esteemed and popular citizens in the person of Patrick John O'Rourke. Yesterday, Mr. O'Rourke, who held the position of town clerk, was at his office as usual and although he had not been in good health for some time, no one seemed to learn that he had passed away in his sleep during the night. His death was a shock to the entire city and to a host of friends in Trenton and throughout the county. His acquaintanceship was large and throughout his long and busy life he was held in the highest esteem by all who knew him.

Born in Mr. O'Rourke, who was in his 82nd. year, was born at Trenton; his parents, the late Mr. and Mrs. Hugh O'Rourke, being early pioneers of the town. His life was passed entirely in Trenton and at all times he was prominent in the social and business life of the community, constantly interested in all things pertaining to the welfare and development of his adopted town.

Retired Twenty-six Years Ago

At the age of 56 Mr. O'Rourke retired public life when he became a member of the Trenton Separate School Board and from time to time thereafter held many offices and efficiently in numerous public offices. He was a member of the town council for 26 years and in the year 1890 he filled the office of mayor. The Board of Education received also the benefit of his service and he was a member of that body for fifteen years, being at one time chairman. He was a member of the Belleville Separate School Board and the office of Secretary-Treasurer for twenty-five years. In 1907 Board of Health he was active and at one time was chairman of the Board. For six years he was a License Commissioner.

Early in life he intended to follow the profession of the law, but became interested in the publishing business and for about twenty years he was the owner and publisher of the Trenton Advocate. In 1920 he disposed of the paper and became Clerk of the Peace, which office he efficiently filled up to the time of his death. He was also for many years of the Law Society of Ontario and from the Ottawa University he received the honour degree of B.A. In politics he was a staunch Conservative and a tireless worker in the interests of his party, having been active and influential with the Trenton Liberal-Conservative Association. In religion he was of the West Hastings Liberal-Conservative Association. In religion he was a member of the Roman Catholic Church and a parishioner of St. Andrew's Church and was a member of the Knights of Columbus.

Leaves Son and Two Daughters

Surviving him are one son, John O'Rourke of California; two daughters, Miss Bernice O'Rourke of Detroit, Mich.; two grandchildren, Patrick and Jean Cox of Detroit, and his wife, who was the eldest daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Macaulay, pioneers of Trenton, passed away some years ago. His brother, the late Mr. P. A. Fraser, was police magistrate of Trenton for many years. Mr. W. A. Fraser, M.P., Trenton, is a brother-in-law of the late Mr. O'Rourke.

Patrick John O'Rourke was a good citizen and pleasant memory of his name will long remain with those who enjoyed his friendship.

Mercury is Lower at 96, All Reports in Province Indicate Cooler Weather

Hint Offered of Thunderstorm on Saturday

WESTERN OUTLOOK

Restrictions Placed on Use of Water at Sudbury

Relief from the gasping heat which left the city and district in its thrall for the past four days came early this afternoon with reporting temperatures and temperatures lowered by cloudy skies and western winds which strengthened to force soon after midday.

Starting from the highest and earliest mark of the heat wave from 83 at 9 o'clock this morning, the mercury had risen to 96 at the city pump house at 1:30 this afternoon, reached only 94. This was in contrast to the highest registered mark of 103.9 officially registered there on Thursday, 24 hours earlier in the record of local archives. Low at 6:30 this morning registered 76 degrees.

"It is unlikely that it will get any warmer today; if anything we may expect cooler weather for the remainder of the day with hope for cooler weather tomorrow," declared plant officials.

Just one year ago a high mark of 96 and a low mark of 67 was recorded.

Temperature of the bay today was likely 70 degrees, the warmest mark of the present season.

Eight other temperatures for the past four days as given by the pump house are as follows:

Tuesday 73, Wednesday 79, Thursday 81, Friday 83 degrees.

Heat Deaths

Deaths in Ontario believed caused directly by the heat when the victims collapsed and later died:

Peter Gillis, 72, Portsmouth; Mrs. Mary Cook, Toronto; Mrs. Helena Ingemann; Mrs. Caroline Blake, Toronto; Mrs. Margaret Cook, Mooredale; Mrs. Jane Bryce, Toronto; William MacIntosh, Iderton (died in London); Albert Pritchard, Wiarton; Mrs. Mary Ann Ellis, Falls James Lamont, Caledon; Mrs. William McInnes, St. Thomas; Mrs. Margaret Arthur, Toronto; Mrs. Adeline Hill, Toronto; Owen Quinn, 6 months old, Toronto; Mrs. Mary Adams, 72, Toronto; Thomas Morrison, Toronto.

Deaths from drowning during the heat wave: Albert Brooks, Toronto, drowned at Lambton Mills; Frank Olavich, drowned near Cornwall; Lawrence Hall, drowned in Lake of Hamilton Bay; Billy Jutal, drowned in Lake Simcoe; and Joe Collins, drowned at Port McNicol.

156 Drownings in Province

Heavy rains in a few sections and light breezes in others brought little relief, however, and fire hazards were held out scant hope for a break in the heat until indications were given the earliest.

At points in Toronto the mercury had clambered up past the 100 degree mark and Stratford reported 99 degrees at 5 p.m. Cabinets placed through the morning and from many of the city's business cases brought gasps of another day of record-breaking heat.

Thunder experienced a violent storm last night with a wind that attained a velocity of 50 miles an hour and a torrential rain. But the storm brought no break in the heat and early today the thermometer registered 80 degrees with every prospect of climbing near yesterday's record of 101.

Port Arthur reported rain early today but at 10 a.m. the official thermometer again read 80 degrees. It gave promise of going even higher than yesterday.

Northern reported 82 degrees at 11 a.m., three degrees hotter than the same hour yesterday.

France to Spend $130,000 To Entertain Vimy Pilgrims

Doubles Appropriation of Money to Welcome Canadians

FIVE DAY'S STAY

Paris, July 10 (CP)—A sum equivalent to $130,000 is being set aside for the entertainment of Canadian ex-servicemen coming to France for the unveiling of the Canadian war memorial at Vimy, it was announced by the Chamber of Deputies last night.

A previous appropriation of about $65,000 was doubled by the finance commission of the Chamber in order to provide for the pilgrims' stay in France for five days at the government's expense.

The Vimy Memorial is being unveiled by the king late this month.

Drought Sidelights

Milwaukee.—They have to suffer from the heat like everybody else, but Milwaukee's Reverend Fritz Much less because estimates showed beer sales jumped 75 per cent in the last three days, putting most breweries on a 24-hour schedule.

Waukesha, Wis. — Workmen in Waukesha fountains, where high temperatures are the usual thing, installed their best antidote for the sweltering public. It consists of four small tablets per day with three drinking water, to replace the saline substances lost by the body in perspiration.

Bismarck, N.D.—Federal weather observer O. W. Roberts decided North Dakota can't complain when it comes to extreme weather. His figures showed a range of 190 degrees in five months between last February's 30 below at Marshall and Monday's 160 above at Wheelock.

Moffit, N.D.—L. E. Cline declared the heat broadcasts was so intense it tanned wild birds and animals. He has also been pheasant and hare brood sharing the water ration of his chickens and let rabbits chattered around his well.

Menominee, Wis.—Employes of the Menominee Iron Works, anxious to know the temperature in the sun, set up a thermometer. The mercury shot past the 130 mark to the top of the glass column, which broke.

Roma, Wis.—With the aid of a pump and engine once used by the Milwaukee fire department, Bert Hilgoe and Herbert Ric Hickad the drought at their farm. Pumping water from the nearby Sark River, they sprayed the arid portions of their 100 acres with a hose and pipe line.

EXTRA CARE URGED TO PREVENT FIRE

Fire Department Head Comments on Menace of Dry Grass

"Extra precautions against fire should be taken," said Fire Chief Thomas Longhurst today, following the reducing of a grass fire on the Hamilton Road.

With the present intense heat drying up grasses to a tinder-like texture, danger of fire has been greatly increased. Motorists should exercise extra caution in throwing of cigarettes and matches while driving, and picnic parties should also exercise grounds carefully before leaving."

Much might have proven a serious fire was prevented by a motorist throwing a lighted cigarette on Dundas street, Belleville road last night, when dry grasses apparently ignited by the burning cigarette, were speedily subdued by nearby people.

Fire apparatus was called to West Bridge Belleville late last night when Riggs' tow truck burst into flames. The blaze was extinguished before any major damage was done.

BRITISH SHIPS RETURN HOME

Gibraltar, July 10—(CP Havas)—Two units of Britain's fleet concentrated in the Mediterranean since the opening of the Italo-Ethiopian conflict today were ordered to return to England.

The 10,000 ton cruiser Cornwall was due to leave early this morning and the 7,000-ton cruiser Leander was expected to leave later in the day.

SUN GLASSES TAKE FIRE FOR CIGARETTE

The next time Howard Kelly of this city attempts to kindle the short end of a cigarette, he'll stand out of a draught and remove his celluloid-rimmed sun glasses first.

While lighting the butt on Victoria Park yesterday afternoon a vagrant gust of wind blew the match flame toward the inflammable spectacles, igniting the rims. Quick work on removing the blazing glasses resulted in only a pair of scorched eyebrows, the only apparent damage done.

BELLEVILLE MAN WINS PICNIC PRIZE

Several hundred travellers and merchants from Toronto, Belleville and Kingston held their good-will picnic in Cobourg on Wednesday. Sports were held and in the evening a band concert was provided by Cobourg Kilties Band, followed by dancing at the pavilion.

The prize to the merchant and wife who came the longest distance was won by Mr. and Mrs. R. Wright of Burnt River, 86 miles away; the prize to the person attending with the largest family was won by W. Meadows of Newcastle. Walter Luscombe of Belleville, was the youngest grandchild at the picnic, and won a special prize.

SONGSTERS HIDE IN BRILLIANT SHADE

Song birds in the rural districts report observers, have been conspicuous by their absence during daylight hours for the past few days of the present heat, sulking for the most part in the windows of shady trees and nestling out for food only in the wake of the setting sun. Domestic ducks and even chickens have been listed among the sufferers on local farms under the combined heat and dryness.

PIGEON GAPES WITH SUNSTROKE

Victim of sunstroke during yesterday afternoon's peak heat wave, a pigeon sitting open-mouthed on the shingles of an East Dundas St. grocery store suddenly collapsed and tumbled to the sidewalk below, an inert bundle of fluffy feathers. Rescued by a passer-by, it was placed on a shady windowsill nearby where it later revived.

MOTORISTS USE CARE AT CAR FLOOR

The old but novel dodge of filling their sedan type automobiles with blocks of ice for comfort during the hot days through the province is still being used by occasional motorists, it is learned by local gasoline service station operators. These, purchased at convenient towns en route, is placed in special open containers on the car floor, windows are kept tightly shut and a foggy coolness in the interior results.

VETERANS TO OBSERVE DECORATION DAY

At a meeting of the various units comprising the United Veterans of the city held in Memorial Hall last evening, definite plans for the observance of Decoration Day to be held here on Sunday, August 16 were arranged by members. It was decided to refer the program to the Belleville Ministerial Association for final arrangement. Residents of the city will be asked to assist veterans in the matter of donations of flowers for the soldiers' graves in the Belleville cemetery, where the full observance of the day will be made. Representatives of the various units present at the meeting were: Comrade Ernest Hicks, Canadian Legion; Comrade Ernest Hicks, Canadian Legion; Comrade Ernest Hicks, Canadian Legion;

Drums of Oil in Service Station Demolished by Derailment

WALL IS CRACKED

Trenton Golf And R.C.A.F. Teams Tie in Contest

Trenton, July 9.—(Special)—At 6.48 yesterday afternoon, C.N.R. box car pushed on by eight more left the tracks on the siding behind the downtown Canadian National station crossed Quinte St., leaped up over a one foot sidewalk and into the rear of Hotway Bros., repair shop. At the time of the accident Mr. Douglas Huffman of Belleville and Mr. Cesar Pearce of Trenton were in the garage. They told the Belleville Intelligencer that they saw the box cars coming down the siding but thought nothing more about it. Mr. Pearce said, "that he noticed the cars leave the tracks and did not think of the necessity for them to get past the sidewalk". They had got out of the building as the car came crashing into what they were working. Drums of oil behind the demolished wall were crushed to pieces. It is believed that after the slanting engine cast off the cars that Conductor H. Kipson of Belleville, who was riding on top of the cars at the time of the crash could not get the brakes to work. The impact almost took the whole back end out of the building. It is feared that the building will have to be torn down and rebuilt as the crash cracked the foundations. The roof of the garage settled three feet and special care is taken to keep people from walking under the shaky part. Bystanders wonder how the two men in the garage escaped from being injured. Three cars were in the place at the time but luckily all were undamaged. Damages will run high. The extent of the cost of building is unknown.

R.C.A.F. and Trenton Club Tie at Golf

Womans Society Meeting

In the Town Hall last night the Womens Society held their monthly meeting. Secretary John Dewar read the minutes of the last meeting which were approved by President N. J. McNair. The financial statement showed receipts of $48.90 and expenditures of the same amount. The society is the only enough money to last them until December when the secretary. Special thanks were given to the Quinte Transport who brought the coal material down from Toronto free of charge.

Council Meeting

At a meeting of the town council A. Woodcock, relief worker, who was cut off the relief rolls some weeks ago was reinstated. The reason for Woodcock being cut off the rolls it was reported that he refused to work for Mr. Dawson, Wooler Road farmer for $35.00 a month, free board, lodging and milk. The council found that Dawson had not carried out his entire dealings with the accused. He further explained matters to Woodcock's wife, Mayor H. J. Gay said "he thought that there had been a misunderstanding between the two men and for this time and this time only he would give Woodcock a choice. A resolution to build a prefabricating shack building on the Gilmour Mill yard, Glen Miller, was passed 5 cents and family of seven, Wm. Joyce and family of seven from Kingston to settle on the milliard. Newcomers erect shacks and when they have a home to live in the town will draw relief. Police have been instructed to round anyone who starts building on the property. Tenders have been called for the highway back of Bancroft, a number of Trenton men will be employed. Accordingly to report $360,000 will be spent on roads in Hastings county this year. Trenton will have twenty men taken off its relief rolls to work on the stretch of road which joins the unfinished pavement of highway 33 to the Picton highway by May 15th. Relief trucks from Trenton will also be used on the job. It is stated that five weeks two break-ins have occurred on Ontario street. There is no lighting system on the street and it was decided that lights will be erected there in the near future.

FAST DRIVERS and SLOW DRIVERS . .

This message is addressed to BOTH of YOU

ALL OF US who drive motor cars have our individual preferences as to the speed at which we travel. Some of us like to drive slowly; others like to travel faster. (I am not referring to the "speed fiends" who drive recklessly and dangerously, but to the rank and file of sane, sensible drivers.) There is a wide variation in our preferred speeds.

When the road is clear and open, we have every reasonable right to give these preferences free rein, and travel at any speed which suits us—up to the legal limit. But I believe you will agree that when traffic is heavy, it is neither courteous nor fair to travel faster or slower than the general speed at which the traffic is moving.

At such times, the deliberately slow driver blocks the road for all who are behind him. It becomes irksome and worrying to those who have less stripe and less of them—and finally induces them to "cut in" or take chances which they would never take under other circumstances.

On the other hand, it is equally discourteous for fast drivers to cut in and out of the traffic lane when traffic IS moving at a reasonable speed. It upsets and unnerves the more cautious drivers; increases the accident hazard tremendously and invariably saves only a very FEW minutes of time in the end.

I appeal to BOTH kinds of drivers to let themselves be governed by the true SPIRIT of Courtesy—to consider the convenience and the safety of fellow-motorists, as well as their rights. Let us show the same courtesy to others on the highway, that we show to visitors in our homes. It will go a long way toward making our highways SAFER, and in making motoring still more pleasant.

Sincerely yours,

G. D. H. Kester

DRINKING FOUNTAINS NOW PROPOSED

Drinking fountains for thirsty residents spaced at suitable intervals along Front Street through the business section may be the next step in the city council if a recommendation to this effect which will be placed before members by Mayor Harry Gay is favorably received by the motion.

Today Mayor Hill conferred with officials of the local waterworks department regarding the placing of the fountains.

"Belleville", pointed out Mayor Hill, "is one of the few cities where such fountains are not provided. This should be remedied right away. The cost of such fountains would be negligible compared with the benefits received. We used to have them here, and they were always well patronized.

The location of the city hall, Campbell Street corner and upper Front Street were tentatively named as suitable sites for the fountains.

A promise that the matter would be taken up was given Mayor Hill by the waterworks department.

THANK HEAVEN FOR KIWANIANS'

A MOTHER'S PRAYER

"Thank Heaven for the Rivenia Club", Mrs. Ivan Wilson spoke up one of a group of women seated on a bench in the East End Children's Playground, Friday afternoon at the opening yesterday afternoon.

"These playgrounds have filled a long-felt want," she said. "I live in this district intimately and am sure that I am voicing the sentiments of all mothers when I say it is one of the finest things ever attempted in this city.

"We can now feel at home, content that our children are in safe hands, are in a safe place, are being watched by competent men and women, and more important are not playing on the streets and streets with the always imminent possibility of their being run down or injured by traffic."

"We certainly think it is a splendid thing," said a young East End matron, the mother of two bonny children. "We have just moved from a large city where such school had its own playgrounds and the traffic conditions were not as good as they are here. The conditions on the grounds were too crowded, and only today my son came home and said, 'Gosh, mother, I wish we could live in Toronto.'"

Another mother deplored the fact that some people complained about the noise made by the children, and said it is not that they want to be mean," she said "but in the greater majority you will find that the children who have no children of their own. They do not realize the need for parental love, the touch of a little child's hand that will be to the grief from the bringing up of healthy children. These playgrounds are a splendid thing for the city and a decided feather in the figurative blue cap of the Kiwanians."

"Gee, ain't it swell, ma," yelled a chubby little boy as he emerged from a sandpit."

"It certainly is, son," his mother replied, "and you can come over here and play every day."

"Aye, laddie, laddie", a staid Scottish matron told this reporter. "The wee bairns need it, and it's a bit of a'right. Besides," pointing to the lassie "I took the wee savin' on the Saturday night soap."

Announcing
THE NEW "SPECIAL DE LUXE"
FORD V-8

The constant purpose of the Ford Motor Company is to improve its product and pass those improvements along to purchasers in the form of increased value.

Latest proof of Ford value is the "Special de Luxe" V-8. Many of its appointments are newly designed. Others are added for the first time. So luxury keeps pace with performance.

Outside, there are double windshield wipers, gleaming chrome bands around the hub caps, and a graceful greyhound poised on the radiator. Three smart new colours are available—Stonington Grey, Armory Green and Light Fast Maroon — with new, special 3-line striping.

Inside, the upholstery has been richly re-styled and piped with satin cord. Instrument panel and window moldings are finished in satiny walnut grain, with harmonizing hardware. Additions include: high-quality carpet in the front compartment, 30-hour clock in the rear-view mirror, sturdy lock on the glove compartment, handy extension lever on the emergency brake, and a handsome, modern steering wheel. There are new twin horns, too, like those on the Lincoln-Zephyr.

This new beauty, plus the greater gasoline mileage provided by a new improved carburetor, gives you more for your money than ever before.

See the "Special de Luxe" V-8 at your Ford dealer's. You'll like it. And so will your budget!

Is It Hot Enough For You?

YOU'LL hear this old banality often this summer it will make you "hot" because it will remind you of the distress you suffer, the "all-in" feeling that results from heat when the body is not fed properly.

Most people eat foods that build a blood condition that lets them down when hot days and cold days, they stand neither heat nor cold well.

These people, however, give an eyesight to their foods other than that they like or dislike this or that item. No one needs to be "all in" on the hottest day. It needs only building a blood structure with a proper mineral reserve to keep the blood vital and normally fluid. Such blood will draw rapidly from the body's hot interior, relax the skin, dilate and engorge its capillaries, open its glands, etc., and thus eliminate the body's heat into the environment. One is thus enabled to be reasonably on one's toes physically and mentally on the hottest days. Foods that do this are vegetables, preferably those grown above the ground, fruits, preferably raw, milk, Roseau Meal, Bakes-Paddy or Hakes, Kofy-Sub, Postum and Brazil nuts. If from fifths of the food intake is chosen from these foods, and dead starches, sugars and sweets eliminated, you can go through the hottest days without weakness or distress. Do not forget this tip. It will add to your comfort on hot days. Write for free booklet "How

COURTESY CAMPAIGN GROWS

The courtesy campaign on the highways is growing. It should grow in its influence. The influence is infectious. And infectious courtesy on the highway will eliminate much of the slaughter. When the motorist is thinking of other drivers as well as of himself at the one time, he will be careful.

There are many drivers who will ditch a car to prevent hurting a person or even one of the animals. It should hardly be necessary to ditch cars where pedestrians and motorists both alike careful. It would only be the rare case when a driver would be called to accept such an emergency.

But the frightful slaughter on the highways must discontinue even if some drivers have to lose their operating licences. It cannot go on and yet motoring is one of the most enjoyable of pastimes, and one of the greatest of necessities in a mechanized age.

Courtesy, we hope, is the way out of the situation. The Hon. T. B. McQuesten believes that it is. There is no doubt that he is right and if his suggestions is followed up by the great majority of motorists—though all ought to follow it—the deaths and injuries and damages on the highways will be materially reduced.

THEIR ACCOMPLISHMENT

Those boys who are taking the Y. M. C. A. free instruction course in swimming this week and next are preparing themselves for one of the greatest enjoyments and accomplishments.

The enjoyment can be understood on such record-breaking hot days as Wednesday and Thursday of this week, for on such days bathing or swimming helps them to endure and to enjoy at the same time.

When the vast expanse of Canadian waters is looked over there is every reason to insist that every Canadian should be able to swim. It costs little but pleasure to learn. Once having learned there are the developments of this in the line of fancy swimming and diving—accomplishments in which may really make the possessor proud.

RADIO IN FIRE PROTECTION

Experiments by the Sudbury forestry branch with short wave radio communication between its observation towers, in an effort to speed messages and obviate interruptions occasioned by breaking of telephone lines, will be watched with considerable interest in the light of modern developments of the radio and the part it is playing in rapid transmission of information, the effort of the forestry department to still further improve the protective service to Northern Ontario's immense resources of standing timber and its settlers and communities, are quite a natural evolution.

While it is stated that the radio units have been installed in the fire towers merely as tests, there seems little doubt that the experiments will be successful and that the present system will give way to radio within another year.

The last quarter of century has seen many beneficial changes in the facilities for detecting and extinguishing of forest fires. As the Sudbury Star points out, one cannot help but wonder, in the knowledge of recent events, what proportion of the death toll and loss of valuable timber and mining plants could have been obviated in the Porcupine holocaust of 1911 and the Matheson area conflagration of 1916 had the methods in vogue today been at hand in those times. It seems most probable that the eyes of the sky pilots, had the fliers been in service then, would have observed the forest flames in their incipient stage and by telephone or radio made arrangements to subdue them before they spread into a raging inferno that no human agency could overcome. Those were troublesome times, because residents realized the menace presented by the dry underbrush and the spruce and tamerac awaiting the spark and the high wind. And there was nothing much that could be done to avert the possible disaster.

Nowadays, with the aeroplane, telephone and radio, there is obviously a better opportunity to anticipate and curb the forest fire fiend. The changes of a repetition of the tragedies of twenty and twenty-five years ago are minimized through the application of modern equipment, organized protective agencies, and a wider measure of caution. With a greater population, and the boundaries of settlement reaching still farther afield there is, of course, necessity for enlargement and improvement of facilities. The hazards presented by the forest flames are never absent in the average summer season; the expansion of mining development requires added protection, and the Government must keep step with the needs. The radio may be an important factor in preventing a recurrence of the catastrophies of the earlier days, but even it will require to be augmented by the maintenance of daily precautions against the spread of conflagration and its perils.—Port Arthur News Chronicle.

THE LAWYER'S INVOCATION TO SPRING

Where as, on certain boughs and sprays
Now divers birds are heard to sing,
And sundry flowers their heads upraise,
Hail to the coming on of spring.

The songs of those said birds arouse
The memory of our youthful hours,
As green as those said sprays and boughs
As fresh and sweet as those said flowers.

The birds aforesaid—happy pairs—
Love, 'mid the aforesaid boughs, inshrine
In freehold nests; themselves their heirs,
Administrators and assigns.

O busiest term of Cupid's Co.nt,
When tender plaintiffs actions bring—
Season of frolic and of sport,
Hail, as aforesaid, coming Spring!

BELLEVILLE BUSINESS MAN who toured the United States recently declared he found much ignorance about Canada in his travels in Uncle Sam's domains. Most of the people had heard about Canada but were rather hazy about Ontario, and many asked "what state is that" pointing to the motor car license plate. He was pleased as punch when in a movie theatre the news reel flashed on a picture of the new streamlined locomotive recently completed in Canada, and announced as such by the newsreeler. Such a modern monster made in Canada made the Yanks sit up and blink and wondar how the Canucks, yesterday backwoodsmen, trappers and Northwest Mounted Policemen had got ahead so fast.

BELLEVILLE'S BOULEVARD AND BEACH ALONG WATER FRONT from the Waterworks pumping plant to the eastern city limits will some day be an accomplished fact—so will the Esplanade, and citizens will wonder why they waited so long before acquiring such splendid civic assets. W. B. Deacon sold himself on the boulevard idea and is now selling it to other citizens who can visualize bigger and better things for the future, and are not content to rest on their oars in the assumption that Belleville has reached the perfect stage when nothing further need be done to advance the interests of the city and the citizens. The psychological time to start the Esplanade as a relief project was passed up and when it is finaly undertaken it will cost a heap more money than it would have then.

DID YOU KNOW THAT IT IS UNLAWFUL TO TAKE ANY BULLFROG during the months of June and July? We didn't until we looked at the Game and Fisheries Regulations for 1936. Those citizens who have been boasting of feasting on frogs legs recently had better let 'the frogs' legs lie—or can a frog's legs lie? Our frogs must be protected so be careful and not step on one while meandering in the Great Open Spaces. Frogs is Frogs more than ever now that the Government is exercising a paternal interest over them. Mark Twain was the first pilgrim to popularize the Frog when he wrote that piece about the Jumping Frog of Calvearas—which "with a smile that is childlike and bland", a la Bret Harte hasn't stopped jumping yet.

STIRLING

Institute Sewing Class Gives Work Demonstration

Stirling—The members of the sewing class which recently completed a special series of courses under the auspices of the Ontario Women's Institute, which was directed by Miss Ethel MacDonald, Secretary of the Dress Form Junior Institute, who assisted in organizing the class and Mrs. Jos. Wilson, were entertained at an afternoon tea and demonstration of their work at the home of Miss Pearl Bagley. Each member of the class invited three other guests along with their mothers. Demonstration of the work they are specializing in proved interesting to more than sixty guests present. The guests were received by Mrs. Frank Shipley and tea was served on the lawn by several of the girls and Mrs. Symanthia Dix, aged ninety-two, charter member of the River Valley Women's Institute poured tea.

Miss Lulu Hoover acted as Mistress of Ceremonies during the afternoon and introduced the various numbers on the program which consisted of musical selections, readings and brief addresses. The first number on the program was a piano solo by Miss Laura Tucker. Misses Alethea and Lulu Hoover and Dorothy Ulman then rendered an instrumental trio. Readings by Miss Sheridan, Alta Hannah and Miss Margaret Wilson were greatly enjoyed. The first address on number on the program was an instrumental duet by Misses Ruby and Pearl Bagley. Brief addresses of congratulations to the girls for their splendid work were given by members of the executive bodies of various branches of the Ontario Women's Institute including representatives from Wellman's and Pleasant Branches.

District Competition in this particular class of needlework will be held at Belleville Fair and the prize winners will carry on to Provincial and inter-provincial competition and the Canadian National Exhibition.

Defeat Oak Lake

The Stirling Horse Shoe Pitching Club visited the courts of the Oak Lake Club for a regular scheduled tournament on Monday evening and added another win to their credit when they scored a definite victory over the "Oakers" by defeating them 63 to 450. Following is a summary of the evening's play.

On Court No. 1 E. Fox and F. Reiser of Stirling took three out of their four games with Ross and Hannah of Oak Lake. Score 170 points to 116 points. Bill Long and Reid of Stirling took all of their four games with Garo and Nathan score 170 points to 82 points. F. T. Hulin and S. Dalgard also took four games straight in their set against Nickle and Ackey. Score 172 points to 98 points. Hale and Frank made the best showing for the Oak Lake team when they won two out of their four games with Thos. Donnan and Orval Casement of Stirling. In the final tally however, they were low in points with the score being 133 to 144 for the Stirling pair. The total scores of the teams resulted with 661 for Stirling and 440 for Oak Lake.

Boy Scout Orchestra

The Stirling Boy Scout Orchestra an organization which is gaining prominence throughout the district for their fine performances attended the Lawn Social at Wellman's Corners on Tuesday evening when they contributed several numbers for the entertainment of the large crowd in attendance. Those from Stirling were: Messrs. Reginald Matheson, Gerald Sprentall, Stan Eaton, G. Weir and James Ward.

THUMBED NOSE

Arthur Greiser (ABOVE), president of the Danzig senate, who proved somewhat of a problem child to the League of Nations, before which he was called. He gave the Nazi salute in Geneva before the league council, and then thumbed his nose at the foreign press gallery. He demands the ousting of Sean Lester, the high commissioner appointed by the league to see that the Danzig free city's constitution is preserved. Many believe that Greiser is planning a coup that will shake loose the hand of the league (whose word is is), and make Danzig once more a part of Germany.

MADOC

Madoc—The members of Trinity United W.M.S. met in the church parlor on Thursday, July 2nd with Mrs. Tunstiy as leader and the president, Mrs. Hamm, in the chair.

After the announcement of the theme of the worship service, "The Fountain Which Leaps to the Spirit of Jesus," Miss Tunstiy led in prayer. The Scripture lesson was read by Mrs. Hern after which hymn 566 was sung. The devotional leaflet entitled "The Spirit of Jesus at Work" was read by Mrs. Corrigal after which prayer was earnestly offered by Mrs. J. Henderson. A hymn concluded the opening exercises.

A short period of business followed in which Mrs. Hamm expressed the pleasure, felt sincerely by all, on again having in the circle Mrs. Arch. Thompson and Mrs. S. S. Ashley. Reports were received from the treasurer, Mrs. S. S. Ashley and the associate helper, Mrs. Hern. Much interest was shown in the rubric "Mites, Mites, Mites of Time and Money" as was given by Mrs. Rosamond and Mrs. M. Fox, who, in conclusion led a very profitable discussion.

A hymn and the Mizpah benediction closed the meeting. Mrs. Jas. Irwin and Mrs. R. Wellman were hostesses for the social half hour.

'Gunpowder Dry' Fires are Ablaze

Newcastle, Wyo., July 9 (AP)—Two thousand men battled three disastrous fires today in "gunpowder dry" forests of northeast Wyoming.

Two of the blazes were under control but the third raged unchecked within one-half mile of the mountain town of Sundance, in the heart of the Bear Lodge Mountains.

The fire started near the town, which has a population of 400 and only a lucky shift in wind kept the flames from sweeping toward it.

SLEEP ON LAWNS AND VERANDAHS

Again Prince Edward County side roads by the cooling bay became a rendezvous for scores of cars from the city; Massassaga Park and other locations held their quota of machines whose occupants enjoyed the novel experience of picnicking by the light of the moon. The pavilion at Massassaga Park was crowded with full many ride-nimed the bay until the early hours of morning, while the moonlight cruises of boats, also well laden with passengers, echoed across the sultry waters.

Staying in Moonlight

While patchy clouds drifting slowly across breezy skies today, in the rural districts, practically all outside activities ceased during the heat of the day, as was the case on Thursday. Reports of haying and cultivating farms and garden patches by moonlight were fairly common since the first blessing wave of heat entered the district on Wednesday.

Again last night Victoria Park became the favorite spot for out of doors sleepers, who arrived there early in the evening laden with bedding and effects. Even the famous Queen's bench was not forgotten by one man, but was carefully moved and set for the sooner hour in the morning. Again the Bay or Quinte and the lake particularly in the vicinity of the Belleville dock held its dozens of splashing bathers, many of whom were in the water until an early hour this morning.

In the city pet owners were particularly concerned for their dogs and heavy-haired cats, also some of the chief sufferers from the heat. In several instances close attacks of the heavy coats on the dogs was reported in, while one of the first evening cooler locations in which the animals were placed until such evidence of the warmth was noted were family cellars where the cool stone brought relief.

Water for Horses and Dogs

Gasoline stations in the city turned from the more prosaic job of servicing cars and trucks to the humane task of providing cool cans and pails of water for horses and thirsty dogs. Owners of horses, however, including coal companies, bread and milk concerns, watered their animals slowly, with plenty of time out for rest during the heat of the middle day. The bubbling horse watering fountain on St. Paul Street, the only remaining watering station in the city for horses increased in popularity by leaps and bounds. Even drivers of steaming cars and trucks took advantage of the water supply to cool their motors at this location.

In offices and shops electric fans churned and thirsty, dried air almost mockingly, flinging the hot blasts against the backs and necks of workers with little effect of coolness being noted. At the Belleville General Hospital, the circulatory system was taxed to provide comfort for inmates, while extra fans were pressed into service in almost every room.

Lighter Police Garb Favored

Policemen on the beat in the city, obeying the dictates of neatness, even at cost of comfort continued to patrol their territory with tunics closely buttoned and warm helmets perched solidly on their heads. Application for cooler caps, advanced some time ago by a few of the aldermen of the city council has not yet reached the floor of council meetings, it was stated today by Mayor Harry Hill.

At the west side city dump, spontaneous combustion and the heat is believed to be responsible for another fire started there, indicated by the spirals of smoke which now curl upwards from the refuse.

With sweltering conditions showing little signs of change to cooler atmosphere with no cases of prostration another night of torrid atmosphere, wit hno cases of prostration as yet, being reported by hospital authorities.

Cooling Breeze

Although a comparatively cool breeze wafted itself at intervals down Front Street, temperatures according to a street thermometer showed an increase of four degrees at midnight over the night previous. Highest temperature during last night, according to this thermometer was 85 degrees.

Driven From Rooms

Driven from rooms, apartments and other dwelling places by the heat, people flocked to the various beaches, lake shore spots, woods and in some cases cellars, in an effort to attain some respite from the humidity.

Motor cars rolled in a slow, steady procession through city streets all night, Bay Bridge Road was packed with a solid mass of perspiring motorists, parked in an effort to catch elusive breezes. Pedestrians sauntered through streets in various forms of undress until a late hour, with the gals showing a decided preference for handkerchiefs and shorts.

Sleeps on Five Lounges

Dressing robes thrown lightly over pajamas were preferred by the lanky of sex who sought slim beneath trees on their property.

One hotel guest, with a pillow and blanket, found himself on the top section of a fire escape, while another had his bed on the floor of a cool attached to his wrist, in the lavatory overlook him.

And here's an idea for real coolness these sultry nights, if you can stand it. One energetic youth ran two inches of cool water in the family bathtub, proceeded to undress therein and slept coolly, if not soundly, for the balance of the night.

Some Spend Cool Night

Campers at Jones' Creek, however, report a decided coolness, sleeping beneath woollen blankets to attain comfort.

Over in Wellington, Ont., cool Lake Ontario breezes brought temperatures down to a comfortable level, and residents of Prince Edward to arise and don sweaters before washing for the morning.

On the top of a Front Street building last evening two young women sat and thought what breeze was finding its way over the main street.

Houses turned dark last night, indeed only for a little time were

Verandahs Slowly Wakened

City verandahs were transformed into sleeping quarters by the magic touch of a blanket and a pillow in scores of homes last night. One early morning pedestrian, sighting the somewhat unusual spectacle of a pair of dainty feet protruding from the rails of a second story verandah, stared in surprise and was on the verge of turning in an alarm when a pretty young lady, pyjama clad and red of face hurriedly withdrew the pedal extremities and fled to the hot safety of the room.

"Shucks, you young people don't know what heat is," declared a 76-year-old Prince Edward County lady who is visiting in the city. "Grandson, attempting to make an appearance at the regular hour, visited her bedroom and discovered her sleeping beneath a woollen blanket, sound asleep. This is nothing she declared, "why years ago, if the thermometer didn't register at least 100 during the summer, we thought we were in for an early fall. And she turned over and resumed her morning sleep.

Kittens on Refrigerator

In a downtown confectionery store, three kittens, seeking respite from the heat found comfort on the top of an electric refrigerator where they stretched out and went to sleep.

The novel sight of people with blankets beneath their arms making for the cool shade of trees and hedges has featured the heat wave which has engulfed the immediate district of the city.

Shamber Under Trees

With the thermometer registering 90 in the shade, Picton residents left the heat and humidity of their homes to seek respite beneath trees by trees.

Highways and sidereads leading into the city were dotted with automobiles, parked in convenient spots with others seeking rest. Morpheus beneath fences and hedges.

185 at Camillton

Camillton authorities report a temperature of 105 degrees yesterday with "no degree of discomfort experienced."

Shannonville residents are carrying on despite severe inconvenience caused by the heat. No prostration cases or physical ill-effects have resulted as yet.

Obituary

MISS MARY A. WADDELL

Miss Mary Ann Waddell, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. James Waddell, passed away this Friday morning at the residence of her niece, Mrs. D. V. Huffman, 80 Grove Street where she had made her home. She was a native of Thurlow, was born in Belleville and resided in this vicinity all her life. She was a faithful member of St. Michael's Church. Survived by one sister, Mrs. Edward Cronk of Toronto. The funeral notice appears elsewhere in the paper.

JUNE FAY LATTA

June Fay Latta, age one year and ten days, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lorne Latta, 182 Tennent Street, died early this Friday morning at the Belleville General Hospital. She was one of twins.

The parents will have the sympathy of many friends in their bereavement.

MISS GRACE FRAME

After an illness of six weeks' duration Miss Grace Frame passed away on Thursday, July 9th, at the residence of her niece, Mrs. R. H. Muir, 158 Bleecker Avenue.

The late Miss Frame, who was in her 79th year, was born in Marlowe Township, her parents being the late Mr. and Mrs. George Frame. For some years she resided at Stratford and for the past five years she had made her home with her niece in Belleville. She was a faithful member of the Presbyterian Church and by all who knew her she was held in high esteem.

Surviving her are one sister, Mrs. T. Smith, Stratford, Ont.; two brothers Mr. John Frame and Mr. Alex. Frame, both of Detroit, Mich., and one niece, Mrs. R. H. Muir, Belleville.

Interment will be made at Stratford, Saturday afternoon.

MRS. WM. YOUNG

Eldorado, (Special)—On Thursday, July 2nd Mrs. Wm. Young a highly respected resident of Cooper passed away after a lingering illness in her 84th year. The late Mrs. Young was born in Ameliasburgh where she resided until most of her life. Her maiden name was Bessie Canniff and thirty years ago was united in marriage to Mr. Wm. Young of Cooper. To this union three children were born Mrs. Young was an active member of the United Church and also a member of the W.M.S.

The funeral took place from her residence in Cooper to the Cooper United Church on Saturday afternoon, where she was laid to rest. Rev. W. G. Fletcher conducted a very impressive service. He chose as his text Hebrews 12:1 and spoke comforting words to the bereaved. The choir rendered the hymns, "Till Mother I'll be there" and "The More Good-Bye".

Interment was made in Cooper Cemetery.

The surviving members of her family left to mourn are her husband, Wm. Young, Cooper; one son at home, Two daughters Mrs. Herb. Sine, Cooper and Mrs. Irving Sherrow (Dora). Four grandchildren, three sisters Mrs. Jas. Canniff (Annie) Mrs. W. Hannah of Bannockburn and Mrs. Gilroy of Belleville. Also two brothers Mrs. John Canniff; Mr. Jake Canniff; Mr. Peter Canniff and Mr. Wm. Canniff of Cooper.

The bearers were— Messrs. Albert Graham, Wm .R. Rollins; Wm. J. Rollins; George Harris; Jos. Rollins and Stanley Rollins.

The beautiful floral offerings which banked the casket showed the high esteem in which the deceased was held.

MRS. ELLEN B. BUCKS

Another one of the older generation of Belleville has gone in the person of Mrs. Ellen B. Bucks who died at her home on Foster Avenue on 9th July.

Mrs. Bucks, who was the daughter of the late Robert M. and Marla Clarke, was born in this city nearly eighty years ago. She trained for a nurse in her early womanhood, at Grace Hospital, Toronto, and at graduation was awarded the "Vanderbourne Gold Medal" being the first graduate to win that honour. For a short time after graduation she acted as assistant superintendent of Sick Children's Hospital, after which she was selected by the Board of Governors as Superintendent of Grace Hospital, from which she had graduated only a short time before.

She filled this position for several years, when she accepted a similar position in the Samia General Hospital.

While there she married Julius P. Bucks, K.C., who was crown attorney for the County of Lambton, who predeceased her some years ago.

After the death of Mr. Bucks she returned to her native city and has been residing at 253 Foster Ave.

The late Mrs. Bucks was a member of St. Thomas' Anglican church.

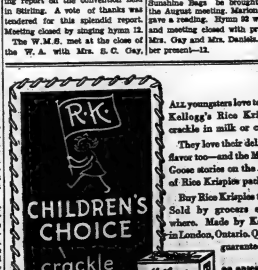
BONARLAW

Bonarlaw—Mr. Simon Matthews spent the week end at Hamilton visiting relatives.

Miss Rose Roots who has been visiting her sister, Mrs. S. G. Rombough, for several weeks, returned to her home in Toronto on Monday of this week.

Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Baker and sons Chester and Kennard, attended the wedding of Miss Katherine Simmons who was married to Mr. Wm. Edward Neal at Severn Bridge on June 27th.



On Wednesday evening of last week a large number of friends and neighbors met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Webb and presented a miscellaneous shower of gifts to their daughter Nellie who was recently married to Mr. Clarence Burnham. Progressive games of basketball and useful presents attested to the popularity of the young couple. An address was read wishing them joy and happiness to which they replied thanking all for their good wishes and the splendid gifts received. Mr. W. J. Webb acted as master of ceremonies in his usual capable manner.

On Thursday of last week, under the auspices of St. Marks Sunday School, Mr. D. Hudson of Toronto gave a splendid concert in the Sunday School rooms of the church. There was a fair attendance and the audience was held spellbound and mystified by his many acts of magic for nearly an hour. After the magician departed a fine set of slides "The Mediterranean Cruise" furnished by the Canadian Pacific Ry. were shown by Revs. Canon Swayne and Mr. J. F. Baker.

FOXBORO W. A.

The regular monthly meeting of the Women's Association of Foxboro United Church met in the S. S. Room on Thursday, July 2nd at 2.00 p.m. with eleven ladies present. Hymn 191 was sung, followed by the Lord's Prayer repeated in unison. Mrs. Hodgen read the 103rd Psalm. Minutes of previous meeting were read and adopted. It was moved and seconded to pay a share towards decorating the parsonage. Misses Doris DeFoe and Marjorie Hubbard gave a duet, with Mrs. J. W. Daniels gave a very interesting report on the convention held in Stirling. A vote of thanks was tendered for this splendid report. Meeting closed by singing hymn 12.

The W.M.S. met at the close of the W. A. with Mrs. S. C. Gay, president, presiding. Meeting opened with Bible selection read responsively, July 2nd at 3.00 p.m. minutes were read and adopted and the roll was called. The reports of the various secretaries were given and Mrs. Embody gave treasurer's report. Mrs. Daniels, branch secretary, reported several calls made and letters written. Mrs. W. Scott, herald for China, gave an interesting reading. An invitation from Foxboro Auxiliary to attend their anniversary was accepted unanimously. The President asked that the Sunshine Bags be brought in so the August meeting. Marion Daniels gave a reading. Hymn 92 was sung and meeting closed with prayer by Mrs. Gay and Mrs. Daniels. Number present—12.

WEATHER CALLS TROUBLE STAFF

"Please do not call the pump house for temperatures, particularly during the evening or at night time."

That was the request issued today by Manager K. T. Austin of the local waterworks department, motivated in the plea through the fact that during the present heat wave the number of calls from residents has reached such a total that actual disorganization of work at the plant has resulted.

Hundreds of calls have been received during the past three days, all of which have been answered by attendants busier now than they have been at any other time of the year.

"The local daily paper carries complete temperature recordings, and it should not be necessary for residents to check these every hour or so," pointed out Manager Austin. "In many instances answering these phone calls entails a lot of work on the part of attendants. To answer them all it would be necessary for us to station a man on the telephone permanently."

"One lady last evening called no less than four times within a short period, just for the purpose of checking these temperature announcements."

Bowl Over Senators But Bears And Bisons Keep Pace

LEAFS SHUTOUT

Spud Chandler Allows But Seven Hits in Eight Frames

(By The Canadian Press)

Now that they're definitely on top, the Rochester Red Wings are looking more and more like a really strong club, no matter how you look at them.

They bowled over the Albany Senators 3-1 yesterday in the third fourth victory in a row and their 22nd in last 30 games since the start of their eleven-game winning streak last month which moved them out of third place. And they let no doubt about their ability in the way they won. Bob Weiland hung up his 14th victory against five defeats by coasting the eight-hit pitching with a timely home run. The Wings slicked Bob Burke for nine blows and while Albany errors contributed to two of the runs, the hitting put runners in position to take advantage of the mishaps and drove them home.

The Wings couldn't shake off their leading rivals, however, as both the Newark Bears and Buffalo Bisons hung up decisive victories last night. Newark, after taking three straight lickings from Toronto evened up by winning the final game 8-5. Buffalo outlasted the Baltimore Orioles 8-6. The Syracuse-Montreal game in the afternoon was rained out.

What Local Theatre Managers Have to Say About Current Offerings

AT THE BELLE

"Poppy"

All the glitter, all the color and noise and fun of a dozen circuses—with the addition of the greatest one-man circus on the American screen—are rolled into a single production in "Poppy" W. C. Fields picture which will be the feature tomorrow (Saturday) for a two days engagement (Saturday and Monday) with matinee performance daily at 2.30 p.m. and two complete performances nightly 7.15 and 9.15 p.m.

"Poppy" marks the return of Fields to the movies after a critical illness of more than eight months. It is probably the most triumphal return ever staged by a screen favorite.

The story is one in which Fields set America roaring years ago on the stage. It is the story of a man who transformed himself from a pauper's existence to one of the ease of all dead-pan comedians, bulwarked by the amusement world's most distinctive style of entertainment—the monologue.

"Poppy" is a carnival story; which means that Fields glories in what a thing which is his natural element. It is set in 1913; which means that Fields, who is a child in the garb of the period he likes best to interpret. It casts him as a fake faro dealer and grifter who declares the way for the romance of his self and daughter which made fields is in character.

The story is one with Fields as the guardian of an eighteen-year-old girl, Rochelle Hudson, who has been left in his care by instructions in one carnival to another with him. The two are also pursued by a sentimentalist as a side-show.

Rochelle falls in love with Richard Cromwell, son of the mayor of the small town in which the greatest show on earth is playing. Meanwhile Fields hears of a fortune left by his late wife's family, awaiting the appearance of its long-lost heirs.

He plans to palm off Rochelle as the missing heir, succeeds, but she has no sooner taken possession than his fakery is revealed. Rochelle, Cromwell, Fields, all end up with the breaking up of her love affair and the humiliating of her mother. Then a sudden turn of the cards brings a happy ending.

The supporting cast includes such featured players as Lynne Overman, Catharine Doucet, Sarah Haden and others all of whom give capable accounting of themselves.

Ideal featurettes in addition to "Poppy" have been arranged. An excellent all color musical film called "Land of Song," another interesting and clever cartoon with Popeye the Sailor Man and the late World News will also be presented.

AT THE CAPITOL

"Show Boat"

The music of "Show Boat" composed by Jerome Kern, with lyrics by Oscar Hammerstein II, includes the original numbers, "Old Man River," "Make Believe," "Old Fashioned Wife," "Bill," "Cotton Blossom" and "Why Do I Love You?" There are also "After The Ball" by Charles K. Harris and "Goodbye, My Lady Love" by Joseph Howard. The picture has three new numbers by Jerome Kern—Oscar Hammerstein, "Gallivantin' Around," "I Have the Room Above Me" and "Ah Still Suits Me."

A chorus of 200 voices provides unusual rhythmic backgrounds for the song sequences.

Irene Dunne scored as Magnolia in "Show Boat" on the stage. Now her charm and excellent singing voice make the same character glow on the screen. Her most recent film triumph in "Magnificent Obsession;" her earlier success in "Sharron," "Back Street" and "Roberta," are surpassed in the portrayal she gives in Universal's 1936 version of "Show Boat," now at the Capitol until Saturday night. Allan Jones, well known for his work in Shubert musical romances, was featured soloist with the St. John Municipal Opera Company. He first played the "Show Boat" role of Ravenal on the stage in that city and sings the same romantic lines opposite Irene Dunne in the picture. He scored in "A Night at the Opera."

Charles Winninger played the original "Captain Andy" part on the stage and is known to millions of radio listeners as the Captain of a national Show Boat program. He brings to the film "Show Boat" 30 years of theatre experience.

Paul Robeson, outstanding baritone, recreates for the movie the robust, resonant voice Joe that he played in London and New York

Cubs Making it Tough For The Gas House Gang

(By Sid Feder)
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Just when those Yanks were beginning to believe they held a corner on the big-league bombing business, an overgrown man called Babe, the Indian tribe from Clevelend hit the wampath to prove that it's all head a two way argument.

They breezed into the east yesterday hurried up all the world in general and their own, second-diving man standing in particular, and proceeded to break the Yankees' one-at-homering copyright by (1) smashing out seven-baggers clean out of the park, including two by Hal Trosky; (2) tying the American League record with three four-base blows in one inning, and (3) beating the Yanks for the third straight day by hanging an 11-4 walloping on them.

With the Tigers trouncing the Senators 11-3, the Yanks' command was cut to nine games over Detroit and Boston, who remained just a few percentage points back of the Tigers by taking the White Sox 7-3 behind Wes Ferrell's effective pitching. The Athletics stayed out of the League cellar, for the time being at least, by nosing out the last place Browns 5-4.

The Chicago Cubs pulled up to a half-game from the St. Louis Cardinals at the head of the National League pack by coming through with a doubleheader win over the Dodgers 4-3 and 8-4, while the gas house gang was taking a close game with the Giants, 6-5, after beating that lily Polo Grounds pitcher to retire as an active Giant player. The last-moving Cincinnati Reds were headed further first night setback of the season, as the Boston Bees came from behind for a 6-5 win, while the Pirates clubbed the Phillies 16-4, with Paul Waner and Bill Brubaker accounting for 11 of the total runs.

JOHN KATAN HAS SPECIALTY HOLD

Japanese Standing Leglock Don't Allow Victim to Get Away

John Katan, former Canadian wrestling champion who is to oppose Hal Rumbourg in the main bout of the wrestling show at the Belleville Arena next Monday evening has a specialty hold which has won many bouts for him and which is one of the most painful in the sport. Katan's pet attack is the Japanese standing leglock and once he gets it a fall is assured unless the other man happens to be close enough to the ropes to pull himself under them.

It was with this hold that Katan took the Canadian championship from Earl McCready, to whom he lost it back later. McCready fought the leglock so strenuously that he was injured and was unable to wrestle again for more than six weeks.

The Unknown

Rumbourg doesn't specialize in any particular holds, though. He is rather partial to the use of headlocks. His strength and stamina enables him to put great pressure behind any hold he uses, and, now that he is relieved of the task of trying to prevent his opponents from reaching a hold, he feels that he wore when campaigning as "The Unknown" he should be better than ever.

"Rube" Wright, the former Tennessee hillbilly, and Al Dunlap will make the action hot and heavy in the semi-final. Both have the rough going and it will be a strenuous bout to say the least.

Al Marsh, one of the fastest men in heavyweight ranks, as does Wm. Lowe seen him in action before will agree. His opponent, Dan Petroff of Bulgaria, is known as the "Balkan Bear" and is noted for his great strength.

Women Golfers Hold Field Day at Country Club

Field Day competitions for members of the Women's Section of the Bay of Quinte Country Club were held yesterday last Wednesday. In the first flight the following were winners: 1st, Phillips Burrows; 2nd, Mrs. N. Day; Three longest drives, Mrs. Day; Long drive, Mrs. R. J. Graham; Long drive, F. Burrows;

Putting, 1st Mrs. Mennie; 2nd, Mrs. N. Day; Approaching, Mrs. R. J. Graham; Second Flight, 1st, Mrs. Robertson; second, Mrs. Chant; Best hole, Mrs. C. E. Graham. In the morning the medal rounds were played, eighteen holes, the first flight with nine holes and the second with nine holes. After luncheon in the Clubhouse, competitions were held.

During the month of June, each Friday, two ball foursomes were held by the ladies and on the last Friday the winners were announced. Misses Phillippa Burrows and Elizabeth Kinnear won the balls. A luncheon was served on the last day of competition. The winners of the medal rounds were: First Flight, first, Mary Roberts; second, Mrs. Brandmeier. Second Flight, first, Mrs. Chant; second, Mrs. S. Robertson.

CURRENT SPORT
DAY BY DAY

At the request of the Belleville C.O.B.L. team the Oshawa Chevies postponed the June 27th game at Bellerlike one day and played it as a twilight fixture on June 26th in order that which the locals agreed to advance the regular league scheduled game of August 6th to July 11th. It seems the Oshawa club has far better drawing facilities on a Saturday date than on a mid-week occasion, thus the original change from Wednesday Aug. 5th to Saturday of this week.

It means that the local team can trim are the lofty Chevies so it's on to Oshawa tomorrow evening for locals hope to tack their second win of the season to the mastmad, that is if they show a complete reversal of form from their showing on Wednesday versus the Ponies.

Of course a defeat for the Chevies tomorrow would drop them in behind the Bees who were beaten on Saturday as Napanee journey to Peterboro', Incidentally Shiner Johnson's gang are making great guns of late, having won eight out of their last ten starts. The Peters have a young team of batting ball players and are pet to upset the C.O.B.L. dope. Doubtless Coach Frank McCallum will take no chances and name Jake Gibbs, who has been used as the starting pitcher for Saturday's game, with Ike Hawkins and Johnnie Bawden on the filling in for the latter's first league appearance in Oshawa. Bawden pitched a splendid game, only to be hammered unmercifully on a way chance after chance with errors mingled with the fact that eight scratch hits were allowed to drop for hits between the infield and the outer garden.

Through the co-operation of Hon. Dr. J. A. Faulkner, local member of the provincial government, the Quinte Motorcycle Club obtained permission to hold its proposed 200 mile road race over local streets on Labor Day. This permission had to be procured from the Department of Highways, the local motorcyclists not going right ahead with their plans and the first International motorcycle race ever to be held in Canada is slated for Belleville. The finest and most daring riders in the continent will compete.

Despite the recent heat wave it still remains cool in the Arena which should be good news to local wrestling fans. Hot or cold, rain or shine the wrestling card advertised for next Monday night at the arena is doubtless the best one to be held in this city or any consistently the size of Belleville on this continent. The array of mat celebrities includes such outstanding performers as Al Mercier, one of the most agile and speedy grapplers in the business at the present time who took Al Dunlap into camp when the latter was in his prime and at top invincible. Katan meets Hal Rumsberg, the unbeaten sensation in the main bout. Then Babe Wright and Dan Petroff meet in the semi-final and any follower of modern wrestling can inform you of the tremendous ability of the Bulgarian Ranger who has made good in New York, Chicago and Los Angeles of late. It is truly a Metropolitan show if ever there was one staged.

Now that the new East Belleville baseball diamond has been equipped with a fine backstop for baseball by the Kiwanis Club, the boys in the Kiwanis Juniors will have a splendid playground and one that on idle evenings and not interfere with the general programs of the park ground. The new baseball diamond that has been laid out along East Bridge Street, on Victoria Ave., another backstop was erected by the Kiwanis Club, and now corner of the grounds along Queen St Coach Lee Bennett is trying to get play-offs Efforts to interest Kingston in baseball, modern double exhibition games are under way, Manager Lee has received communications from Toronto, where a Queen City junior team is desirous of a game also.

Today's Baseball Question: With bases filled, two men out and two strikes on batter, coach at third base asks the pitcher to let him see the ball, as pitcher throws the ball to him, coaches steps to one side, so let the ball pass. Two runs score. Could all runners have scored, or if they had found it possible to do so, or would third man be called for interference of third base, permitting only one run to score?

Answer: This would be considered an overthrow of third base and all runners would be entitled to one base, only one runner would score.

The executive of the Belleville Yacht Club convened at their club house last evening. The meeting was scheduled to be held inside, but owing to the sweltering heat, the officers held forth along the water front, with agreeably good results. The conventional sailing races interspersed with land sport will constitute the day's activities on the occasion of the club's first annual picnic, to be held at Massassaga Park next Wednesday. The Yacht Club executive has arranged transportation for all desirous of going to Massassaga for the day's outing. Boarding over Mather and scenic and games for all will make the day's program one to be long remembered and enjoyed. Trucks will transport those desiring to travel by land, but doubtless the power boats, that have been engaged to transport the picnickers by water, will be taxed to capacity. Heads and committees will leave the Yacht Club at 1.30 p.m.

The motor boats will ply between the park and Belleville every hour in order to accommodate those who are late. Cruises about the bay, swimming and plenty of fun for all will be the order of the day, so says Charlie Jolls, secretary of the club. Incidentally the club committee has opened negotiations for their mid Labor Day dance, picnic and sports day at Victoria Park also.

Besides the usual sailing races the annual Alfred Trap race will be held on Wednesday of as well a challenge race. We understand that there is a special challenge race between Frank Smith's Joks and Ralph Ellsworth's Jokers for the 2nd. The Joks and the After You have been battling all season for the 2nd place and in two years, but more recently have had plenty of competition from the Jokers who took 2nd. Aside from this, however, the big possibility of a special race between the After You and the Joks with bookies and everything.

A number of songs will be heard running around and around in the head of Italian Ginger of Youngstown, O., when he hears the following titles fitting varieties of his:

"It's Been So Long": Joe Dimaggio.

"Alone": Babe Ruth.

"Building Up to an Awful Letdown": A. Bedell.

"Shooting High": Floyd Vaughan.

"Then You're Mine": Lawrence Mellor.

"Bill McKechnie.

"Lost in a Fog": Connie Mack.

"Sweet and Slow": Dizzy Dean and Paul Dean.

"I've Got My Fingers Crossed": Mickey Cochrane.

"Hold That Tiger": Lefty Gomez

"Blue Prelude": Casey Stengel.

"Stormy Weather": Jimmy Wilson.

"Please Believe Me": Umpire Beller.

Sports Roundup

(Associated Press Sports Writer)

New York, July 10.—(AP)—Baseball fans must still be wondering why they left Pepper Martin of the All-Star team. Manager Frankie Frisch says if Detroit wins the pennant again he doesn't care which team represents the National in the World Series, just so old Pepper isn't on it. He clashed with Manager Joe Cronin of Washington's Olympic crew are working their way through school.

Madison Square Garden isn't warming up to a suggestion that it sign Tony Canzoneri's contract to Mike Jacobs for Max Schmeling's title bout. Jacobs insists Canzoneri and Tony would abdicate the lightweight throne (leaving Lou Ambers quarreling with Henry Armstrong) before Tony Ross under Jacobs' direction, could challenge Schmeling for the heavyweight Crown . . . Meantime Ambers and Armstrong, Pacific Coast product, would fight it out for 135-pound honors.

MILK PRODUCTION REDUCED 10 P. C.

Drying pastures in this district has resulted in at least a ten per cent. reduction in milk, with a consequent effect on cheese and butter production, it was stated by a prominent dairyman today. "Unless rain falls soon, our livestock will be mere skin and bones, and we'll have to depend on hay and stable feeding," it was added.

VACATION BOUND?

18 SWIMMERS AND DIVERS SELECTED FOR OLYMPIC SQUAD

By ELMER DULMAGE
Canadian Press Staff Writer
Montreal, July 10.—(CP)—Canada will send a team of 18 swimmers and divers to the Olympic games in Berlin next month if financial arrangements can be made for the lot. Officials of the Canadian Amateur Swimming Association announced the lineup early today after hours of deliberation.

Only record-breakers in the three days of trial here, Bob Pirie of Toronto; Phyllis Dewar and Bobby Hooper of Vancouver and Bob Hamilton of Winnipeg headed the strongest swimming squadron ever assembled in Canada. It was doubtful if all 18 names would sail for Europe.

Making up the men's section were Pirie, Gerald Clawson and Bill Puddy of Toronto; Hooper and George Athans of Vancouver; Hamilton of Winnipeg; Murray Bourne of Montreal; George Larsen of Hamilton and Bill Brubaker of Windsor. Athens is a diver.

The women's contingent are Phyllis Dewar, Moncie Truman and Joan Langdon of Vancouver; Irene Pirie Milton and Marjorie Stone of Toronto; Mary McCorkey of Edmonton and Noel Cornbury of New Westminster, B.C. The divers are Thelma Hooghner of Toronto and Lynda Thomas of Vancouver.

The selection committee did not explain why Athens was named as the sole male diver. The experienced diving championship at the trials that concluded last night was won by Harry Class of Hamilton. Class was not made a member of the squad.

The 14-year-old Athens won the lower diving competition yesterday, outclassing the opposition from the high platform.

Pirie and Miss Dewar Certain

Pirie and Miss Dewar were certain of starting places on the relay. The 19-year-old Toronto boy who has been in the water for years, style events for men and broke Canadian records in all but the short course. In that one he equalled his own record.

Miss Dewar won the women's 100 and 40-yard events with ease, lowering her own record in the century. Clawson and Puddy divided honors in the men's breast stroke events. Clawson's time was a record equivalent of the Olympic 200 metres—but Puddy came back last night and defeated his rival by a foot in the 100 yards.

The 16-year-old Hooper, one of the most promising swimmers ever developed in Canada, placed second to Pirie in the 220, 440 and mile, each time breaking the previous Canadian record. Hamilton lowered the record for the 220 yards last night in a heat, but Pirie swam faster today in a new mark.

Kerr became king of the backstroke specialists and Larsen placed second to Pirie in the 100-yard final. The Hamilton boy won several British titles in 1934 following the empire games.

The speedsters in the women's section are Miss Dewar, Mrs. Milton, Miss Stone and Miss McCorkey. Vancouver's Phyllis Dewar was the others in the 100 and 440, with Miss Milton second in the century and Miss Stone second in the long race. Miss McCorkey won the 220 yard title and Miss Milton and Miss Dewar nor Mrs. Milton entered.

Pirie provided the thrills last night. The Toronto youngster watched Hamerton topple the Canadian record for 220 yards from 2:21.2 to 2:19.4 in the 21st heat of the event. In the second heat, Pirie brought the mark down to 2:17.8.

Then in the final Pirie waited with ahead of Hooper and Hamerton to set up a new record of 2:14.8. It was his third record of the trials.

STAG PICNIC BY PHONE CO'Y.

With representatives of the various departments of the Bell Telephone Co. from Ottawa, Kingston and other districts being in attendance, the annual "stag" picnic, given by the Consumerton Dept. of the company will be held in Shannonville on Sat., July 18th.

Present plans call for an elaborate program of sports and other attractions. Over 75 are expected to attend.

PRESENCE OF MIND SAVES MAN'S HAND

Presence of mind of F. Pollard, manager of the Pollard Canning Co. of Bethel, Ont., prevented what might have been a tragedy, when he jerked the arm of Harold Dowden, an employee, from a machine in which the fingers of Dowden's right hand had caught. At it was, Dowden suffered severe lacerations of his hand, five stitches being necessary to close one of the wounds.

IT'S TOO HOT TO WRITE LETTERS

Residents of this city and district have found it too hot for write during the present heat wave, it is indicated by the sales of stamps at the local post office which, however, since the beginning of the heat wave sales of stamps have fallen off noticeably, it is observed.

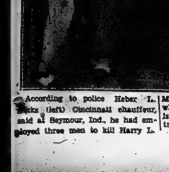
TOOK CAFE OWNER AT HIS WORD

With officials and public voicing recent Picton Yacht Club races the best yet, and with a great number of members still basking in the glory of close races and sensational wins, five Picton yachtsmen made a wild dash for doctors' office and hicarbonate of soda yesterday morning.

They had been the guests the night before of a prominent Picton restaurateur, who promised them all the T-bone steaks they could eat in the event that they won their various races. They took him at his word.

Trenton and District

Trenton, July 10.—(Special)—At police court yesterday Britton L. White formed second John R.C.A.F. mechanic was sentenced to two months in Belleville jail. White was convicted of six charges of fraud on June 24th. White's home is in Calgary, but he went to Ottawa and joined the force there. He told the Magistrate that he had many influential and political friends in Ottawa, and if they would give him a chance he would have to exert their influence to get him back in the Air Force. Crown Attorney L. C. Donman, K.C. in reply said, that White was a fourthrisher from the ground up." The Magistrate would only take "a seventeen days' remand time off of his two months' sentence.



The O. S. Bonter case was remanded until a further date.

A Yesterday morning Trenton Police found an Essex coach in a farmer's field east of the town on Highway No. 2. Later Provincial Police were informed that the car was the property of Jack Rigby, Belleville. Rigby is a conductor at Belleville. The car had been stolen around five in the morning. The offender went to a lot of bother in disposing of it as he let it roll down over and down it over bumps and bumps almost to the water's edge.

R.C.A.F. Softball 39 to 7

At Rathbun diamond last night, the Whitehall Camp defeated the Deseronto Trading R.C.A.F. by the score of 39 to 7. Air Force boys were without the services of their star pitcher, Sgt. Kipp and the way the score went it certainly made a big difference. Kidd batted for the Cammen and was right on. To add their win the Whitehalls drove out two home runs in the first of the seventh innings. Benham and Miller starred for the Camp while Sgt. Kipp of the R.C.A.F. also hit a circuit blow. It was in the last of the seventh. McKell Airmen first baseman may be ruled from the league. When McKell was at bat umpire Baker called a strike on him. McKell apparently didn't think the umpire was justified in doing so. He threw several pieces of profanity at the umpire. McKell was dismissed from the game and umpire Baker asked the Deseronto manager to call a meeting to deal with him. Teams were—Whitehall Camp.—Miller, c; Wallace, rf; Grey 3b; Kidd p; Smith 1b; Long 2b; Cain lf; Lockwood ss; Benham rf; R.C.A.F.—McKell lf; Whitman 3b; Lindsay c; McKell 1b; Broadbent 2b; Gibbons; Trepanier cf; McKee rf; Pafford p.

Yesterday afternoon the Government lighthouse service boat Cherwell dicked at Trenton. Captain Murray Barry was questioned about the Lower Lakes and St. Lawrence River since 1931, was telling fine despite the terrific heat. Yesterday morning he had to don a coat and a gid vest when coming in from Scotch Bonnet to Presqu'ile Point on Lake Ontario. Captain Barry was in Trenton since 1893, starting when he was in his teens. "I've seen more changes in the Bay this year," said the Captain, "than I've seen in all those children living on the Front. The Grenville is 165 feet long, 30 feet and draws 14 feet of water.

At Trenton yesterday thermometers reached new highs ranging up to 105 degrees in the shade. Residents could find little relief anywhere as a hot humid yesterday wind that prevailed was like a blast from a 'steaming furnace. At H. Kay and Co.'s factory six women workers were overcome by the heat. Summer collar business down the bay has shown a large increase over last summer and it is quite hard to procure one now. The heat was torrid and to demonstrate, boy Ormond Ian Webb cooked an egg out on the road, broke it and ate it raw. Ormond is a cousin of Lawns despite how much water is thrown on them have turned to dry hay and people are keeping their doors shut to keep the cool in, instead of keeping them shut to keep the heat in.

Mamma, Baby Dionne In Splendid Condition

Callander, Ont., July 10—(CP)—Dr. J. S. A. Doyal, the North Bay physician who delivered the Dafoe Dionne yesterday at the birth of a baby boy, said today he had predicted the birth for July 7 some time ago.

Dr. Doyal, after today's visit, said the Dionne and the baby were in splendid condition. The mother, who feeds the new Dionne herself, is up and active. He is known as a maternity doctor. He has a record of six deliveries in one night, at Timmins, and 24 in one month.

WALL STREET CLOSE

New York, July 10—(AP)—Stocks struck a brisk advancing stride in today's market, many issues getting up fractions of a few or more points at new tops for the year or longer.

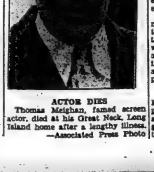
With activity the most pronounced since April, buyers got behind the following: Rails, Steels, Motors, Oils and Specialties. Profit-taking was in evidence near the final hour, but this was absorbed without much difficulty. Transfers were around 1,800,000 shares.

TORONTO MINES CLOSE

Toronto, July 10.—(CP)—Senior Golds were depressed today by selling on the Toronto Stock Board but they had little or no influence on the Secondary and Penny which continued firm and in spots, strong. Dome took a few cents more than three points to around 53 3-4 and McIntyre sold down about 1 3-4, to around 41 1-4. Hollinger was good in the Base Metals and higher prices were posted while the Silvers were steady except for a loss of about 3 cents in Beaver Consolidated. Home-lead traded for the Oils, advancing 5 to 10 cents.

Wright Hargreaves, Buffalo-Ankerite, Lake Shore and Teck Hughes all held their ground in slow trading.

Bobjo stepped along smartly to 26 its best price this year and up 4 cents. The Board had two new listings today, Cappe, selling around 38 to 40 cents and New Goldan Rose, around 15 to 17. No Bonds were active.



Veterans was a heavy trader at a gain of about 10 cents and prices were up for Falconbridge, Sudbury Basin and Sherritt.

TORONTO INDUSTRIALS CLOSE

Toronto, July 10—(CP)— Heavy buying in Hiram Walkers Common pushed the price up more than a point today on the Toronto Stock Exchange. Other liquor stocks followed its lead to register minor gains. International Nickel gained 1-4 to 50 3-4 and Smeltings, the food group and construction shares were steady. Gypsum, Lime and Alabastine advanced to 22 up 3-4 but Ford A, Brazilian Traction and C.P.R. were fractionally lower. Trade was slow as the Woods made a new high at 23 1-8 up 1 1-4 and Cosmos added 1-3 to 22.

Walkers gained 1 1-8 to close at 32 7-8 and the preferred and Canadian Industrial Alcohol added 1-4. Distillers-Seagram was active but unchanged.

Ford A firmed after early weakness and was only off 1-4 at 9 1-4 on end. Lake of the Woods made a new high at 23 1-8 up 1 1-8.

Slate Plant Now Operating Madoc Property is Purchased Additional Unit is Ordered

Canadian Slate Products Limited Tells of Progress

LEASES EXTENDED

The Ontario Intelligencer has been informed by the management that Canadian Slate Products Limited recently at Madoc, Ontario, made the initial tests of their newly installed Welsh machinery, which has been moved to a suitable building and forms unit number 1. It is planned eventually to have some six or more similar units in full operation before the end of the present year in order to compete with the demand for Canadian slate for roofing purposes. Mr. S. E. Sill, E. M. resident engineer, states that these initial tests have been entirely satisfactory and that the plant will be immediately employed in the production of the highest quality of roofing and structural slate. This unit will in the meantime be taxed to capacity. Sill and the directors have ordered an additional unit which will be delivery of which is expected around the middle of July.

The company has purchased fifty acres upon which they hold an option, comprising the slate beds now being operated. This slate deposit is believed to be ample for the time and foreign export markets for very many years, the tonnage of high quality slate within the between ten to twenty million tons. The company has also entered ed leases on 317 acres formerly held, to 99 years duration and have also purchased adjacent ground consisting of approximately five acres, as the site upon which all plant buildings will be erected. Twenty-four men are employed, engaged under the direction of Mr. S. E. Sill, and a further number are now ready to enter into production. Canada's slate industry has every indication of having a real prosperous future and their products will be exhibited at the 1937 Canadian National Exhibition in Toronto.

MERCURY LOWER AT 96 DEG. HERE

Water Record

In Sudbury, where the temperature soared to 101 degrees yesterday, gasping citizens consumed 7,000,000 gallons of water, an all-time record. The city's water supply was adequate, was beginning to run dry and the authorities tentatively placed restrictions on water consumption.

A short time last night a water famine existed in the higher sections of Sudbury. Today all sections in the outskirts of Sudbury were shut down in an attempt to conserve water supply.

Belleville reported the pea crop ruined and the temperature at 11.30 a.m. today stood at 96 degrees.

Raspberries and cherries were not expected to produce half a crop.

Skies Still Clear

Clear skies across the western half of Ontario's growing belt still today brought little hope for a week-end break in stifling heat that wilted crops in southern areas.

Scattered showers over widely separated areas in the Northland last night resulted in only a surface wetting which failed to reach the sub-soil. No moisture fell in Alberta and only showers were reported at only two points in Saskatchewan.

Ontario residents awoke this morning—those who had been able to sleep—grasped at any straw as the heat wave entered its third day with the mercury hovering about early relief. The death toll in the province rose to eight, with many prostrations reported as the heat prostration.

Thermometer Bursts at 120

Timmins, Ont., July 10 (CP) — Mrs. Henry McGarvey of the proprietress of a hotel here, set a small thermometer in a baby buggy on the hotel verandah yesterday protected from any breeze. The mercury went up to 120 degrees before the thermometer exploded.

Sudbury, Ont., July 10 (CP) Restrictions were placed on the consumption of water here today after a water famine in high sections of the city last night. Citizens have been warned against the use of garden hose under penalty of having their water supply shut off.

The emergency situation was decided after a conference between Mayor W. J. Cullin, Alderman George McVittie, members of the fire, water and light committee, and R. F. Martindale, superintendent of the city water department.

Sudbury's water consumption rose to 2,775,000 gallons yesterday. This is the largest water consumption in the history of the city.

RAIN AND HAIL SWEEP S. ENGLAND

London, July 10 (AP)—It wasn't warm enough for anybody on the south coast of England today.

Two inches of rain and hail fell; then the sun came out. Roads became flooding houses and shops in many sections.

Lightning covered the streets with slushy ice.

FAILS TO DUCK TO CHAIR

Raleigh, N.C., July 10 (AP)—Henry Grier, 43-year-old negro, was electrocuted this afternoon in an effort to escape the death chair by jumping 20 feet from a third tier of cells to a concrete floor in the penitentiary.

Grier was carried into the death chamber by five men. His lips were taped. Electrodes were applied.

As the switch was thrown to send the current through his body, blood dripped down the outside of the mask over his face and from his lips.

Board Room Gossip

As supplied to Biggar and Crawford by Financial Service.

The local market is broadening out to include several new issues. Whereas up to last month the over-the-counter securities have accounted for the major attention, a strong demand has ensued for Canadian Car common and preferred, Brazilian Traction, Montreal Power and others. Signs are not lacking of a revival of speculative interest in the Industrial section and shrewd investors, while the mining market continues dull and strong.

The half-year production report of Consolidated Smelters was one of the most cheerful which the company has ever released. It showed a substantial increase in output of the base metals and the leading metals. Lead output was up nearly 10,000 tons; zinc was up about 2,000 tons, while gold increased nearly 8,000 ounces. Estimates are that the company has for six months of this year earned approximately $1,000,000 in excess of the first six months of 1935. This is equivalent to close to $1.00 a share on the 1,834,785 shares presently outstanding. Earnings results for the second quarter are somewhat uncertain for the reason that lead and zinc prices have been steadily easing off. Despite this, however, "Smelters" should be able to make a higher distribution to shareholders at the year end than the 50 cents recently declared.

The oil stocks have remained stationary for some time now, although the majority of these issues are affording excellent yields. It is too soon to tell what effect on the earnings of Canadian oil companies will result from the production in duties on gasoline. So far, it is believed the companies have not been affected to any of the difference in the gasoline price structure between Canada and United States is now no more than the freight differential would account for. In other words the gasoline price situation in the United States were once more to be interrupted. It would have a bad effect on Canada. However, it seems to be better in hand than at any time since 1932.

A New Funk Reached by Nickel

International Nickel Company of Canada exported over $21,900,000 in nickel during the year ended June 30th, according to statistics compiled by the Department. Magnitudes of this enterprise may be gathered from the fact that in the former peak years the company reported some $13,000,000 in the form of the months of 1929 and slightly low that amount during the first months of 1930.

Produce Prices on Montreal Market

Montreal, July 10.— A slightly firmer trend was in store for the local butter market yesterday, with 22 7-8 and 23 bid for No. 1 at the Canadian Commodity Exchange. Export business totalled 750 boxes, made up of 500 at 22 7-8 and 250 at 23. Closing quotations: Quebec 32 basis, butter to arrive, Saskatchewan export to Surrey Cranwack 23 1-2 bid.

Little change was reported in the cheese market. Dealers quoted Ontario white at 21 1-2 and Ontario colored at 13 3-8, Quebec white at 13 3-4 and Quebec colored at 13 3-8. Receipts posted at the Board of Trade, consisting mainly of cheese, amounted to 6,232 boxes, including 470 at country points. The Commodity Exchange quoted the market at 21 1-2 bid for Ontario white, 13 13-16 for Ontario colored, Quebec white at 13 9-16, and Quebec colored at 13 13-16.

The egg market was unchanged, with demand steady. Dealers quoted graded shipments arriving at centres at 1 1-2, basis 22 1-2 to 23 for A large, 22 to 22 1-2 for A medium, 21 to 21 1-2 for B's and C's at 20 1-2 to 21 for A pullets and 19 1-2 to 20 for B's and C's at 20 1-2 to 21.

THE OLD FASHIONED PICNIC

Still Holds Its Ancient Charm

NEW fashions, new methods, new people, new desires come and go with the changing years and the introduction of swift transportation, airplane, motor car and speed boat, and folks travel many miles a day for pleasure—and do not always get it.

Just a glance at the picture on this page will bring pleasant memories of the old-fashioned picnic of the long ago—and not so long ago. Evidence there is a-plenty that the old-fashioned picnic is due for a revival and survivors of the picnic era will welcome back an old friend while the younger generation that knew not Joseph will soon warm to this intimate friendly gathering of lovable home folks.

Glorious Grand Trunk Picnics

Not so long ago the Grand Trunk basket picnics were a feature of every summer, both in Belleville and Brockville, divisional points, and the eats under the trees, the health and the happiness generated at these events left a memory ever pleasant. Even the little boy who was not provided with a basket, or a lunch box, or a family, or anything that faintly resembled Folks of his own, fitted into the picture when he was claimed by several picnic groups and filled to bursting with those wonderful home-cooked viands which never gave an ache or a pain of indigestion but generated that mellow friendly feeling which goes with well-cooked food of the simpler kind.

Grand Picnic Pies

Do you remember the picnic pies? Oh, Mother o' mine, what a pie you used to dish up, and how much better they tasted at a picnic than anywhere else.

Do you remember the dancing? No fancy city orchestra. Just a fiddler and a piano, and how that fiddler could fiddle, especially if irrigated regularly with Corby's Special or Wiser's Red Star.

As we intimated before the old-fashioned picnics are coming back because they are too splendid a thing to pass out of the picture.

Charlie Hanna's Picnics

One of the most enthusiastic promoters of Get Together Picnics was the late Charlie Hanna, who served as Mayor of Belleville and Alderman, and also as member of the Dominion Parliament. Charlie's greatest picnic achievement was probably the Civic Picnic, representing the city officials and their families and friends. This picnic, held at Massassaga for several seasons was a great success and a great promoter of Good Fellowship. It will be remembered that Alderman Robinson was one of the Moving Spirits of the Civic Picnics, ably assisted by Alderman Woodley, one man whom age does not wither nor the years destroy. Charlie Hanna was also an active member of the city band and promoted several band picnics which were most enjoyable affairs. His services as Director and President of Belleville Fair were more successful, perhaps, because he had this picnic spirit of Good Fellowship.

There will be picnics galore, and there will be more genuine enjoyment at these old-fashioned picnics than anything else could offer.

Famous Old Picnic Places

Massassaga used to be a favorite place for picnics, but there were others at Oak Lake, Moira Lake, Twelve O'Clock Point, Presqu'Ile, and dozens of others not far from Belleville.

This year being a Dominion Election year there will, no doubt, be political picnics, and the mind reverts back to notable events of comparatively recent history when public policies of great importance first reached the public from the lips of Dominion statesmen at Stirling and Marmora.

The Country Fair

The return of the old-fashioned picnic as pictured on this page is an evidence that the best that is in people cannot remain submerged forever and keeps returning to the surface, and the picnic, like the country fair, is one place where good fellowship reigns supreme, only the picnic is less strenuous than the fair, which holds its important place in the scheme of things as they are in this day and age—and the little country fair survives despite the growth of great national and international exhibitions, for the country fair is founded upon Good Fellowship and Neighborliness, and the fact that George meets Bill, and Henry meets Fred and Anne meets Minn, and Julia meets Mary Ann and the folks from way down below the creek bottom.

No getting away from it, folks, it's Good Fellowship which gets to the roots of human nature, and which if rightly applied can solve every vexing problem which is giving this old and ever new world such tremendous growing pains now.

It's just a little friendly co-operation that is needed to combat incipient selfishness, greed and lack of co-operation, elements which have combined to make trouble for everybody. Just the friendly soul-warming conception of the immortal Burns' fiat "A Man's a Man for a' that and a' that."

Harking back to the old-fashioned basket picnic wherein each family brought a big clothes basket full of good things to eat—enough for themselves and any friends who might drop in—enough for several meals in fact. A peculiarity of the picnic atmosphere was always the constant desire to eat—what with swimming and running races and climbing here and there a tremendous appetite was aroused.

A Juvenile Tragedy

The writer remembers a Grand Trunk basket picnic of the long ago, where he went au solitaire, that is to say, unattached. A paper box crammed full of eats promised protection against incipient starvation, and all was well in the juvenile heart with visions of a day of great joy.

Also on the boat were some of the tough lads who always crash the gate, carry no lunches, toil not, neither do they spin, but never miss a meal—you know the lads that used to live down near the gas works, or somewhere.

These lads were all fine swimmers and divers so when the boat reached the picnic place almost the first suggestion was a place to swim. Trailing the lads from down under, the writer decided to swim himself—first carefully hiding the cardboard box of eats, thinking no one witnessed the act.

A glorious hour high diving and swimming feats, and an appetite just as big as all outdoors, seemingly, a rush to get into our pants and shirt the uniform of the day, and off to the cache where the eats awaited.

A Raided Cache

Sad to relate the eats were gone, so, suspiciously so, were my erstwhile companions, and so, a hungry, disillusioned lad with tears almost reaching the outlets, crept sadly back to the park proper where many groups were enjoying delicious looking eats. Rows of luscious pies caught the eye and almost stopped the breath—but while grown-ups profess to be able to drink to someone only with their eyes, to a hungry lad, eating when confined to eye service was very inadequate.

Sunshine Again

However, the sun broke through the gloom, when one particularly jolly family party, with lads and lassies about the age of the hungry lad, summoned him to the banquet spread out on a clean white table cloth on the grass, and told him to pitch in and see how much he could eat.

God was in His heaven and all was well with the world after that.

A Girl in the Picture

When boyhood days were past and gone the old-fashioned picnic still held its charm, but generally there was a girl in the picture—dancing in the moonlight, and holding hands all the way home in the back of the boat—perhaps a hastily snatched kiss or two—strictly contraband, but all the better for being stolen amid protests.

Next to the old-fashioned basket picnic the rural fair held a large share of our affections—not the great, hurly burly, midway nose-generating fair of the larger centres, but the quiet, little country fair where we knew everybody, and everybody knew us, and where one might reasonably be expected to be invited back of the pavilion occasionally to try a snort of some neighbor's mountain dew, or Corby's Special Selected—all in good-natured fun.

Stepping in 3 Minutes Flat

The trials of speed, the name applied to the trotting races so as to come under the fair law and not jeopardize the government's grant, were more exciting than the two-minute trotters of today because you knew the owners and the horses—knew them since they were knee high to a colt, man and beast. The three-minute trot brought out the fast ones and oh! Boy! how they did burn up that three-to-a-mile track, with all the neighbors yelling for their particular favorites and bedlam let loose when the leaders came down the home stretch and the winner led by an eyelash or a boot-lace under the wire.

And how those old boys in the judges' stand did strut their stuff—how they paced back and forth in the small space and discussed horse and horse handlers by and large. Occasionally their optics rested on the crowd, but just to see that their high position was duly recognized and fully admired. Occasionally some of the judges would duck down out of sight, and those in the know said that there was always some liquid refreshment for the officials at the foot of the ladder. At any rate they would bob up serenely, seemingly refreshed and with lustier voices than ever.

The Missing Man

by

Mary R. P. Hatch

The result of all this overwork and mental disturbance was soon to manifest itself. But first he was met and accosted by a young and handsome woman, who came out of the Rest-Home to speak to him. She had curious colored hair, more green than anything else, and by this the plaintiff recognized her as Lenore, his brother's wife, who was described by the papers to have such hair. So when she spoke to him as if she knew him, he at once concluded that she took him for his brother, her husband. "You here!" she said. The plaintiff assured her that he did not know her when she said, "Oh, I forgot." Mrs. Fry, who was present at the time the conversation occurred, will testify to this fact, and Miss Chase to the woman's surprised manner when she saw him coming down the street. "Be here!" Almost the identical words with which she met the plaintiff. This woman was registered as Mrs. Anderson, Newark, N.J.; but the name was no doubt assumed, for she let out to the waitgirl named Mary O'Neil that her name was Lenore, and corrected the incorrect name, the witness for the prosecution."

"All this makes it evident that Lenore expected to meet her husband, and in Greendale, for she was surprised when she thought she saw him coming. This argues a strong resemblance on the part of the twin brothers, and which we know satisfied. The woman said at the Rest-House that she was going to Coatsicook, no doubt to meet her husband. When Mr. Hamilton recognized her, as he did by her carnal hair, he asked her if he might talk with her and mentioned that he was intending to take the next train for Portland. The widow appeared puzzled, but replied readily enough that she would talk with him on the train.

"What does this prove but that she still supposed he was her husband, and that from prudent motives he did not wish her to recognize him on the street? I shall prove to you that her husband, Victor Hamilton, otherwise Ashley, was a fugitive from justice, and his wife's caution was needful not to bring detection upon her husband, whom unexpectedly she supposed she had met in Greendale when she thought he was safe in Canada. In her first excitement she forgot her caution, but from that time was prudent. In proof of this sweet conclusion regarding the identity of her husband, she took the train south instead of the one north. Why did she do this? Simply to travel with her husband, as she supposed him to be, and learn his plans.

"My client remembers vaguely that he saw her on the train and talked with her, but recollects nothing that was said, for it was at this time that his mind became eclipsed. Conductor Libby's evidence comes in at this point. He will tell you that he saw the two together, Mr. Hamilton and the green-haired lady. Mr. Hamilton appeared strange, did not seem to recognize him though they knew each other well, for Mr. Libby has been on the train for a matter of thirty years or more. The lady talked to Mr. Hamilton and seemed excited. He listened vaguely, it seemed, as if he did not understand what she was saying. There was a strange look about his eyes that Mr. Libby noticed.

"What followed? The woman Coatsicook continued, of her mistake left the train at Mechanic Falls and went north to join her husband at Coatsicook. Mr. Hamilton went on his way to Portland. Mr. Libby testifies that he saw him at the Portland depot, but after that lost sight of him.

Now comes in the testimony of a commercial traveler, named George Barnstead. Mr. Barnstead is a wide-awake man who runs for the firm of Bolton & Glover, of Boston, who will vouch for the probity of Mr. Barnstead. His testimony is of so astounding a nature that it needs to be well authenticated and vouched for, as it is by this instance. Mr. Barnstead is of an active, alert nature and little goes on under his gaze without notice.

"And this was what he observed at Portland depot, where he loitered for some time, expecting to meet another runner named Burd. He saw a man—whom he has since recognized as Vane Hamilton, the plaintiff, by his photograph—standing irresolutely by himself, travelling-bag in hand and dressed as Mr. Hamilton was dressed when he left Greendale. He stood there in the same attitude for at least two minutes. He appeared to be troubled in his mind, Mr. Barnstead thought. At the expiration of the two minutes, more or less, another man entered and looked at Mr. Hamilton as if deeply astonished, literally, as if he could not keep his eyes off. He was a man of about his, Hamilton's height, with long, dark whiskers and dark hair. In some respects he resembled Mr. Hamilton, particularly about the eyes. He looked at him so intently, walking away and then returning as if about to accost him, that he was observed at last by the subject of his scrutiny, who, to Mr. Barnstead's surprise, walked up close to the man and said:

"'You appear to know me. Who am I?'

"The man was evidently taken aback by this strange query. He hesitated only for a moment, however, replying:

"'You are Henry Ashley.'

"'Are you sure?' asked Mr. Hamilton, anxiously.

"'Perfectly,' said the man. 'I know you well,' and he then entered into conversation, the two soon walking off together.

"Here, gentlemen, is the unravelment of the mystery. The man was Ashley himself, a fugitive from justice, detained by some means at Portland. He had, no doubt, disguised himself; for all accounts agree that he was the very double of Hamilton in personal appearance. The only account for the impression on seeing him for the first time. An ingenious man Ashley is well-known to be. What better way to elude justice than to shift his identity upon the man who has forgotten his own name and looked like himself. Does not the daring game almost take your breath away, gentlemen?

"But let us pass on. Hamilton, unaware of his true name, his home, everything a blank, walked off in the company of the man Ashley, who, no doubt, found it an easy matter to shift belongings and to take the ring, note-book, and papers of Mr. Hamilton. You notice here that Mr. Hamilton seldom wore the ring himself, for he held it in trust for his brother; but Ashley, who no doubt is that brother himself, did not know this. He has worn the ring constantly, probably to fix his identity more firmly in the eyes of his former townsmen. The note-book would naturally be a great help to Ashley, for in it the cashier jotted down the greater part of his business affairs. In it he found the memoranda relating to his children's requests for the gold ring and the copy-books.

"He had the key to the bank. With it he could enter and take what he wanted, for the safe had a combination lock; and I will bring a witness to prove to your satisfaction that the key to the combination was in a pocket of that same note-book. Ashley was thoroughly conversant with banking matters, and the rest was easy. He went to the bank, took the notes, altered them to suit himself, and got them cashed.

"Tony Osborne's evidence will be taken at this point of examination which will follow. He will testify that he was thoroughly convinced at first that it was Vane Hamilton who entered the bank at seven o'clock on the twenty-second of May, but that when the pretended cashier returned he doubted him. You will perceive now how the shirt stud came to be found on the desk, and how the other stud and cap came on the river-bank. They were dropped there to start suspicion in the wrong direction, and to create confusion. You will also see the explanation of the supposed cashier's extraordinary conduct in visiting the bank, but neglecting his own home but a few rods away. The letter to the president of the bank, R. Ashley, was guilty. He was incarcerated in jail at Goodwill. His hair at the time was light, a light brown, the same color that we remember so well as crowning the noble head of our beloved townsman. This we can prove by the jailer's daughter. But the next we hear of it, his hair had turned, and while, but dark brown, almost black as you see it now.

"All eyes were turned now in the direction of the plaintiff, who sat beside Mr. Barstead, calm and collected in his demeanor.

Mr. Morley then proceeded to recount a similar instance of the turning of light hair to a dark color. One of a woman who was ill in a hospital in Montreal. When she entered her hair was red. In fell of from effects of fever, but came out a coal black. The other was the case of a young lady in Maine who was so terrified by a runaway horse, which took her carriage to the side of a railroad track when a train was passing. The horse stopped just in time, but the shock turned her hair from light red to dark auburn. These instances were well authenticated. The change in Mr. Hamilton's hair was no doubt the result in some unexplainable way of his terror at finding himself in durance vile. Or-it might have fallen off and come out again a different color. He (the jailer as it may, his hair changed from light to dark between the time he entered the jail and the asylum.

A woman who professed to be his wife came to see him. She had learned of the arrest no doubt, and travelled here without delay. The prisoner took no notice of her, but she declared he was her husband, though the man said he did not know her.

Why was this! Simply because she was not his wife. She, on the contrary, said she was, to screen her own husband, who, she now for the third time saw, as Lenore, upon recognizing her, gentlemen of the jury!" asked Mr. Morley in thrilling tones, "Do you see into what toils he had fallen?"

THE TARZAN TWINS

(Metropolitan Newspaper Feature Service)

The flight of the four fugitives from the Bagala cannibals was slow indeed, swift one of the bunch had to slacken their pace so that Dick and Doc might keep up with them. The boys had been seriously weakened by their captivity and vile food.

They were already tired and hungry before the day had fully dawned. Their bare feet, sore and bleeding, tramped painfully along dim trails. And the naked flesh of their bodies was torn and scratched by the cruel thorns that seemed to reach out to seize them.

Meanwhile, Tarzan, mounted on Tantor the elephant, directed his Waziry warriors in a frantic search for the boys. Through their silent ears, he scanned vast sections of the gloomy forest, and their many feet were as his own in travelling many trails.

But the searchers had not yet reached that territory through which the Bagalla pursued the hapless Tarzan Twins. Their feet soon bleeds suffered no handicaps of weakness or tender flesh. And their savage bloodlust was fuel to their powerful muscles.

THOUSANDS OF ORANGEMEN WILL STORM CITY

Fifteen Thousand Visitors Expected in Belleville Monday

Monday's Orange Celebration in Belleville promises to break all records for attendance and enthusiasm. Prince Edward Lodges, more than fifteen, are coming with full bands of musicians, massed playing and with bands playing.

Kingston is sending a large delegation and even Northumberland rural lodges will be represented.

Looks as if Belleville will be the mecca on Monday to draw visitors from as far west as Toronto.

Officers and members of Benjamin L.O.L. No. 174 Belleville, are sponsoring the celebration and a fine program has been arranged.

The celebration will be held on the Agricultural Grounds where every comfort and convenience has been provided for those who attend, including hot dinners served on the grounds from 11:30 a.m., under supervision of the Belleville Lodge.

The parade will leave the grounds at 1:30 p.m., proceeding along West Bridge Street to Front, to Upper Bridge, to Main, to Coleman, to West Bridge, to the Grounds.

At 2:30 p.m. speaking will begin in front of the Grand Stand with James F. Hill, M.P.P., acting as chairman. A number of eloquent speakers will discuss questions of interest to those present.

A program of sports will be carried out morning and afternoon.

A grand ball will bring the celebration to a close, the Moose Hall having been engaged for that purpose.

WEATHER

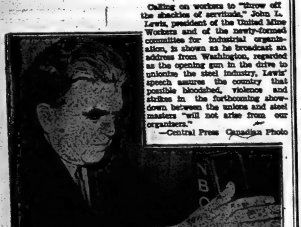
JOHN TAUBMAN DIES OF INJURY

Bicycling to Belleville to Spend Holiday, Accident Victim

Victim of an accident on the highway while travelling from Toronto to Belleville where he intended visiting local relatives, Mr. Jack Taubman, son of Mrs. J. Taubman, 12 McFarlane Avenue, Toronto, succumbed to his injuries in the Oshawa General Hospital, it was reported by long distance telephone call received in this city today.



Details of the accident as related here early this morning by Mr. Isaac Stevenson, uncle of the youth were meagre. It is believed, however, that in the darkness had overtaken him while cycling on the highway he was struck by a car.

The youth was a brother of Mrs. Reginald Hardwick, Mrs. Peggy O'Neil and Mrs. Floyd Russel all of this city and a nephew of Isaac and Wm. Stephenson, of Belleville.

It is reported that the body will be brought to Belleville for burial.

Oshawa, Ont., July 16.— (CP)— Struck by a car while cycling on the highway west of here last night, John Taubman, 18, Toronto, died in Oshawa General Hospital today. Death was believed due to a fractured skull. He was struck by a car driven by Harold Hambly. An inquest has been ordered.

FIRES OPENING GAP IN STEEL FIGHT

Calling on workers to "throw off the shackles of servitude," John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers and of the newly-formed committee for industrial organization, is shown as he broadcast an address from Washington, regarded as the opening gun in the drive to unionize the steel industry. Lewis' speech assures the country that possible bloodshed, violence and strikes in the forthcoming showdown between the unions and steel masters "will not arise from our organizers."

SEIZE MILLIONS OF SWEEPSTAKE TICKETS

In a succession of quick raids, following months of investigation, New York police and federal agents arrested ten, two of whom were women, and confiscated a van-load of paraphernalia, including more than 1,000,000 gambling sweepstake tickets in New York City. In the picture above several post-office inspectors are shown checking the material seized in the raids.

SUN'S RAYS USED TO HATCH EGGS AT FORT ERIE, O.

FOUNTAIN 'PHOOEY'

Family of Deaf Mutes Warn Children to Escape Death

Fort Erie—As reports of successful attempts to fry eggs on the sidewalk become common, Mrs. Harry M. Bruce, Ridgeway, went one better, and used the sun to hatch chickens.

Finding a nest deserted by a hen, with pecking chicks almost ready to emerge, she placed the eggs in the sun. By nightfall, one chick had pushed its way from the shell, and another was making brave efforts in that direction.

Arnprior, Ont.—John Rhland, resident of Sandy Beach, is having summer resort, contradicted his wife last night when she told the children he is to blame.

"Let them stay up," he said, "It's too hot to sleep."

A few minutes later a violent wind storm blew a large branch in the top of the house in which their bedroom was located, smashing it to splinters.

London, Ont.—"Old Faithful", the famous sulphur fountain at Springbank Park, was in action on the hottest day of the year. Officials reported the piping limit for refreshing cure was undergoing and all day panting and thirsty pedestrians and automobilists stood in line for a refreshing drink of sulphur water. "The fountain" will be ready in a day or so.

Toronto, Ont.—With the thermometer around the 104 mark yesterday, thousands of Torontonians sought refuge on the sandy shores of Lake Ontario—but very few went in the water.

The temperature was six degrees above freezing at 38.

Toronto, Ont.—Five which destroyed 80 feet of boardwalk on Centre Island in Toronto Bay yesterday added to the discomforts of perspiring residents of the city.

The blaze was thought to have been started with a cigarette butt.

At midnight, a fire-tug sprayed water high into the air in an effort to provide moisture for the parched Centre Island park.

Toronto, Ont.—The Ontario Civil Service "Treasure Hunt" out on the parliament buildings here yesterday, discovered hidden in the eyes of employees the rest of the afternoon off when the thermometer flirted with the 104 mark.

Peterborough, Ont.—Warned by a family of deaf mutes, several children escaped death or serious injury here last night as a tree crashed in front of the home of Fred Bowman.

The tree, a 50-year-old Maple, snapped off at the base from the gusts. Its fall straightened to the ground a branch which stretched far out over the street. The Bowman family were able to wave children away as it crashed.

Toronto, Ont.—Thomas B. Hall, former executive of the Canadian Pacific Express Company, and brother of the late Grand Hall, vice-president of the C.P.R. died suddenly here last night, a victim of the heat. Mr. Hall was 86 years of age.

AUSTRALIA TRIP IS ABANDONED

London, July 11 (CP)—Lord Semphl returned to Ranworth Airdrome today, less than 24 hours after he took off with three companions in an endeavor to fly to Melbourne, Australia, in 3½ days.

Arriving at Ranworth at 8.58 a.m. (4.58 a.m. E.D.T.) Lord Sempill said the fault in the flight was not due to failure of any part of the structure of his machine. He said he discovered in passing Vienna ahead of schedule that the auxiliary gasoline supply to provide for anticipated bad weather conditions was not working properly.

The defect could not be remedied without returning to Ranworth, he explained.

In Vienna Lord Sempill told newspapermen he would make a new attempt as soon as repairs to the machine were made.

NEWS BRIEFS AND ODDITIES

Cobourg, B.C., July 11 (CP)—At 98, Miss Lydia Anne Brewer, has a great grandmother, in an invalid car, enjoyed the sunshine of Cobourg's resident of Charleston, one of the first questions she asked when she came here to visit her "baby boy," an elderly railroad official, was:

"What kind of swimming phoss do you have?"

Relieved that they were plentiful, it was only a matter of hours before Mrs. Brewer, garbed in a modern bathing suit, took to the water.

Haileybury, July 11 (CP)—Inside of days, Sidney Temple may be taking direction in pictures which he has never seen before. He has been put to work as a third assistant director for the Century-Fox Studio, where she is under contract.

Miss Temple is assistant in a general headyman and armed boy.

Detroit, July 11 (CP)—Automobile manufacturers announced today many and today with almost completely solving the problem of heat prostration among drivers.

Sioux salt tablets have been distributed among workers of the factories have not had a single case of heat prostration.

Heading the principal cause of heat prostration is the loss of salt from the blood stream through profuse perspiration, Dr. R. M. Harvey, chief of the Ford Hospital, the motor car plant, is urging workers to add salt in the form of a dash of the salt tablets daily, or, preferably, to a glass or more of water.

Buenos Aires, July 11 (AP)—It's winter in South America, and there is little sympathy among the people for the heat wave in Europe.

Slight Dip In Temperature.

Although temperatures were down during the afternoon from those of yesterday, humidity was correspondingly higher, and there was little greater part of the day today, bringing greater distress to perspiring residents.

In one local manufacturing plant during the afternoon, attendants of two girl employees collapsed at their work. Shop operations were then suspended for the day.

Cool Waters of Water.

At Oak Lake, one of the favorite spots of local residents during the heat wave, the cooling waters were pulled from the water by companies, and bathers were given a 24-hour warning. Resuscitation methods were necessary.

City governors picking a lazy living of bugs from car radiators during the heat wave in Winnipeg city, with lengthy beak-gapping rest periods in the shade under tree lodges and curbs have become decidedly tamer, too reserved to hop when the city's 25,000 pedestrians.

Overcome After Swim.

Overcome by a sudden heart attack after a refreshing swim, Constable Victoria Park early last evening, James Semark, 31-year-old local hockey player, collapsed on the grass. Following first aid treatment given by his fellow-officers, Constable Park lifeguard, and later by Dr. R. A. Flynn at the scene, the youth was removed to his home by car.

400 Torontonians Purchase Complete Shower Equipment

Soft Drink Sales And Ice Sales Up 100 Per Cent

NEW HEAT CURE

Toronto, July 11 (CP)—While the mercury in thermometer tubes beat out a torrid sun-dance rhythm in the top of the glass more than a few persons turned up their noses at the scorching wave of Manitoba reports and scurried to Turkish baths.

Veteran addicts say it's the best heat-cure they know of. Let the 100 or so degrees of steam parboil you for a while and open the 7,000,000 pores and that's stay de-heated for days, they say.

Water consumption in the city soared to new heights, and weary waiters plopped down numberless steins of foaming beer for the thirsty.

One soft drink firm, asked about its sales, reported, "sorry, too busy," then another: "Oh, sales are up 100 per cent anyway."

If only to feel air movement. Torontonians rushed to buy electric fans. One hardware store sold out its stock and had to turn away customers because the wholesalers could supply no more for days.

Shower baths for home installation were in demand. One big store reported more than 400 sales of complete shower equipment.

A magistrate declined to convict a man arrested and charged with delivering ice on a Sunday.

Ice firms, reckoning four per cent sales increase for every degree the mercury climbs, said business was up about 80 per cent.

The coal business was in the doldrums, though one firm reported it was filling and delivering orders as usual. A second firm didn't answer the phone call. At a third, the switchboard operator said the staff had taken the afternoon off.

The coolest men in the city were those working in the Toronto Terminals warehouse. Wearing earmuffs, arctic sweaters, heavy gloves and winter underclothes they shifted barrels in six-below-zero cold.

The hottest men filled the Reverbatory furnace at the Canada Metal plant. In the room where they worked it was 300 degrees. When the furnace doors it was 600 to 900 degrees, and inside the furnace 2,000 degrees, because the firemen don't mind the sun.

CLOUDS, THUNDER TANTALIZE, PASS; HEAT CONTINUES

Third And Fourth Days of Torrid Wave Leave People Philosophic

NORTH SUFFERS

One Youth Prostrated at Oak Lake And One at Victoria Park

Relentless as all the comic thermostat which has held the city and district and the rest of the country in the sweltering 80's and above for the past four days and nights even a notch toward cooler temperatures, the weatherman again scored over a sleepless citizenry last night.

As darkness fell over a heat-baked city scenes and sights that have been witnessed hourly since the commencement of the unprecedented wave were duplicated.

Again gasping, fun-waving drivers and passengers of motor cars tooled their machines in roiling aldermobi along the front roads of Prince Edward County, the Bay of Quinte bridge way and even the lakes and woodsy drive north of the city, were thronged with humanity.

Again beach yards, verandas and even fire escapes were pressed into service as more livable sleeping quarters. And despite the "feel" of the 90's and 100's, the thermometer, ing muggy barometric drop in air pressure, Victoria Park and even Bayside Island were dotted with forms of sleepless outdoor enthusiasts, lying in a blanket of hazy heat through which not the faintest breeze stirred.

Slight Dip In Temperature.

Although temperatures were down during the afternoon from those of yesterday, humidity was correspondingly higher, and there was little greater part of the day today, bringing greater distress to perspiring residents.

In one local manufacturing plant during the afternoon, attendants of two girl employees collapsed at their work. Shop operations were then suspended for the day.

Says It's Easier to Plead Guilty To Being Drunk, 'Just Fooling'

Lorenza Commands Asks to Pay Half Fine, Serve Half Term

HOW JAIL KNOWS

ning Indian from Manitwaki, seventy miles north of here, yesterday caused considerable confusion in magistrate's court by pleading guilty to a charge of drunkenness and claiming at the same time he was not drunk.

Lorenza Commands, who pleaded guilty to the charge has paid 10 times previously.

Asked Judge Millar: "Well, if you weren't drunk why are you pleading guilty."

Answered Commands: "Because it's easier to plead guilty than to fight the case."

Judge Millar sentenced him to pay $10 or spend two weeks in jail.

"I'll serve half the time and pay the balance," asked the Indian.

The judge explained that would not be legal. However, he added, "since you don't seem to be a bad fellow I'll date the sentence from the time of your arrest."

Commands, still troubled, asked: "How will I know at the jail when to let me out?"

Judge replied: "Don't worry about that. I'll see you get out about the middle of next week."

Commands nodded his thanks in the direction of the bench and was led to jail, smiling broadly.

HAS WAY TO KEEP HIMSELF COOL

At least one resident of the city found a way to combat the heat wave on Saturday.

Unmindful of the stares of pedestrians in the downtown section the resident calmly paraded the streets, equipped with a large straw hat and with shirt tails fully exposed, flapping in the faint breeze.

Heat Factor in Many Deaths Among Children and Elderly

Deaths in Ontario believed caused directly by the heat or by which the hot weather is reported to have been the contributing factor are:

Toronto: Mrs. Elizabeth Mills; Sarah Fletcher, 73, Toronto; Harry Aickman, 73, Toronto; Ernest Schmidt, Toronto; Theresa Quigley; Toronto; Margaret Woolfrey, 60, Toronto; Mrs. Louis Brown of Chicago, died in a Hamilton hospital; Thomas F. Hall, 63, Toronto; William Bell, 73, Toronto; Hiram Smithe, Toronto; Carla Molnaar, 20 months, Toronto; Reuben Lester, 94, Toronto; William Fischer, 75, Toronto; Annie Dercola, 56, Toronto; John McDowell, 77, Toronto; Mrs. James Walker, 62, Sarnia; John McDougal, Alvinston; William Mooney, London; Thomas Morton, 9½ months, Toronto; Barry McIntyre, 3 months, Toronto; Mildred Cox, 9 months, Toronto; William Cardwell, Toronto; Mrs. Isabel Phillips, 61, Toronto; Ernest Hamel, 51, Toronto; Thomas Pilcy, 84, Agincourt; Ferdinand Stelch, 74, Zurich; Charles Willis, 66, Toronto; Fidell Mussio, 32, Toronto; Harry S. Hall, 50, Toronto; Mrs. Sarah Stedman, 80, Toronto; Agfed Thompson, 68, Toronto; Mrs. Louisa Brown, Hamilton; Mrs. Louise Briggs, 64, Hamilton; Mrs. Emily Fraser, 81, Hamilton; Mrs. Bella Graham, 58, Thorold; Mrs. William McCracken, St. Thomas; George Bennett, farmer of Wrentner; Mrs. Elizabeth Pollock, 70, Toronto; Mrs. Sarah Foster, 78,

Linton, Ind.—Mrs. Sarah Smith went to bed Saturday night a couple of eggs to be used in a cake. She discovered the hen house was so hot the eggs already were soft-boiled—tender, soft-cooked—so she served them that way at dinner.

Lincoln, Neb.—To farmers rustlily looking at crops ruined by the drought, W. J. Dewaltz, secretary of the Nebraska Department of Agriculture, offered a word of comfort: "Nebraska corn fields are the cleanest I ever saw them—practically weedless. Weeds need rain to grow, too."

Hancock, Mich.—Henry Billikan decided that it was too hot for a man to work and that the same went for his horse. He turned his horse out in an open field. The horse died of sunstroke.

Grand Island, Neb.—If the hot weather continues they may expect they had never been hatched, but two goslings at the Ray Mead farm owe their lives to it. The mother goose abandoned seven eggs two weeks ago. The sun incubated two of them.

Harvard, Ill.—Protrated by the heat, Edward Nolan, 50, fell unconscious while burning Canadian thistles on his farm. The fire spread to Nolan, setting his clothing afire and burning him fatally.

Chicago, Ill.—With the temperature over 100, a total of 107 persons reported to the Board of Health that they had been overcome by heat. Herman N. Bundesen, board president, said it was the largest one-day total in the history of his department.

PLANE FORCED DOWN

Emergency Rations Stave Off Hunger Until Rescue

Marooned three days on a small lake hemmed in by dense woods between The Pas, Winnipeg, and God's Lake with companions in a crippled airplane, James Hurley, well known resident of this city and mine employee at God's Lake, was safely found by a search party in a canvoion plane at noon today, safety the remainder of the journey.

Beyond the effects of fly bites and threatened hunger which was held off for a time by emergency rations carried, the party survived the ordeal in good health until located by searchers.

Engine failure forced the plane to descend on the lake while Mr. Hurley was returning to the north following a vacation spent recently here.

'Strong Enough to Hold Wolf' Traps Alleged Set by Man

Set To Trap Children Crossing His Property

NO LENIENCY

Covered Traps With Earth And Put Money on Top For Bait

San Francisco, July 11 (CP)—Charge that a man deliberately set as "John Doe" set steel animal traps for children in his back yard today brought promises of prosecution from authorities.

Municipal Judge Frank Dunn, who issued a warrant for the man's arrest, declared:

"If it is proved that these traps were set for children, the culprit can expect no leniency."

Assistant District Attorney Terrence Boyle described the traps as "strong enough to hold a wolf." After the police had been brought to his office by Mrs. Helen Harrington, 1,000 Alameda Ortona.

The two women said the man, a neighbor whose name they did not know, had covered the traps with a thin layer of earth in his back yard and placed shiny pieces of metal above them for "bait."

They declared he objected to children crossing the yard and warned him as saying:

"I'll get those kids yet."

Negro Crossley Stabs One Guard in Abdomen And Another in Chest

Stabber Was Ringleader in Big Riot at Montreal in 1932

TWOMEY BADLY HURT

Wounds of J. McCormick in Chest Not So Serious

Kingston, Ont., July 11 (CP) Two Kingston Penitentiary guards were stabbed by a negro convict today and taken to hospital. Reports said the negro, Chester Crossley, attacked the guards with a short knife while prisoners were on parade and while the guard was being changed.

Guard Jack Twomey was taken to the General Hospital with a wound in the abdomen and another in the arm. He was believed to be in hurt.

Guard John McCormick was taken to Hotel Dieu Hospital and operated on for a wound in the chest.

Crossley was a ringleader in the St. Paul de Vincent Penitentiary riot when the Quebec Provincial institution was thrown into a turmoil November 8, 1932. At that time several hundred convicts overcame guards and set fire to the industrial buildings. It was later said they overcame but three guards were injured.

Died of Heat

The stabbing of two guards by a negro convict in Kingston Penitentiary today was a minor affair compared with the bloodthirsty riot which broke out in the penal institution October 17, 1932. Convicts, demanding more privilegest, seized and barricaded the latter shop and threatened to burn themselves to death unless troops summoned from the artillery barracks were withdrawn. Trouble flared anew three days later but the threat was not subdued by tear gas. A number of convicts, armed with clubs and fighting trouble and received additional reinforcements.

In the St. Vincent de Paul riot of November, 1923, Chester Crossley, the same man who figured in the stabbing affray today, laid a barricade in the top floor of the tailoring shop and poured gasoline over them. Then he stepped forward with a lighted candle. A guard, attempting to prevent him setting the sacks afire, was burned in the face. The fire was lighted and threw him on the burning sacks. Other guards, armed with rifles, rescued him.

Crossley's Part in 1932

The fire gained headway and work was begun to get prisoners out of the building. A Crossley ran to a closet and refused to come out. Guards had difficulty getting him to safety. He was burned about the body and had suffered knife wounds.

According to officials of the penitentiary branch, Crossley has a long prison record, both in Canadian and American jails and is serving a life sentence for his part in the St. Vincent de Paul riots.

Mail Knife Used

The knife used had a blade two or three inches long and is used in the mail bag department of the penitentiary to rip sewns.

It was suspected of concealing it in his clothing yesterday, avoiding a close inspection when leaving the shop.

The two injured guards were taken to Kingston hospitals.

SMALL SHOWERS STRIKE DISTRICT

Very High Temperatures Rule Shortly Before Noon

Deaths from the four-day-old heat wave in Ontario attributed directly or in part to the heat neared the 100 mark today when half the total was reported from Toronto.

Prostrations were reported from Ottawa and cities all over the province.

At noon today reports of deaths caused entirely or in part by the heat totalled 98 for all of Ontario.

Some hope for relief over the week end was held out by the weather man. The forecast said there would be stationary or slightly lower temperatures with possibly a few scattered thunderstorms.

Temperatures registered in most high nitudes and about the 100th mark. Galt reported 102 at 10.45 a.m.

Scattered Showers.

Although the city and immediate district was ringed this morning by scattered showers, only a few drops of Trenton, Stirling, Campbellford, and even as close as Roslin, today's report, reported, however, to have had little more effect than laying the dust, the city still awaiting the long-hoped-for rain over the saving cool breeze relief would bring through the succession.

Thunder rumbled in the west while storm clouds piled up, but later in the day sultry skies and a scorching sun replaced the threats of earlier morning. Continued heat is the prospect for the rest of the day and tonight, it was indicated.

Temperatures today officially at temperatures registered at the city pump house reached the highest mark of the year, 98 degrees, which was 76, while highest temperatures during the day in the shade under the century mark, standing at 103 degrees even in the afternoon.

Humidity was correspondingly high due to the threat of rain and thunder-shower hopes.

Thirsty residents set the highest mark for water consumption on Friday ever recorded. During the day a total of 3,500,000 gallons of water were metered at the pump.

We're using fuse about twice as much as any other city in the size in the province, due to the fact that electric fans and coolers are not metered," pointed out Manager E. T. Austin.

CLOUDS, THUNDER

Tantalizing dark clouds rolled up in the north west early today and there was low rumbling with muttering in the heavens but the rain did not come The wind bore the cloud rack away and the sun scorched triumphed.

This was the first sign of possible relief except for slight lowering of temperatures last evening.

All Are Sufferers

Bancroft, Tweed, Madoc and other outlying communities in the northern part of the county are experiencing the same heat wave now affecting the front townships, it is reported by residents of that section.

At Bancroft this week the same high and constant temperatures as those registered in Belleville have been noted, according to Wm. Richardson, driver of the Belleville-Bancroft bus, who are having cool nights though." It was reported by him.

At Tweed highest registrations reached 104 and were recorded at 103 degrees on Wednesday.

Agricultural conditions while not as bad as those experienced locally, are far from good. It was stated, with potatoes and other vine crops being chief sufferers owing to lack of rain.

Hay Is Drying Up

Hay is so dry in this district that farmers working generally during the coolness of the evening hours, are raising it and drawing it to the barn immediately after. Lack of dew at night and the blazing heat of the day has resulted in hay being cured in the fields almost as it is growing. It is expected that the greater part of the hay crop will be got this week, according to statements of rural residents.

Fall wheat, clover and crisp due to the heat will be cut somewhat next week, according to weather conditions, it was stated by the farmers. The crop, however, has been ripening fast and the shrinkage in kernels and heads has been noted. Pastures are burning up due to the continued drought, and in some instances barn feeding of the animals has already been reported to, it was reported.

All evening long automobiles containing perspiring occupants lined the north shore of Prince Edward County, the bay bridge road and the bay bridge itself where stirring vagrant breezes brought temporary relief. Many of the machines were still in place until a late hour at night while owners and families lolled on the cooling grass.

But least of the means of getting cool were reported from the waterfront. Even at two o'clock this morning swimmers were observed paddling and splashing in the water at the government dock.

NO HEAT PROSTRATION IS REPORTED HERE

"Residents of the city are holding up well; so far we haven't had a single case of heat prostration which has required medical attention," reported officials of the Belleville General Hospital today.

Calgary, July 11 (CP)—A cripple cowboy set a new world's record for calf roping and other events today at the Calgary stampede yesterday.

Defying doctor's orders he withdrew because of a broken collar bone received in his bout with Warner Linder of Medicine Hat, Ernest Lamont of Calgary won three consecutive steers in 2 2-5 seconds, 6 1-5 seconds and 6 2-5 seconds. Several cowboys roped as many as two steers consecutively but none previously succeeded in doing three.

ATTRIBUTE DEATHS TO TERRIFIC HEAT OF PAST FEW DAYS

Three Elderly Residents of Trenton Succumb to Heat

INDUSTRIES CLOSE

Employees Forced to Quit Post in Many Factories

Trenton, July 11.— (Special) — Mrs. Agnes Harry, wife of John F. Harry, R. R. No. 2, was stricken with a heart attack, while attending the Smithfield Sunday School picnic, at Cedardale Beach on Lake Ontario, Thursday afternoon. On returning to her sister's home in Murray Township, she had a second attack and succumbed within a few minutes. Deceased was speaking on a few days with her sister, Mrs. A. Flindall, Murray Township. Mrs. Harry was born in Adams, New York, the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Wood. At an early age her parents, moved in Hallowell, where she also received her education. When she became of the late John Harry, in 1889, the happy couple took up residence on the Belleville Road and have lived there ever since, with the exception of the past forty-seven years. At White's Church she was a very active member belonging to the Ladies' Aid and the Missionary society. She leaves to mourn her loss, her husband, three daughters, Mrs. Irene Mallory, Mrs. Walter Jones, Miss Edith Harry and one grand-daughter, Miss Margaret Wess all of R. R. No. 2, Trenton; Mrs. J. F. Flindall, Murray Township also survives. Some years ago three brothers, predeceased her, Joseph, John and Wm. Wood.

The funeral will be held from the late home, R. R. No. 2, Trenton, to Belleville will officiate at the home and in the church. Interment will be made in White's Methodist Church Cemetery.

Aniceine Chouinard

Nearly yesterday morning, Aniceine Chouinard in his 80th year passed away at the home of his son-in-law, Mr. Henry Chouinard, George St. He had eaten a hearty supper before going to bed. At 5.30 a.m. he was found dead in bed. Deceased was of his age and was a great favorite among his elder citizens. In his younger days he was an employee of the Grand Trunk Railway. He died in the midst of many a thrilling log drive. His wife was the former Miss Mary Ann Dunn. In his life he was an active member of St. Peter-Paul's Catholic Church. The funeral will take place from the Peter-Charles Catholic Church at 8.00 on Monday morning. The Rev. Father O'Reilly will officiate. Interment will be made in Mount Calvary Cemetery.

Mrs. Sarah Ann Bryer

In her 87th year Mrs. Ellen Pierce Bryer, widow of the late Simons on George Street, yesterday afternoon at the residence of her son in Murray Township, the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Pierce, was born in Belleville and lived in Trenton for the last 25 years coming from Consecon. Her husband, Henry Bryer, her husband, passed away some years ago. She was popular in her set and was a member of St. George's Anglican Church. She leaves to mourn, Mrs. Ellen Bryer, daughters, Mrs. Soulie of Buffalo, New York, Mrs. Arthur Gough of Toronto, and four sons, Arthur of Trenton and Toronto, Thomas, Robert of Trenton and William living at home in Trenton. A brother H. Pierce of Brighton also survives. Two sisters survive also. The funeral will take place from St. George's Anglican Church at 1.15 p.m. Interment will be made in Mount Evergreen Cemetery, Canon A. E. Smith will officiate over the service at the church and graveside. Pallbearers will be grandchildren of the deceased. They are—Sandy Wellman, Joseph Wellman, William Wellman, Richard Wellman, Francis Bryer and Everett Hickerson.

Whitfalls 16; Wooler 3

At Bayshore diamond last night, the many fans saw the. Whitfall Cans overpower the Wooler nine, and in the last inning to go on to score seven runs win. The final score-card of the game was: Whitfalls 16; Wooler 3 Chambers pitched for the Whitfalls and Bay backstopped. The Cannon have procured about the smoothest sheet slap that has been seen in action this year and they backstopped. He pulled up all sorts of slow string catches and also baie well Chambers of the Whitfalls drove out a homer in the third Miller started the drive that overcame the Wooler. He batted out a single . Umpires were behind the bat— Carwell on the bases, O Niddery.

Industries

Terrific heat prevailed over the town for the third day and resignations are trying in every way and form to try and find an anti-dote for the heat. Trent Cotton Mills did not run in the afternoon as the temperature was unbearable. Downs Coulter plant also stopped operation early in the afternoon. Children grew up and carriers were seen swimming off the Trenton Government docks. Farmers at Carrying Place, Ontario say that their crops will be 50 if rain does not come soon. While in Prince Edward are drying up fast and residents of Carrying Place are having their main supply of water from the town well in order to preserve their own. Within the past two days four Trenton elders have passed away and the cause of death has been attributed to the heat wave. Potatoes peas and corn are suffering under the sweltering sun and cautious towards the beginning are bad. Apples plums and cherries are standing up quite well but it will not take much of the present weather to ruin them. Farmers in Prince Edward are not drawing water for miles from the lake to supply their horses and cattle. A few of the Wooler road destroyed almost a twelve acre orchard. The property belonged to A. J. Brett of Maidoc. It is unknown how the blaze started. Grain is being cut a week ahead of the farmers stock as the drought has stopped it from filling. Merchants of the town are putting the awnings on windows that have never covered before. One thing that is not suffering is the town supply of pure water. Tubs of icicles say that there is lots of water present.

Works Starts on Approaches to Bridge on Murray Canal

Yesterday a steam roller moved to Carrying Place to start working on the approaches to the new Murray Canal bridge. It will also start work on the unfinished road to Blacksmith shop to the corner. It is believed the Cameron and Flint of Welland, Ont. Contractors who built the foundations for the Murray Canal bridge. Hall Bros. have got the Carrying Place residents and many of the cottagers on the east retreating towards the bay at night for a cool wash off.

OSHAWA STORY OF FATAL INJURY

John J. Taubman's Injuries Were To Head

Further details of the fatal accident which befell John Taubman, who was bicycling to Belleville are contained in an account from the Oshawa Times.

Oshawa, July 11—John James Taubman, 19-year-old Toronto boy, formerly of Belleville, was fatally injured early Friday morning when knocked off his bicycle by a car driven by Hamilton Hockey, 19, Simcoe-boulevard, on No 3 highway just west of the Bridge St. jog, while bicycling from Toronto to Belleville, when he was struck by Mr. Hockey.

Mr Hockey picked the young lad up and rushed him to the Oshawa Hospital where it was found that he was suffering from severe head injuries. The accident occurred shortly after 12 midnight and young Taubman died in the hospital at 3 o'clock. The driver of the car did not know the name of the injured boy but a card bearing his name and address was found in his pocket when he was admitted to the hospital. Parents here were notified and they notified the police in Belleville.

Details of the accident have not yet been ascertained. Provincial Constable Jack Rogers and Detective Inspector Wilkins are investigating the case but so far they have not been able to locate the driver. A jury will be empanelled to view the remains when found Inspector Mr. McMullan has ordered an inquest for Tuesday.

The deceased was born in Belleville in 1917 and lived there until about five years ago when he moved with his family to 73 McFarlane Avenue, Toronto. He left Oshawa for Toronto ago. He is survived by his mother, Mrs. Annie Taubman, and six sisters, Mrs. Jessie Hamilton of Toronto, and Mrs. Marie P. O'Neill, Mrs. Meg Hardwick, and Miss Dorothy Russell, of Belleville.

The funeral will be held from the parlors of the Belleville Burial Company on Monday afternoon, with interment in Belleville cemetery.

DOZEN OUTBREAKS OF FIRE WATCHED

Timber Camps Burn Up 300 Driven Out of Area

(By the Canadian Press)

With hard-parched forests and sun-baked grass lands presenting perfect fire conditions, Ontario fighters battled or guarded a dozen outbreaks throughout the province today. While old brush appeared to be under control in some places, fresh blazes were encouraging in Sault Ste. Marie, Brantford, Simcoe and Port Arthur districts.

Three blazes were being fought by men near Sault Ste. Marie. The largest was two and a half miles from Northland on the Algoma Central Railway. Fishermen are believed responsible.

A second blaze was menacing summer cottages, while a third, a two-acre burn, was reported near Searchmount.

Port Arthur reports were burned and 300 men driven out of an area near Port Arthur. A 30-acre tract of bush and farm land on which were situated the home and farm buildings of Ed. Simcoe was razed by fire near Simcoe. A hot wind gave the flames impetus as they ate sought to control the flames.

In the Brantford area, farmers battled a fire which, believed started when men attempted to burn stumps. Some 15 acres of hay field, razed through it and attacked the farm buildings. Water supply hindicapped blackened fighters.

Old fires around Geraldton, Fort Bay, Atikokan and Sudbury, were reported under control, and crews patrolled them. In other cases, although lightning had started two fresh blazes, rain fell Sudbury.

Wives and children of workers at Macleod-Cockshutt and Hard Rock Mines, who had taken refuge in Timmins during the recent menacing proportions, returned to their homes. Interest was still stamped out the remaining blaze.

CHICKENS, SPUDS FEATURE MARKET

Raspberries Held Firm at Twenty-five Cents Per Box

Baby chicks, at 7 cents each, chirping bravely in sweltering heat, featured the produce section in a unusually stuffy box in the market this morning as one of the smallest weekend crowds of the season, in point of numbers, listened with their efforts to get the weekend groceries and other supplies.

Heat and humidity, however apparently had little or no effect on the vendors who at one time outnumbered purchasers.

Potatoes, old and potato day at the market this morning. The tasty hen of all ages commanded various prices at the start but lack of purchasers resulted in brisk competition with vendors dropping prices rapidly to meet opposition. Choice broilers ranged from 40 to 65 cents, most brought from 55 cents to one dollar.

Profusion of new potatoes featured the produce with choice sample being offered at ten cents per box. Vendors offered the new crop at lower prices, some demanding as high as 75c per peck. Others sold as low as fifty cents, selling bushel lot at 1.50.

Raspberries maintained their high price of 25c a box, firm and of excellent quality, sold at 2 boxes for 25 but found few buyers.

Cherries in abundance with the red variety being in particular demand. Them moved briskly at 15 cents per box and 60 cents per six quart basket. Black sweet cherries found their first appearance and sold at 75 cents per six qts. Mesdemorcias at 50c and White sweet cherries at 60c were disposed of.

Green peas remained steady at 25c per peck while new string beans at 2 boxes for 25 cents with one vendor offering at 2 for 15c, found few buyers.

Ice cold lemonade at 5c per glass featured one vendor's booth, and had plenty of takers.

New cabbage at 10c, cauliflower at 15, 2 and 25 cents, onions, beets, lettuce, rhubarb and believe it or not, horseradish roots were steady at 5c. A small truck load of fine quality radishes found plenty of buyers at 3 bunches for 5c.

In the inside market farmers butter in two lb. rolls sold at 25c per pound. Homeking in which was featured delicious chicken pies at 20-40 and 50c each, brought ready response from lady purchasers. Eggs sold briskly at 15c per dozen. Other prices noted in the general market were spinach 10c 1-2 peck, honey 10c lb. 2 pkgs for 15 in pail, watercress 5c bc per bunch with many varieties of coloring cut flowers being offered at varying prices.

THOUSANDS OF ORANGEMEN WILL STORM CITY

Fifteen Thousand Visitors Expected in Belleville Monday

Monday's Orange Celebration in Belleville promises to break all records for attendance and enthusiasm. Prince Edward lodges, more than fifteen, are coming with full quota of members, with banners flying and with bands playing.

Kingston is bringing a large delegation with city lodges and lodges from Frontenac County, while Lennox and Addington will be well represented.

Hastings will be to the fore with lodges representing South, Central and North Hastings, occupying a large portion of the parade.

Trenton is sending a large delegation and even Northumberland rural lodges will be represented.

Loads of Belleville will be the magnet Monday to draw visitors from as far west as Toronto.

Officers and members of Benjamin Hill, L.O.L. No. 274, are sponsoring the celebration and a fine program has been arranged.

The celebration will be held on the Agricultural Grounds where ample parking space accommodation has been provided for those who attend, including hot dinners served on the grounds under the efficient supervision of the Belleville lodge.

The parade will leave the grounds at 1.30 p.m., proceeding along West Bridge to Bonneycastle, to Upper Bridge, to Moira, to Coleman, to West Bridge, to the Grounds.

At 2.30 p.m. speaking will begin in front of the grandstand with James F. Hill, M.P.P., acting as chairman. A number of eloquent speakers will discuss questions of concern to the present.

A program of sports will be carried out from 3 p.m. onwards.

A grand ball will bring the celebration to a close in the Moose Hall having been engaged for that purpose.

SAY YOUTH HIT GLASS WITH HANDS

Police Find Young Man With Hands Bleeding From Cuts

Breaking three glass windows, police charge in three upper floor apartments of businesses while allegedly intoxicated, Clifford Moore, 18, of this city, was arrested last night on charges of intoxication. Constables Arnott and Ellis arrested Moore in a room on the rear the premises of the Fruit Machinery Company, after they had received complaints relative to the boy causing disturbances and destroying property early last night.

Moore was apprehended on the Fruit Machinery property with his hands bleeding profusely as the result, police believe, of being cut by broken glass as he struck the windows of the three local stores. According to police reports, young Moore was first observed by a passer-by to run through the window of Lem Bros. Grocery store, then through the Upper Fire Hall and striking the door window of John Gordon's Grocery store, shattering that glass. Moore, police added, continued his destructive path punches, with his fist, the plate glass window of Hayes Bros. barber shop before entering the glass and generally disturbing the peace of the community.

Following his arrest Moore was taken to the surgery of Dr. G. S. Cronk where his lacerated hands received medical attention. He was bleeding profusely from both hands and lower arms when apprehended, police allege. The matter of prosecution was later settled by the young man's family and a charge of intoxication laid by police. The case was adjourned until Monday.

CANNIFTON DOWNS FOXBORO BY 5-3

Dr. Harry Blakely Standout For The Loggy Team

Foxboro, July 11.—The Canniffon Imperials defeated Foxboro ever ambitious baseball nine last night in a rather loosely played contest in which the playing of Doc Blakely for the losers, was a standout. Doc literally carried the Foxboro outfit by accepting six chances while he was batting, one single, one double, scoring a triple and double in three tries at the plate, accounting for all of the losers' runs.

No doubt the extreme heat was responsible for the many errors that occurred in play, each team booting the ball for miscues, they being 10 errors chalked up to the scoring. Foxboro allowing three unearned runs and Canniffon four. Canniffon started off with a bang in the first when Collins doubled. Harmony was safe on catcher's error. Simpson smacked a triple, scoring two runs. Means was safe when Guay missed his fly to right. Simpson's scoring, Jarvis walked and Means scored when Blakely hobbled J. Murray's grounder to short. Canniffon got another run in the second on Collins' and Murray's singles.

Foxboro scored twice in the first at Ashley and Ketcheson were safe on errors at short and third, Blakely scoring both with a two-bagger. Again in the third Ketcheson was safe on Murray's error and Blakely's triple. Foxboro also scored in the fifth when Brose, Ketcheson, Blakely, Guy, Walt, V. Guay and N. Guay.

100 Boys Will Go to Camp Through Generosity of Kiwanis

Another Great Community Work Undertaken by Kiwanians

FINE CAMP LIFE

One hundred youngsters will be making the trip to Manx Lake Camp during the first two weeks in August. One hundred youngsters, who, through circumstances (of none of their own making) attributable to an unkind fate, would not be able to enjoy such a trip but for the guaranteed holiday at the expense of the Belleville Kiwanis Club.

Nothing stands still: things must go on for if they don't progress they go back. It is the law of nature. Kiwanians realize that boys of today and their policy is ever one striving for betterment. "Boys First" is their slogan—is a policy that doesn't condemn—but rather recognizes that Wednesday afternoon saw their efforts for the improvement of the city's playgrounds reach a culminating point. Perhaps it is wrong to say "culminating point" because when one knows but what at some future date the factors which have been put in motion, so much in the public's interests—will not see some further improvement to be brought about on these same playgrounds which now appear so attractive.

To emphasize and bolster up the undertaking, that "nothing stands still" by Kiwanis attention is drawn again to the opening paragraph of this article which states the fact that one hundred Belleville children, now living at Metra Lake as the guests of the Kiwanis. And this boil a few weeks after spending $4,000 on new equipment for the benefit of the boys.

There is no finer camping spot in the district than Moira Lake. Hundreds of youngsters journey out to the Y.M.C.A. camp each year and spend twenty weeks in the open, some outdoors, breathing the invigorating northern air, absorbing the healing sunshine and the health building daily, taking part in a regular routine of exercise, canoeing, boating, spending the five-long day in a manner that will benefit them. This is what the one hundred boys and girls will enjoy in August nearer to nature they will be in their actions will be closer to the infinite and greater will be the best of nature than it would otherwise be in the crowded city where pulsing life too often obscures the things.

This is what the Kiwanis Club proposes to give to one hundred Belleville children during the first fortnight in August. Many parents in recent years have found it extremely hard to make ends meet and find themselves unable to give their children the holiday that they would have given them under less difficult conditions. What of these times. What the Kiwanians are doing is not done haphazardly. Nobody, except the Kiwanians themselves know what children are being assisted to camp. That is all very well arranged between the Kiwanians and the parents alone so that no feelings are hurt, no sensibilities injured.

The camp's theme song is not just a gesture in the boys' girls will sing it: but as much. Fifty girls and fifty boys will be divided, each week going out for the first week in August and the second week in August week. Kiwanian "Eddie" Shapiro is the chairman in the camping programme and he and his committee have worked hard and long hours in addition to the arranging of the programme. It is an additional venture to which her many duties as past. The selection of the boys and girls is here now under the guidance the Kiwanians and their own discretion. The none know better than they the children who are most deserving.

Dr. Neimeier, M.D., B.D., F. R. C.S., the Lieutenant-Governor of this Kiwanis District, in his visit to the Kiwanis Club last Tuesday, (at which the writer had the privilege to be a guest) referred in his remarks that there lay in such groups as the Kiwanis and other Service Clubs, "a regular Niagara of talent power that has not yet been generated."

Speaking of the local Kiwanis Club it might be said that they have generated much influence and benevolence in the past and this latest scheme of theirs has tapped yet another source of talent. Dr. Neimeier as Mr. Neimeier an admirably expressed it. That building in the interests of youth is a grand thing and it is a grander thing because they look for a return rather than the happiness of children and the opportunity of assisting them to be born in any worthwhile way. Such is true humanity, true religion, true Christianity.

RECALLS "WALK" OF 50 YEARS AGO

Mr. W. C. Sills Played on July 12th, 1886 With Mudoc Band

Fifty years ago on Monday, July 12th, Belleville and its Belleville in one of the large demonstrations which was a many of those days. Thousands participated in the celebration.

Mr. W. C. Sills of this city recalls that day though it is just half a century ago. He was playing in the Madoc brass band," he said, the Ontario Intelligencer, which was then on the corner of Bridge and Front. It was a very hot day. The lodges all met at the old Mair street hall, which were across the street from where the new fair grounds are now located.

"We marched down Bridge street to Coleman's Corners, then we came across the Bridge, down Front Street then up Bridge Street back to the fair grounds.

"When we entered the grounds the last lodge was leaving the park. Those were the good old days when we heard the band, the fife and the drum music. There were no cars then, no horses, no nicely decorated horses and carriages gave more of a pageantry. Twenty-fifty years ago the lodges marching in procession and the banners floating and fifes and drums made the streets alive with town.

"I shall never forget a compliment which was paid to our Madoc band when we were down and standing at the end of the upper bridge. All of the bands in the procession had uniforms but ours had not got band. We of course came from the country, as I was a child at that time. We had just finished playing a selection on the bridge. The boys said "there is the best band in the procession but they look like a lot of pickups."

"This being just half a century ago, I thought there would be a treat a few of the old stock of Canadiana in Belleville, then would be being in that grand parade just fifty years ago.

Mr. Sills, born in Brockville was born in Madoc, at the age of four with his parents and lived there until about twenty years ago. He spent 19 years in Belleville, then six in Barrie and two in Peterborough as manager of the Heintzman Music Company and then came back to Belleville. He is now residing in Belleville again. Mr. Sills is a musician of note and he is loaned his assistance in orchestra work.

The monthly meeting of Marmora C.O.F.D. No. 279 was held on Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Wm. Greig.

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Johnston, Mrs. John Johnston and grandson Jack Johnston, spent Sunday in Madoc.

Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Bleecker have moved into their cottage at Crowe Lake.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Bird of Toronto, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Bird.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Walker, Mrs. Keith Rollins, Mrs. Fred Rollins, Mrs. Alonzo Phillips left last week for the "Beautiful Belleville."

Memories of Yesterday

By G. W. M.

In memory of one—but to the memory of all those brave men, who gave their lives for the cause of humanity.

♦♦♦♦

Twenty years ago, and it seems but yesterday in my memory.

Such a beautiful summer's day in June, with the scent of the roses in the garden. I might have been an evening of gayety, but circumstances had made it a night of farewell.

A 'phone call in the early afternoon informed me that his battalion was moving out at midnight for overseas, and he would be late in coming up to bid me good-bye. It was a thrilling hour of the day and another battalion was leaving the Ontario town that had already given its nobly of her sons.

George arrived about nine o'clock. A quaint fine-looking young subaltern of twenty-one fully dressed for parade.

"Sorry, I'm late, my dear," he said as he unburdened himself of my rolled sticker and overcoat, "but I had several last minute duties to perform.

"You did very well, George," I said, "I am glad you'd have very little time left for me considering how much you all had to do, in so short a time."

"Our colonel's a good scout, though," said George, "for he gave us leave until one o'clock. Just as he was about to dismiss he said, 'now gentlemen, you'll have to be back by one o'clock. Listen for the long single whistle from the engine for within half an hour of that signal, we'll pull out. Be sure and be there, no matter how you get there.'

"The colonel's order must be obeyed!

Colonel Gray was a fatherly man of middle age. Did he too have a dear one many of his lads would return as he gave them their last words of cheer or a few hours to say good-bye?

"Time's past ten came! Time was slipping along.

"Cook's night out, George, but what will you have tonight," said my fresh-complexioned younger brother, pulling his head around the kitchen door. "Bacon and eggs, strawberries and cream, tea, toast, cake and ale, cold, or Martha's cake that she baked for you this morning?"

"Thanks," said George, "I'd love it for I'm starving. By the way Tommie, when you marry, you'd better not let your wife know how well you can cook, or we will be sure to prepare all the meals."

"Not much danger of that for I know unless she here gives me away," said Tommie, as he closed the kitchen door, and started to prepare the supper.

We laughed and talked, and tried to be gay, but somehow we could not forget the sorrowful hour we were facing, and we pledged our undying love for each other, as we said good-bye.

Our old grandfather clock in the hall chimed the half hour after the midnight, and reminded us that George's time was all but spent.

The bright lights from the living-room windows cast long thin streaks across the front lawn and stretched from the doorway where stood arm in arm together, waiting and listening for the call we knew to call at half-past twelve to take him to the station.

Mother came out of her room to the upper balcony and softly called down, "Good-bye, and keep you George".

He turned quickly and looked up, and with a smile on his face, he saluted, then turned back again, without uttering a word.

Looking down the avenue, we saw the lights in the approaching, but when it reached the corner of Bridge and Front, it turned up the street. A car already heavily laden with khaki-clad figures standing on both running-boards, picking up the stragglers as best it could.

"Ay, goodness, it's missed me," said George, shouting to the car as he ran by the road. I followed him to the corner in hopes that the boys would see me, and pick him up. I watched him until he passed out of sight, then I turned and walked back, with a lonely, aching heart, and stood on the front verandah with the stillness of the night around me. Myriads of stars shone in the heavens, and our part of the world was at rest.

Presently my mother and brother joined me, and we all stood together, listening for the three long separate whistles. We strained our ears for the sound, hoping that he would have time to return for one minute. With luck he could reach it in twenty minutes. Twenty-eight minutes passed and the first whistle blew!

With prayers on our lips for his safe return, we went into the house and closed the door.

Sleep did not come quickly to our household that night, and we lay in our beds thinking and talking far into the night of happier days of the past and of the future. Sweet reminiscences they were taking on a new significance now that he had gone. As day broke we wondered just how far down the line the train would be and when they would reach St. John to embark?

Early Fall found George in the front line trenches in France, writing back cheerful letters, and telling the best of the mud and the rain. One of his letters home wrote "Remember the old adage about eating a peck of dirt before you die? Well I've eaten my peck out of here, I'll have eaten my peck all right!"

Zero home came early on Master Sunday morning, of April 9th, 1917, and eagerly the men who were fired for waiting as long for the daylight the dirt of the trenches clamoured over the parapet and started the great advance of Vimy Ridge.

Were they going out to kill and be killed? To face the stark realities of war where men's lives counted not? Were they to become starvy-eyed men with Death keeping gay with them pressed forward over ground blood-sodden and shell-torn, to Victory?

George led his platoon gallantly and reached the objective with only a handful of men, and while waiting on for several hours, he was struck down and severely wounded in the right arm and side. Dazed and sick and with only the help of one of his men, he stumbled back through the hell of war, back to the advance dressing station where his life was sought.

The dull throbbing pain was endured for hours before the arrival of the field ambulances which took him back to the base hospital. Two days later found him in a London hospital, a pitiful wreck of a man, emaciated, scorched by the horrors of war and barely holding on to life.

Weeks of suffering followed, as he lay on his bed with the shrapnel wound in his side failing to respond to treatment, his handicapped by a useless right arm, his elastic little left-handed letters laboriously written home to his dear ones.

Then by degrees he took command of his shattered body. Two days later found him in a London hospital, a pitiful wreck of a man, emaciated, scorched by the horrors of war and barely holding on to life.

Weeks of suffering followed, as he lay on his bed with the shrapnel wound in his side failing to respond to treatment, his handicapped by a useless right arm, his elastic little left-handed letters laboriously written home to his dear ones.

Then by degrees he took command of his shattered body. Three little cheery messages from George announcing the ultimate recovery, then they came less frequently, and finally ceased!

All the messages of encouragement sent to him were of no avail, for a tired, brave heart had spent itself and asked for rest.

Out beyond the town limits lies a quiet cemetery, a peaceful beauty spot.

A girl may be seen wending her way through the stones to the spot where the stone was placed. She is kneeling down and the tears have been. She gently kneels, and once again places a simple wreath. The stone reads that it is the memory of one who died of wounds in the field of honor, by the sapling maple tree now grown tall and majestic, and as she slowly departs it casts its friendly shadow across the stone.

Joe Humphreys Sports Announcer Succumbs to Heat

Fair Haven, N.J., July 11 (AP)—Joe Humphreys, whose leather-lunged cry of "the win-nah and new champion!" was the dominant voice of the United States sports world for more than 40 years, is dead.

Humphreys, a character of the American prize ring for more than a generation, died yesterday at the age of 63. He had been in ill health for two years and collapsed apparently from the excessive heat.

Gifted with an unusually powerful voice, Humphreys became the United States best known sports announcer. His "quiet please", accompanied by a wave of the hand, never failed to still the great crowds he worked before.

Like Alfred E. Smith, his boyhood chum, Humphreys grew up on the lower East Side of New York. He rose from the humble role of a newsboy to a position of prominence in the sports world, particularly as an announcer of championship boxing bouts.

As a broker's page and a schoolboy singer he developed the voice that brought him worldwide recognition. When the regular announcer at a Sheriff fight failed to show up, Joe got the job. He was a success from the start.

His first conceived the idea of paying for departed fighters twenty years ago and asked divine intervention for Limehouse on his flight from the tights of the Shanty-Maloney bout in 1927.

Joe was associated with Sam H. Harris in managing Terry McGovern, who outranked all of the lightweight greats in Humphrey's opinion. He was also an admirer of Gene Tunney and Jack Dempsey.

CAT FAMILY IN TREE GUARDS CHERRIES

Paraphrasing a well-known proverb, a farmer residing in Dekalb, Ont., believes that a cat in a tree is worth two in the house. With his cherry crop suffering from the invasion of swarms of starlings and he hit upon an ingenious idea to outwit his hungry visitors. Installing a cat and her family o fkittens in a large chicken coop, he hoisted the whole into the top of a tree situated in the centre of the orchard.

HEAT WAVE IS IMPARTIAL

This weather is something one cannot help. There may be places a few can go as that's a cellar cool for a nice retreat from the melting rays of the sun, but most persons have to carry on in much the same way as usual, lightening up their burden where they may but nevertheless carrying on. They may sleep on verandahs, or on lawns but the world wags on just as usual.

The heat wave routs the criminal wave. That is the view of the police — to stage a crime is too much of an effort.

Did you ever notice in the depth of winter if the snow ties up the cities and towns, how crime drops, especially if the mercury takes a plunge as it did less than two years ago to forty below?

Then the heat wave is very impartial. Many people get away with a great deal more than others in almost every walk of life but in a heat wave the lazy and the energetic, the weak and the strong, are all thrown into the same trying pan of heat, there is little to invent ways of circumventing the effect of the softening" and withering rays of light.

This week saw the young life of the city get its opportunity to wear as little as possible of clothing and to get a sunburn.

But to the younger children, the infants, a warm spell brings all discomfort, for there is little "with in the nursery to be a cry" can only make their feelings feebly known. Hence the feeling that man and woman have for these little sufferers of heat.

Have you noticed that arguments soften down on especially torrid days? Who wants to get hot arguing for arguing uses up energy and burning up one's feelings means intensification of heat.

WHEAT HARVEST

It is not so long ago that it was felt there was too great production of wheat and other crops. After a brief period today the world is thinking very seriously of probably large losses through the shrinkage of the wheat and other crops due to drought. But a little time past, men were complaining of what was needed was not less production but better distribution. Today there is the less production because of the drought and there remains that old problem of distribution unsolved.

Probably the old law of supply and demand left in a good measure to the judgment of the individual may be taken to be as good a rule as any to follow.

But there is a real trouble when harvests fail. The world is still suffering from the prolonged depression and came to understand that with farm products as low in price as they were, there was little chance of recovery. It was only the slowly rising improvement of the prices of farm products which started recovery. Recovery had to pass on this land before it was able to make the bound upward which it has in a large part shown.

It is not only the farming class as a whole, but the individual farmer as well and then the nation as a whole, that suffer through wilting crops.

CONSERVING WATER

This is a time when users of water ought to conserve the supply rather than waste. The needs are so much greater than in normally warm weather that in some cities lawn services have had to be much restricted for while a lawn is a fine thing there may come a time when even a lawn has to take a lower place.

The fact that some cities have had to impose restrictions should be a good hint to consumers to help as far as they can the department in trying to satisfy the needs and to supply adequate fire protection.

BE CAREFUL OF FIRES

Persons on streets and in commons or parks where the grass is dry like tinder should be very careful how them dispose of matches after lighting cigarettes or pipes. In a dry season especially one with winds of considerable velocity such as have been blowing at times for the past few hot days this caution is especially necessary, to prevent the fire spreading to many parts and dwellings.

"COUNTRY WAYS"

Oh, give me the country so wild and so free,
For no other place will ever suit me,
And though you may brag of your city so fair,
Just give me the country and plenty of air.

While there in the city you worry and fret
Of all the new clothes you weekly must get,
Out in the country I'm happy and free,
For breeches and shirt and high boots will do me.

You may buy up your fish, from a fish store so hot,
But you don't know the sport used in which fish are caught,
You pay fifty-three with a long drawn sigh,
While I catch what I want in a stream running by.

Each month brings your light bill expensively high,
While freely I get it from out of the sky.
You pay out two dollars for perfume so rare,
While I smell, with delight, the free, pine-scented air.

You work through the winter to save up a dime,
And still have to work in the hot summertime,
While out in the country I work when it's cool,
Then, when it's hot, I just bathe in a pool:

You pay high for meat, while I just kill a deer,
And I cure well the meat and it lasts most a year,
The pennies I'd spend for buying cheap things,
I use in the country to buy staple things.

Oh the country hick's dumb and the city one wise,
And 'tis folly, traditions so old to despise,
But thinking it over while counting my dimes,
I just wonder which is the dumbest sometimes.

NOISE NUISANCE CONTINUES WITH INCREASING FERVOR. More honk-honking of automobile horns, much of it unnecessary, and an occasional radio blaring forth louder than there is any need for when it is considered that the folks in that block are not at all interested in the program and are thinking sour thoughts of the perpetrator. Let's all get together and try and cut out as much noise as possible. Our policemen might draw the attention of auto honkers to the fact that unnecessary noise constitutes a nuisance and a nuisance constitutes a crime.

JOHN L. STODDARD, TRAVELLER, LECTURER, LITTERATEUR, is the title of a sizable volume which recently reached the Corby Public Library with the compliments of D. Crane Taylor, Chicago. The book is dedicated to MY WIFE, HAZEL ANNETTE TAYLOR. Many Belleville citizens will remember Miss Hazel Taylor, who resided on Albert Street, and married D. Crane Taylor of Chicago, author of the book referred to above, a world-wide traveller and author Chicago, author of the book referred to above, a world-wide traveller and author of a number of books. The biography of John L. Stoddard is well written and very interesting, especially to those who remember with pleasure the Stoddard Travelogues which used to draw large audiences in the principal cities. Biographies are sometimes dull reading but there is nothing dull or dry about this one, for John L. Stoddard was as near a one act sport. He hewed out his own destiny—delighted in travel and study and his illustrated lectures paved the way to the motion pictures of later date. Wherever he went over the surface of the earth he took a skilled photographer with him—and he devoted so many months of the year to travel and so many to his lecture tours which were arranged for him by two clever Bostonians who made a fortune out of Stoddard and his lectures—much more indeed than Stoddard did himself, and that was no small item. However he was satisfied for they took all the business worries from him and left him free to travel, to study and put his entire personality into his lectures.

Peace is such a precious jewel that I would give anything for it but truth.— M. Henry.

LOOKING BACKWARD

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BY-GONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

July 11th, 1916

Mr. Dennis Fitzgerald of Dr. Hoke is spending a few days in the city.

Mrs. K. J. Britton of this city is visiting friends at Toronto, Hamilton and Niagara Falls.

At the conclusion of a very interesting programme at Alberts College, Edmonton, on July 3rd, Mr. V. P. Hunt, who is soon to return to Belleville, to assume charge of the music department at Albert College and the organ at Bridge Street Church, was presented on behalf of the directors of the college, with which he has been associated for some years, with a beautiful gold headed cane. In the address of presentation Dr. R. Smith spoke at some length of the high esteem in which Mr. Hunt is held by the members of the Board of the faculty of the college and his large class of pupils. Great regret is felt by all connected with the college at his departure. Principal McCall presented Mr. and Mrs. Hunt on behalf of the college and pupils with a handsome chair. This was the second presentation to Mr. and Mrs. Hunt as on the evening of June 29th, they were the guests of the congregation and choir of Mc-Dougall Church when Mr. Hunt has been organist and choirmaster for eight years. Complimentary addresses were made by representatives of different church organizations, inclusive Mrs. P. E. Butchart for the Ladies' Aid; Mr. James Ramsay for the Music Committee; Mr. Cecil Race for the choir; Mr. W. W. Gould for the Sunday School, and Dr. Riddell for Alberta College. A beautiful mission rocker, ebony handle and silver mounted, was presented to Mrs. Hunt from the members of the choir and the congregation and choir together presented Mr. and Mrs. Hunt with silver. Mr. and Mrs. Hunt will arrive in Belleville about Sept. 1st.

STIRLING

Madoc Rink Wins Honors

Thirteen Rinks Take Part in Mixed Bowling Tourney

Stirling —In spite of terrific heat of Wednesday afternoon, thirteen enteries were present to take part in the annual mixed bowling tournament sponsored by the Stirling Lawn Bowling Club on Wednesday afternoon. A large area of waiting apparel were worn to provide comfort from the extreme heat and competition was interesting and keen throughout the entire play. A rink composed of Mrs. Keller and Mr. Gunn and Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Ross of Madoc, proved first honours reaching a net total of 50 points for three wins. The ladies each received pillowcases and the gentlemen cheese and cracker dishes.

The second prize for three wins went to a Campbellford rink composed of Mr. and Mrs. F. Greig and Mr. and Mrs. J. Cox, with a score of thirty-nine points. The ladies received tea towels and the gentlemen cocktail shakers.

A Norwood rink composed of Mrs. Hubbard, Mr. and Mrs. Mac-Donald and Dr. and Mrs. H. G. Hamilton captured third place in the rink with two wins, with a net of thirty-seven points. They received relish dishes and the gentlemen picnic flagons bottles.

The Warkworth rink of Mr. and Mrs. Bowen and Mr. and Mrs. Churchill took the prize for only one win with a net score of twenty-nine points.

At the close of the tournament, the ladies of the Stirling Club served refreshments and the awards were presented by Mr. E. Munro, president of the local club.

Thirteen rinks took part representing the following clubs, two from Madoc, two from Campbellford, one from Kingston, one from Belleville and one from Brighton and four from Stirling, and one from Norwood and one from Warkworth.

Home Badly Damaged by Early Morning Blaze

Only the prompt response of the Stirling Fire Department saved the frame dwelling of Mr. John McCaw on Nancy Street, when fire of an unknown origin broke out early on Thursday morning. Mr. McCaw was awakened from sleep by the noise of flames and crackling timbers. Racing to a neighboring home, the home of Rev. Father Farrell of St. James Church, Mr. McCaw, who lives alone, was able to awaken Mrs. Crawford, who turned in the alarm.

When the firemen arrived the flames had gained considerable headway on the interior of the house and it was some time before it was completely under control. A great deal of damage was done to the interior of the dwelling and the loss is estimated at about four hundred dollars.

Mr. Hubbie and Mrs. Heath was greatly enjoyed by all. The address of the afternoon was given by Mrs. Wright who based her thoughts on an excellent paper written by Winifred Kipnan fathous American journalist and writer. The final number on the program was an interesting contest prepared by Mrs. A. Bailey which was directed by Mrs. Beacock. Mrs. A. Gordon-ted moved a hearty vote of thanks to the hostess for making such an afternoon's outing possible. Several of the ladies assisted in serving the luncheon and a social period was enjoyed by all.

Obituary

MRS. F. R. ASHTON
Detroit, Mich.

The news of the sudden and untimely passing of Mrs. F. R. Ashton, formerly Miss Margaret Calley of this city, on Monday last, June 6th, at her home in Detroit, came as a distinct and severe shock to a wide circle of friends and relatives who will deeply and sincerely regret the comparatively early passing of so useful and outstanding a life.

Mrs. Ashton was born near Napanee as the second youngest daughter of the late Judson Calley, and Mrs. Calley of William St., Belleville, is the only one she came through her family to live in this city, where she secured a liberal education after which she taught school for a time prior to taking a full course of training in Kingston General Hospital, graduating as a Registered nurse. After a highly skilful and successful term of service in the nursing profession, Miss Calley was married to Dr. F. R. Ashton of Detroit, to whose bonnie life and professional career she has brought the full wealth and measure of her wide and varied experience.

Quite recently, following a happy reunion at Kingston of the R.C.H. Nurses' Association, which she was a highly esteemed member, Mrs. Ashton visited her aged mother in this city, returning to her home two weeks ago. On Monday last, while attending to her customary domestic duties, apparently in her usual health, she suddenly suffered a severe heart attack from which she failed to recover.

At an impressive memorial service on Wednesday afternoon, conducted by Rev. Dr. C. B. Allen of the Metropolitan Methodist Episcopal church, strong and tender tribute was paid to the noble life and worth of a worthy life. Among those from a distance were Rev. and Mrs. S. G. Moore, (sister of the deceased,) and Mr. Harris of Toronto.

Mrs. Ashton is survived by her husband, her aged mother, and two sisters, Miss M. E. Galley at home and Mrs. H. A. Ferris of Ontario Street.

The sincere sympathy of a wide circle of friends is warmly extended.

MRS. SUSANNA ROWE

Mrs. Susanna Rowe, widow of Thomas Rowe, passed away suddenly Friday evening, July 10th, at the residence of her daughter, Mrs. E. V. Reynolds, 47 Ontario Street.

The late Mrs. Rowe was born at Peterboro. For the past sixteen years she had resided at Belleville and by all who knew her she was highly esteemed. In religion she was a member of the Church of Kingsford.

Surviving her are two daughters, Mrs. R. E. Lakeshire, Belleville, with whom she made her home, and Mrs. L. B. Irwin, Montreal. Her husband died sixteen years ago.

LATE ALEXANDER M. McCOY
(Madoc Township Mail)

The funeral of Alexander Milne McCoy took place Friday afternoon from his late residence in Madoc Township to the Cedar Hollow cemetery. The funeral service at the grave was conducted by the Rev. J. M. White of Madoc, assisted by the Rev. W. Fletcher of Eldorado Church.

The service at the graveside in the Cooper United Church was conducted by the same ministers. The funeral was largely attended and there were many beautiful floral tributes.

The bearers were Messrs.—Allan McCoy, Albert McCoy, Isaac McCoy, William Hall, Albert Blair and Robert Blair.

CHARLES R. BOYLE

Charles R. Boyle passed away Friday morning, July 10th, at the family residence, 34 Burton Street. He had been in failing health for some time.

The late Mr. Boyle was born in Belleville seventy years ago and had resided here all his life. His parents were the late Mr. and Mrs. William Boyle. For many years he was in the employ of the Belleville Gas Company and later he was connected with Boyle Brothers for a considerable time. He was well known and highly respected by many friends who will regret to learn of his death. In religion he was a member of the United Church.

Surviving him are his widow; one son, Gordon Boyle, Belleville; two daughters, Mrs. Harold Hunter, Kingston; Mrs. Ruffus Parr, Belleville; one brother, Mr. Rufus Boyle, Belleville.

The funeral announcement appears elsewhere in this paper.

ORANGE WALK

The village was gaily decorated for the occasion with the brightest colors which go with the day and the members of the order reported all with the variegated colors marked on his Orange Lily.

The County Master is Sam Denning of West Huntingdon, the district master, Thomas Wallace of Tamer, Master, Springbrook Lodge William Styles is not able to attend as he is at Chatham at the bedside of his wife injured in the accident while she was travelling to visit at Chatham. The lodge regrets his absence but is carrying on with its duties as entertaining lodge in his stead.

Provision was made to serve in relays of 450 persons the crowd with meals in the church sheds.

POLICE BLOTTER

Local police today issued warnings to local merchants against certain operations of an alleged forger who is known to be operating in Eastern Ontario. The man is described as being about 5 foot 8 inches tall, weighing about 160 lbs., about 40 years of age with brown hair that is fast turning to a grey tinge. The man is said by police to be a former German and issued worthless cheques signed by a Mrs. L. or Carmaich.

Harry Ashton, 29 Isabel Street, was knocked to the pavement when the bicycle on which he was riding collided with a motor car at the corner of Octavia and Catherine streets, early last evening. Young Ashton was chasing two older lads who were also riding on bicycles, when he collided with the automobile driven by Fred Johnson, 36 Dundas Street. Police stated today, the lad's bicycle was badly damaged but he fortunately escaped injury.

According to P. C. Thompson, who investigated, Ashton approached the intersection and made a left-hand turn striking Mr. Johnson's car a glancing blow. Mr. Johnson was proceeding west on Catherine Street, while young Ashton was making the turn from Octavia onto Catherine Street.

An automobile driven by a resident of this city, is alleged by police to have overtaken a motor car near Chatterton, on Highway No. 2, shortly after 8.30 p.m. last night resulting in considerable property damage, but no personal injuries. Officer Delaney of cycle Patrolman W. H. Delaney, who investigated, a motor car driven south sideswiped another car being driven in opposite direction by Erwin Hartman of Marmora. The running boards and left fenders of both cars were badly damaged during the impact and a charge of reckless driving was laid against the driver. Officer Delaney announced today. No personal injuries were sustained by the occupants of either vehicle.

Activities and around local police circles proved none too brisk during the past 24 hours, although the chief was kept busy on applied for a night's lodging on Wednesday night. The recent intense heat has caused transients to seek shelter in the great out-of-doors.

Death Toll in Hamilton From Heat Now Seven

Hamilton, July 11 (CP) — The death toll from the heat wave in Hamilton district reached seven today and ten persons were in hospitals in grave condition from prostration.

The temperature in the shade had risen to 105 degrees before 10 a.m. and seemed to be headed toward an all time record. There fan no wind and not a cloud in the sky.

Despair and the hearts of farmers and growers who regarded their sun-parched fields hopefully, stocks of fruit hung from the trees, baked a sickly yellow in the heat, and the same story of destruction was to be heard.

FEWER TO SWIM AS HEAT GROWS

Only 200 Total Yesterday at Park Against 500 on Thursday

Dropping from an estimated total of 500 bathers on Thursday's scorching day, the hottest day on local record and the largest number ever registered in any day by those in charge, only about 200 swimmers were counted on the beach on Friday during the afternoon and until far into the night.

Seventeen first aid treatments were given in the single afternoon and lifeguard Ashton was scurrying with a complete medical kit this way and that by South.

To the number of swimmers who have been using the beach immediately as a bathing spot, warning of the two dangerous docks on the south side of the island is still given by City Engineer, Chas. Mott.

KINGSTON CAR BURNS ON ROAD

Believed Engine Back-Fired And Ignites Vehicle

Igniting after the engine backfired, an automobile caught fire and completely destroyed yesterday afternoon east of Shannonville on Highway No. 2. The blaze which continued heat that has been prevalent of late attributed somewhat to the Motorcycle Patrolman Sam Irvine stated after his investigation. The motor car was owned and driven by Maurice J. Rhodesan, 181 Clergy St., Kingston. Both Rhodesan and the officer in charge he was proceeding along in a motorcycle when the car was suddenly his automobile back-fired and the vehicle suddenly burst into flames. He had no chance to extinguish the fire. As a matter of fact he had considerable jump from the burning car as flames were due I suppose, to the dry, warm weather. Officer Irvine added. The chassis and wheels were the only parts of the car that could be recognized in a fire, that saw the vehicle completely demolished.

FAREWELL PARTY AT BOWLING CLUB

Appreciation of the splendid services rendered her tenure as Chairman of the Games Committee of the Ladies' Bowling Club, was shown Mrs. D. O. Walker last night at the Bowling Club grounds, when she and Mr. Walker were guests of honor at a dinner tendered by the ladies of the club.

Over one hundred members and guests sat down to the congenial repast. Immediately following the dinner, Mrs. Walker was presented with a beautiful silver tray, the gift Morley Duff on behalf of the members of the club.

Mr. George Wallin, President of the Bowling Club in a brief address regretted the departure of Mr. and Mrs. Walker from Belleville.

"The vacancy caused will be hard to fill" said Mr. Watkins. "Mrs. Walker has been a most efficient officer and her splendid efforts on behalf of the club will be greatly missed. We join in wishing Mr. and Mrs. Walker continued success in their new home.

Mr. Walker, who has been connected with the Dundas Ltd. insurance as District Manager for the past five years, has been transferred to the Saskatoon office of his company and leaves for his new home shortly.

Winners of the bowling games which rounded out a very enjoyable time were: C. McBride, J. Shaw, Mrs. Walker, Mrs. Jackson, Mrs. Walker, J. W. Davison, W. Harden, Mrs. R. Thompson.

LUSCIOUS CORN GROWN IN CITY

Luscious corn on the cob with rivulets of golden butter trickling down and liberally sprinkled with salt and pepper will be but a gustatory anticipation to most of us but to Mr. George N. Simmons of 16 Highland Avenue, it has been an enjoyable meal for some Saturdays.

Three dozen ears of the vegetable were picked on Sunday from Mr. Simmons' garden and since that day he has been harvesting it steadily and giving his friends a delightful taste of the 1936 crop.

The corn is a western variety, the seed having been procured by Mr. Simmons from friends in the prairie provinces.

Planted early in the season it survived the spring frosts and was given expert attention rapidly attaining the height of seven feet, at present average 5 feet in height and are bearing from two to three ears on a stalk.

MEETING TO BE HELD ON SHORE OF BAY

Representatives of industrial firms and others interested in the effort to bring about the construction of a bathing beach on the bay in the east end of the city will gather on the bay shore at the foot of Bleecker Avenue on Monday evening at seven o'clock. Organizers are requesting want everyone interested to attend.

Petawbore Kiwanians Hear of The O. S. D.

At the regular meeting of Petawbore Kiwanis Club held in the Empress Hotel, Peterborough, yesterday afternoon, W. J. Morrison of the local Ontario School for the Deaf, as principal speaker of the day, gave a complete description of the methods of teaching and caring for the scholars in general at the local institution in his interesting talk.

The students, pointed out Mr. Morrison, learn in the academic subjects of the public schools, with half their time devoted to manual training. They are taught girls thereby fitting them to take their place in society when graduated. Mr. Morrison stated that the majority of the graduates are employed in spite of their handicap, needing only sympathetic understanding of a employer to fit them for their particular jobs.

TORONTO MINES CLOSE

Toronto, July 11—Trading in mining quickies was featureless in the short closing session of the Toronto Stock Exchange today. Weakness with the exception of some base metal issues and a few golds was the rule.

Falconbridge showed strength in an advance to 24 from 23 cents. Sudbury Basin added 20 to 4.60 and Consolidated Smelters, Canada, added ¼ to 56¼. Alderman sold as high as 2½ in good volume, but failed to hold.

Lamaque touched 61, a new top, but reacted to close with a net increase of a point. Sullivan was also higher, closing at 146. Stacey sold lower to 37½.

Coniagas showed a new top in the oil section at 15 up 8.

TORONTO INDUSTRIALS CLOSE

Toronto, July 11—Aside from a 2½ point rise in Canada Malting common, the Toronto industrial share market was dull and inactive in the closing session of the week.

Walkers improved 1% to 94 on turnover of about 3,500 shares. Action was light in the beer issues with Dominion unchanged.

Ford A registered slight recovery to around 20.

Scattered gains in the food group took in Canada Bread, Consolidated Bakeries and Lake of the Woods and Weston's sold down a fraction. Banks were fractionally firmer and no changes and most of the Canadian Utilities were closely changed. Both Steel of Canada and Dominion Steel Canadian Car pfd. did a little better.

WALL STREET CLOSE

New York, July 11—Stocks generally hurdled profit taking in comparative ease in today's market, with number gaining into new high territory for the year or longer with the declarations to 2 or more points.

Sales turnover was around 750,000 shares.

Among the Dominion issues, Bell Telephone showed more than a point, while Dome Mines, Canadian Pacific, McIntyre and Distillers Corporation-Seagrams tended fractionally higher. International Nickel receded somewhat. Canadian government issues were unchanged. Canadian dollar was unchanged at 99 15-16 cents.

Canadian gainers included Santa Fe, Atlantic Coast Line, Delaware and Hudson, N.Y. Central and Southern Pacific.

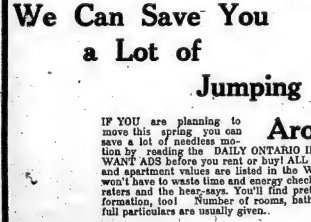
Board Room Gossip

As supplied to Biggar and Crawford by Financial Service.

Stewart-Marking an important stage in the Big Missouri development came to view from the 2500 level tunnel we hiked through to the property. This is the end of next week, according to a press despatch from Timmins. The object to permit a further delineation of the orebody on these levels and serve later for 1st exploitation.

It is anticipated the information disclosed by the new levels will immediate workings between levels, will furnish sufficient data in the management's opinion, to justify the S. Co. to warrant them in making an early announcement regarding their program for mill construction. This proposition is based on information released in the Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company annual report, and confirmed by subsequent statements by officials of Consolidated and the Big Missouri Mining Corporation.



Breaking into ore in the new sub level 150 feet below River Tunnel 2 which is being opened up at the rate of 50 feet a week to be starting an important new phase of the development work, blocking out of ore on the high grade shoots. This was reached for 430 feet on the River level.

The contract for Admiz shares responded splendidly when grabbed by the subvel drift had got through both faces and the ore was proved.

According to an official statement, Martin-McNeely Mines, Ltd., located in Red Lake mining district, area, is meeting with favorable diamond drill results at depth.

The recent and, as a matter of fact, present high water, if unrelieved by abundant rain, will leave very little water to be harvested next autumn. In this connection it is of interest to know how much money still remains to be distributed to western farmers on their old wheat as an offset to the cost of purchasing power which the country may subsequently be in result of present drought. The financial editor of the Toronto Star says it is impossible to estimate with any degree of accuracy without knowing how much wheat the wheat board still holds; second, what the crop prospects are for this and, third, how much is still unsold in the hands of the farmers.

Companies which are very certain of their dividends will be in a position to declare them without reservation, for year-end adjustments may alter results drastically. In view of the fact that earnings are liberally capitalized yesterday's the market effect may be considerable.

The W.M.S. of United Church held their July meeting in the church on Thursday afternoon. The program was intensely interesting and instructive. Hymn 402 was sung, While Lake, Beulah, Fuller, St. Andrews, Bethel, Harmony, Mt. Hill, Halloway, Eggleton and Furnborough, Presbyterian, were invited and contributed items to the program. Mrs. Samuel Fargey president of the branch, then conducted a worship program, which consisted of a worship period, suitable hymns for the occasion being used. Mrs. J. J. Wilson led the gathering in prayer. Mrs. Sarah Wilson read a portion of scripture, Mrs. Geo. Post gave the call to worship and was replied to by Mrs. John Clement of Ivanhoe a quartette composed of Mrs. Wm. Shaw, Mrs. Morley Haggarty, Mrs. John McLeod and Miss Bessie Fleming contributed a solo during the song. Mrs. Charles Sweet representing Gk. Thompson gave a reading. Mrs. J. J. Wilson representing Stirling United, contributed a solo. Miss Ivy Fuller United Church gave a reading. Mrs. Brough Presbyterian Church gave a reading. Miss Marion McMullen and Mrs. Ross of the Mount Pleasant branch gave a temperance address. Mrs. Percy McMullin also of Mount Pleasant gave a short address on her work as Press Secretary for the organization. She also repeated a poem of Dr. Campbell. The Misses Lackey and Hilda Kilpatrick of Ivanhoe gave a duet. The meeting closed with a good old missionary hymn and prayer by Mrs. Brough Sr., closed this outstanding meeting. The ladies of West Huntingdon served a lunch at noon. The evening was largely attended, the auditorium of church being filled to capacity.

AT THE CAPITOL

"Lloyds Dangerously"

For the first time in the history of motion pictures the General Medical Council is to be shown on the screen. The General Medical Council, as most people are aware, is the supreme court of the medical profession. Here, doctors are brought before a committee composed of leading members of the medical world, and are called upon to answer any charges that may be brought against them for "unprofessional conduct."

The decision of this body is final. There is no appeal against it and it means ruin and disgrace to any doctor who is found guilty.

In "Living Dangerously," Otto Kruger is seen as a famous Harley Street specialist, who has to face the G.M.C. and answer a charge of unprofessional conduct, brought against him by his partner. The charge is false, but the circumstantial evidence is so overwhelming that his name is erased from the medical register. This scene is one of the dramatic high-lights of a picture that is simply teeming with drama.

In order that the scene should be authentic to the nth degree, Herbert Brenon, director, who was responsible for the direction of this production spent a number of days attending and studying the methods and workings of a session of the G.M.C. Thus he was able to satisfy himself that the screen representation was as true to the original session as it was humanly possible to make it.

"The council is the most impressive and dramatic court I have ever been in," said Mr. Brenon after his visit. "It struck me as a ruthless machine, but one with a heart and a sense of humour. I think two things are wrong with it: first that no witness is sworn, so that there is no penalty for perjury, and, second, that there is no appeal."

"Show Boat" Ends Today

This is your last chance to see the greatest music drama of all time, "Show Boat" with such stars as Irene Dunn, Paul Robeson and Charles Winninger. New songs and old favourites are blended together to make this a picture that should not be missed.

AT THE BELLE

"Poppy"

No better vehicle could have been chosen for the triumphal return to the screen of W. C. Fields, most beloved of American comedians, than the riotous, colorful story of carnival life "Poppy" which opens a two days engagement at the Belle theatre today and Monday, with performances starting daily at 2.30, 7.10 and 9.15 p.m.

"Poppy" is an adaptation of the stage hit in which Fields, until that time a silent juggler and pantomimist, spoke his first line and leaped to fame as a dead-pan comedian. It places the star in his most natural element.

As "Poppy" Fields is a patent-medicine seller, vending his "Pineple Bark Sarsaparilla" and doing his best to "relieve the man yokels of their burden of filthy lucre." He is a grafter, an operator of a shell game, a lovable old faker whose personality carries him through any eventuality.

The film surrounds him with the atmosphere of a carnival; with gypsies and side-shows, tattooed bark and carousels, and lets him do his exceptional best.

Fields does over more and better Fieldsian gags in this picture than he has in any past films. It would be sacrilege to describe them here; they need the master's unique delivery.

As to the story, the comedian appears as Professor Eustace McGargle, medicine man and guardian of "Poppy", an eighteen-year-old girl who has been in his care since childhood and has known only carnival life. When the picture opens, the two manage to add to their procession in a carnival which is playing a Middle Western town.

Poppy, played by Rochelle Hudson, falls in love with Richard Cromwell, the son of the village mayor, Bannsville. Fields has much money he learns that a valuable estate in the town should be the rightful heritage of a missing eighteen-year-old girl. He decides to palm off Poppy as the child.

His scheme, though successful, is exposed. The girl's one-day Cinderella transformation faces an unhappy ending when the pair takes a sudden turn and the developments which follow bring a happy ending for all concerned.

Lynne Overman, Catharine Doucet and Rosalind Keith are featured in the excellent supporting cast. Not listed, but quite important, are several hundred animals, circus performers, carnival people and side show stars.

A beautiful all-color musical revue, an excellent Popeye the Sailor Man cartoon and the interesting and popular Jack Dale News Flashes are all presented in addition to "Poppy" today and Monday.

DEATH AND DEVASTATION FOLLOW IN WAKE OF UNPRECEDENTED HEAT WAVE

Literally millions of dollars in damage, scores of lives lost, and untold human and animal suffering has been brought about by the unprecedented heat wave now sweeping western Canada and the United States. Thousands of acres of once fertile land has been laid bare by the withering rays of the merciless sun, it is estimated that in Western Canada, one person is dying every hour, and crops in many sections are beyond redemption, even if rain does come. In the Dakotas, the U.S. government is removing stricken farmers from their homesteads and placing them elsewhere. BELOW, RIGHT, a couple taking a last look at their home, UPPER LEFT, a lifeless river once ran here. Now it is just a dry ditch. LOWER LEFT, a grim symbol of drought—a skeleton lying on the hard-baked soil of South Dakota. IN CIRCLE, one of the few stalks untouched by drought in Kansas, though stalks on all sides are suffering. Picture shows bumper crop being carted in for threshing. IN UPPER RIGHT, one of the look longingly at what was once the lake that gave them water. Now it's just a dried-up hole.

Chuck Klein Blasts 4 Homers To Tie National Loop Record In Existence for Forty Years

Only Four in History of Baseball Have Turned Trick

GEHRIG HEADS FOXX

Home Run Leader of Both Loops as He Hits Two

The home-run record that had been giving the National League the laugh for long days short of forty years, isn't any more.

Chuck Klein, whose specialty is doing big things with his big bat for the Phillies, wiped out both the laugh and the record yesterday by parting four home-run balls in the right field stands of the Pittsburg Pirates' Forbes Field.

The last time a National Leaguer did that was on July 13, 1896, when Ed Delahanty, also a Philly clubber, turned the trick. Before him, only one man performed it, and since then, only Hon Lee Gehrig of the New York Yankees.

As a result, Klein's clouting gives him a tie with Gehrig for the modern major league record, and sets up a modern National League mark for the boys to shoot at, since Delahanty's performance comes under the "ancient" listing.

Klein's prodigious pounding, set about ruining the Pirate pitching staff for the day and enabling the Phillies to come through with a 9-6 decision in ten innings, was the standout in a program of performances throughout both of the leagues yesterday.

Gehrig Heads Foxx Leader.

For instance, Gehrig took over the major league run leadership from Jimmy Foxx and Hal Trosky by smashing out two four-base wallops to bring his total to 64, as the Yanks gained revenge for their previous day's clubbing of the bunch of the Cleveland Indians by coming through with an 11-9 win.

Then there was Buck Newsom who allowed the Tigers one base hit as he pitched the Senators to a 2-0 win; and the St. Louis Cardinals, who held Giles Man Lee half-satisfied in the National League by coming from behind a 4-0 disadvantage to ruin a pitching masterpiece by Carl Hubbell and rose out the Giants 5-4 in 12 innings. Ernie Koy, Kennedy, who won his sixth straight batting triumph by driving in the Red Sox with seven hits, as the White Sox came through 8-5.

For the second straight day the Boston Bees upset the Reds, winning 4-1 behind Danny MacFayden's fine hurling against his former teammates. Cincinnati, Gehrig's mates, maimed hot on the heels of the Cardinals by downing the Dodgers 6-1.

SYRACUSE CHIEFS HAS NEW MANAGER IN MIKE KELLY

Harry (Nemo) Leibold Loses Job Because of Team's Slump

REDWINGS ADD TO LEAD

Leafs, Outblast Orioles And Win the Contest 6-5

The first "mortality" of the 1936 International League season is Harry (Nemo) Leibold of the Syracuse Chiefs. Following the unwritten but none the less effective rule that the manager of an unsuccessful club is the first one to take the punishment, Leibold was relieved yesterday in favor of Bernard "Mike" Kelly, former coach of the Chiefs as well as of the Chicago Cubs and White Sox.

Owner Jack Corbett of the Chiefs, who have lost 55 games to 35 victories so far, named Johnny Bevins, veteran catcher, to run the club until Kelly arrives. The change didn't bring any improvement, however, as Syracuse dropped another day and took a 13-3 drubbing from the league-leading Rochester Red Wings. Rochester also blasted Jerry Vandenburg for five runs in the first and finished up against Middleton for a total of 17 blows, including four circuit drives.

The victory added a full game to Rochester's slim lead over the Newark Bears, who took a 2-1 setback from the Montreal Royals under the lights. Lefty Jack Knott, in the pitcher's form, limited the former leaders to four hits while the Royals collected seven and did all their scoring off Steve Sundra in the early innings.

Canada's circuit had one of their best nights in some time as the Royals hung up their fifth straight victory and Toronto and Maple Leafs made it five out of six by outlasting the Baltimore Orioles 6-5. Home-grown relief pitching by Emmett Nelson, who gave only one hit in the last 3 2/3 innings, and Wilfred Crompton George McQuinn's four-for-four hitting gave the home parks to Toronto's triumph.

Joe Sprinz made a big evening for the second division clubs, the Albany Senators turned back Buffalo's Bisons 4-3.

JOHN KATAN TO PRESS CHALLENGE

Wants Canadian Wrestling Title to His Long String of Wins

John Katan, the Winnipeg Ukrainian who is to wrestle Hal Rumberg for the main bout of Monday's show at the Arena, is ready for a Canadian championship match before long, if he can get terms promised from Earl McCready that he is ready to grapple with New Zealand's champ he returns Katan will lose no time in making his challenge for a return match at the ball park.

Katan won the championship from McCreary, putting him out of action for six weeks, but got a chance at their next bout on a fluke which left Katan far from satisfied. McCready will have to defend his title and Katan is his leading challenger.

Shunsburg Ian may wrestle about the Canadian title, of course, but he doesn't propose to be beaten by Katan if he can help it. He will be in Belleville here as The Unknown and he thinks he will be in even better form without the mask.

That mask, Rumberg says, "was a distinct handicap. I had to pass up many openings because of the efforts of the other men to tear it off and sometimes it became twisted and obscured my vision. I sure am glad to be rid of it."

Al Mercier, in Rimouski Que., is a French-Canadian but has lived in the United States for so long that he is not eligible for the Canadian title. But that doesn't bother the fact that he is a capable and pleasing wrestler, and his preliminary against Jim Peiroff, the "Balkan Lion," who recently scored a win over "Gentleman Jack" Washburn, should be an exciting affair.

"Baby" Wright and Al Dunlop, the semi-finalists, are getting right ahead before and neither has shown any inclination to do much clean wrestling. They are indeed well matched

On Monday night professional wrestling is returning to the Belleville arena after a lapse of one month Jack Corcoran, well known to wrestling fans, is bringing some of the best known wrestling talent on the boulevard to Belleville and district. Corcoran has some real lawyers in our midst on Monday night and Belleville will be especially home is expected. With such star performers as Hal Rumberg, Al Mercier, Rube Wright, Dan Peiroff and Belleville's favorite, Al Dunlop, on the program it is hoped a card nothing less than a crowded house will greet the boys at the attendance. It is seldom that wrestling fans in a small centre are offered so many "big shots" wrestlers on the same program. As Matchmaker Corcoran has not in letter to reach us today—This is really a big night and it is our hope that the fans will appreciate the fact that Belleville has always been a good sporting centre and upon Monday night's attendance will depend whether or not we'll play Belleville during the autumn or not.

We understand Art Oole, local city policeman, strong and fast champion, is seriously considering entering the Canadian title championships at the Canadian National Exhibition this fall. Art says he will commence training at the "Y" in the near future.

In a recent issue of the Falcon Publications, a weekly newspaper, published in Toronto, is found a skit regarding George Pepper, local baseball umpire who has been big news in Bowmanville some time ago when he was fined by the Toronto court at the rate of $2 m.p.h. It appears Pepper was rebuked about his stop a motorcyclist for speeding and George being a Scot fined the motorcyclist after the message was received, was hailed. Now who ever heard of George clipping it at that fast?

The members of the Quinte Motorcycle Club are giving their annual dance in Belleville on Labor Day. We published the route over which the race will be completed yesterday and for the information of residents in that vicinity, we are told that the outside edge of street intersections will be banked with bales of hay, thereby eliminating any chances of machines damaging pedestrians or onlookers along the race route. Some of the best riders on the continent have assured the local club of their presence in the contest.

The Belleville Canoe Club, that functioned slightly last year and which promises to be bigger the Gananoque C.C. paddlers to the waters of the Bay of Quinte next fall. Concentration of modern paddling, is somewhat dormant this season. We are reliably informed, however, that the local canoe enthusiasts will blossom out more prolific next season. Two well known paddlers from Ottawa are expected to take up residence here within the next few weeks and will assist in boosting the club for first paddling activities in local waters next spring.

We hear will the flight fame of Jack Hamilton, Belleville boy, and of Joe Humphreys as he introduced sporting celebrities with his Famous Canadian Revue, Hamilton and Genial Joe heard the final bell at the Belleville Y.M.C.A. and is now in Pale Haven, N.Y. yesterday, June 30th. Best of luck to you, Joe, in fashionable will long be remembered.

Bill Terry and Frank Frisch were the only members of the National League baseball team to play in every game yesterday as the Giants retained their hold on first all saw action, 16 Giants and 19 Cards were listed in the box score.

Howie McPhee of Vancouver is Best Canadian Sprinter

Montreal, July 11 (CP) — Hefty Howie MacPhee, sprinkler-in-reserve from Vancouver, B.C., today was named to become a full-fledged member of the Olympic Canada Club, to open the Berlin games and succeed to Percy Williams.

They crowned the strong, easy-striding Vancouver boy with two titles in the Canadian dash at the trials here yesterday and decided quickly that he was the best sprinter on this today's final in the century and the final in the 200 metres.

MacPhee's time in the 100 was the world record of 10.3 seconds in the Olympic Stadium here, but others from the west coast and two Toronto youths, Art Jackson and Harvey Jack Brown of Toronto had general support as MacPhee's serious opposition for the 100 metres.

Bruce Humber of Victoria and young Gordon McKinney of Toronto will be others for the 400 metre final who are capable of good time, though McKinney is expected to be no danger in the longer sprint.

Before a thunder storm softened the track, Earl Brown made his bid yesterday, MacPhee turned in a 10.3 semi-final heat and Humber was timed in 10.4. Brown was eliminated in front in 10.9 seconds. The performance is bringing out what believes the strongest section ever sent overseas and would be natural for the Berlin games.

The record-breaking 400-metre hurdle race between Lloyd Duhaney, University of Western Ontario was the only other record to fall on the day of the trials. Leaving a former schoolboy star behind in the last hurdle, won the hurdle final in 54 seconds, breaking the former record of 55.6.

Leaving in 440 Meters.

Leaving will try to consolidate his position today in the 400-metre dash where his opponents will be Alfred Jackson, British Columbia ace, Marshall Limon of Vancouver and Joe Sherring of Toronto. Jackson and Sherring are generally favored to defeat Limon for the finals.

When the selection committee meets today Canada's track and field team will also have on the table the records of Scotty Rankine of Toronto, Oct. 4, the 1,000 metres and Sammy Richardson of Toronto, winning the 1,500 metres. Richardson and Art Clarke of Toronto, 1,500-metre champion.

Rankine was impressive in winning the long race yesterday in 2.9 minutes. He defeated Allan Pringle of Preston star was far out in front of Bill Bowcott, Sudbury, Ont., who was second and Walter Hornby of Hamilton, only other starter who finished.

Richardson, who made only two full practice runs, will take the hop, step and jump with a leap of 48 feet, 6 inches. The Toronto entrant is also hoped to make his place certain on the Olympic team when a rested today in the broad jump.

Clarke's 1,500-metre effort was scarcely impressive, his time was 4:03.4 as he defeated Hugh Thomson of Watrous, N.S., by three yards. Ed Irving, Jack Liddle of Winnipeg was third and Charles Hornsberger, Sudbury, fourth.

Other highlights included Phil Edwards' victory in the 3-mile 2-metre trials. The McGill University

School teacher in history class—"Where is Detroit?"

Early this spring an Industrial Softball League was formed in Belleville for the sole purpose of giving the working boys a little recreation after working hours. No thoughts were given to who won the league or what class of softball might be involved. The sole aim in mind being to provide amusement for those who were not good enough to play with a higher grade or category of softball. Last night the Belleville Industrial Softball loop concluded its regular schedule with a double-header, and today we find five of the six teams composing this little loop bunched so closely that five of the clubs qualified for the four originally designated play-off berths. Up to last night only the Belmonts and the Belleville Bargain tied for first place with the West End, Ciaco and the Corbin Hardware nine all tied for second place.

Naturally the league executive was confronted with a rather complicated task when the league found eligible for four play-off positions. Originally the league planned that the club finishing the league in first place meeting the fourth placed team in the league in the final play-off while all the middle clubs finishing second and third placed clubs would be battling under similar conditions. After consultation of President Clem Bewley, who all welcomed back to office after a lengthy period of illness, it was decided to place the names of the teams in a hat, the team being drawn out to be played in the two semi-finals while the remaining two play off for what would be considered the third place berth. The West End drew the bye and were given third position, as were the Ciacos and the Corbins "luck" will be played off Monday night which shall get the remaining play-off berth, fourth position. Before the schedule was completed however, some distinction between the Belmonts and Bellevilla Bargains must be made, these two clubs being tied for first place in the last league game, with the winner finishing first had the loser second place. Hence the schedule of league games.

The standing of the Belleville Industrial Softball League upon completion of the regular playing schedule reads:

	W.	L.
Belmonts	6	4
Bellevilla Bargain	6	4
Corbins	5	5
Ciaco	5	5
West End	5	5
Optical	3	7

Perhaps one of the features of the local Industrial Softball League was the fact there was not a single protest entered or a league meeting called to decide league arguments throughout the entire season of 60 games. Truly a remarkable record and a credit to the entire league.

FIVE CLUBS IN LOOP PLAYOFFS

West End Qualify And Draw Bye Into Semi-finals

Five of the six clubs comprising the local Industrial Softball League finished within the play-off group, when the West End qualified for a play-off berth by defeating the Optical nine 9 to 5 last evening, while the Ciaco squad spoiled the chances of the Corbin nine of finishing in second place in the "Play Corbys" outfit trimmed the Corbin team 13 to 2 at Corbyville that evening. Last night's two results leave the Corbin, Ciaco and West End in a three-way tie for second position while the remaining two contenders of a play-off berth are the Belmonts and the Belleville Bargain, who are tied for first place.

Following the completion of last night's games, which incidentally saw the termination of the regular league schedule, the yarkey clubs in the Industrial loop met with Manager Bewley, referee in chief, and a draw was made that resulted in the West End team being awarded a bye into the league play-downs, while the Ciaco and Corbin clubs will play-off in a two out of three series to determine which team will enter the league semi-finals. The play-offs will commence on Tuesday night at the Collegiate sports grounds.

At the Coleman Flats last evening the West End squad, facing elimination in defeat, staged a brilliant rally to defeat the Optical squad 9 to 5 and qualify for the play-off series. The defeat of the Opticals eliminated them from any chances of getting into a coveted play-off position. The West End batters got one run in the first inning into the fifth but the Opticals forged ahead with a four run rally, that was duplicated by the visitors two West End squad in the sixth, however, Chuck Barrie hurled for the winners, while Shortt seconded the mound for the Opticals. Both pitchers turned in a fine style until the last three innings, when the sound of willow meeting the horseside for ringing base hits was heard as batters barraged the losing hurling rival. The West Enders outhit the Opticals nine to six. Brown, Hill and Wilson were the big hickory-wielders for the winners, while Shortt, Goodfellow and Thrasher hit well for the Opticals.

The line-ups:

Opticals: Hurst 2 b, Day ss, Newton 3b, Smeack rf, Miller lb, Kerson lb, Shortt p, Goodfellow lf and Thrasher cf.

West End: A. Philp 3b, J. Cushing c, B. Brown lb, Lisy lb, C. Philp cf Ellis lf, H. Canning ss, Harris p, and Hardwick rf.

Score by innings:

										H	E
West End	001	024	2	—	9	9	2
Opticals	000	040	1	—	5	6	3

Umpires—Coleman and Mariner.

Out at Corbyville the home team carried too much power in the batting department for the visiting "lockmakers" 13 to 2 in a game that had little bearing on the final league standing, both teams qualifying for the play-off berths.

Yesterday's Stars

Chuck Klein, Phillies—Hit four home runs in 8-6 victory over Pirates.

Lou Gehrig, Yanks—His two homers led way to 12-5 win over Indians.

Buck Newsom, Senators—Allowed one hit in downing Tigers 2-0.

Curt Davis, Cubs—Let Dodgers down with six hits.

Danny MacFayden, Bees — His tight pitching defeated Reds 4-1.

The Missing Man

by

Mary R. P. Hatch

CHAPTER 24.

"YOU ARE HENRY ASHLEY"

He then spoke of the occasion of when being found of unsound mind he was sent to an asylum, his escape and supposed death by drowning. "With the coming of insanity it now appeared that Mr. Hamilton had induced a weak-minded vagrant to assume clothing with him, and with the disguise thus afforded succeeded in getting clear of the town. The man who resembled Hamilton in general appearance was afterwards drowned and identified as a patient of the asylum chiefly by his clothes, as the body was unrecognizable from having been so long in the water.

"It must have been a strange fatality or blind instinct which led him to seek employment at his own mill, and a boarding place at the house of Mrs. Fry, a woman previously well known to himself and wife, the recipient, as she avers, of many favors from himself and wife.

"He met his wife and children at church. His wife was greatly moved by his resemblance to her husband. He was also much excited by her looks and those of his children, Perley and Clare. He knows nothing of all this now, but I can prove it by the testimony of Dan Fry and his mother. From that time he began to watch her house, his former home, one night standing in a pouring rain until he was drenched and was sick in consequence. Although he knew little of music previously, he purchased a violin and became a good performer in a short time, but now he has returned to his normal ignorance and cannot play at all. I shall call to the stand an eminent specialist who will explain to you that this sort of cual amnesia is not unknown in science, although it is so uncommon as to be remarkable. Mrs. Hamilton shared in the feelings of her husband, but could not explain them. She interested herself, therefore, as much as possible, but when her little boy was lost and returned from the efforts of Prince Rites she allowed her heart to rule her hands to the extent of showing her gratitude by gifts for his personal comfort and convenience at Mr. Fry's.

"Now comes the false claimant, Mr. Hamilton, or Ashley, on the scene, safe, as he supposes in his fraudulent claim because he thinks his wronged brother is dead. He is the exact image of the claimer, as we all know, and he was received by Grovedale people with open arms. His extraordinary nerve, ingenuity, and fertility of resource carried him through various tests and examinations, and he was installed in the place of the true and lawful owner and head of the Hamilton estate. But there was one, gentlemen, who did not receive him. It was Mrs. Hamilton. She could not believe he was her husband, and, what testimony is that which is that of a wife who for seven years lived with him and came to know all his ways, his movements, the tricks of manner, everything which goes to make up personality, which we all know does not consist solely of features, height, voice, complexion. Personality is a more subtle, elusive nature. It may elude recognition by all except the more intimate friends. In this case it evaded all but that of the wife, the true, loving woman, who through all would not be cheated by a false resemblance.

Then in a low, impressive voice, Mr. Morley broached the matter of physical odor, which, exhaled from the material body, enables a dog to distinguish his master from all other persons. Lost children, slaves, fugitives from justice, have been tracked by this peculiar odor, so powerful and unmistakable as to cling to articles of clothing worn by the person. Many people have the sense of smell strongly developed, as others have that of sight, taste, hearing; and Mrs. Hamilton was thus highly endowed, he said. Her children each impressed her by a characteristic physical odor, or aura. By this, blindfolded, she could tell their garments apart and without searching. Thus, on her by this she was enabled to detect the false claimant. Though the resemblance was so strong that she fainted at the sight of him, when he knelt at her side she felt convinced that he was a stranger to her. "I hope I have made the matter plain to you, gentlemen of the jury, for this is a most important part of the trial."

During the presentation of this part of Mr. Morley's argument, the extreme gravity of his manner and delivery of words robbed it of the element of ludicrousness so perilously near it, and smiles disappeared from the few countenances where they arose.

Then the plaintiff's counsel went on to speak of the shot fired at his client in the grounds fraudulently held and occupied by the defendant, which he attributed to some person interested in removing him beyond reach of making trouble. "We will suppose," said Mr. Morley, "that Ashley had in his pocket at the true claimant in Rites and he realized his dangerous position from which nothing could extricate him but the death of this man. We will suppose that he saw him approaching the Hamilton house and shook him from his window and then rushes upon the scene, flinging the pistol to one side, and was there, as we know he was, before Mr. Carier could get there. Or, we will suppose that some other person, Solomon Marks, for instance, in possession of Dan Fry's pistol and followed Rites, shot him, and disappeared down the river.

"It is well known in Grovedale, and can be proved by half a score of witnesses, that Solomon Marks was twice closeted with the defendant, and that he went to the Fry house, when it is easy to suppose he found an opportunity to get possession of the pistol, to make it appear that my client committed suicide,—for there is no doubt but that the shot was fired to kill him. Now, it is perfectly clear to me, and must be to you, that the false claimant undertook, either by his own hand or another's, to rid himself of a troublesome person—troublesome because the true claimant. But did he succeed? No: the very shot fired to send Vane Hamilton out of the world restored him to the full possession of his faculties. Strange, yet true! Can we doubt, after such a manifestation is the overruling for good of the Divine Providence, which so often says to crime, 'Thus far shalt thou go, but no farther,' he reserved to prosecute his claims to his family and estate?

I have given in but fragmentary sentences a portion of Mr. Morley's able and eloquent address, which was listened to with great interest throughout. It is safe to say no case of more unusual aspects ever engaged the judicial and popular attention of the country; and it was generally admitted that the plaintiff's counsel presented it in a plain, careful, and painstaking manner. The plaintiff had commanded so much of the popular respect that no additional interest was lent the affair, and the gigantic results to follow, whichever won the case, were not present to the minds of those who listened to the exhaustive argument.

Chief Justice Michel next occupied a quarter of an hour in instructing the jurors concerning their responsibilities and various aspects of the case to be presented, of which the sole issue, he said, to be tried was the identity of the plaintiff with Vane Hamilton.

It was then five o'clock, and an adjournment was taken until the ensuing morning at nine a.m.

When the little court-house bell began to ring next day the streets rapidly filled, and soon the small room with its curtainless shutterless windows, was thronged with eager spectators, many of whom had to be turned out to prevent overcrowding. The work of the day was entered upon promptly by the calling of the witness, George Barnstead, to the stand.

A fine, square-faced, solid-built man, whose keen, eagle eye, ample forehead and fine chin testified to his powers of observation and good judgment advanced and gave a straight forward testimony, corresponding to Mr. Morley's presentation of it in his opening argument.

"I sat in Portland depot, near to the news-stand, waiting for Hurd, who was to go on with me to Bethel. I saw standing irresolutely at a little distance, a man whom I now know to be Vane Hamilton. He was dressed exactly as described by the advertisement. His looked about him as if he did not know what to do. I watched him sharply. I was in no hurry, and I had decided to get what novelty I could out of my calling by studying faces and people. This man struck me as being worth observing. Finally, as he got near the door another man entered, who stopped to stare at the first. Then, as if recollecting himself, he went off a little way, but still looked at him. The first man was aware of his scrutiny, it appeared, for at last he walked up to him and asked:

"'You appear to know me. Who am I? What is my name?'

"The other seemed disconcerted a moment by the inquiry, but answered in a second or two:

"'Your name is Henry Ashley. I know you well.'

"They talked together a few minutes, but in a lower tone. I did not hear what they said and shortly afterwards they went off together. The second man had long whiskers, was of about the same height, and had a general resemblance to the first. Their eyes, in particular, looked alike."

"Mr. Barnstead," cross-questioned Mr. Ferguson, "you say the first man looked about him as if he did not know where he was. What was his expression? Was it vague and uncertain or wide-awake?"

"Rather vague, sir, as if he did not know where he was."

"Was this the other's expression?"

"No, sir; his was the reverse—watchful, wideawake."

"Their expression was totally unlike and yet their eyes looked alike."

"Yes, sir."

"The resemblance, you say, was general rather than particular."

"Yes, sir."

"Was it any way striking, except about the eyes, which were totally opposite in expression?"

"No, sir; I don't think it was."

"If you had not heard of this extraordinary resemblance, would you have ever referred to it in your mind again?"

THE TARZAN TWINS

The leader of the pursuing cannibals stopped suddenly and bent low to examine something on a leaf.

Ah, the tender feet of the white boys had passed this way. The warrior nodded.

"Tonight," he said, "they shall be boiling in our cooking pots!"

Two hours later, Dick and Doc, with their two comrades, emerged into open, grassy country where travelling was easier. The boys' spirits were refreshed now that they were out of the dismal jungle, which had exercised a depressing effect on them for days.

Once more in the bright sunlight, the boys stepped along jauntily. Doc drew a deep breath. "Now I'm contained. It's just like the beginning of a long vacation." The usually pessimistic Dick shared these sentiments.

"I know we're going to be all right now."

At that very instant, without warning, three score Bandla warriors leaped from ambush all around them, their painted faces hideous with fiendish eagerness. The four captives looked about in horrified consternation. They were trapped — completely surrounded!

Most of his own time that he was, nicely in tune with his temper, Lazyard entered without knocking through portals whose magnificence might have abashed an emperor, and found himself in an entrance hall of comparatively mean proportions, although apparently overpowered by a voluptuary on a spree, where luxury unspeakable wailed in court attire with white-silk calves complete, and dismally viewed his fabrication as if it were that noble thing, however naive, could mantle their hornless nudity. And taking this into consideration, Lazyard abandoned his first intention, to send in his name.

"The apartment of Miss Boyce," he inquired of the first starched lackey he met, "is what floor?"

"The third floor, sir. What name?"

"Mr. Boyce is expecting me," Lazyard negligently informed the fellow, and walked forthwith into a waiting car.

Out of the corners of his eyes he saw a sliding panel in the wall of the elevator attendant; the impression that the mortal whose features files were not all they ought to be would conceivably find himself in these surroundings. The elevator became a shut box, one of whose walls was a mirror, suddenly reopened. A respectful gesture invited the passenger to walk out. He said, horrolously: "Already?" A bored voice replied: "Yes, sir. Mr. Boyce's apartment is R." Then the shaft-door closed soundlessly, and Lazyard was left to his own company. Silence, so stifling that he could safely, by abandoning his will, have resigned himself in the bowels of the Great Pyramid.

The corridor, a short one, boasted but two doors, one at each end, and both of a massiveness that pleasingly gralled to resemble wood. Lazyard inclined his head toward the bottom at the one that bore the letter R. Then he turned and faced it, opened to him by a dwarfed creature in a white-duck jacket.

"Mr. Boyce?"

The man who pronounced the name, Lazyard, without waiting for the servant to give way, coolly moved on into the foyer. "He is expecting me," he confidentially added.

"What name, pliz? I do not know if Mistaire Boyce is at home."

Lazyard, with his most masterful-course manner tabbed off his proposal, turned a severe eyes on the fellow. "Tell him," he said, "that Mr. Boyce was expecting me, he observed in faint displeasure. "If she is capable, I'll wait."

CHAPTER XXXIX

The Japanese was politely blank. "Yes, sir. I shall tell him. Yet with a hint of obtuse obstinacy, continued to hold the door open. "What name, pliz?"

"Say Mr. Bellamy is calling," Lazyard said.

If his choice of that non-descript name was inspired by anything more than merely a matter of the moment's whim, it was never evident unless he had hit on a name of power.

"Ooh, yes!" Intelligence waked in the black countenance. "Mistaire and the Jap, as if his every misgiving had been set at rest, closed the door, which closed of its own cord.

"Wait," Lazyard enjoined in the insolent tone of one who expects his lightest word to be heeded.

"Hire—take them, will you."

Without a sound he thumped hat, coat and gloves upon the servant's hands; and again stillness prevailed for him. In sudden shockodility the Jap turned to stow of armful and in the instant of those seconds only, yet many enough to cover a host of quick intentions, Lazyard's eyes leaped.

It seemed evident beyond question that Lazyard's confidence in him as an ally for the hour had been a happy one. The Jap's prompt and supple response to the call of the many proved nothing if not the existence of a balance between the total of the reckoners and this proud flat of the apartment; and if it proved that much, it proved more, that he would but waken time in the bosom of his master to attempt now to accomplish anything either by diplomatic methods or by appealing to her sportsmanship; and still more, that the Jap was of terms of sympathetic acquaintance with the methods of Lazyard, and therefore a potential menace as long as at large in the place while Lazyard was occupied with his mistress.

"And why not?" Lazyard mused, seeing the Jap's back as he stood stooped to empty the hat-box under the collar of the top-coat with a hook. "If the man police free to play his father's methods, why should not the father profit by the technique of his son?"

Deliberately, then, he planned the hand between the shoulder blades of the servant, toppled him in, to thrash around on the floor in discomfort of that the door and turned the key in its lock.

Less deliberately he left the foyer, prepared for anything except the sight that met his eyes when he got in.

Boyce . . . But in the drawing-room there was no one.

He held briefly an alert halt, taking in the many architectural features of the room quite lately haunted.

A handsome room, if a thought florid in its general effect, and well lighted exclusively by table-lamps. An easy-chair drawn up to abandoned one of these, in its arm a whip of lace handkerchief lightly crumpled as the floor beside it in evening newspaper a-gravel; from an ashtray on the table a thin thread of cigarette-smoke lifted, swaying in a light draft from the width of a French window.

Across the room, in a corner back of the chair in question, a door stood open revealing to itself softly.

If their erstwhile audiences was not present, the accumulation was sonable that she had, as women often do, thrown off her shoes on the floor fled to prinop and repair her complexion. But Lazyard could hardly credit her with any assumption of life in the adornment of cold-cream white face and open door revealed; and when investigation of the bathroom on the threshold demonstrated that this, the bedchamber, was also empty, he was badly in a mind to think that Mr. Boyer, to the dining-room, pantry, kitchen and servants' quarters, and turned the way he had come, stopping only to look into the hall coat-room, and search every closet, without finding a sign of the Boyce.

"Mr. Boyce!" he presently announced the name, Lazyard, without waiting for the servant to give way, coolly moved on into the foyer. "His is expecting me," he confidentially added.

"What name, pliz? I do not know if Mistaire Boyce is at home."

Lazyard, with his most masterful-course manner tabbed off his proposal, tinned a severe eyes on the fellow. "Tell him," he said, "that Mr. Boyce was expecting me, he observed in faint displeasure. "If she is capable, I'll wait."

But if the Boyce had gone to call on Isquith, the chances were that Lazyard or escaping one trap had run into another. Or was he walked entirely? . . .

Now, from within, a bell no mind to try to escape unless and until he found out what he had brewed in its flue.

He tried the other telephone, facing the pantries and, hideaway, but got no response either there or in the maid's sitting, other local for a call that is not completed.

Then he visited the outer doors of the apartment again and experimentally of bolt, night-bolts; he wasn't of any mind to be taken by surprise. It got no response, but it meant that Isquith and the Boyce were within, and Lazyard returned to the mob-world to arrive.

The outraged Jap was still gyrating snuffed yeps from time to time from behind the door of the foyer-closet; but Lazyard, pitiless, merely stopped at the end of his right hand to open and adjusted the volume control till the music was reduced to a mere purr. Then he left it was while he was thus engaged that a key grew audible again at the draft through the room, saw how the curtains were billowing in the open door that opened on the terrace, and for the first time in many years felt that he might possibly have taken to that re-

In some confusion Lazyard crossed to the window-doors. Dusk night prickled with a million stars, and the cool and defeated eyes keyed to indoor illumination. Nevertheless, he could see that the terrace was empty and stepped out. But the dusky terrace with its scent of evening newspaper a-gravel; from an ashtray on the table a thin thread of cigarette-smoke lifted, swaying in a light draft from the width of a French window.

VETERAN ORANGEMEN

British And Orange Institutions Theme of Orators

Springbrook, July 13 (Special) — The 111th town of Springbrook was a continual hum of activity from early Saturday morning, July 11th when the first fife and drum were sounded with lodges arriving in decorated trucks and the members of the Orange Order decked out in their regalia, till a late hour Saturday evening with the last celebrants wending their way homewards and the tired people of Springbrook counting up the day's returns.

Streets are Decorated

The main streets were decorated with suitable banners of welcome and one which read "The Orange Association is founded on the broad principles of National Freedom." Flags and bunting were used everywhere for decoration and the streets and homes were decked in colorful array. Standing at the doors of Reeve George E. SANCTION WALL FALLS WEDNESDAY

Canada Free To Trade With Italy After That Date

Ottawa, July 13 (CP) — Canada's wall of sanctions against Italy will fall Wednesday after being effective for eight months, action of League of Nations decided to try halting Italian hostilities against Ethiopia by depriving Mussolini's people of key products and credits.

The government decided near the end of last parliamentary session to vote for lifting sanctions on the ground that Ethiopia had been conquered despite their workings and that it was useless if not dangerous to the international temper to continue them.

An order-in-council announcing Canada's decision to withdraw was made public last night. It concurred with a resolution of the league for which Canada's representatives voted.

Meanwhile government activity was reduced in absence of six ministers aboard, three on trade missions and three as official delegates to the international investigation of Canada's Memorial on Vimy Ridge.

HEAT SLOWING UP MERCURY FALLS

Week-End Sees First Tendency to 'Break' in Hot Spell

With the death toll showing signs of slowing down as it passed the 300 mark, Ontario residents today gathered fresh courage from falling mercury registering thermometers, thunderstorms in some sections, and a more favorable report from the weather man in the dictated the heat-wave might be on the down-grade.

Brantford and Stratford only failed to record any lower temperature yesterday. Stratford clocked a 102 for the fifth consecutive day, while Brantford reported sizzling humidity, mixed with higher humidity, and a water pumping record of 4,140,000 gallons. Galt temperature was 102, a drop of two degrees from the high of Saturday.

Thunderstorms dropped Simcoe's mercury to 100 from 104, and Brantford rain sent the thermometer down to 88 from 104. A Campbellford storm killed six cows and knocked one road unconscious, damaged the post office at Codrington and a barn, but did not last long enough to bring relief to parched crops.

Other centres reported lower temperatures. Toronto was "cool" at 87, Ottawa was down to 86, Kingston recorded 90 and Cochrane 84.

NEWS BRIEFS AND ODDITIES

Louisburg, N.S., July 13 (CP) — The Nemesis, one of two French raiders she fought there when Louisburg was a part of new France, has been discovered by excavators in the ruins of historic Louisburg fortress.

Excavation officials expressed the belief the ones were killed in the famous siege of 1745. At that time Louisburg records, many documents of the fort were lost or destroyed when the walls of the Maid in front of the citadel fell on them.

Raleigh, N.C., July 13 (AP) — Lightning never waves at N.C. State College, according to the school's football team. The Wolfpack, minded every bolt that hit Raleigh and died.

The college has been suffering two more waves by the State of Minnesota until the last wave is over.

He Mrs. Revere, Sr., be her sister's mother-in-law and a grandmother to her husband, and that is just a start on the complicated relations.

Hyde Park, N.Y., July 12 (CP) — Some light-fingered person caused hearty laughs today among three members of President's family. The bill-clipper helped himself to their hotel rooms and Elliott and Franklin intended few expenses in trailing the President on his vacation cruise.

Detroit, Mich., July 13 (CP) — The complaint used by Ulysses S. Grant in 1863 in the relief of the great Civil War General offered free to Mississippi Valley Fair for display in the Grand Army Building, moved to the Fair Grounds, according to an announcement today.

Lakehurst, N.J., July 13 (AP) — The Zeppelin Hindenburg, commercial airship which made flight across the North Atlantic, was moved to the naval at the United States naval air station at Lakehurst day at 7.45 a.m. (E.D.T.). Fifty persons were aboard the airship.

Barrie, Ont., July 13 (CP) — Five boat thefts echoed through Barrie police court yesterday like a first class holdup. Each thought, then revealed it was just five lines of four exploding with the heat.

ONE MAN SAVED

Kingston, Ont., July 13 — Nelson Wood, 40, of Kingston, was drowned when a Sydenham Lake canoe upset 30 miles north of Kingston, Wood, with his brother Charles Wood of Kingston, was fishing when their boat capsized. Bertram Holthan of Kingston, saved Arthur Wood and made a gallant attempt to save the other man, but was unsuccessful.

Crazed by Past Week's Heat, Squirrel Attacks Janitor

Does More Than $50 Damage When Shut Within Church

EFFORTS TO ESCAPE

London, Ont., July 13 (CP)—Crazed by the heat after being shut in for nearly a week in St. George's Sunday School, West London, a black squirrel did more than $50.00 damage to the rooms and attacked Joseph Crapps, the janitor, when he eventually went into the building.

It is believed the squirrel slipped into the Sunday school some time to kill it.

last Sunday. After the usual services the rooms were filled with animal still inside. Without food or water it made desperate attempts to escape. The frames of every window were gnawed until the floor was littered with chips of wood. The blinds on several of the windows were almost shredded as the squirrel vainly tried to find a way out.

When Mr. Crapps again opened the Sunday school room the squirrel went berserk and attacked him repeatedly, but he escaped being bitten with difficulty. Finally he was able

MERCURY DROPS DOWN TO EIGHTIES FOR A 'BREATHER'

Humidity Plays Part in Uncomfortable Feeling Experienced Today

NO ICE SHORTAGE

Business on Usual in Shipments of Dairy Products at Port

Temperatures dropped today to comparatively frigid levels, while a sweltering populace enjoyed its first "breather" for the first time in five days.

Just before one o'clock this afternoon thermometers at the city pump houses were hesitating between 88 and 90 degrees, while during the cooler hours of the morning a lowest mark of only 64 degrees was registered. Humidity, however which was high today still gave the impression of continued heat.

Rapidly ascending temperatures during the early morning hours, resulted in an exodus of city dwellers to the cooling lakes of the north and the lake bathing beaches of Prince Edward Island where every available bit of space was crowded with humanity and picnickers.

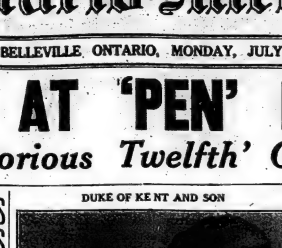
Exodus of citizens over the week-end in search of cooler spots than home was at high mark on Sunday. Some found relief at the lake, others swellered at parks or resorts or had their day burned by the warm winds which billowed into their cars as they sped over the iron-hot roads.

Ice Shortage Unlikely

Possibility of an ice shortage in this city before the season's end was smilingly dismissed by the majority of ice men today when questioned. Despite the fact that sales have doubled during the past week, a plentiful supply on hand it was generally stated.

"We usually make allowances for heat waves, anyhow," stated one of the ice men today. "And besides this, old man Law of Averages, generally evens things up. It will be cooler later on and there won't be so much ice sold," it was added.

As far as can be learned today sales of ice were reported on Sunday.



Busy on Boat

"Hot? Well, it's not exactly cool around the boilers of any boat this weather," commented the crew of the steamer Glen Allan receiving and loading 275 tons of coal, flour and mixed freight at government wharf. "Besides loading the 275 tons of cheese, the heaviest consignment we've had aboard this season, flour and mixed freight at government wharf. "Besides loading the 275 tons of cheese, the heaviest consignment we've had aboard this season, flour and mixed freight at government wharf. In spite of comparative stiff breeze on the open water sailors are also minding the heat. Ice is available at Panter's Park, along the west river bank, however, for refreshments and for picnickers and a location for bathing. Many are taking to the river during the heat of the day today.

Scores of cars parked under the shade of trees on the river bank, while occupants divided their time between bathing and picnic lunches on the grass. At noon today there were hundreds of visitors at meals in other parts.

Storm Saves Odors

Warm weather which has aggravated the odor of several storm sewer catch basins during the past week has resulted in complaints to the local Board of Health. Following reports of the local M.O.H., Dr. Cronin, the health department of public works are at present spraying the catch basins with the use of chemicals.

Drums Beat, Fifes Play As Thousands Celebrate 246th Boyne Anniversary

Gaily Decked Men And Women 'Walk' Entire Way

CENTRAL OBSERVANCE

Unprecedented Scenes of Enthusiasm Shown Despite Heat

Marching in measured tread to the shrill piping of the fifes and the roll of drums, at 1:45 o'clock this afternoon the grand parade of the various Orange Lodges, thousands strong moved off from the Belleville Fair Grounds on the start of their line of parade through the business section of the city.

The huge parade was led by three Parade Marshals, Frank Babcock, Harry Onyon and Wm. Taylor.

With traditional Orange pomp and pageantry, the shrilling of fife and the roll of drum and with brilliant musical ensembles, scores of gaily colored banners, the tramp of marching feet again resounded in city streets today as representatives of over 100 lodge of L.O.L.—Loyalist Boys, True Blues, Black Knights and Junior L.O.L. assembled in celebration of the 246th anniversary of the Battle of the Boyne held here under the auspices of Benjamin L.O.L. 274 of this city.

From as far east as Kingston and as far west as Cobourg, with Prince Edward County sending a delegation of fifteen lodges, they came in all their color and glory.

Milling Crowd at 10,000

A milling crowd estimated at 10,000 people thronged the city streets, at an early hour this morning, vehicles of all descriptions poured into the city. Cars of all makes and vintages, horse-drawn vehicles, motor trucks laden with human freight, brought their quota of celebrants of the "Glorious Twelfth". Four hitchhikers, bedraggled and a trifle footsore plodded their way over twelve miles of burning highway, arriving at an early hour.

SUNMADE TEA IS MADE IN FIELD

London, Ont., July 13 (CP)—"Sunmade tea" is not a new commercial brand but is a beverage used on the farm of Chesley Smith, near the south concession of Caradoc township.

Mr. Ferguson and helpers were hoeing corn. They decided a cup of tea would make a refreshing drink so they took a tin pail, put in a handful of tea leaves and filled it up with cold water from the pump. Taking the pail with them they went to the field.

The pail was set in the sun and they began to hoe. After an hour and a half they stopped for a drink. The pail was filled with tea brewed by the sun.

HOCKEY REFEREE DROWNED

Timmins, Ont., July 12 (CP)—Silves, well-known hockey referee was drowned at MacDonald's Lake during the week-end. He was 39 years of age.

Knocked Unconscious By Lightning Storm

Campbellford, Ont., July 13 (CP) —Lightning killed six cows and knocked one man unconscious during a severe electrical storm here Saturday night. The Codrington district also was struck, and a barn partially destroyed. The brief storm brought little relief to parched land.

Frank Migler, 32, was knocked unconscious when lightning struck the barn of William Ross near Meyersburg. He was reported not seriously injured. A hastily-formed hockey brigade quelled flames in the barn.

No serious damage was done by a bolt striking the post office at Codrington. Six cows, sheltering under a tree on the farm of Joseph Hopps were killed by a third flash.

4 CHICKENS AND 3 TURKEYS OUT OF 'DOZEN' EGGS

Village wisecrackers and oldtimers are racking their brains over a new mystery which threatens to disrupt the peace of one of the inhabitants of the village of Thrasher.

A turkey hen that had hidden her nest from view and sitting on eight perfectly formed turkey eggs, Mother Nature Turkey was observed proudly leading four large sized chickens and three baby turkeys. Mamalian in the nest revealed the remnants of turkey shells and local "eggsperts" are at a loss to understand this scrambled affair.

INQUEST ORDERED

Kingston, Ont., July 13 (CP) — Inquest into the death of Convict Charles Cyrial, a Negro, who hanged himself Saturday with a string of bandage in the prison hospital has been ordered for tonight, it was announced today by Dr. Presley McLeod, coroner.

MAY USE SIREN TO WARN CITIZENS

W. W. Manager Has Scheme To Guard Pressure During Fires

A large electrically driven siren whose blasting tones from the top of the city hall tower will become a community signal, chiefly for fires, warning local water consumers to shut off their taps and outside services during the time necessary to fight the blaze may be installed in this city soon.

The siren whose sound range will be sufficient to reach the outermost limits of the city, is being strongly advocated by Waterworks Manager E. T. Austin as a means toward maintaining suitable pressure in the mains during the critical period necessary to fight fires.

During evening heat waves such as the present one when abnormal use of water by residents reduces the pressure to a low level, the siren would almost pay for itself within a short period, it was pointed out.

Purchase and installation would be borne by the waterworks department. It was contemplated, consideration of the matter has been promised by Mayor Harry Hill.

"All we need after this siren is installed, is the cooperation of residents of the city in the matter of turning off outside services when the warning'is given by the siren," stated Manager Austin. "When the danger point of the fire has passed, a second blast would inform users of the water they were free to turn them on again. This would assist the pump house greatly in supplying needed pressure, particularly during dry spells."

GUARD AT PEN JOHN M'CORMICK DIES OF WOUNDS

Stab In Stomach and Cuts in Bowels Prove Fatal

NEGRO CONFINED

Male Nurse Jack Twomey Still in Serious State

Kingston, Ont., July 13 (CP)—Convict Chester Crossley, lifer at the Kingston penitentiary will face a charge of murder, following the death of Guard J. J. McCormick, stabbed several times by the convict on Saturday morning. Jack Twomey, hospital male nurse was also severely stabbed. McCormick died this morning.

A charge of murder today was laid against Crossley by Warden R. M. Ryan, K.C., of the penitentiary.

There was no indication as to when Crossley would be arraigned on the charge but this will likely come after the inquest, the date of which has not been set.

McCormick was stabbed in the stomach. There were three punctures in the bowel, while three other stab wounds resulted in a great loss of blood.

In the meantime Crossley is being kept in close confinement.

At present Crossley is serving a life term in the penitentiary.

Crossley's Past Record

Crossley has had a long record, dating from 1910, when he was first sentenced to three years at Victoria Industrial School, Toronto. He was subsequently sentenced as Toronto, Hamilton and Kingston Penitentiaries, where, in 1928, he was given a four year term on a theft charge.

A year later he was given an additional two years for assaulting an officer and after the St. Vincent de Paul penitentiary riots, was given five more. He is 53 years old and of small stature, standing five feet six inches and weighing 135 pounds.

Guard McCormick was born in Portland township 44 years ago and leaves a family of thirteen years. Previous to his appointment to the penitentiary in 1928, he was employed with a ship-building firm.

Coroner's Jury Empanelled

Coroner Dr. Presley McLeod today empanelled a jury to investigate the death of Guard J. J. McCormick, stabbed by Convict Chester Crossley, in the penitentiary on Saturday morning.

Those named on the jury are: Dr. Paul Penitentiary riots, was given five more. He is 53 years old and of small stature, standing five feet six inches and weighing 135 pounds.

Explosion in Cottage Causes Death by Burns To Mrs. Pixley, Buffalo

Her Husband Also Mr. And Mrs. Lewis Burned

BOLD LAKE IS SCENE

No Inquest Necessary as Explosion is Called Accident

Mrs. A. Pixley, Buffalo, N.Y., accumbed to burns received, in Tweed hospital late Sunday, when a gasoline stove exploded at a camp at Bold Lake near Elm Tree, twenty-three miles east of Tweed on No. 7 Highway. Her husband, and Mr. and Mr. J. Lewis, also of Buffalo, who were in the party of tourists, were burned and Mr. Pixley and Mr. Lewis were brought to Belleville hospital late on Sunday being attended by Dr. R. A. Flynn. All were staying at Dr. Morris O'Connor in Tweed. The burns received by Pixley and Lewis are serious but there is no danger, stated Dr. Flynn today. Both are in a fair condition and will recover. Pixley was burned about the face and arms, while Lewis received burns about the arms. Mrs. Lewis only required first aid treatment for her injuries.

County Constable Hayes o' Tweed investigated along with Dr. M. G. Dales and after the facts were presented to Deputy Coroner Flynn, subsequently sentenced as Toronto, Hamilton and Kingston Penitentiaries, where, in 1928, he was given a four year term on a theft charge.

A year later he was given an additional two years for assaulting an officer and after the St. Vincent de Paul penitentiary riots, was given five more. He is 53 years old and of small stature, standing five feet six inches and weighing 135 pounds.

Anglican is Excommunicated Son of Deceased Curate

Father Had Left Letter Saying Son Had Most

.. ACTION FORECAST

Chichester, Sussex, July 13 (CP)— A church service under sentence of excommunication from the Church of England today in what was believed to be the first case of its kind outside the Roman Catholic Church for a century.

Sentence of excommunication was passed by Rt. Rev. George Bell, Bishop of Chichester, acting under one of the rubrics preceding the Holy Communion service in the prayer book.

Burning's father, Rev. W. H. Boyne Bunting, curate in charge of Carnforth parish, and his mother were found dead recently in a gas-filled bedroom in their house. The father left a letter saying his son had the most of his fortune.

At the inquest, the jury in a rider to its verdict censured the son for not helping his parents when they were in financial difficulties.

At a memorial service for the parents yesterday, the Bishop of Chichester referred to the curate's duty and declared:

Bunting placed the Bishop's letter announcing excommunication in the hand of his solicitors with a view to legal action. He said in an interview that he had between £3,000 and £4,000 of his parents' money. He asserted that his father's letter absolved him from blame because he had moved ahead in recent months, starting a career in which he was highly paid. He added that he had begun to help his parents.

RAIN DRENCHES BELFAST PARADE

30,000 Orangemen March Through Streets of Northern City

Belfast, Northern Ireland, July 13 — A rain-drenched procession of 30,000 Orangemen wound through the streets of Belfast today in celebration of the 246th anniversary of the Battle of the Boyne.

Thousands of police guarded the streets. Armored cars sped from point to point. A Welsh regiment was held at barracks in the event of disturbances.

The rain which ruined a spectacular demonstration was considered the impelling factor to prevent demonstrations. Police said one man was arrested carrying six revolvers.

Newspapers were asked not to print prominent notice in the document until 24 hours later when feeling between the Orangemen and their rivals will have subsided.

Turd Craigavon, prime minister of Northern Ireland, addressing a demonstration near Belfast announced he would not relent to by civil authorities of special powers of legislation an issue at the next general election.

CAPT. EYSTON BEATS RECORD

Bonneville Salt Flats, Utah, July 12 (AP)—Captain George Eyston, a motorcycle driven car, established a 24-hour world land speed record today with an unofficial average of 149.16 miles an hour.

The British born-served Briton, alternating at the wheel of "Speed of the Winds" with a fellow countryman, Ben Shaw, covered the 24-hour car over the glistening white salt in the day and night grind.

The record far surpassed the 140.34 miles an hour mark Eyston established over the same track last September.

The 24-hour run completed the first half of a projected 48-hour grind in quest of a greater speed than the 109.84-mile-an-hour record four European drivers established several years ago.

Eyston assumed the wheel at 1:00 mile mark. The doughty Britton was timed at 149.004 miles an hour for 3,000 miles over the glistening white plains of this dry lake bed. Eyston's total covered 7,000 miles—140.16 mph—was set last September over the same course.

Locarno Breakdown Is Seen by France

Paris, July 13 (AP) — Eventual breakdown of Locarno security efforts—conclusion of a military alliance between three western European nations was hinted today in French official quarters.

The implied diplomatic situation, further complicated by the Berlin-Vienna accord naming Austria a "German state", drew a three point-ed French demand for the prospective Locarno conference at Brussels:

1. Germany and Italy must accept French terms to begin discussion on German denunciation of the mutual security pact which provides Nazi troops re-occupied the Rhineland.

2. Germany will not be admitted to the parley until Chancellor Hitler formulates a basis on which to renew his nation's participation in Locarno conversations.

3. France will ask that a breakdown in conciliation efforts be declared if Great Britain asks that Reich delegates be admitted to the conference at its start.

ARTHUR C. BARNETT

Tweed, July 11th.—On Saturday, July 11th., there lost its oldest merchant and one of its most highly respected citizens, when death claimed Arthur C. Barnett, in his seventy-fourth year. Although the deceased had suffered for some years from a heart condition, his death was quite unexpected, and was directly traceable to the intense heat of the past few days. On Friday morning, the deceased was at his usual business in usual health, complained to his son, Claude, who is in partnership with him, that he was not feeling well. A medical assistance was summoned and he was taken to his home. Death occurred on the following day.

The late A. C. Barnett came to Tweed from Deseronto about forty years ago and has operated a prosperous grocery business since that time. He is survived by his widow, one son, Claude, and one daughter, Mrs. C. H. Kerr of Tweed, to whom the deepest sympathy of the entire community is extended.

For the past forty years the deceased has been a member of the Official Board of the United Church; for the past eleven years he served as an elder of the church and for several years acted as treasurer of the M. and M. Fund. As a member of the High School Board the late A. C. Barnett showed an active interest in education, as he did in all community enterprises.

The funeral service was held on Monday afternoon at two o'clock at his late residence, Rev. R. S. Nicholson was in charge of the services. Interment was made in Victoria Cemetery at Tweed.

DRUMS BEAT AND FIFES PLAY

Color Procession

Color was the predominating keynote of the parade as it passed between two walls of humanity, each lily which lined the streets. Kaleidoscopic in an extravaganza of paint of color with its orange and blue, its purples, greens and yellows the parade, headed by the Grand Marshal mounted on the traditional white horse of King William of Orange, moved down the route to the accompaniment of piping of fife and rolling drum, and the occasional shrill of the bagpipes.

A searing sun beat down on burning city streets as a perspiring populace waited for the youth to get a first view of the marchers. Sweating crowds in handkerchiefs did double duty as perspiration poured from heated faces. Women craned their necks and crowded the males in order to get a better view, proving that there is a parade. The sun was strong in the minds of the fair sex as it is in that of more man. Children were held high in the arms of fond parents, adding their shrill cries of delight to the general clamour as marching feet pounded steadily on.

"Seven Ages of Man"

Old men, young men, women, children "seen age youths and maidens, in fact "Seven ages of Man" were represented in the throng which forgot heat discomforts to view one of the most glittering, colorful parades ever held in city.

A cosmopolitan crowd in the true sense of the word, it was with pardonable pride that every walk of life represented, they cheered their way from town, village and hamlet in the eastern district. Staid business men, with their wives, sweethearts, daughters, brown, rubbed elbows with time, tried and true veterans of many battlefields. Brawny, sun-tanned farmers' youths and their sisters, more comfortable in-crowded quarters and Sunday clothes hobnobbed and fraternized with the sons and daughters of tribes in the rush for a "streetside seat." Gentlemen of the road, proverbially in the general scene, mingled with the crowd, each to each other arms, a bit timid at the clash and color of the ever-moving pageant, watching eyes betraying their excitement.

Ubiquitous Small Boy

The ubiquitous "small boy" with his inherent love for a parade, likewise was everywhere in evidence, singly in groups of two and three, and even in small knots. Tousle-headed youngsters, some of them were, reveling in the thrill that comes with the first view of a stirring parade. Bedecked and bedizened in different bands passed by. Grimy heads clutched grimy arms in the thrill of a new sight. Boyish voices charged with excitement shrilled in the Marseillaise Lest Forgotten," "British Grenadiers" and other military march tunes lending a strong touch of patriotic distinction.

Never Missed Parade

"Fifty-five years an Orangeman and never missed a parade" said seventy-two year old W. H. Bowers of the third concession Sidney and a Past D.D.M. of Wallbridge Lodge. Hobbling along with the aid of a walking cane his face red from heat and exertion, Bowers kept pace with his younger colleagues in the line of march.

With the buoyancy and springiness of youth on his step, Daniel Moore, 86 years old, veteran of many parades, marched along with eyes shining and perspiration streaming from his face. An Orangeman of 56 years standing, he has never missed a parade and is an honorary member of four lodges.

J. N. Johnson, 69, Past Master of Fort William Lodge trudged along marching in his 46th consecutive parade.

Limping along on crutches, the aftermath of a broken leg suffered years ago was F. Cook, 77, of Portsmouth Lodge. Fifty five years of age he has never missed the Glorious Twelfth' in thirty years.

Out Goes A Drum Head

Pre-march rehearsals took place in the morning. A truck laden with drums, big bass drums in the van, uniforms singing "We'll Never Let the Old Flag Fall" wound down Front Street, followed by admiring youngsters, the pipe band of Belleville skirled their way up the street at an early hour. With the stirring strains of "Garb of Old Gaul" shrilling from their fifes Trenton Lodge, 306, led a corade of automobiles in the city's procession.

Gaily decorated cars lined the streets all day long, many strange streamers and orange lillies floating in the breeze.

"Whether" exploded a large drum near Campbell St., as a zealous drummer, neglecting to loosen drumheads smote his instrument a lusty blow. Hasty repairs were made and the drummer continued on his way.

CROSSING WORK DELAYED TODAY

29 Men Will Be Employed On Job at Gibson's Crossing

Construction of what is expected to be either a subway or the widening of the culverts and road at the well known Gibson Railway crossing east of the city limits was expected to start today by contractor Wm. Dilland and Son, Belleville, it was learned this morning. Work was expected to start today by contractor Wm. Dilland and Son, Belleville, it was learned this morning. Work was expected to start today but because of a delay in the location this morning following the arrival of the city engineer at the office on Saturday.

A crew of 29 men from the city is expected to be given employment, when the work is started.

"Whether it is to be a subway, or a widening of the crossing, we don't just know yet, we haven't been in conversation with the contractor. All we did get was a telephone call from him today due to the fact that today is looked upon as a sort of a holiday by many so did not start today," stated Mr. Ross.

Blood For Transfusion Given by Constable

Constable William Evans, of the local police department, was promoted to the Belleville General Hospital on Sunday, where he was asked to give a blood transfusion. The officer readily agreed and gave over a pint of blood to a man to recover.

named Mr. A. Prixley, of Buffalo, N.Y., who was badly burned about the face and body when a gasoline tank exploded in the city of Derby, Dr. R. A. Flynn of this city, donated a pint of his blood and made the transfusion successfully. Mr. Prixley was stated today to be ill effects from the loss of the blood, while Mr. Prixley is expected to recover.

FIRESHIP IS SMALL BOY

London, Ont., July 13 (CP)—London Southe pyromaniac, hunted since five fires were discovered burning simultaneously in a house, was discovered today to be a seven-year-old boy with a grudge.

The boy told Fire Chief Scott he was trying to get even with another small boy by burning his house. His mother, however, he said, stole a bottle of pop from him last summer.

PICNIC LUNCHES

POISON SIX

St. Thomas, Ont., July 13 (CP)—Six members of a picnic party from Vienna district at Port Burwell were taken violently ill with ptomaine poisoning.

Tuesday, they were reported, to include a picnic lunch. Those taken ill were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Crall, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Moore, Mrs. Herb Thayer, and H. Underhill. They were given medical attention and removed to their homes. Recovery is expected.

SANDWICHED BETWEEN CARS

Cobourg, Ont., July 13 (CP)—Norman Martin of Toronto received a serious leg at Ocean Lookout Sunday, when sandwiched between two cars. Martin was changing a tire on a hill at the time of the accident. The other cars driven by Cecil Vharvie of Harwood and John McCuire, Cobourg, collided on the hill as one attempted to pass the boat Martin. In some manner, Martin was caught between them.

Livestock

Toronto, July 13 (CP)—Calves were steady to 25 cents lower on the opening of the Toronto Livestock Market today. The cattle market was dull with few sales being made. Hogs were unsettled with indications they would settle firm, with a report of no sales of sheep or lambs. The cattle holdover from Thursday's close reached 400 head.

Receipts reported by the Dominion Livestock Branch were: Cattle, 3650; calves 510; hogs, 450; sheep and lambs, 60.

Hot weather has cut down the demand for all meats with the exception of ready-cooked varieties. Early cattle trade was dull, with exporters taking a few loads of weighty steers at $5.20 to $5.50. There were no sales to packers or butchers.

Good calves were steady on the day's market at a general top of $7.50, with a few choice at $8.00. Common to medium grades sold slowly about 25 cents lower.

Hogs were steady with indications that they would settle firm. Last Thursday's closing hog prices were steady at $9.90 to $10 and $10.25 for choice weights.

Receipts for early sales on sheep or lambs, but indications were that the market would tend towards lower prices.

Calves: good, $7.00 to $7.50; choice, one medium, $8.50 to $9.50; Creamers $3.00 to $4.00.

ASSIST IN QUENCHING FIRE AT POINT ANNE

Sweeping flames from a spreading grass fire, which threatened for a time a row of wooden buildings in Point Anne, resulted in a hurry call to the local fire department shortly after two o'clock on Sunday afternoon. One home reel and three firemen, which responded to the alarm assisted villagers in successfully extinguishing the flames. Earlier in the day, just before eleven o'clock in the morning a grass fire near the Stephen-Adamson plant south of the city resulted in an other alarm.

A new convention against potential fires in the scorched grass at the Point Fair Grounds, one uniformed fireman will be on duty there today.

WORMS SCARCE ANGLERS FIND

Other Bait is Being Used by Fishermen Who Brave Heat

The few fishermen of the city and district who have braved the perils of sun and heat during the past week or so have turned from angle worms to other bait through necessity, it was stated by local bait purveyors today, pointing to the fact that worms at the present time are at a premium owing to their scarcity.

The dew worm market, in fact, has been temporarily closed by the heat. No longer is it possible to garnish the lawn and snatch the bait from the wet grass evenings with the aid of a lantern. Many Worms have dug in and down during the present torrid spell. Even those reared in boxes and pits by professional salesmen have become thin and scrawny in spite of constant care.

This is the peak season for dew worms, but with the market about closed, one can only wonder what bait have become favored.

"Anyhow, there's no fishing to talk about either in the bay or the lakes further north," reported one well known local disciple of Izaak Walton. "The water is too warm, sort to bite. Fishermen just now are taking a holiday and so are the fish."

POLICE COURT

Cecil Wannamaker, Rawdon farm hand, pleaded guilty to a charge of stealing automobiles and a charge of causing wanton damage when he appeared before Magistrate R. J. Butler, K.C., in today's local police court. Wannamaker was sentenced to serve one year in the Ontario Reformatory on each individual charge, the sentences to run concurrently, however.

Wannamaker pleaded guilty to the theft of Russel White's automobile in Belleville on July 4th, also to the theft of Roy Deshane's motor car in Rawdon on March 19th, 1935. A third charge was the issuing of a forged cheque for a small amount of money, the cheque being stolen.

Orie Loft, Belleville, pleaded guilty to a charge of reckless driving and also to a second charge of failing to inform the highway department of the change of his address. The accused, intimating he could not pay a fine, was sentenced to serve ten days in the common jail on each of the above charges.

When he refused to inform the court where he had procured his liquor, after pleading guilty to a charge of intoxication, Clifford Moore of this city, had his case enlarged for one week, during which time efforts will be made by the police to establish where the intoxicants were purchased and by whom.

A number of minor cases presented under the H.T.A. brought the comment of the court regarding the "courtesy campaign" now being carried on by the Highway Traffic Department of the Ontario Government. These motorists stated that whatever reading material is available regarding courtesy on the highway and pesahps we would not have so many motor traffic cases in this court," declared Mr. O'Donnan, K.C., local Crown Attorney.

Helen Simpson and Robert Brown, both of this city, pleaded guilty to individual charges of liquor. His Worship reserved judgment in both cases for one week. Both are established by Crown Attorney Donnan that Helen Simpson had married G. W. Carter in 1929 and later married Brown on June 1st of this year while her first husband was living and without a divorce. Brown, it was proven, knew Mrs. Carter was married and was convicted as an accessory after the fact.

NEW YORK EXCHANGE

New York, July 13 —Buying leadership shifted between agricultural implements, rail, merchandise and specialty issues in today's market.

Trading was quite active throughout, although the volume tended to dwindle in profit taking periods. Chrysler developed a following near the final hour.

Montgomery Ward, Sears Roebuck, Macy, Chicago Mail Order, and Woolworth climbed briskly in the afternoon.

Transfers approximated 1,500,000 shares.

TORONTO MINES

Toronto, July 13 (CP)—Intermediate and senior golds with a few important exceptions turned downward on the Toronto Stock Exchange today. Base metals showed slight improvement and other groups were mixed. Lake and Sullivan led the market as to interest and reached a high at 95 5-8, they held well and closed with gains of over 10 cents.

TORONTO INDUSTRIALS

Toronto, July 13—Trading was near a standstill on the Toronto Stock Exchange and sales were few with no establish definite trend by noon. Moore Corporation A supplied the only action rising 9 to a new high of 168.

Steel showed a better tone firming ¾ to 19¾ and Consolidated Paper rose to the same extent. International Nickel lost ¼.

Walkers common softened from its recent strength but preferred was unchanged at 99 and Distillers Corporation Seagrams shed down the minimum fraction to 21¾.

Board Room Gossip

Ad supplied to Biggar and Crawford by Financial Service.

Buffalo Ankerite

Production for June was 9,382 tons for a recovery of $146,071, an average of $7.14 per ton. This establishes a new high record for the Mine.

Dome's Output Gains

Output in June was valued at $536,525, as compared with May figures of only $512,462. In June the mill treated 30,000 tons of ore while in May 46,700 tons of ore were milled.

Activity and strength of the junior newspaint securities last week gladdened the hearts of many patient investors who were glad to see their holdings join the upward trend which has been under way in the bonds of such companies as Ahfuhl, Consolidated Paper, Minnesota & Ontario, etc. The sharp advance in the price of newsprint to some points in South and Central America will likely be followed by a boost in the contract price to the United States next year.

Certainly there is no indication of a slackening of activity in the mining fields. Reports continue to get out of hand at times as the public is inclined to be impatient favourable developments at the mines, but the industry appears to be in a most flourishing and healthy condition. state Drury & Thompson in their weekly letter. In this connection we would again caution intending buyers of the Canadian mines that "when to buy" is of equal importance with "what to buy". Publication of favourable developments is usually followed by very sharp advances with crude movements from day to day and sometimes even from hour to hour. These are chances which the speculator and speculative investor must take but more attention to the general trend of the market will be found advisable.

During the course of a conversation with an insider of Noll, Renfrew & Company, Financial Service has informed that business has shown a moderate improvement so far this year and the indications point that bond interest will be earned by a very large margin. The management has set as its objective some further economies, especially overhead, and the company's funded debt amounted to $367,000 on January 31st last and it is altogether likely that a special arrangement will be made in this connection when they mature on August 1st, 1937.

Canadian Car & Foundry

Since the close of the war the Street has been from time to time that the claim which the Canadian Car & Foundry Company has against the Canadian Government is about to be settled. The same old rumour has been going the rounds for weeks. There seems to be some good grounds for believing that a compromise settlement will be reached this time. A considerable amount of confidence is expressed to Financial Service in this connection and the fact is stressed that V. M. Drury, Chairman of the Executive Committee, is in charge carrying out negotiations. It may just be that Lord Beaverbrook is lending a helping hand as it will be recalled that he brought about a consolidation of the equipment companies over twenty-five years ago.

The net amount involved is said to be more than $6,000,000, which is secured would place this company in a very strong liquid position once more.

The egg market was little changed, according to dealers' reports. Pay graded shipments arriving in carlots, or 1c1. lots, quotations were A-large, 23 1-2 to 24; A-medium, 22 to 22 1-2; B's 21 to 21 1-2, and C's 20 1-2 to 21. Canadian Commodity Exchange quoted the market at 22 1-2 to 24 for A-large, 21 1-2 to 22 for A-medium and 20 to 20 1-2 for B's. Receipts, same basis as above, were: for day 2,745 cases, against 3,040, and 122,189 against 134,739 cases a year ago.

CAUTION IN HOT WEATHER

As the intense heat continues, people have learned to take those precautions which are necessary to prevent over-exertion. That over-exertion is a real threat is evident enough after a glance at the heavy casualty lists which have been reported from many parts of the province, especially in the larger cities. The deaths among elderly persons have been unusually high as well as among children, but those attributed to heat also number men and women in middle age, who likely under normal conditions would have lived to a good old age.

As the days of the heat continue people learn to put into practice more and more those sane principles which reduce heat within the home, heat within the body and protect themselves from sun stroke.

However a break is seen in the unusual weather. United States parched areas have found relief and evidence points to more moderate weather than the sizzling frying, boiling weather of the past week in Ontario.

THE WEATHER AND 'THE TWELFTH'

The "Twelfth" this year is in the hottest weather setting of years on the North American continent. Demonstrations of the anniversary of the Battle of the Boyne bring warm weather and often rain in drenching quantities, according to history, and many a parade in local district annals has been held while the rain was falling. This year it is heat that counts.

As those who celebrate know the history of the day for hot weather and rain they are preparing this year with umbrellas either to ward off the piercing rays of the sun or a shower should it appear.

EMPIRES IN THE AIR

It is evident that those who shape the policy of British aviation now look steadfastly to water-going aircraft to assure swift communication for the far-flung empire, just as in other generations, their forefathers looked to surface vessels, both military and civil, to justify the slogan, Britannia Rules the Waves. The first of the new four-engined flying boats for Imperial Airways, destined for the long routes of the empire services and for at least exploratory flights in the field of the North Atlantic, has reached the slipway at Rochester. With its tentacles reaching already to Australia by way of Alexandria, Karachi and Singapore, and route explorations already completed along the west coast of Africa to supplement the present service down the spine of that continent from Cairo to Cape Town, it is obvious that the subsidized air system should be increasingly impressed with the importance of craft whose air lanes are those of the sea.

In the Atlantic field, Imperial and our own Pan American Airways, which has already spun its web across the 8,500-mile span of the Pacific, have long reached accord. They undoubtedly operate Atlantic heavier-than-air service together. The American company already has equipment in its Clipper ships, which could satisfactorily use the alternate routes Bermuda-Azores or Newfoundland-Ireland, or a third optional route, Newfoundland-Azores. Great Britain controls the bases on these routes. The groundwork for cooperative effort is plain. Both Germany and France would like to have a finger in the North Atlantic pie and will co-operate with American interests. Not content with the impressive demonstrations of what airship service can accomplish which the Hindenburg is giving on her scheduled voyages, the Germans will soon begin exploratory airplane flights, using the method they have found so successful in the South Atlantic—comparatively small flying boats catapulted from mother ships. They also have a large, Diesel-engined flying boat. France looks to large boats and has already built and flown some which, while much slower than the American Clippers, are comfortable and efficient. Her hegemony of the air routes at Saigon, controlling entry to the Orient from India, gives her a temporary trading position with Great Britain.

Meanwhile, in preparation for her intensive campaign for the air-sea routes, Britain prepares to build the largest airport in the world. It is to be, appropriately enough, at Portsmouth, which was important as a naval station before the dockyard was established in 1540, where, across the neck of the harbor lies Gosport, famous in aviation for its flying school and the Schneider Cup races, and where, in drydock, lies Nelson's flagship H.M.S. Victory on which he met his death at Trafalgar.—New York Times.

LONELINESS

There is a loneliness I love where tall trees meet,
And cast their shadows in the vale below
Apart from that mad rush of city street,
Where man in fruitless hastening needs must go;
When worldly anguish grips the heart in pain,
And Life's rough roads are bruising weary feet,
The quiet of the valley soothes again,
With sheltering arms it offers safe retreat.

I love the murmur of the sweet-voiced streams,
The whispering tell of far-off wooded hill,
When lonely by their side let me have dreams,
Where memories alone my moments fill;
And lo! again within this quiet place,
Unfolded Life's true story as a scroll,
The shadows fall'n away—I see His face,
And know once more of my immortal soul.

RUNNING TESTS OF THE NEW STREAM LINED LOCOMOTIVES recently delivered to the Canadian National Railway by the Montreal Locomotive Works demonstrated the great power of these steel monsters. They have handled trains of more than 3,500 tons, considerably heavier than any trains they will every have to haul in passenger service for which they are designed. The tests included hauling heavy loads up the one per cent grade at Vaudreuil hill, the governing grade on the line between Montreal and Toronto. In all test runs the engines have performed efficiently and economically. Speeds of fifty to sixty miles per hour have been maintained with heavy freight trains and these tests have proved that the new locomotives have sufficient reserve power to handle the heaviest passenger trains at much higher speed. It is indeed a far cry from the old days of the little locomotive with the big smokestack—"hayburners", so called—the days when it was necessary to stop frequently at wood piles along the track and wood up— or else—get out and push. In fact the Kingston and Pembroke Railway used to be called, if memory serves right, the Kick and Push Railway. Old old timers in railway service remember when one optimistic superintendent at Montreal had a bee in his bonnet to burn peat in freight engines. Most of the peat went by the board from the bridges in the vicinity of Coteau, so the peat habit was discouraged, and well it was for the firemen said they would rather try to get steam up on paper. We are living in a fast age which is constantly being speeded up, and even the young fellers find it a bit difficult keeping up with the procession. Speed and power rule the day and the age of machinery is taking hold so rapidly that fewer men and women will be required for manual labor and life will be just one long holiday for many. However, as long as the buying power of the masses is not destroyed by machinery the world will continue to wag with new wonders unfolding daily.

GERMANY HAS TO ASK PERMISSION ERE FLYING HER ZEPPELINS OVER FRANCE, but the big bags sail where they please over England, and now Canada has been added to their itinerary. The fact that the crews are trained military men and the persistence of the zepps in cruising over fortified ports in England and Canada has led to questions being asked in the British House of Commons of a pertinent nature. Visits of the zepps to England in wartime were not appreciated and have not been forgotten.

LOOKING BACKWARD

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BY-GONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

July 13th, 1916

The staff of the Thompson Furniture Company, Belleville, had the contract for the street decorations in Trenton for the celebration yesterday.

Chief of Police John Newton has returned home from Kenora, Ont., where he attended the annual convention of the Chief Constables' Association of Ontario. He was elected a member of the Executive Committee.

Mrs. Edward Daly and son of Toronto are visiting friends here.

A large number of Belleville residents are summering at Massassaga Park. Some in cottages and tents and others at the hotel.

Mr. and Mrs. R. McCurdy of Cuneaon are visiting friends in the city.

30 YEARS AGO

July 13th, 1906

There was no celebration of July 12th, in this city this year. The local Orangemen went to Trenton for the big celebration in that town.

It is estimated that 1500 persons from here went to Trenton on the boats.

St. Andrew's Church Boys' Brigade is in camp at Twelve O'Clock Point. The boys are enjoying themselves.

Contractor Frank Dolan is making preparations to begin work on the construction of additional grandstand sidewalks at Brockville.

Mr. James Meagher of Buffalo, is spending a short time here with friends.

Mr. C. D. Dyke, local manager of the Bell Telephone Company, was in Trenton today.

Mr. J. A. Tuzzar of Detroit, formerly of Belleville, is spending a few days in the city.

40 YEARS AGO

July 13th, 1896

Yesterday was the hottest day of the season; the thermometer registered 92 degrees in the shade at noon.

Messrs. James and John Vandusen of Rochester, N.Y., formerly of Belleville, are renewing acquaintances in the city.

Messrs. S. Clarke, J. Thompson and Charles Sclanier wheeled to Campbellford yesterday.

Mr. Charles Brockhurst of Buffalo, N.Y., is visiting relatives in the city.

Mr. and Mrs. Claud Armstrong have returned to Toronto, after spending two weeks' here. Mr. Armstrong was formerly a member of the staff of the Dominion Bank here.

50 YEARS AGO

July 13th, 1886

A monster demonstration marked the celebration of July 12th, in Belleville; fully 10,000 visitors were in the city, and the procession was a mile and a half long, numbering seventy-five lodges. People came to the city, by train, boat and buggies. The Grand Trunk Railway carried 5,500 persons to the city from Coe Hill, Picton, Trenton, Cobourg, Millbrook, Lindsay, Peterboro, Lakefield, Port Hope, Madoc, Campbellford, Tamworth and Napanee. All the trains were brought to the market square. The steamer Quinte brought a large number from Deseronto and Northport and the Varuna brought many from Trenton and Redcrmville. There were nine brass bands and nine fife and drum bands in the procession. It took the procession 45 minutes to pass a given point. One local hotel served 900 dinners.

MRS. E. CURRY DIES AT SAND BANKS

Sidney Woman Suddenly Stricken at Summer Resort

Death came suddenly to Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Curry, wife of Mr. Samuel J. Curry of the 5th concession of Sidney township, Sunday afternoon about three o'clock while with a family party she was spending the afternoon at the Sand Banks. Members of the party were in bathing and Mrs. Curry in an endeavour to cool herself, removed shoes and stockings and waded in the shallow water. Her husband at the time was seated upon the beach near by.

Coming to shore, Mrs. Curry with others, was climbing the bank at the old brick plant when without warning she dropped to the ground and expired immediately. Dr. McQueen of Bloomfield, was called and he later summoned Dr. G. A. Whiteman, coroner, of Picton. Dr. Whiteman conducted a brief investigation and learned that Mrs. Curry had always enjoyed good health and was apparently in her usual state of health while with the party yesterday. Death was pronounced as being due to a heart seizure. The sudden passing of Mrs. Curry has brought deep sorrow to her family, relatives and many friends.

The late Mrs. Curry, who was in her 56th. year, was born in Sidney township, her parents being the late Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Wess. For some years she resided in Madoc Township, and for the past twenty years she had made her home in the 5th. concession of Sidney township. She was a woman possessing many fine traits of character and was held in high esteem by many friends. In religion she was "One of Jehovah's Witnesses."

Surviving to mourn her loss are her husband, Mr. Samuel J. Curry; three daughters, Miss Letha Curry of Belleville; Mrs. Lawrence Hubble, Sidney township; Miss Marjorie Curry at home; four sons, Vernon Curry, Woodlawn, Ont.; Gerald Curry, Sidney Township; Norman Curry and Ross Curry, both at home; two sisters, Mrs. Jacob Gunter, Cashel township; Mrs. Frank Lough, Sidney Township; one brother, John Wess, Madoc.

The funeral announcement appears elsewhere in this paper.

MANITOBA FACES CONTINUED HEAT

Alberta And Saskatchewan Drenched by Rain Over

Winnipeg, July 13 (CP)—With a two-day death toll of 24 by heat prostration and by drowning, Manitoba today faced a continuance of the terrific heat which hung up all time high temperatures twice during the past week. There was promise, however, the temperature would not be so severe as during the week-end.

Meanwhile, Alberta and Saskatchewan won definite relief from the recent scorching weather and in Southern and Eastern Saskatchewan the wave of sweltering heat culminated in storms of violent proportions. Barns were damaged, roofs blown off and sheds killed as the storms rated one of the worst drought areas of the province, bringing torrential but welcome rains to many districts.

Manitoba suffered most from the heat over the week-end. With a high temperature of 108 degrees on Saturday, the all-time high mark established last Tuesday again was surpassed by two degrees in Winnipeg. On Sunday, the mercury touched 104 degrees.

Eleven persons collapsed and died in the Winnipeg district as the mercury soared Saturday and six more victims of heat prostration were added Sunday. Twelve men and five women were the victims.

Five Drown

Five persons drowned in the Portage La Prairie district, their deaths being due directly to their efforts to escape the heat, and two other drownings occurred in the province.

One death was blamed upon the heat in Calgary and a drowning in Steptoe, Sask., brought the total prairie heat toll to 36.

In Alberta, Edmonton was comparatively cool with a high of 78, while Calgary recorded 92, Medicine Hat 93 and Lethbridge 91.

On the Pacific coast, the weather was delightfully cool with the Sunday high at Vancouver at 79 and at Prince Rupert 58. Interior British Columbia was warmer with a high of 82 at Kamloops.

In Southern Saskatchewan, Weyburn and Estevan reported heavy rain storms with high winds accompanying them. Telephonic communication with both towns was severed and detailed reports were not available.

The rains extended up the southern-central part of the province as far north as Yorkton, where rain brought relief from record temperatures of 107 degrees.

Considerable damage was done at Estevan, where a 60-mile-an-hour wind accompanied a heavy rain. Windows were blown in and power and telephone lines were blown in several places.

'HIT AND RUN' CAR SOUGHT BY POLICE

Hub Cap is Found Near Scene, Which May Provide Clue

Jack Ramsay, 6 North Front St., complained to Sergeant Booth early Saturday evening that an automobile had struck him while he was riding his bicycle and damaged the bike. The car failed to stop at the scene of the accident, according to the lad. The license number of the hit and run vehicle was procured by an eyewitness, and further investigations will follow, authorities stated today.

Ramsay had just come off the eastern entrance to the upper bridge when he was struck, knocking him from the wheel, damaging the rear wheel. The motorist failed to stop at the stop sign where Station and Front Street meet, according to witnesses.

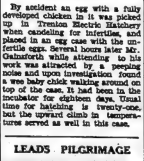
Police were called to a Franklin Street residence last night where a resident was reported to have been annoying persons sleeping in a tent. When the police arrived no signs of the intruder could be easily peeked into the tent, were found.

Constable Lloyd Bird investigated an accident on Station St. on Sunday morning where it was found that an automobile driven by Harold Barnum, 76 Everett St., had collided with parked motor car. Barnum was backing out of a garage way when his car was struck by Robt. Walden, 175 West Moira St. The left rear fender of the latter car was damaged.

Saturday afternoon a car owned and driven by Thos. Vivian, R.R. No. 6, Belleville, collided with one driven by Jas. Clarke, 226 Front St. After striking the Clarke car, the Vivian auto careened across the street and sideswiped one parked and owned by L. A. Reid, 248 Foster Ave., resulting in fender damage to all three. Constables Taylor and Ellis investigated.

Car Stolen at Oshawa

City police were asked to be on the lookout for a car stolen at Oshawa on Saturday night. The machine bore license plates numbered Y-9061 and was a green colored Chevrolet.



Not a transient applied for lodging at the police station over the weekend.

Crowded into the ditch near Gibson's Crossing on No. 2 Highway, a large motor transport crashed into a Hydro pole, breaking it off, early this morning. The truck was driven by Roland Trepanier, 465 St. Patrick Street, Ottawa, who said a motor car coming in the opposite direction was the cause.

Phil J. Fraser, 46 Station Street, reported the theft of license plates and gasoline from his car early today, informing the police he parked his automobile in his garage last night and this morning discovered garage doors open and the above articles taken.

Ollie Rosemplot, John St., Trenton, reported a hit-and-run driver who collided with his car on the Foxboro road Sunday night. He informed the authorities the car proceeding south, when another car travelling opposite, sideswiped him. He thought the car was a Dodge sedan as a bulkeap from this make of car was found damaged in the vicinity. Patrolman Delaney endeavored to locate the offender by telephoning to Madoc and Marmora but without success.

AS ARRIVAL OF FIRST C.P.R. TRANSCONTINENTAL IS RE-ENACTED AT PORT MOODY

A colorful note at the Golden Jubilee re-enactment of the arrival of the fine C.P.R. transcontinental train at Port Moody, Fraser Valley, was the presence of a group of men and women dressed in the costumes of 1886. Several of the gowns worn by the women had been handed down to them by their mothers, actual participants in the welcome to the historic train. Another group of Port Moody residents who had witnessed the arrival of the first train were passengers for the re-enactment. W. H "Billy" Evans, engineer on the train's last lap from Kamloops to Port Moody, and P. A. "Pete" Barnhart, conductor— both long since retired—filled their old roles again. The train, an exact replica of the old bay-burner and wooden coaches was rebuilt especially for the ceremony in which Premier T. D. Pattullo of British Columbia, Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett, representing the federal government, Mayor G. G. McGeer of Vancouver and Mayor David Leeming of Victoria, participated. Mayor G. H. Morrison of Port Moody presided.

Trenton and District

Trenton, July 13 (Special)—Although blistering heat presided over Trenton produce market Saturday, a goodly crowd attended. At the beginning of the trading it was delightful to see the fresh green vegetables and it reminded one of good old springtime, but with the temperature hovering around the ninety-two degree mark the greens soon took on a ghastly appearance. Butter was unchanged, selling at two pounds for 65c. New potatoes held their ground and went for 40c to 60c a peck. Last year's potatoes sold well at $2.25 a bag. New dry onions sold for 25c a 4lb quart basket while their green friends went well as for a bunch. Lettuce, beets, radishes, parsley and rhubarb sold the same as last week, going for 5c a bunch. Strawberries were dryed out and of a very poor quality selling for 10c a box. Cherry prices varied, from 25c a six quart basket to 45c. Currents, black and red sold well, the red going for 10c a berry box while their dark sisters went for 15c a berry box. Cream was the same as usual, selling well at 30c a quart. The variety of pastry was unchanged over previous weeks.

Overcome by Heat

Samuel Potts, son of Fred Potts, while standing on Front Street near Baldini's Fruit Market was overcome by the heat and fell in the sidewalk. Persons who saw him drop immediately called a car and he was rushed to the office of Dr. W. J. Johnston, Dunnore Street. After first aid was applied he came around.

O, Ain Takes Honours

Carrying an eight point handicap over the eighteen hole course, C. Asis defeated R. R. Smith, R.C.A.F., at the golf links yesterday to take possession of the weekly challenge cup. Smith shot extra good golf but could not overcome the eight point handicap which Asis carried.

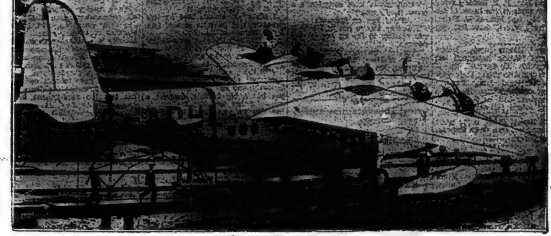
An unknown person phoned the Trenton Fire Department and reported he saw a smudge coming from a pile of saw dust in the Trenton Coal and Lumber mill yard. On arrival the department found the fire and extinguished it by the use of chemicals. "The smudge was caused by the heat," Fire Engineer Jesse Baker said.

Ball Game Called Off

Owing to the terrific heat which has prevailed over the town for the past week Mercantile League officials were unable to call a ball game for Saturday night. On trying to round up the players they found that all had deserted the town in search of cooler climates.

Trees Smashed Down

Yesterday Trenton police received a call from the area of Trenton mountain, saying that a touring car was seen in the whereabouts of the properties planted Government trees. On arrival a local citizen related that the persons in the automobile had driven away. They had run over several of the trees and smashed them off. These trees have had a pretty hard fight to sustain life. A few years ago a fire burned over half of them down and this spring another fire ruined more of them. Signs saying to keep off with cars can be seen from almost any approach but people do not heed them. The trees were planted for the purpose of holding the drifting sand that the mountain can be preserved, but if careless persons damage them in different ways the work of the government is useless.



Snake Steals Fish

While out fishing at Springbrook, R. D. Bonter says that he was robbed. He was sitting on the bank watching his line when all of a sudden a snake popped out of nowhere to circle in the vicinity of his line. Like a flash the reptile dove to the bottom of the stream and grabbed a beautiful speckled trout which Bonter had been eyeing for some time. On emerging the snake raced off towards the far bank with the catch in his mouth. Bonter thought that the trout should have been his as he was the first one there, so took after Mr. Snake. He crossed the creek, picked up a stone and when the fleeting reptile was just about to crawl under a shrub, he threw the stone which stunned him. He went over to see where the speckled trout was but on arriving found it nowhere. After making a close investigation he saw that the snake was much larger in one spot so concluded that his catch was eaten.

Heat Hatches Egg

By accident an egg with a fully developed chicken in it was picked up in Trenton Electric Hatchery when candeling for infertiles, and placed in an egg case with the unfertile eggs. Several hours later Mr. Galsworth while attending to his work was attracted by a peeping noise and upon investigation found a wee baby chick walking around on top of the case. It had been in the incubator for eighteen days. Usual time for hatching is twenty-one but the upward climb in temperature served as well in this case.

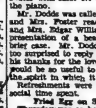
SUNDAY SCHOOL CLASS HONORS PHILIP DODDS

Popular Resident Presented With Gift Before Voyage

Picton—Members of the Blue Bird Class of Cherry Valley Church and others in the community gathered in the village hall, Wednesday evening to honor Philip Dodds, before he leaves on Thursday to spend two months abroad, during which he will attend the investiture of the Imperial Masonic Council.

The event was a complete surprise to Mr. Dodds. Mr. G. Wood acted as chairman for a program which included piano and violin duets by Douglas Moore and Lyall Hicks, vocal duet by Mrs. J. Hepburn and Mrs. M. Flake with Mrs. Foster accompanying, readings by Mrs. Geo. Workman, Cherry Valley, and Mrs. Beckwith, Sam Dodds and Sam Hepburn, vocal solo, Mrs. Foster with Mrs. N. J. Fennell at the piano.



Mr. Dodds was called to the front and Mrs. Foster read an address which was followed by presentation of a beautiful leather wrist case. Mr. Dodds was somewhat too surprised to reply but expressed his thanks for the honor which he would be so useful to him, and for the spirit in which it was given.

Refreshments were served and a social time spent.

Picnic Tea on Sidewalk

Thursday was so hot in Picton it was unsafe to try an egg on the sidewalk.

This feat was accomplished on Thursday afternoon when temperature registered 100 degrees at the maximum. Farmers, despite the great damage is being done to crops by the withering heat.

In these days, when critics incessantly search for the key or clue of a scientist searching for facts, it is illuminating to find a critical analysis in the romantic treasures. J. Middleton Murry in his volume "Shakespeare" writes of the great dramatist as he appeals to the emotions. "Genius is eternal in impression; all things lead to a mystery. To realize that this is the truth of life is to be terrified of this terrifying truth of life is in Shakespeare as it is in no other of the world's great books". J. Middleton Murry tries to explain the Keatsian "sensation" of Shakespeare, as opposed to the strictly intellectual reaction to the dramatic, or dramatic—which replies Shakespeare to his own eye and stage. The author grants that it is possible to hold all kinds of truths concerning Shakespeare—even the faith that his real name is Francis Bacon—but he is possible to hold all kinds of faiths concerning life. "Can you cannot all in judgement on life itself" he maintains. The reader must feel Shakespeare, that he experiences life itself, enjoying the moods of sadness, happiness, contentment, rather than insisting on the dramatist the limitations of the Elizabethan audience. He agrees with Ben Jonson when he says, "He was not of an age but for all time."

The glories of fallen dynasties, temples, memorials, traditions, have been unveiled for the first time by Giuseppe Tucci and Carlo Formichi in their journey to Western Tibet. The official story of the adventurous expedition across more than 1,000 miles of unexplored territory is told in their book "Secrets of Tibet". Dr. Tucci, member of the Royal Academy of Italy and a student of Tibetan history, sought to find traces of the court of the Queen of Guge who invited learned men and artists from from India. As well as the hazards of travel, the members of the Tucci Scientific Expedition had to overcome the prejudice and superstition of the people of this faraway land. Acquainted with language and its dialects would not suffice. It was necessary to secure the confidence of the people. The book is an account of the scientific researches carried out with the discovery of many treasures of art and archaeology.

The autobiography of G. B. Stern might be classed under as a conversation piece. Under the title "Monogram" she has chosen to random the highlights from her childhood in England and her later years in Germany, France and America. Friend and contemporary of Clemence Dane, R. C. Sherriff and Noel Coward, the author of "The Matriarch" has much to tell of herself and others. The book is a miscellany of subjects, of swift, word pictures of incidents of entertainment and reflection. It is an ideal book for summer reading—short visits with a debonair personality.

Advice to the Lovelorn

A Summer-Weight Proposal

Dear Miss Fairfax:

He has begun on a trip to Bermuda. I was utterly worn out from overwork, and my firm sent me away for a four-weeks' trip. On the steamer was a charming girl, twelve years younger than I am, and she seemed to me sufficiently worldly-wise to stand a bit of flirting.

When we landed, we danced and had a good many meals together, and a thrilling voyage home left me in love. I wasn't serious, nor did I think she was, either. When it came to parting—which I made casual, and and I hoped we'd meet again sometime—she burst into tears, told me she was madly in love with me, and wanted me to asked her to marry me.

Nothing was further from my thoughts. In fact, I am not in a position to marry anyone for years, let me say it is impossible for me to marry anyone.

I am much embarrassed by this situation, and have no idea of how best get out of it.

Ought-to-Have-Known-Better

No indeed. A worldly-wise and sophisticated a girl may appear to be never safe to think love is to her the extent you did. She took your summer-weight proposal seriously, and she, especially if she has a big brother, demand a salve for her wounded feelings by the way of a substantial check. Evidently you have felt for that you are not in earnest. Now the only thing for you to do is to wait and see what happens.

Personally, I think these summer-weight proposals are a mean way of passing the time. If a girl is a gold-digger, you're apt to have a thrilling time—if you're not, you handle. If she is innocent and has fallen in love for the first time, you have done her a terrible injury.

He Is Charming, But Slovenly In Appearance

Dear Miss Fairfax:

Generous, good-natured and reliable—that would make any girl an ideal husband, but for one fault. He is slovenly in his dress and appearance. His suits are seldom pressed, and his shirts are never starched. He has been without a job for some time, and I'm worried if this does not count against him.

How can I go about telling him I should like him to be neater, without giving offense?

B.

It's a pretty difficult thing to tell someone we care about, to who cares about us, that his appearance is not what it should be, tactfully you will have to say that, in getting a steady job employers raise high. A good appearance is almost as necessary as qualifications for a letter of introduction, and then you'll have to wait until he's in very receptive mood and hint that he's too good-looking to neglect such details as unpressed clothes and unstarched shirts.

But, my dear girl, I'm not going to conceal from you that the situation is full of dynamite.

Wedding Guest

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. A friend of mine has received an invitation to a wedding and was asked to bring a partner and so he asked me. I've met the girl who is to be married just once. My friend has known her a long time. Please tell me if it would be appropriate for me to send her a gift or would it be better if only my friend would send her the gift?

2. How should the wedding invitations be written when the mother of the girl to be married is not living?

B.

1. It would be pleasant and mannerly of you to make some gesture of appreciation of this kind invitation, even if the invitation is indirect.

So I suggest that you consult and select a suitable wedding present, or you might just send a box of flowers to arrive on the morning of the wedding. For your card you might write, "All good wishes for your happiness always, and thank you for your kind invitation to me."

If you decide to send a simple wedding gift, instead of flowers, you might send, say, a vase, or a half-dozen or dozen of some attractive tea-napking or cocktail napkins, or a nest of four ashtrays . . . something like that.

2. If the prospective bride is living at home and there is an oldfashioned wedding, the invitations may be issued in the name of the home . . . say an aunt or an older sister . . . it is this hostess who would appropriately write the wedding invitations, but the bride-to-be might write these invitations herself.

Graduation Invitations

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

For the past year a boy who lives across the street has been taking me to dances, parties, and so forth. My graduation exercises take place in the afternoon. I go with this boy's sister and I am quite friendly with his mother and father. The question is this: should I send him a separate invitation and then one for his family?

May

Since all of the members of this family are so important in your life, I suggest that you send one invitation to the boy and his sister, and one addressed to Mr. and Mrs. John Bumpbrey. Then everyone will be honored . . . and pleased.

Hostess Gown

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. What is the correct apparel for a hostess at an informal bridge-luncheon in a hotel? At a formal bridge luncheon is powder a boudoir?

2. Do the same rules apply for hostesses of a private party in a family club? For a club party?

3. Is it ever correct for a hostess to wear a long gown unless dinners do not . . . at a home party, hotel party, club party?

Pat

1./ At either an informal or a formal bridge-luncheon given in a hotel, the hostess should wear day dress—street-length with a hat.

2. Yes.

3. When the hostess is entertaining in her own home, she may wear a long gown . . . but it is best for her to wear a day dress, street length, when she is entertaining at a day-time party outside her own home.

Week-End

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am to be invited to spend a week-end at a country home. Should I take to know if it is necessary to take the hostess a gift, and if so, when is the proper time to give it . . . upon arriving or when I leave?

I.

It is the custom, a pleasant and generous-thoughted one, for a week-end guest either to take a gift to her when she goes for the visit, or to send a gift or simply kind with the bread-and-butter letter that she writes at the earliest possible moment after she arrived at home after her visit. If you take the gift with you, you give it to the hostess when you arrive. There isn't any point in holding back on the presentation!

(Mrs. Beeckman will be glad to answer questions on Good Manners submitted by readers.)

Adjust Child To Sudden Partings

Reason For Departure of Parents Out to be Explained to It

(By Lisa Grenelle)

On the way to the station, grandma assured mother that Dickie would get right over it. "You know how children are," grandma said from her place in the back seat. "Dickie makes a great fuss and howl, but the next day they've forgotten all about it."

Dickie had too, apparently, for the day after mother left he was playing quietly in the sand pile with no trace of tears.

Not immediately did Dickie begin showing signs of apprehension and distrust. Not until the second week of mother's absence did he start getting up nights. He has been put to bed, creeping downstairs to peer into the living room to be sure grandma was still there, and hadn't run away without notifying him or warning him, as mother had. You couldn't ever tell what a grownup might do.

It was Aunt Em who first discovered Dickie's fear. Aunt Em, being people anymore, "Why, Dickie, you know I wouldn't lie to you!" she declared, and then saw the haunted shadow of doubt sweep over Dickie's fresh-cheeked countenance. Dickie plainly was not reassured. Hadn't Aunt Em lied to him? Maybe that mother would be back in no time at all? And here it was ages and ages, and she wasn't back yet.

Different Boy

"I don't believe mother's ever coming back," Dickie said.

Aunt Em knew the truth he wouldn't believe them.

Tuesday and Wednesday, matinee daily.

The story of "Little Miss Nobody" —who incidentally turns out to be quite a somebody after all—is concerned with a mischievous orphan whose antics and pranks are the talk of the entire institution in charge of the orphan asylum's heads.

Jane is continually in hot water. As, for instance, when she begrudges the time Miss Dix is taking to find a valuable pocketbook and which turns out to be a ruse that douses him with a bucket of water—and when she steals a complete chicken dinner so that the children in the orphanage will not go hungry on Thanksgiving Day.

When she tries to be "very, very good" and do her good deed for the day, Jane really gets into trouble and is committing to the reformatory. However, she goes with a joyous heart for her trick has succeeded and Betty Jean, her pal, has been saved from being adopted by an arrogant, newly-rich woman and instead has been taken by Jane's own father!
